5 Million Oil Blaze Kills Three

Naphtha Tanks Go Up Scattering Flames; 75 Spectators Hurt

WELSVILLE, N. Y., July 18.—(AP).—A spectacular explosion early to-day spread new havoc in the $15,000,000 Sinclair Oil Company refinery, where three men were killed and 75 injured in a chaos of fire and explosions last night, but firemen finally appeared to be bringing the fire under control.

A storage tank containing 2,500 barrels of naptha exploded shortly before daybreak with a deafening roar and a cloud-sweeping flash of fire. No one was reported injured, but a similar tank, exploding last night, skyrocketed clear across the nearby Genesee river and killed three spectators on the opposite bank.

Chief Hollim Johnston of the company's fire department, said damage, including business as well as stock and equipment, would amount to about $5,000,000.

Emergency calls for oil fire fighting chemicals were broadcast through Western New York and Pennsylvania after the new explosion to-day. Soon afterward, a 50,000 barrel tank of highly inflammable naptha caught fire, but a few of 100 tired firemen took their lives in their hands and approached close enough to snuff out the fire with chemicals.

A new danger developed when fire, blazing up anew in the ruins of the dewaxing plant and power house, flared to within a scant five feet of the naptha plant, which is filled with high explosive chemicals.

Crew Takes Life In Hands

Although company officials warned that the naptha plant might blow up with disastrous results if it caught fire, another band of fire fighters worked in its shadow, building a dike of sandbags to keep flames and burning oil away from the building.

In the meantime, anxious firemen stood guard over approximately 300 storage tanks of various sizes, containing various fluids, which stand on the refinery property. Many of these were on fire at some time last night.

Late last night it was believed for a time that four men had perished. Firemen saw what they thought was a fourth body in the ruins, but it turned out to be part of a body previously found.

The dead, all spectators, were: Walter Maeder, 45, unemployed; Robert Powres, 35, a restaurant worker, and Eugene McCormick, 42. All were Wellsville residents.

Sixty-four persons were treated for minor burns in an emergency hospital set up by doctors and nurses at the plant.

Girl 2, Brother 6 Wander 2 Days In Bush

PLEVNA, Ont., July 18 (CP)—Two babies who wandered for two days in the wild bush country of Northern Frontenac County were recovering rapidly today from their experiences.

Lawrence Stuffle, six, and his two-year-old sister, Isabel, wandered out of the bush-and-swamp country Saturday afternoon to Sand Lake, four miles from their home.

More than 300 neighbors from 40 miles around searched day and night through the bush for the children. The girl had no clothes on, the boy merely pants. They had lived on raspberries. Mosquitoes had bitten the children, but not seriously.

Cyril Clarkson of Toronto, who was aiding searchers, was lost in the swamp area for part of the time and found his way out of the area three hours after the children were found.

Searchers said the children must have hidden in the undergrowth to evade them, otherwise they would have been found earlier.

The children were taken to Mrs. Annie Lemke's cabin. She said she took two big wood ticks from the girl's hair, bathed the children and gave them some milk.

Germany Orders All To Dig Up War Goods

BERLIN, July 18.—(AP).—The Government to-day published a far-reaching decree making deliveries in kind and loan of material objects for military purposes obligatory on all inhabitants and juridical persons in Germany.

The law, signed July 13 but appearing only to-day in the official Gazette, is based on the Nazi principle of "the common weal precedes all private gain."

It assert sthat "all inhabitants of the Reich's area, including juridical persons, are obliged to make deliveries in kind for defence purposes."

The army supreme command in co-operation with the Ministry of the Interior, is entitled to establish special requisition offices.

16 Fatalities Darken Weekend

TORONTO, July 18 (C.P.). — Nine persons died in Canadian lakes and streams during last week-end. Four others suffered fatal injuries when struck by motor cars, one was killed by a train, a Quebec child died of a mysterious illness, and a Brantford, Ont., resident was found shot to death in his room.

Ontario headed the death toll with seven of the 16 fatalities. Six met tragic deaths in Quebec, and one each in Saskatchewan, Alberta, and Nova Scotia.

Only double fatality reported was that of the Gosselin sisters, Simonne and Anita, who drowned in Lac Vert, Bellechasse County, Quebec, when their father's car, carrying 10 persons, plunged into the lake after a collision. Other members of the family escaped unhurt.

Two London, Ont., residents met death in waters far from home. Lance-Corporal R. J. McIlroy of the Royal Canadian Regiment, was drowned in Lake Deschenes, near Aylmer, Que., when a rowboat overturned while he was returning with a companion to the Connaught Rifle Ranges at South March. Thomas Cowburn managed to swim ashore in the darkness. At North Bay Everett Bancroft of London drowned when his canoe capsized. He was alone in the craft on Lake Tallon.

In Western Canada Mrs. H. Sutton drowned in a swimming pool 100 yards from her home in Lloydminster, Sask. Her husband found the body. Swift waters of the Elbow River at Calgary claimed the life of Margaret Hughes, aged two, when she toppled into the river from the yard of her parents' home.

Three in Train Mishaps.

A negro, Arthur Johnson, met death under the wheels of a switching engine at Geraldton, Ont., when he fell in front of the locomotive. Two other Ontario men were seriously hurt in train accidents. Joe Fundja lost both legs at Sault Ste. Marie, and William Benton, Hamilton, was badly hurt when trapped by a train on a railway bridge.

Thomas Hill, Scarborough, Ont., motorcyclist, died in Toronto of injuries suffered when hit by a car. One of his legs was amputated in an effort to save his life. At Barrie, 60 miles north, three-year-old William Madigan was killed when struck by a car as he dodged from the curb near his home.

Other fatalities:

Charles Burns, an Ontario Government employee, of injuries suffered in an automobile accident at Niagara Falls, Ont.;

Kenneth Birch, Toronto, drowned at Port Dalhousie, on Lake Ontario;

Marc Lortiex, three, of an undetermined illness, two weeks after his parents and eight brothers and sisters recovered from the same sudden illness;

George L. Ellis, Montreal, of a heart attack while swimming at Lake Caughnawaga.

Bessie Curtis of St. John, N.B., was reported near death following a brutal hammer attack on her and her sister. An itinerant peanut vendor was held by police on an assault charge.

Queen's Will Confer Degree On Roosevelt

KINGSTON, Ont, July 18 (CP).—Queens University will confer the degree of Doctor Laws on President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States at a special convocation to be today.
held here Aug. 18, it was announced
The president will receive the degree and proceed from here to Ivy Lea, to open the new international Thousand Island Bridge there the same afternoon.

Formal confirmation of the president's acceptance of the Queens honor was received today from the Canadian under-secretary of state, Dr. O. D. Skelton. This is President Roosevelt's first visit to this par tof Canada and as far as can be learned, this will be the first time that he has received an honorary degree from a Canadian University.

60 Jack Tars Sick Of Food Poisoning

VALETTA, Malta, July 18.—(AP).—More than 60 men of the British navy and air force were take nto a hospital to-day suffering from food poisoning.

A cruise of the aircraft carrier Glorious scheduled to begin to-morrow has been postponed, since most of the victims were attached to the Glorious. The cause of the poisoning was not determined immediately.

Unemployment in Peru is still negligible this season.

Workers Rush Police At Philadelphia City Hall

Brushing police aside, hundreds of workers stormed Philadelphia's City Hall demanding jobs for Philadelphia's unemployed. The shouting and jeering mob asked for a $2,000,000 appropriation by the city to insure a $20,000,000 W.P.A. grant that would add 30,000 workers to the federal payrolls.

Haldimand Woman Slugged Daugther Given Poison

Desperado Enters By Bedroom Window; Sets Kitchen Ablaze Before Escape

COBOURG, Ont., July 18 (CP).—Harold Oliver, 19-year-old farm-hand, Hamilton Township, was found hiding in a grain field at noon today by his uncle, Wilbert McMann, when his horses shied.

He was placed under arrest on charges of attempted murder and arson by Provincial Constable A. L. Mennie, and brought to Cobourg.

COBOURG, Ont., July 18 (CP).—Mrs. Edith Parker, middle-aged Haldimand Township resident, was attacked early today in her farm house four miles east of here by a man who later ordered her 21-year-old daughter Josephine to drink a liquid he said was poison. He left after setting a fire downstairs when the girl fled from him.

Police sought Harold Oliver, 19, who worked for Mrs. Parker until five weeks ago, for questioning.

Mrs. Parker told provincial police the man climbed in through the second storey window into the room formerly used by Oliver. She lit the lamp and the man came into the room and knocked her down. She suffered a cut on the head.

Josephine Parker screamed, and the man ordered her into another room, handed her a cup containing what he said was poison and ordered her to drink it. She fled and he went downstairs.

The daughter soon saw smoke coming from downstairs, and she rushed down and put out a fire on the couch. She summoned provincial police and a doctor.

The two women lived alone in the farm house.

Doubt Valencia Be Captured Unless In Ruins

By Charles P. Nutter
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP).—Civil war, one of the bloodiest pages in Spain's long history, moved today into its third year with more deaths and ruin on its horizon.

Government Spain has been compressed steadily in the two years since July 18, 1936, when revolt first struck. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgent armies now occupy about 70 per cent of the country.

But government leaders repeatedly have asserted they have the money, men and morale to continue resisting several years more. The government army continues to grow. Its civilians, although war-weary and hopeful of peace at almost any price, show no signs of cracking.

Franco's gains during the second years of the war were important but not too impressive. At the rate of progress his forces showed during the past year, the government can hold out at least another year, probably more.

It appears now that Franco must accomplish two main objectives before the war can be said to have been won. They are:

1. Capturing of Valencia or its isolation from Madrid and the complete severance of Madrid from the Mediterranean coast.

2. The hemming in and subjugation of Catalonia and the present seat of Government, Barcelona.

Must Destroy Valencia

Most competent observers doubt that the insurgents ever can capture coastal Valencia without destroying it.

Spain's third largest city, it is protected in front by mountain ranges and from the side and rear by rice fields which can be flooded to halt

36-Ounce Tot Given Fighting Chance

VAL D'OR, Que., July 18 (C.P.).—Still given a "chance" against the odds of premature birth by physicians who have kept constant vigil over the little pinewood incubator where she lay, a three-pound baby girl entered the 11th day of her gallant fight for life in this northern mining town's hospital.

Born through a Caesarean operation in a miner's cabin after Dr. Belanger found 26-year-old Mrs. Joseph Jean having difficulty in childbirth, and rushed to hospital over 37 miles of rough backwood roads, the child was given "possibly an even chance" against death.

The 100-pound mother "came out of it nicely," and in less than an hour after the birth Dr. J. Aime Carle had travelled from the home in Little Canada to this Abitibi mining town and had the tiny girl placed in her glass enclosed incubator, heated by electric lamps in a lower compartment.

At first the child weighed only 36 ounces, but during the past 10 days has gained three-quarters of a pound to balance the scales at an even three pounds.

100 Royal Trunks Precede King To France

LONDON, July 18 (AP).—One hundred heavy trunks were trundled out of Buckingham Palace this morning, the equipage of the king and queen on their state visit to France.

The trunks were sent to Dover, where their majesties are to start their journey tomorrow aboard the admiralty yacht, Enchantress.

A flotilla of nine destroyers arrived at Dover today from Portsmouth to escort the Enchantress, and 18 naval planes also will be on hand when the yacht sails.

The king, recovered from the attack of gastric influenza which sent him to bed a week ago, rested in the palace for the trip. The queen supervised the final details of packing. They had motored to London from Windsor House last night.

There was a big week-end rush of Britons to Paris, anxious to see the King in the gigantic parades and fanfare France is staging to show the world the two great European democracies still are firm friends.

On this side of the channel nothing akin to the pageantry Paris has planned will be seen—King George and his party will drive privately to Victoria Station and board a royal train for Dover.

Ninety minutes later they are to be aboard the Enchantress.

Loyalist Defence Lines Crash

HENDAYE, France, July 18—(AP)—Government resistance along the Teruel-Mediterranean highway virtually collapsed to-day as Spain's civil war swung into its third year.

Dispatches from Valencia and Barcelona admitted large numbers of government militiamen were retreating along the highway toward Sagunto, 15 miles north of Valencia.

An insurgent communique said an entire division had been caught in the rugged mountain passes southwest of Mora de Ruebielos and virtually "annihilated" by systematic aerial attacks.

Insurgent operations during the past two days were a repetition in miniature of the series of campaigns that have given General Franco control of 70 per cent of Spain since he raised the red and gold banner of revolt against the Government July 18, 1936.

Rebel Losses Terrific

Both sides seemed to have concentrated every possible warplane, tank, gun and man in the scorching countryside where the fight for Valencia is taking place—a fight that may eventually lead to a breach of communications between Valencia and besieged Madrid.

Government advices said the Insurgents lost "thousands and thousands" of killed and wounded, while Insurgent reports mentioned between 3,000 and 4,000 Government prisoners taken.

Semi-official advices from Valencia said "The Republican High Comman" knows all troops operating on the western flank are Italian and that Albentosa was captured exclusively by Italian forces.

In honor of the anniversary of "Spain's awakening" the Insurgent cabinet re-established the ancient royalist title of "Captain General of the Army and Navy" and conferred it upon Franco, to be added to his more modern title of "chief of the armies—land, sea and air."

Government officials keynoted the day in Barcelona and Palencia with expressions of determination to fight to the end.

Irishman Sneaks Over Ocean In Homemade Crate New York-Dublin, 28 Hours

BALDONNEL AIRPORT, Dublin, Ireland, July 18 (AP).—An antiquated, single-motored airplane fluttered down here this afternoon after its owner, 31-year-old Douglas Corrigan, had pushed it across the Atlantic in a surprise, unsanctioned flight from New York.

It taxied across the field and wheezed to a stop. Flabbergasted airport officials, rushing to the machine, saw a grinning pilot climb out.

"I'm Douglas Corrigan," he said. "Just got in from New York.

"It took me 28 hours and 13 minutes."

The plane came down from a rain-streaked sky at 2.30 p.m. (9.30 a.m., E.D.T.), 28 hours 13 minutes after Corrigan had taken off from Floyd Bennett Airport, New York, at 5.17 a.m. Sunday on a flight "to California"—and with no permit for a Transatlantic crossing.

Where Am I?

"By the way, where am I," the flier asked the gathering Irish crowd.

The crowd looked at Corrigan, at his plane and its nearly empty gasoline tanks, then back at the cheerful young pilot, dressed in leather jacket and trousers.

Broad smiles broke.

"Corrigan, eh?" asked one Dubliner. "Have a nice crossing?"

"Not bad," was Corrigan's reply. "There was not much of it. I flew over the clouds all the time and never saw the ocean until I reached the coast. The weather was good."

"Then, quite belatedly, attendants thought of landing papers and asked Corrigan for them.

"Forget it," he said, yawning. "I thought it was California all the time."

Surprise For Dublin.

Although a watch had been kept for the lone flier in Ireland after news of his "mystery flight" from New York, his landing here caused the greatest surprise.

(Corrigan last year was refused a United States permit to attempt the trans-Atlantic hop to Ireland).

Nothing had been heard from him since his take-off. He had no radio and only the barest navigating instruments.

Most airmen on this side of the Atlantic had not conceded Corrigan one chance in 100 of making the Atlanic crossing after reading cabled accounts of his "dilopidated" craft.

Baldonnel, where he landed in fulfillment of the ambition he had nursed for more than a year to fly to Ireland, is the airfield on the outskirts of Dublin

(Because of the United States Department of Commerce's rejection last year of his application for permission to make such a flight and because strict regulations cover such ocean trips, officials at Floyd Bennett Field doubted he would try a "sneak" hop.

(The officials had believed he carried only one navigation map—of the United States with optional northern and southern routes across the continent.)

U.S. Heads Astounded.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP).—The Atlantic flight of Douglas Corrigan in a home-made plane frankly flabbergasted the United

Rumania Loses Dowager Queen Marie

BUCHAREST, July 18—(CP-Havas)—Queen-mother Marie of Rumania, grand-daughter of Queen Victoria of Great Britain and one of Europe's most popular royal figures, died here today after a prolonged illness. She was 62 years old.

Prime Minister Miron Cristea, who had administered extreme unction as death neared, held mass in the palace immediately after the queen's death. The prime minister is also patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox church.

The queen-mother was taken ill in March of last year. She recovered during the summer months, only to fall seriously ill last October. In March of this year she had again recovered sufficiently to speak at a Bucharest demonstration for Anglo-Rumania friendship, but shortly afterward entered the Dresden sanatarium, where her illness was diagnosed as cirrhosis of the liver. Death resulted from complications arising from the liver complaint.

Married at 17.

Born October 29, 1875, the daughter of the Duke of Edinburgh and the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, she married Crown Prince Ferdinand of Rumania when she was 17. From 1914, when her husband succeeded to the throne, until his death in 1937, she exercised a strong influence on Rumanian and Balkan politics.

Two of her daughters became the Queens of Greece and Yugoslavia.

Her eldest son, Carol II., succeeded his father, but renounced the throne in 1925. Re-entering Rumania in 1930, he was proclaimed King in June of that year.

Marie was known personally in the United States and Canada, which she vividly described in her memoirs, "The Story of My Life," published in 1934. She was also the author of a novel, "The Mask," published in 1935.

Banting Busy On New Idea To Cut Drowning Toll

TORONTO, July 18 —(CP)— A committee of prominent doctors, in co-operation with Toronto life-savers and the police force, moved to-day to reduce the annual toll of drownings in Lake Ontario and other city bathing spots.

Sir Frederick Banting, discoverer of the insulin treatment for diabetes, said yesterday the police force and the corps of life-savers on duty at public beaches will co-operate with the doctors. When an accident occurs, the police will communicate with one of the members of the committee and a specially instructed doctor will rush to the scene to attempt to revive the victim.

Sir Frederick said his visit to police headquarters Saturday was to receive the assurance of plice co-operation. He termed reports, current after the conference, that he had devised a new method, in the form of a serum, for resuscitating persons rescued after being submerged were "the figment of someone'simagination."

"There is no new treatment and there is no intention of using any serum," he said. "Nor is any intravenous injection of oxygen contemplated." His associates were working on experiments "which we hope will throw light" on the whole question of life-saving methods, but "the less said about this just now, the better."

The committee is headed by Dr. Wills McLaughlin of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. From experiments carried out on rats and rabbits, Sir Frederick explained, "it became evident that certain procedures might assist the lifesavers in their work." He added: "The whole idea is to assist lifesavers in their work and to give to the drowned person the best possible chance of resuscitation."

Bosh Says Hepburn Of Third Party Duplessis Hookup

Brantford, July 18.

FOLLOWING HIS speech here Saturday night in the interests of H. Louis Hagey, Liberal candidate, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn indignantly denied a report published in a Torono evening paper to the effect that Ontario's Prime Minister and Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, were considering the formation of a third Federal party.

"The report is utter eyewash," Mr. Hepburn said. "It's a curious thing that public men should be submitted to this type of yellow journalism. It is fantastic to think that Mr. Duplessis and myself should consider forming a third party."

Suggest 8-Cow Bord er Case Be Dumped In King's Lap

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que., July 18—(CP)—The time has come, says Jean Francois Pouliot, for Canada and the United States to get together and discover what became of eight cows once owned by former Mayor Ludger Richard of Escourt.

In fact, Mr. Pouliot, who sits in the House of Commons as Liberal member for Temiscouata, thinks it's a matter for the attention of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, secretary of State for external affairs.

The cows, ignoring the unmarked international boundary, fell for that stuff about far-away-fields looking green, and crossed from Quebec province into Maine. And while the former mayor's eight cows stood "quietly eating American grass," they were seized by a United States customs officer "named Deners of Fort Kent, Maine."

So, said Mr. Pouliot, he telephoned the Prime Minister at Ottawa and told him about the plight of former Mayor Ludger's eight cows, threatened by this time with slaughter unless $250 were paid for their return from the green fields of Maine.

And Barrister Pouliot said last night he had been advised by Ottawa "that the department would take the matter up with the American authorities."

Town Draws Tourists.

Up until a few weeks ago, Escourt may have been only a little settlement on the St. Francois River which marked the spot where the former mayor's eight cows crossed into Maine. But since the 48-year-old member of parliament suggested in the House of Commons that part of Maine which juts into Quebec, should be "lopped off" and given to the Quebec farmers whose cows are wont to cross the river, things are different.

"A large number of American tourists now are going daily to Escourt to visit the small piece of American territory which should be annexed to Canada in the very near future," said Mr. Pouliot. Such a move, he said, would 'prevent international complications."

Henry R. Gillis, chief state agent of the United States customs service, said he had no knowledge of the seizure.

Ask God To Peg Price Of West's Wheat Aberhart Advises

Calgary, July 18.

PEOPLE OF Alberta, with prospects of an abundant harvest, were urged by Premier Aberhart Sunday to thank God for the bountiful crop, and in their prayers also ask God to "peg the price of wheat." He was speaking at the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute.

"We are sure there will be a good crop this year, and I hope we will all be grateful to God for His blessings," said the Premier.

The people had not been ashamed to ask the Federal Government to "peg the price of wheat," but apparently did not want others to know they asked God to peg the price.

Hoppers Ruin Montana Grain Crops

Fear Saskatchewan Next In Line; Millions Darken Sky

SIDNEY, Mont., July 18 (AP). — Grass hoppers, which descended on grain fields "like rain," appeared last night to be swiftly ruining promising crops in this part of Eastern Montana in their march toward the fields of Saskatchewan.

"They took all my oats," said H. A. Schultz of Lambert. "There are so many hoppers that poison seems no use."

Others told of similar devasation in this section, until this year harassed by drought for five to ten years. Farmers likened the sound of the approaching flight of the insects to the drone of invading airplane motor.

"My wife and I thought it was rain when they struck our house," said P. O. Svingen of Savage. "They ate up our garden. You can hardly tell where it had been."

Mrs. J. J. Lake, whose 400 acres of wheat suffered 50 per cent damage, said "we thought we heard the drone of motor when the hoppers moved in. Millions of the insects darkened the sky. Three more days at this rate and we'll have a total loss."

"I counted fifty-five hoppers on one stalk," he said.

Aviators reported the pests were thicker at 7,000 to 8,000 feet altitude than they were nearer the ground. Many farmers in Eastern Montana, plagued for almost a week by the devouring hordes, are cutting grains before they have fully matured, hoping to save a portion of the crops.

At Helena, J. G. Diamond, Federal Agricultural Statistician, said the insects came from the Dakotas or "other great plains areas." The migration, he added, appeared headed for Saskatchewan.

MORE ABOUT—
Irishman Sneaks

States' Air Commerce Bureau today.

Officials were so astonished they could not think immediately what to do about Corrigan's hopping off without a permit.

One official said, "It ain't right."

Corrigan neither asked nor received a permit to flying to Europe. Regulations provide for penalties ranging from a fine to revocation of a pilot's license in such cases.

Denis P. Mulligan, chief of the Air Commerce Bureau, said he has postponed the question of punishment.

Instead of worrying about Corrigan's punishment, Mulligan said, "Right now I want to make every effort to keep him from flying back."

Wired Self In.

NEW YORK, July 18 — (AP) — When Douglas Corrigan climbed into his dilapidated airplane to fly the North Atlantic, he had to wire himself in. The knob had come off the cabin door, so he closed it with a piece of baling wire hooked around a nail.

His plane had 45 less horsepower that that of Charles A. Lindbergh, who crossed to Paris in 1927. It was the same make and type of ship used by Al and Fred Keyes a few years ago to set a world's endurance record of 653 hours at Meridan, Miss.

B.C. Man Joins Band Of Veterans Who Were "Buried"

Vancouver, July 18.

JOHN WILLIAM ROGERS, who was "buried" in France for six years before it was discovered he was alive in Winnipeg, is one of Vancouver's first candidates for membership in the "League of Forgotten Men," proposed for the Canadian Corps reunion of Toronto.

On New Year's Eve of 1916 Rogers was badly wounded and shell-shocked at Vimy Ridge. He was sent back to Winnipeg and in 1923 his family received notice from the Imperial War Graves Commission that he was buried at Souchez, France.

"I think one of the other lads must have picked up my belongings when I was 'blown up' by a shell which left me buried to the neck in dirt and debris." Rogers said.

Timber Camp Families Flee Fires

800 Fighting Flames On Holdings Of 4 Logging Firms

CAMBELL RIVER, B.C., July 18. —(CP).—Eight hundred men battled blazes on holdings of four logging companies to-day, in Vancouver Island's worst forest fire situation of the summer.

Three hundred additional men were moved into the fighting line in the Elk Falls district yesterday, as efforts of 500 men already on the scene failed to halt the roaring flames.

Forty guests were ordered out of an hotel at Forbes Landing, as flames threatened to destroy the building and a number of summer cottages nearby. The road to the landing was closed to traffic.

Forest rangers ordered 30 families to evacuate Campbell Timber Company's camp and eight others were ordered to leave the Elk River timber camp, as "precautionary measures."

While the situation on Vancouver Island was regarded as grave, that on the mainland was not without its dangers, although the most serious blaze on the British Columbia mainland—along Salmon arm of Sechelt Inlet—was believed under control, after burning through 2,500,000 feet of cut logs.

To the south, Washington State forests were dotted with blazes, with the larfest one, near Ryderwood, being radually hemmed in by fire lanes.

Hughes To Goderich

GODERICH, Ont., July 18 (CP).—Howard Hughes, who recently smashed all records for flying around the world, may visit here for the opening of the airport on July 29 and 30, said officials of the Sky Harbor Club. They said Hughes before making his world trip promised to come, but his plans may have been changed by the flight.

Cuba will modify some of its taxes.

Finds Hidden Metal

Members of the Florida Geological Society have successfully used this new type metal locater to uncover several hundred Indian relics under water in the southern part of the state. Unlike other devices of this type, it is unaffected by water. The circular gadget is weighted and lowered beneath the surface by cable. When it passes over metal, a recording is registered on the meter in the boat. C. A. Hedden, the inventor, shown demonstrating the device, believes it can be used for locoting sunken vessels. On land it can oe used by plumbers, electricians and other builders for locating pipes and conduits before excavating.

Mystery Man Shapes Up Terrorists

Large Gang Reported Being Organized Outside Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, July 18— (AP) — Further disorders developed in Palestine today, adding more victims to the toll of the bitter Arab-Jew conflict.

One Jew was killed and three wounded while working in the fields at an isolated Jewish settlement in the Beisan Valley near Tiberias. First reports said they were ambushed by an Arab band. One of the attackers was killed.

An Arab who appeared on the streets of Safed in defiance of the curfew law was shot and killed by soldiers.

(Before today's clashes the toll of the renewed conflict, dating from July 5, had reached 70 Arabs and 31 Jews killed, 180 Arabs and 102 Jews wounded.)

Tension in Jerusalem was heightened today by reports that a mysterious leader was mobilizing a large terrorist force on the outskirts of the city.

There was and could be no confirmation of the story at once, but among the rumors was one that the supposed new organizer had entered the country only a few days ago.

Fear of reprisals might have been one reason for silence among those who knew definitely—officials here saw an indication of such fear in the fact that not one informer claimed any part of $175,000 in rewards for tipping the government to hiding places of terrorist gangs.

Gang Of Curious Finds Thrill In Bull Home

TORONTO, July 18. (CP).—Lorne Hall, 3 Meredith Crescent, has become a leading showplace in Toronto.

Over the week-end, the home of William Perkins Bull, K.C., where Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley died on July 6, became an interest spot not only to home-towners, but to tourists.

All day Sunday motor cars with Canadian and United States plates rolled around Park Road, Meredith Crescent, Huntley street and South Drive.

"Where does Perkins Bull live?" asked a goggled driver of a Michigan car. "I have to see that place or the wife would never forgive me," he explained.

And so it went all day long and far into the night. Saturday night and Sunday night lights glared from the front and side verandahs, but elsewhere the stately old house was shrouded in darkness. Telephone calls were not answered. Other inquiries indicated Mr. Bull and his staff were seeking seclusion over the week-end.

One visitor with an Ontario license got out of his car and walked up and down the sidewalk. He was asked if he was waiting for some one to come out.

"Heck no," he replied. "I just want to have a good look at this place while I'm in Toronto. It will be something to tell the boys back home."

30 Days For Jaunt

MALONE, N.Y., July 18 (C.P.).—Arthur Wayne of Toronto and Montreal on Saturday began serving a 30-day sentence for entering the United States illegally.

Upon expiration of his jail term, the 44-year-old Wayne, booked with the alias Selwyn Fitton, will be turned over to Canadian authorities, who want him for questioning about an escape from the Ontario Reformatory.

Wayne pleaded guilty to the illegal entry charge yesterday and was sentenced by Judge Frederick Bryant. Fifteen other Canadians, mostly from Quebec and the Maritimes, were sentenced for the same offence.

Best Pedestrians

TORONTO, July 18 (C.P.).—Postmen make the best pedestrians, according to Ontario Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten. He said yesterday postmen used the streets more than anybody else, but were rarely involved in an accident. He gave crossing between intersections as the main cause of accidents to pedestrians.

Setting Dog's Legs

SARNIA, Ont., July 18 (C.P.). — Once when dogs broke their legs they were considered incurable and were destroyed immediately. Veterinaries here told to-day of a recent operation when a Scotch terrier's thigh bone was broken. The dog was under anaesthetic for an hour, and now it is recovering with its leg nearly mended.

Hollyhock Gift

NIAGARA Falls, Ont., July 18 (C.P.).—Hollyhocks will bloom throughout the Niagara Falls Park system next year. Mrs. Mabel Grasley-Bick of Vancouver has sent several pounds of hollyhock seed to the Niagara Parks Commission. She wrote she had sent nearly 70 pounds of hollyhock to various parks throughout Canada and the United States.

Hepburn "Exploring" West By Air For Holiday

Reaches Winnipeg On 8,000-Mile Jaunt Mum On Politics, Political Issues

WINNIPEG, July 18 (CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario prepared today for a hop to Regina, second stop on his 8,000-mile trip through Western and Northwestern Canada —a trip that had 'no political significance,' he said last night.

Accompanied by J. P. Bickell, Toronto, and Ben Smith, New York financier, Premier Hepburn arrived here from Toronto last night in a big twin-motored plane, piloted by Jimmy Toowne. A stop had been made for lunch at Sault Ste. Marie, and a shorter one for refueling at Port Arthur, before the plane passed out of Ontario territory.

Premier Hepburn was grinning broadly as he stepped from the big silver plane at Stevenson Field, but the grin faded as soon as politics was mentioned.

"This is not a political mission at all," he said. "I'm just taking a holiday and have nothing to say regarding politics. I'm off discussing politics and political issues of any kind this trip."

Asked what was the object of the long jaunt, the Premier countered, "Can't I take any kind of a holiday I like? Am I not entitled to a holiday of my own choosing after going through two elections and a strenuous session of the Legislature?"

He plans to drop in at the farm of Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, during the stop at Regina. Then the plane will head toward the gold fields of the Northwest Territories, on an exploratory trip.

Unless the government cracks, capture or isolation of Valencia would take months.

Madrid then still would have an outlet to the coast through Alicante. In order completely to isolate it Franco's army would have to advance at least 150 miles through bad country to cut the last highway. Only then would begin full seige.

Municipal authorities, looking to the future, already are laying aside supplies from a bountiful harvest, storing foodstuffs in vacant churches.

Government Spain's three weaknesses are lack of airplanes and heavy guns, a war-weary population, and lack of gasoline for transport.

Hepburn Scores Federal Housing Plan

BRANTFORD, July 18.—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, making his final political pronouncement here Saturday night, before leaving for a subarctic aerial jaunt, chose the occasion to utter a brief, but caustic reference to the Federal Government's $350,000,000 housing scheme.

Speaking before an audience of 8,000 in Victoria Park, in the interests of H. Louis Hagey, Liberal candidate in Wednesday's by-election necessitated by the death of Hon. M. M. MacBride, the Prime Minister made his first public reference to the huge building program when he declared: "The way to stimulate the building trade is not by this foolish housing scheme which exists only on borrowed money. There is certainly nothing creditable or even clever about this boasted plan. The

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 18. — (CP). — Lambs ranged $1 cwt. lower on the Toronto Livestock Market to-day, but calves and sheep sold at previous price levels. Trade on the cattle market was dull with sales too few to establish prices. Cattle holdover from last week was 600 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 3,650; calves, 1,060; hogs, 1,300; sheep and lambs, 1,580.

A few butcher bulls sold about steady at $4.50 to $5. Light Western stockers ranged from $4.40 to $5.25. Indications were that most killing cattle would finish lower.

Choice veal calves traded from $8 to $8.50, with the bulk of calf sales ranging from $5 to $8.

Good ewe and wether lambs sold at $10, and culls and bucks at $8. A few sheep were $2 to $4 cwt.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Winnipeg wheat futures prices held Winnipeg wheat future prices held firm in another dull session to-day with light selling and comparative firmness at Liverpool contributing chiefly to a fractional rise in prices. Final quotations were ⅞ to 1 higher with July at 98, October 76¾, November 76⅝ and December 75¼.

Small export buying was worked over the week-end and during to-day's session. Shipments were estimated at 200,000 bushels including durums and red springs and was believed delivered to Mediterranean ports.

July moved up more than a cent at top levels and the deferred months showed gains of nearly a cent.

Hard To Govern

HALIFAX, July 18—(CP). — Rev. Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto, who is attending the bi-centenary celebration of the founding of Freemasonry here, said Canada "would always be a hard country to govern" in an address before a service club yesterday.

Bicycle Finding Rapid Growth In Present Day

Canada Cycle & Motor Company Limited (C.C.M.) was founded in 1899 by the amalgamation of the five principal Bicycle manufacturing plants at that time—Red Bird of Brantford, Perfect of St. Catharines, Cleveland, Massey - Harris (Cycle Division) and Gendron of Toronto. The new factory at Weston, Ontario was built and ready for operation in 1916. In year 1937, a large extension to the plant was commenced and completed in 1938.

A few interesting facts about the plant are: The plant is considered one of the most complete of its kind in the world.

Total area of floor space is in all buildings 139,682 square feet, investment $1,250,000 in plant and equipment at Weston and investment with stock in trade will approximate 2¼ million dollars.

The present site was originally open farm land, added to the healthful advantages obtained from locating in the open country is the fact that the plant has been designed to allow a good supply of daylight from all sides as well as the roof.

Height of Popularity.

In the nineties the bicycle reached the height of its popularity as a pleasure vehicle. People of all classes also rode them to work. There was a bicycle boom. Then the boom burst. The white-collared people and women stopped riding. Cycling went out of fashion. The end of the bicycle was predicted.

But the bicycle did not disappear. It was too useful. It became a utility. Workmen found it provided quick and economical transportation to and from work. Telegraph companies and business firms found the bicycle well adapted for messenger service. A large retail Drug house in Toronto uses over 100 bicycles for quick delivery. Boys and girls found it the easy, time-saving way to go to school. They also got keen enjoyment out of riding their bicycles. These provided a good market for bicycles.

Delivery of Parcels.

The new market was delivery of parcels by bicycles. With smooth pavements, it became easy for a youth on a bicycle to carry a parcel carrier full of parcels and make quick deliveries at low cost. Many small dealers who could not afford to deliver by motor truck could afford to deliver by bicycle. Even large dealers found it convenient and economical to have bicycle deliveries in addition to trucks. Probably half the bicycles sold today are for delivery and messenger purposes. They serve a useful purpose in the business world. They provide youths with many full-time and part-time jobs.

Cycling for Pleasure.

Cycling for pleasure has enjoyed a revival spurred on by a fad for cycling by women movie stars and fashionable people at winter resorts. It is no longer a Hollywood fad. Ladies realize a little cycling daily keeps them in better health. Certainly we now have the smooth roads to make cycling through the country a pleasure. In Great Britain and Europe people in large numbers tour the country on bicycles. They have been doing so for years. The idea may catch on here. In the States, railways in some big cities have been running special bicycle trains some distance away so that cyclists can enjoy a day's pleasure jaunt far away from the city. Quite apart from the pleasure side there is the big, solid utility market.

New Yorkers had another chance to stage one of their famous receptions to a home-coming hero when Howard Hughes, round-the-world flyer, returned in triumph after his sensational globe-girdling flight. Ticker tape and confetti are seen showering down on the millionaire aviator as he rides up the Broadway "Grand Canyon" in the most tumultuous welcome since Lindberg's return after his 1927 feat. Hughes is in the centre looking around at the throngs on the sidewalks and at windows. At the LEFT is Al Lodwick, his press representative, and on the RIGHT, Grover Whalen, president of New York's World Fair.

Hastings Church Lays Anniversary Plans

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS July 18.—At a committee meeting held this week at the home of Rev. F. W. Newell, a week's activities in connection with the 75th anniversary of Trinity United church were planned.

On Sunday, September 18, Rev. A. C. Hie of Toronto, a former pastor of the church, will be the special speaker at both services. On Monday, September 19, Rev. A. C. Hie will address the young people at a young people's rally. On Tuesday, a reception will be held in the afternoon and a historical night in the evening. Wednesday it is expected will be sports day. Thursday a missionary rally in the afternoon, when the 50th anniversary of the W.M.S. will be observed. Friday, the Rev. M. L. Hinton of Castleton, a former pastor, will be the guest speaker.

Despite the storm on Thursday afternoon the young people from Trinity United Sunday School, motored to Birdsall's Beach and enjoyed their annual picnic.

Louis Would Be Detective At $18 a Week For 3 Years

TORONTO, July 18—(CP).—Joe Louis, dusky destroyer of rivals who seek to rob him of his heavyweight boxing crown, wants to be a detective. And he's "serious about it," according to Fred Frahm, superintendent of Detroit police.

The department would be glad to get him, Frahm said last night as he arrived here for the annual Toronto police games. Louis arrives to-day to be a guest at the same event.

"We have to wait before anything will be settled because some of the members of the police commission are away on holidays," Frahm said. "Joe wanted to be a detective right off but we have a rule that beginners on the force must start from scratch, that is with patrol duty. Joe would have to do that for three years at least."

Detroit's brown bomber who pulls down thousands of dollars for a few minutes in the ring would earn $18.50 a week as a beat-pounder for the first three years. Then he would be earning $27.50 a week, Frahm explained.

Nature Assists In Reforesting Plans

Conditions for natural reforestation have been remarkably favorable this year, Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee commented to The Examiner to-day. Of 14,000 young trees planted under the direction of the Reforestation Committee of the County Council only a few of them have failed to grow. Reeve Anderson said he could not vouch for the entire plantation this year, but of those he had seen recently, only two or three were dead. Natural seeding by the trees had generally been heavy, and the ample moisture has been steadily stimulating growth. At a time when municipal councils and other bodies have been giving special attention to the question of reforestation, nature has got busy by its own efforts this year, and has a tremendous number of young trees sprouting.

BONARLAW

He Will Have To Pay

The publisher of the Midland Free Press made out his income tax papers based on earnings for the year 1936. That return would be made in the early months of 1937. Fourteen months after he had filed his return and sent in payment the Midland man received word from the inspector of taxation that he was somewhat short in the amount he had forwarded, and the request was made that the balance be paid with interest at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum from the time the returns were made.

Of course the man from Midland will have to pay and he might as well attend to it with as little heat and worry and confusion as possible, but he is somewhat upset. He can see no reason for the imposition of the 8 per cent. penalty because it took the government office 14 months to find out the deficiency. The claim is that in the ordinary transaction of business a defect is noticed almost at once and if the income tax department does not keep sufficient staff to locate defects within reasonable time then he should not be called upon to pay for what he calls their inefficiency.

The publisher from Midland takes occasion to turn the situation around so that it faces the other way. If when making his payment he had sent along too much money, he wonders if the department would have returned the amount to him with interest at the rate of 8 per cent. The answer to that of course is that he would have received no interest whatever. The incident shows that the government is a master hand in the business of collecting money. Now that the Midland man has had his say he might as well hand over the amount demanded. If he starts monkeying too much he may find the income tax people calling some day to take away his linotype machine and impounding his scissors and pot of paste. And then what would he do to make a living?

All In The Writing

When a train filled with convicts from Kingston Penitentiary was going through Peterborough on its way to Western Canada the cars were carefully guarded when they stopped near the station. One of the prisoner-passengers managed to write a note and drop it through the window where it was picked up and handed to the Examiner.

Naturally enough one might well wonder who wrote that note. It might have been any one of the 150 men on the train, but what was he like? Was he young or old, large or small? What had he done to land in prison? G. Alexander Phare, a graphologist of Toronto, was asked by this paper to do what he could with the note, and his delineation of the individual who wrote the note was intelligently interesting. Mr. Phare saw him as a young man, powerfully built and in good health; he had received some education but there was no evidence of refinement. He was not the equal of those he met mentally or morally and would therefore depend on his strength and uncurbed will to carry him through. As a boy he had received scant training and he has small regard for the rights or preferences of other people, and so on. Mr. Phare drew such a picture of the writer of the note that one feels he could have gone into that train and identified the individual.

There are those of course who always scoff at graphology or any allied study, but the individual who has never paid much attention to it should not be in a hurry to arrive at a conclusion. Most people have now and then seen handwriting which attracted their attention; they have probably remarked that it seemed to contain a good deal of what they call "character," or perhaps they have felt in other writing they could see evidence of vanity and flippancy. To the individual who makes a study of writing, these tokens become more marked and offer in an increasing way evidence of the character of the person who did the writing. Mr. Phare's description of the individual who wrote that note and tossed it out of the car window strikes us as reasonable, searching, and there is every possibility of it being quite accurate.

Joe Louis As a Detective

Fred Frahm, superintendent of the Detroit police force, is authority for the statement that Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, wants to be a detective. He is certain Louis is as serious as can be about it.

Mr. Frahm explains the police force does not hire detectives as such. It is a form of work where one must go in training. The business of a detective is to detect and before he can do that he must put in his apprenticeship. If Louis were to join the Detroit force—and Mr. Frahm says the department would be glad to get him—he would have to put on a uniform and start patrolling a beat for which he would receive $18.50 per week for the first year; for the third year he could earn $27.50 per week. After serving those three years he could go ahead and see what he might do in the detective business.

One thing is very plain. Just this, Joe Louis cannot step in and be a detective at once just because he is Joe Louis. He will have to start from scratch just like any other junior on the force, and that is a good thing for Joe Louis and also a good thing for the Detroit police department. If that is the work Louis wants to do then that is where he ought to go. He does not need any more money and he is right at the peak of his career as a fighter, and that is a splendid time for any man to quit. Right now he has the strength and youth to make a policeman; it would give him opportunity to come under discipline, and if he feels being a detective is what he would like to do then he would be getting the necessary training. Also when going through his period on a beat he would have the satisfaction of knowing that very few with whom he might have to deal would stand up to him with the idea of resisting arrest. A prize fighter is apt to drift if he has nothing definite on which to centre his attention.

What a Principal Found

C. A. Mayberry, B.A., LL.B., of Stratford is dead. He joined the staff of the Collegiate there in 1882 and retired in 1927. In 1910 he became principal of the school, so he had been there for 47 years. He was 82 when he died. He came into the teaching profession in the upper grades by the old route of teaching in the country schools and saving enough to complete his university course. When he secured his position in Stratford in 1882 he found he had to teach German, a subject which he did not know. So he started at once taking lessons, depending on the instruction he received at night to enable him to teach the same thing next day.

The passing of C. A. Mayberry may not be of immediate personal interest in this city or district, but some of the observations he made and the conclusions he reached through so many years in school are of broad general interest.

We recall discussing several problems with Mr. Mayberry shortly after his retirement. One of them had to do with the question of whether a principal would have an adequate idea of the scholars who would be likely to succeed in after-life by reason of the progress they were making during school days. His reply was made this way:

"There are scholars who seem to find themselves and their proper sphere after they leave school and they meet with success which the principal would not have anticipated. These are the exceptions. In the great majority of cases one can have a fairly accurate idea of what to expect of a pupil after the school days are over by the way in which that pupil gives evidence of application. I am sure this is the proper way to state that—pupils who nearly always have succeeded in life have been those to whom going to school was part of their life-work or business. They did not wait until they were through with school to develop traits which would bring them success. When they were at school they were working with the same sort of diligence which would bring them success when applied to anything to which they turned their time and energy afterward. They tackled going to school in just the same spirit as a bright youth tackles his first job. That quality of application had been developed and strengthened in school and when they were through with school they had it in good supply so they could at once draw on it when they started work. I admit there are exceptions and surprises, but the general rule is that a principal can quite accurately tell the pupils most likely to succeed."

They Let Them Talk

Oshawa City Council has passed a motion refusing the use of public parks or buildings to Fascists or Communists. Joseph Farr of Toronto, organizer of the Fascists (or the National Unity party), declared his party intended to hold a meeting in Oshawa and called Mayor McLeese of Oshawa to see what the attitude of the Council would be. The resolution passed by Council closing the parks and buildings to Fascists or Communists is the answer to the request. That would of course apply only to such parks and buildings as the Council might control. If the Fascists engaged a private hall for their meeting they could proceed with it.

The question of who shall or who shall not be allowed to hold meetings is one which has come to the front in this country within recent years, and truth is we have not had a great deal of experience is dealing with such matters. Suppression is one certain way of making people feel that these people who want to hold meetings and deliver addresses are dangerous; it directs much attention to them, and there are cases where it has made it possible for some of them to appear as martyrs to a cause and that is something they desire above all else.

London has probably had more experience than any other place in the world, and London lets them talk although inciting to revolution would receive scant consideration there. Hyde Park in London is the favorite spot for the agitators and the theorists. The Examiner published a letter from Donald Kennedy in that city a few days ago and he said the agitator and the world-reformer had opportunity to have his fling in Hyde Park; all he needed was a little platform which he could rent for a few pence per hour. The one thing which holds the Hyde Park speaker in check as much as anything else is the humor of the heckler in the crowd. There is also that feeling of substantial public opinion in London and the popularity of the royal family.

There are scores of people in the Old Land who have an idea or a grievance and they dearly love to tell it to the crowd. On a weekend at a place like Blackpool where people gather by tens of thousands the apostles of argument gather here and there and seem to think they are having a good time in speech. There is another favorite place on a little street which runs off Princes in Edinburgh on the way over to the Castle. At night one end is closed and the outdoor speakers take possession; the men with peanut and popcorn wagons follow and no person seems to bother much about it.

The Old Land has had a good deal of experience with theorists and with agitators. We have heard speakers make statements in Hyde Park in London for which they would be arrested in Canada, but at that moment some person in the crowd could be counted on to throw in a verbal bombshell to break up the gathering. To illustrate: One speaker was arguing that Britain could get along better without a King and a Royal family, and he was making a rather pointed attack on the whole family when a man in the crowd shoved toward the front, and taking off his cap shouted "Three cheers for Eddie." (That was at the time when the Prince of Wales was the heir presumptive to the throne). The cheers were roundly given by the crowd and the meeting ended right there. When a country has that sort of feeling running through it the agitator is not apt to get far.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We cannot see that the Toronto beauty contest is much of a break for the dressmakers of the Queen City.

Hon. T. A. Crerar plans a tour of the west, mainly by plane. It remains to be seen whether flying around the country is a good way to collect votes.

Neither Fascists nor Communists are to be allowed to hold meetings in Oshawa and the announcement looks like a challenge to both organizations.

It is said that American tourists are not spending as much as usual. The reason of course is that they haven't as much as usual to spend.

It has got so now that a man cannot come to his front door in his night gown and receive a summons without a news photographer pointing a camera at him.

New Toronto has adopted a padlock bylaw on its own account to deal with agitators. That is the kind of legislation that often helps to promote the very thing it is designed to suppress.

Canadians smoked nearly seven billion cigarettes last year and paid the government nearly $30,000,000 for the privilege. It is not only the motorist who pays and pays and pays.

The prairie provinces are to appeal to Ottawa for assistance in dealing with single unemployed transients. As the Federal government is opposed to work camps for such individuals it it not clear just how the problem can be handled.

Farmers who are delivering peas to the canning factory at Alvinston say the results are satisfactory, running from $80 to $100 per acre. The cost of seed for an acre of peas is about $10. If farms in general had the habit of yielding that much revenue per acre there would be few abandoned properties in this province.

BARGAIN

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When it came on toward merry spring, and all the birds began to sing, then days were far from flat; the proper thing for me to do, when all the leaves and grass were new, was buying up a hat.

¶ I looked in windows here and there, saw hats that struck me pretty fair, and some were gay enough; I entered in one store I knew, saw bands of black and red and blue, and they were strong and tough.

¶ A kindly man looked for my size, and told me of a glad surprise, he picked the hat for me; he placed it firm upon my dome, before I headed off for home, of dollars I shed three.

¶ I felt distinctive in a way, no lid like mine came out my way, I listed number one; it did not dinge when flung around, and later on I also found, it battled well the sun.

¶ But in more recent days I see, ten hats like what he sold to me, I saw them night and morn; it was as though I'd joined some group, and we were travelling as a troup, and wore a uniform.

¶ Today I found out how it was, located fair enough the cause, 'twas plain for me to see; the summer bargain days have come, I'd pay now were I getting one—a dollar forty-three.

When Ladies Start To Smoke

(W. H. Colclough in Stratford Beacon-Herald)

"WHEN A LADY SMOKES she ceases to be dainty," declared the rotund, middleaged man in summer suit. "A gentleman may smoke and still be a gentleman, but it is almost impossible for a lady to smoke and retain all her lady-like qualities. Look around and see for yourself."

We have been looking around a bit, and there seems to be considerable truth in what our philosopher friend observes. We have also read the views on the subject written by writers of note, and they appear to agree with the man in the summer suit. Just why a woman cannot smoke and retain her daintiness has not been explained, but there is a measure of unanimity in the conclusions that her dainty loveliness floats away with the smoke rings.

Why? Just because.

That seems to be a silly best answer. The mere male has long since ceased trying to explain the inconsistencies of feminine charms and tendencies, and one more mystery is not going to crack up our modern civilization.

Men smoke for two reasons. Good fellows get together and enjoy a pipe in passing a social hour—that is the first reason. The other is that nicotine, being a narcotic, acts as a sedative upon tired nerves. Women smoke for neither of these reasons.

Who ever saw, or who will ever see, a few women getting together for a social pipe? Fancy the announcement: "The ladies of the Cutee Club are holding a smoker in the club room behind the beer parlor, on Tuesday night Feb. 29, at eight o'clock sharp. All ladies over 18 are invited. Bring your own gasoline for the lighters."

No doubt there is a tired business woman with jangled nerves after a battle on the stock market, or a prolonged "pep" talk with her corps or rapid-fire salesmen, but she is a rarity. Such a woman would be able to smoke with great impunity, caring little about loss of charm. Generally speaking, women do not smoke for the healing of tired nerves.

WHY DO THEY smoke? Can you tell us whence the wind cometh and whither it goeth? But she smokes, and she smokes. And how? After all, it is her manner of smoking that has brought about the general declaration that charm goes up in smoke. How?

Taking a cigarette out of a silver or pasteboard cigarette case as an art—an art so excelled in by men that we have never seen a lady competitor. She might take out the cigarette, but she is no competitor. Just watch her next time and judge for yourself. We do not know why she cannot match her male companion in this artistic operation. Perhaps if she had to shave every morning for ten years as a preliminary training she would become more expert in dragging a reluctant cigarette out of its box, but this simple act betrays her as a novice.

Have you ever noticed the high efficiency of the male artist as he flips the ashes into a silver-crested tray? There is culture in every flip. The ashes descend like incense to their proper place. Did you ever watch a female puffer of the weed try the same thing? No? Then you've overlooked something. Pick up an obscure gallery seat and see how she does it, or rather see how she doesn't do it. Maybe you will then be quite prepared to positively announce just how a lady loses some of her daintiness when she smokes.

Some day our fair lady may achieve perfection in this social pastime. Perhaps her smoke rings will become a thing of swirling beauty. Some day. Indeed, some day. We do not know; and like everything else pertaining to feminity it would be a bold man who would undertake a prophecy.

But we ardently hope she will never never learn how to chew tobacco. Let her smoke, but never chew. Imagine some scribe writing up a visiting celebrity thus: "She chewed with great gusto a certain Mexican perfumed tobacco. At twenty feet her marksmanship was unerring and.." But enough of that.

CHANGED SCENE.

(Winnipeg Free Press)

WHILE THE SCENE in Saskatchewan is entirely transformed—almost more than could have been hoped for in one year—crop predictions must be taken with reserve and the outcome patiently awaited. Dangers lurk in various forms and there is no use in inviting undue disappointment. The crop will apparently be much better than for some years but how much better no one yet knows. Saskatchewan cannot cash in on the present outlook. If it can in the end, that will be all to the good.

And the people of the neighboring province will doubtless remember, henceforth, that the biblical injunction regarding the seven years of plenty and the ensuing years of scarcity applies particularly to their section of the country. In the years of prosperity, the reserves must be laid up for the period when they will be sorely needed.

THE REAL REPORTER.

(New York World-Telegram)

THE WORLD-TELEGRAM has lost one of its most popular, respected and useful reporters, Oscar Herdman, whose funeral is today.

For more than thirty years he was a New York police reporter, for twenty years on this newspaper. His acquaintance was enormous. Whenever a story broke or whoever was concerned he knew the quickest way of getting full and reliable information. He was fastidious in appearance and suave in manner, but his keen resourcefulness was a match for any young cyclone affecting the Hollywood mannerism.

Only 56 years old, he went back in memory and tradition far beyond the present generation of newspapermen. He was neither a cynic, a romantic nor a prima donna but a loyal and levelheaded adult in whom to put one's trust.

• Finds A Joker in Budget

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

AND THINGS ARE NOT what they seem, sang the poet. In modern parlance, there are jokers in the pack. In this instance the location of the "jokers" is the Dunning budget and the self-liquidating housing plan for municipalities—and the players who are getting the surprise are the heating contractors and the manufacturers of heating equipment.

Considerable enthusiasm in the building trades followed the announcement of the exemption from sales tax of certain building materials. The heating industry naturally assumed that the anticipated revival in housing projects would favorably affect heating installations by reducing their cost.

The Department of Excise at Ottawa recently ruled officially that hot water and steam boilers (cast iron and steel), bungalow heaters and warm air furnaces, when used exclusively in the heating of buildings erected in accordance with the regulations of the Dunning budget of June 16th, are exempt from sales tax.

But—ah, yes, there's a but—sales tax must now be paid on all the raw materials used in the manufacture and processing of these exempted items, whereas formerly such materials were not taxable. The result is an actual increase in heating equipment manufacturing costs, equal to the tax on the raw materials used. This puts a rather different complexion on the impression given to the public by the budget announcement.

It is also to be noted that the sales tax still applies to radiators, radiator valves, stoves, hot water heaters, oil burners, stokers, blower and other attachments. The net result is that the makers of heating equipment are unable to quote any reduction in price to heating contractors, who, in turn, are in the same position relative to quotations to builders. Thus a major item in home-building is not actually helped at all by the budget exemption which sounded so promising when announced.

The heating industry is making representations to Ottawa for amendments to the ruling whereby raw materials are taxed in a manner that considerably increases the cost of boilers and furnaces, instead of reducing it to stimulate building. Pending such amendments, the heating equipment angle of the housing scheme remains a decided "frost".

• Can We Believe All the News?

(Brantford Expositor)

IN COMMENTING on his trip to Italy Magistrate S. A. Jones of this city remarked that he found Italians generally friendly toward Great Britain, and desirous of good relations with that nation, and that also to find evidences of impending war in Europe he had to read papers published on this continent, and especially United States journals. Magistrate Jones' opinion is by no means an isolated one, as many persons who have traveled in Europe have pointed out that they found conditions there far more peaceful than they were pictured by correspondents. Even in regard to Great Britain, where there have been feverish preparations for war, according to these same writers, visitors have found the British people practically unperturbed by the threat of war.

This raises the question as to whether there is too much of a tendency on the part of writers to color the news to make it attractive. There is reason to believe that there is much of this kind of thing going on among newspaper correspondents. Irresponsible gossip is magnified in their imagination into the most sensational news. The same thing occurred during the controversy regarding the then King Edward VIII. The regrettable feature of this exageration of sensationalism is that it produces fear and unrest particularly when it refers to the possibilities of war.

Canadians have sometimes noticed a tendency to the same kind of thing by special correspondents at Ottawa and in other centres of the Dominion. In regard to the recent National Conservative Convention reports were sent out that proved to be utterly unfounded. It might be a good thing in general for newspapers to tighten up on their correspondents, requiring them to depend less on their ingenuity and imagination in reporting news, and more on the discussion of actual events. While Canadian newspapers as a whole have an enviable record for publishing trustworthy news, it must be admitted that frequently reports have been sent out from Ottawa and the provincial capitals that have proved to be highly colored.

• Writing the Obituary Notices

(Fergus News-Record)

ONE OF THE HARDEST jobs any editor has to perform is the writing of obituary notices. We think with gratitude of the friend who wrote his own obituary some time before he died, and all we had to fill in was the date of his death and some particulars of his funeral. Usually, some member of the family does the work of writing, but it must be a hard task soon after a bereavement.

On a city paper, it's a bit different. If an important man dies, all the particulars of his life are on file in the library. In fact, if he has been seriously ill for some time, his history is probably set up in type before the end comes. But here, in the small towns, we probably have known the person who has gone fairly intimately, and that does not make it easier. One finds it hard to say just what he would like to about an old friend, and to try to find something that his family will appreciate and that will lighten the burden.

On the other hand, there are some obituaries which it might be a pleasure to write, were circumstances rather different. Some funerals bring an improvement to the community, and the editor of the paper would just love to let himself go and say what he believes to be the truth. But even that pleasure is denied him. There are relatives to think about, and after all, there are times when silence is golden.

We don't want to preach, but perhaps a word to the living from the editor's viewpoint may not be amiss. It is this—so live that when you pass on, the newspaper won't be afraid to tell the truth about you, and do something worth while so that it won't be necessary to fill up the space by telling who sent flowers to your funeral.

• When Autos Used to Scare Horses

(Kincardine News)

PERHAPS IT IS FUTILE to write of changed positions over the past few decades. So we will let the editor of the Walkerton Telescope of thirty years ago tell what situation was found on Bruce highways, just to show how changed conditions really are.

Thirty years ago this week the editor of the Walkerton Telescope sharpened his quill and gave his readers this hot-shot: "In Kincardine one day last week an automobile frightened a horse, the horse ran away, the driver was thrown out of the rig and his leg was broken. It is becoming apparent from incidents like this that something will have to be done about these automobiles. For several years past the farmers in the vicinity of Toronto have been agitating for a law to restrain automobiles from using the public highways, but so far have not been able to accomplish anything."

And then the editor gets real mad. "Gradually," according to this 1908 issue of The Telescope; "the nuisance is becoming more general. Every town in the province has its automobile now and some of them have more than one. The machines go scooting through the country and no road is sacred to them. Horses that are easily enough controlled in the presence of a railway go crazy at the sight of an automobile and incidents such as the above are happening all over the country."

And then the Walkerton pundit made a prediction. "It will not be long" he wrote, "before the automobile will drive the farmers off the roads altogether, unless something is done to restrain them. The farmers built these highways in the first place and are straining themselves to keep them in repair, and it must be more than a little annoying to them to be thus disposed of by this new machine. What they ought to do is pledge every candidate for Parliament to use his vote and influence in favor of a law prohibiting automobiles from using the public highways altogether, or at least under conditions that will not interfere with traffic".

LAUGHTER IN COURT.

(B. B. C. Listener)

"My opinion may not be worth much, but I think every magistrate should have a general knowledge of all classes of society and a sense of humor," said W. E. Hopkin, J.P., of Nottinghamshire.

"There is a story told of two magistrates who were summoned for exceeding the speed limit in a built-up area. When they arrived at the court there were no other magistrates present, so they agreed to try each other. No. 1 went on the Bench and No. 2 in the witness box. A question was asked, 'You are charged with exceeding the speed limit. Do you plead guilty or not guilty?' 'Guilty, your worship.' 'You will be fined five shillings.' They then changed places, and No. 2 went on to the Bench. He said to No. 1: 'You are charged with exceeding the speed limit in a built-up area. Do you plead guilty or not guilty?' 'Guilty, your worship.' 'Now these cases are becoming far too common. This is the second we have had this morning. You will be fined thirty shillings.'"

WHERE MONEY GOES

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

The C. N. R. deficit takes $8.45 of every $100 expended by the Dominion Government, according to Mr. Dunning. Relief exceeds it by $4.47, or something over 50 per cent.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

O LORD, righteousness belongeth unto thee, but unto us confusion of faces, as at this day; to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and unto all Israel, that are near, and that are far off, through all the countries whither thou hast driven them, because of their trespass that they have trespassed against thee.

O Lord, to us belongeth confusion of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee. To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgiveness, though we have rebelled against him; neither have we obeyed the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets.

As it is written in the law of Moses, all this evil is come upon us: yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and understand thy truth.—Dan. ix, 7-10, 13.

Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.— Gal. vi, 7, 8.

To The Editor

HE REMEMBERS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: In Tuesday's issue of your paper you have a picture of George Street which you state was decorated for the 12th. in 1891. You then go on to say it was fourty-one years ago today. I think you are slightly in error. I have checked and rechecked it and make it fourty-seven.

I well remember July 12th, 1891. A few weeks previously I had joined the order and it was not only my first walk as a member but also my first visit to Peterborough. The day was quite windy and as one of the members carrying the banner I had some difficulty in keeping it in an upright position when turning the street corners, particularly at the corner of George and Charlotte streets.

Of the stores of that time I have no knowledge as my attention was taken up with trying to keep step and keeping the banner in a dignified position as befitted the occasion.

Yours truly,
JOHN T. THOMPSON, JR.

THE SKY IS THE LIMIT.

(Chicago News)

WORD EMANATES from the City Hall that Mayor Kelly plans to ask an appropriation in next year's budget for a flying boat. The primary purpose of this modern magic carpet is to whisk aloft celebrities and other visiting firemen to show them the glories that are Chicago's.

Gone the gaudy white automobile once thought fitting for eminent visitors. In its place, a seagoing, airgoing chariot with which to thrill the visitors, and to keep them far from the whiff of uncollected garbage they might encounter when they traverse the city by auto. It's thoughtful of the mayor, though, to take the visitors for a ride. That will make them feel true citizens of Chicago.

A Bit of Nonsense

ONLY CHANCE

Some time ago, an Englishman took an American friend into St. Paul's Cathedral when it was undergoing repairs, and struts supported the groined roof of the crypt.

"Those props are there," he explained, "because the old place isn't any to safe."

"You mean to tell me that the roof might fall in on us at any moment?" asked the American.

"It's not as bad as that."

"What a pity! I wish it would. You see, it would be so restful, and it's the only chance a guy like me has got of being buried in St. Paul's anyway."

GAME NUMBER ONE

FIRST PRIZE $1500.00

HOW TO PLAY AND WIN

First, study the small example game. If you will now refer to the table of points, you will find the method of scoring which is employed.

You will note that certain points are allowed for each combination of five cards which can be formed with the twenty-five cards appearing in this example game.

Now consult game No. 1 and select from your own pack of cards the twenty-five cards shown in game No. 1. Place these cards on your table in five rows of five cards each as indicated by the example.

The object is to rearrange these cards in five horizontal rows in such a way as to attain as high a score as you can based on the table of points.

While the cards do not appear in red and black, you should have no doubt as to the suits. All you require to play the game is a knowledge of the table of points and a little foresight in rearranging the cards. Referring back to the example game, you will note that the score is 1320. Now to better the score, for example, you could move the jack of clubs from the top row to the third row for four jacks, giving you a score of 440 for this row. Now take the six of clubs from the fourth row and place it in the top row, and you have a run of all clubs to the ten. You lose five points in this row by taking away the jack, but you gain 175 points in the third row for a total of 1490, a nice increase over 1320. Simple, isn't it?

FOUR CARDS of Same Numerical Value and One Odd Card—440. Add 10 points if Odd Card is 10 or Higher.

THREE CARDS of Same Numerical Value and One Pair—265 only.

THREE CARDS of Same Numerical Value and Two Odd Cards—220. Add 10 Points for Each Odd Card if 10 or Higher.

TWO PAIRS and One Odd Card—150. Add 10 Points if Odd Card is 10 or Higher.

ONE PAIR and Three Odd Cards—100. Add 10 Points for Each Odd Card of 10 or Higher.

FIVE ODD CARDS—No Value Except When Row Includes Cards of 10 or Higher, in Which Event Add 10 Points for Each Card of 10 or Higher.

NOTE: The Ace is Low in Consecutive Runs and as an Odd Card. It is the Game's Lowest Card. No Card Can be Used More than Once in a Game.

EXPLANATION OF POINTS

FIRST—A Consecutive run means five cards in numerical order. For example, Ace, 2, 3, 4, 5, or 9, 10, Jack, Queen, King, or 7, 8, 9, 10, Jack, etc. It will be noted by the schedule of points that the values vary according to the suits. In forming a consecutive run the Ace of any suit is always low and counts as ONE (1) only.

SECOND—Four cards of the same numerical value means a combination such as four Aces, four 5's, four Queens, etc. The same applies where reference is made to Three Cards of the same numerical value.

THIRD—Two pairs, for example, means: Two 6's and two 10's, etc.

FOURTH—One pair, for example, means: Two Jacks or two 10's, etc.

FIFTH—A run of "Mixed Suits" means when two or more suits comprise a run.

SIXTH—"To the King" means that the King is the highest card in the row. "To the Queen" means that the Queen is the highest card in the row, etc.

SEVENTH—Odd Cards mean any card or cards which you cannot use to form combinations as outlined in schedule of points. As an "odd" card the Ace is also low.

BACK GAMES

All back games will be published in The Globe and Mail on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 19 and 20. Future games will appear in The Globe and Mail, three games a week, for the next six weeks. Official entry forms on which answers for the first six games must be submitted, will also be found in The Globe and Mail on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 19 and 20. Following this, entry forms for each game will be published the day following the publishing of each game.

IMPORTANT

Although the rules specifically state that answers shall not be sent in until the end of the contest, The Globe and Mail has received a great many to date.

From those received, the "Crosscards" Editor has noticed that many contestants are not using the same cards as given in the games illustrated in The Globe and Mail. Naturally, if the cards in the games are substituted by others that game is disqualified.

To eliminate this trouble, we are publishing in next Tuesday's and Wednesday's paper official entry forms for games published to date, as well as reprinting all games published to date. From Wednesday on we will publish on the day following each new "Crosscards" game an official entry form on which to send your answers.

As you indicate each card in the position you use it on the official entry form, draw an "X" across the entire face of the card in the clipped copy of the game to indicate that this card has been used. Attach this checked game, which you have clipped from The Globe and Mail, to the official entry form and forward both at the conclusion of the contest. If you wish, you may further assure accuracy by cutting up the published game and pasting the cards in the order of your solution in the squares on the official entry form. Do not paste your cards in position until you are satisfied with the score for that game. Legible facsimiles of the entry forms and games are acceptable. As previously stated, entry forms will now be published the day following the publication of the game. Do not, however, send in your completed scores entries until the conclusion of the contest.

Second Club To Have Full Title Course

Mayor James Hamilton cut the tape on the tenth tee at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club on Saturay afternoon, officially opening for play the extra nine holes which have been completed recently and which makes the Kawartha course, a full length championship lay-out and gives this city a second 18-hole golf course.

Alderman R. M. Glover, president of the club, welcomed members and officials of the Peterborough Golf and country Club, members of the City Council and more than 200 golfers who were present for the ceremony. He paid tribute to C. A. Salmonsen, the club's first president and a member of the Board of Directors, whose energy and leadership had brought the course to its present advanced state. Mayor Hamilton expressed gratification at the completion of so beautiful a course which he described as an asset to the township and city. Ex-Mayor Roland Denne also spoke briefly and Ross Dobbin, president of the Peterborough Club, announced that he and Alderman Glover were giving a cup to be known as the Dobbin-Glover trophy and which would be for annual inter-club competition, with a strong possibilit ythat teams from each club would compete for the trophy this year.

C. A. Salmonsen was called on to drive the first ball from the tenth tee, and his powerful drive sent the ball scaring 150 yards down the fairway. He was followed by Alderman Glover.

The Kawartha Club property was purchased from Webber Brothers in 1931, and work was started in 1932 on the tennis courts and the first nine holes. The tennis courts were ready that year and the first golf was played in the spring of 1933. Stanley Thompson, internationally famous golf course architect, designed the courses and the work was done under the capable supervision of Bob MacMorran of this city, using local labor.

The course has back and front tees, well bunkered creeping bent greens, and the bluegrass fairways are wide and rolling. Par on the course is 71 and the overall distance is 6,565 yards. The property is graced with unusual natural beauty and although the course at certain point reaches a considerable height, nevertheless there are no arduous climbs, and the golfers are given a splendid view of the surrounding country at several points along the property.

Mr. Emsley, noted Canadian authority on grasses said on his visit to the club last month that "Kawartha Club has the finest greens in the whole of Ontario." Any person viewing the rich carpet like surface of the greens would undoubtedly agree.

The four clay tennis courts are floodlighted and in constant use. The club house is open twelve months a year and the recreation building houses steel lockers for both men and women, wash rooms, shower baths and a modern caddy house. During the past five years the officials have had thousands of small nursery stock evergreens and hundreds of deciduous variety including elms, maples, walnut and chestnut. Work on paving the driveway into the club house starts to-day.

Ben Norris, 27 year old golf star is the club professional and was formerly with St. Andrews and Humber Valley of Toronto. He competed in the Ontario Open last week and finished in the money.

The club executive for this year is as follows: President, Alderman R. M. Glover; 1st vice, Ian McRae; 2nd vice, George Hewitt; secretary, Bob McMorran; treasurer, Tom Glover, and the directors are C. A. Salmonsen, Fred G. Overend, W. C. English and B. Ottewell.

Improving

Ready to swing is Jim Bruen, young Scottish golfer, who has made such a favorable impression on his fellow-players and critics. "He surely must be one of the worlds greatest players before many years have passed," is what Henry Cotton said of the 18-year-old star.

SPORTS -DAY BY DAY-

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

ONE OF THE FIRST fights we ever got into was at school in about fourth grade. We were biting off more than we could chew when friend teacher arrives on the scene. It meant a whaling. A touch of Irish in us (and the other gee) caused a resumption of hostilities en route home that day. We weren't doing so well, but still in there, when a neighbor broke it up—with more grief to follow at home. After taking four lickings in one day, it gradually dawned on this party that there is such a thing as learning to fight. Which we did, though with no great success. But the point is that every guy sooner or later learns to box a bit or wishes he had. It is oke for the reformers to preach self control, for scientists to yodel of higher civilization and pacifists to preach peace—but men still fight as they did thousands of years ago. It is part of humanity, just like running when you're frightened, eating when you're hungry or putting off paying bills till ya gotta!

* * * * * * *

AND SO WE ADVISE folks to drop around tonight to the outdoor boxing show in the lacrosse arena and see guys in action who know how to fight. Fellows who have learned the game and have been working a month or more on their condition, timing and speed. Amateur fellows like you and you who know how to handle their dukes for fun or for keeps. Boys who are crazy about the mitt game and some of whom are pretty doggone good in the ring. It is the nine-bout boxing show of the Riverview A. C. at 8.30 o'clock.

* * * * * * *

Runners-up Don't Run

THE PROGRAM is listed elsewhere and shows three of our best boxers in against topnotch Toronto pugs. With six rattling good prelims lined up. Every Riverview Club card has been a good one in this town, and tonight's ought to provide plenty of puglistic action, too. You ring fans know the class of Orlando and Taman, and the hitting power of McIlmoyle. And how Wright and Bowler will mix when they meet. And Hobbins, Packenham and the others. But a word on the Toronto scrappers. Pratt won the Eastern Ontario Silver Glove title in '37 and was runner-up to the Provincial champ this spring. Potter was runner-up to the Eastern Ontario mitt champ, the middleweight, this year. And Oliver holds the Provincial lightweight title now. Yeah, they are no palookas. We honestly feel you can not go wrong on a mitt program like this—it should be a slugging whirlwind!

* * * * * * *

AND WHERE THEY make the motors, folks spoke in voices gay; but in this fair town of ours, none had a word to say! On account of the Young Petes took it on the chin twice Saturday in Oshawa in a Lakeshore Junior Baseball League double header. It was advertised as a twin bill, but turned out to be a twin kill, with the locals getting the hatchet each time. The Motor citizens copped the first end of it by a 13-1 smirk (and we'd sooner not dwell upon that one) while the homesters nosed out a 2-1 nod in the nightcap. Which puts Oshawa in top place two full games ahead of Herb Ralph's boys. The locals feel pretty badly about the double reverse but the playoffs will be starting soon and they should at least hold their own then. These upsets are bound to happen, as the seasick passenger remarked.

* * * * * * *

His Pockets Are High

THEY HAVE A LENGTHY lad in Oshawa, the seat of whose pants is quite a distance above the sidewalk, and they call him "High Pockets" McCabe. And he is quite a twirler. In the first junior joust, McCabe held the Young Petes to one lousy hit and it was just a chuckle for his buddies. Todd went good till the seventh and then Condon finished it up. Gee Clark hurled two-hit ball for the visitors in the second game and deserved a win, but his luck had gone to lunch. At least, be glad they didn't play three games!

* * * * * * *

OSHAWA GM-MEN will play the Petes here either Wednesday or Thursday e'en at 6.15 in Riverside Park, definite date being undecided at this writing. It'll be the last game likely between these clubs here ere loop playoffs. A Buffalo semi-pro club will tangle with the locals in this city on Saturday. Incidentally, we wonder if the O. B. A. knows Manager Paige of Niagara Falls used a pro righthander from N. Y. on his mound when the Cataracts played the All-Stars in a Nnagara District benefit ball game a week ago. They had a lot to say down the Falls' way about C. O. B. L. imports recently, yet the Falls (with two States' twirlers in already) calmly use a pro, without permission, in a benefit game for a player. The O. B. A. may have granted Paige permission to use Joe Sliwa but when he didn't show up we doubt a great deal if Sal Maglie got the nod from anyone, except maybe Peck Ward of the Silver Voice! Yet the O. B. A. tosses out Kingston Ponies for using an amateur who hadn't received permission to play. Where the Falls Cataracts are concerned, we fear Justice has cataracts in both eyes. . . .

* * * * * * *

Graveyard Of Veterans

QUINTE INTERMEDIATES copped a 10-2 smirk over Kingston Locos last Friday. Speedy St. Louis outpitching Yammy Jamieson, who is now rated eligible for the Locos—and that's not a crack at his mentality! Belleville are now well ahead in their intermediate "B" group, but trailing like the favorite coming into the stretch when it comes to "take" at the gate. Kingston used such ex-C. O. B. L. guys as G. Arneil, Jim Arneil, Utronki, Compeau and Yammy. And Belleville had St. Louis, Sero, Weir and Sonny Green.

* * * * * * *

LACROSSE STANDINGS up to last Wednesday are in tonight, sent by the O. L. A. The Petes top their senior "B" group with the big bad Brooklins stepping hard on their heels. The Inglewood-Caledon Combines head the other section. The locals are off tonight on a long trek to tackle Owen Sound, while Mount Hamilton are here Friday. Schedule runs four or five weeks yet and then the playoffs. Incidentally, officers here say they were peeved at East York being so late last Friday but confess that the East Yorkers are operating on a cheap shoe string. They play in a Toronto park and just pass the hat. While some 800 fans attend a game the collection is around three dollars! Naturally, it is mighty hard sledding to stay in there. Yet they have a good team.

* * * * * * *

GRAB-BAG: Big doings at the Kawartha Golf Club on Sat'day as this fine links officially become an 18-holer. . . . No gals' game here tonight, a switch being necessary as Keene couldn't come here; so Westclox are in Keene. . . . Westclox gals plays C. G. E. here Wednesday; we hear the Alarm Lasses have signed Jean Corley and Dot Botting of Lindsay. . . . Motorists have a men's softball struggle with Westclox at the Bowl tomorrow night. . . . Silver Finettes put on a water show in the Y. W. C. A. pool this eve. . . . Bay of Quinte netters took five out of nine matches over local tennis players in Belleville Sat'day. . . . St. Peter's and Cubs clash in a junior ball joust at the Ex. this p.m. . . . Young Petes haven't a loop tilt again till a week from Wednesday in Cobourg; Ralph's gang are sure of a playoff berth. . . . C. G. E. is organizing a club to have boxing, wrestling, track and field, and fencing, with gals fencing, too. . . . A midget lacrosse melee tomorrow sees Y's Men's and Kiwanis tangle. . . . Bob Doll will be oke to play for the Petes ere the week endeth. . . . Surf-boating but adds to our conviction that necessity may be the mother of invention, but laziness is its father!

Ulster Defeats Montreal 4-0

TORONTO, July 18.— (CP).—Toronto Ulster United needed only a victory to-night over Montreal Carsteel in the second game of their best-of-three Eastern Canada soccer cup semi-final to advance to the sectional final against Dome Mines of South Porcupine, Ont.

Ulster defeated the Montrealers 4-0 here Saturday in the first contest to become prime favorites to take the series in two straight games. The Toronto team was led by veteran George Graham, who scored three goals before he retired late in the contest because of irritation to a previously-injured leg.

Ollie Sutton paved the way for the first goal, centreing to Graham who headed in. Fifteen minutes later Sutton gave Norm Bundy a pass for a goal and Graham added another just before the half-time interval. Graham drove home Alec Adams' pass for the last goal five minutes after the start of the second half.

Will Protest Ruling.

TORONTO, July 18.—(CP).—Ulster United Club officials will protest the Dominion Football Association ruling, just announced, that the Toronto team must play the Eastern Canada soccer finals at Timmins rather than Toronto, if the Toronto team defeats Montreal Carsteels in their current series.

The Toronto club won the first game in the series played here Saturday by 4-0 in the Eastern Canada semi-finals.

Seeks Iron In Sand

ROME, July 18 (CP-Havas).—Italy may try to make up its shortage in iron by extracting ore from sand, it was disclosed today. A new process which reputedly can extract 10 tons of ore daily from the magnetic sands of the shore of Latium has been inspected by Premier Benito Mussolini at Nettuno, just south of the capital. Research among the Latium sand dunes facing the Tyrrhenian Sea was said to have found that more than a million tons of magnetic ore can be extracted and utilized by the Italian iron and steel industry.

Kawartha Club Opens 18-Hole Course

Mayor James Hamilton cut the tape on the 10th tee at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club Saturday, officially opening the last nine holes for play, and the course is now a complete 18-hole layout. He is shown at the Top and in the Background is a small section of the crowd which witnessed the ceremony. Fred Hills, Col. Bradburn, C. S. Cummer, R. E. Wilson and Herb McCannon are shown on the LEFT of the Mayor. In (2) Alderman Roland Glover, president of the club, tees off in the first foursome taking part in the competition for the President's and Vice-President's cup. C. A. Toronto Club Scores 91-47 Cricket Win

Whitaker's were at home to the Toc H Club of Toronto at the Oval on Saturday and the games resulted in a win for the visitors by 91 to 47.

Toc H batted first and good play by their opening batsman suggested a big total. The score was taken to 86 for 5 wickets but the rest of the side failed badly and they were all out for 91. Hamilton and Colbran finishing the inning in sensation style, the former in his last 2 overs getting 4 wickets for 1 run and Colbran 3 for 4. F. Smith and R. Howarth each made fine catches.

On Whitakers going to bat they opened with B. Roberts and G. Colbran, the later was out at 11, but Roberts defended well and was seventh out for 14, his side's high score. Of the rest G. Haig alone made any showing, hitting two 4's and the total reached 47, leaving Toc H winners by 44 runs.

The party responsible for this get-up labelled it a "surrealistic tennis costume," but it reminds us strangely of a nightmare. That is, of course, the costume. Miss Roseanne Murray, who is holding up all the paraphernalia, hardy comes under that heading. It all took place at a charity fashion show held at Spring Lake, New Jersey.

Tight Defense Helps London In Ball Race

TORONTO, uly 18—(CP)—It's not hard to find a reason why London and Hamilton Dominions are topping their respective senior baseball leagues. The story is told in the defensive records of the two teams; for while other outfits commit bobble after bobble the Dominions and London play almost air-tight ball.

In six senior games Saturday, a total of 43 errors were registered but the Dominions only miscued once and the Londoners only had three errors in a double bill. Many of the other teams pack as much batting power, but they fail when it comes to equalling fielding ability of the leaders.

The Dominions, in a Hamilton and District game, whipped Caledonians 6-2 as their opponents had five errors. London split a double bill with Brantford, Taking the first contest 5-2 but dropping the second 8-7. Each team was responsible for three errors in the Intercounty League doubleheader.

In another Intercounty contest, Stratford Nationals drubbed Strathroy Royals 10-2 despite seven miscues. The Nationals gained their victory on the four-hit pitching of Carrick, five errors by the opposition, and by a 10-hit attack.

Merriton Alliance, behind the pitching of Duncan Schooley and a 23-hit attack, trimmed Thorold 18-6 in a Niagara district game in which the teams divided six errors. Jackson led the Merriton men at bat with five blows in six trips to the plate.

In another Niagara District game, St. Catharines Saints drubbed Welland Aces 16-4 as the Aces committed 11 costly errors. Arn Trapnell pitched the Saints to victory, his third straight.

Petherick's Team In Glover Final

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, uly 18— Seymour West will meet with the Petherick's Corners team for the final game of the season which will decide who will get the Township League cup which is donated by L. B. Glover. The game will be played on the school lot Tuesday evening and with the teams evenly matched a keen contest is likely.

Don Barnum will be on the mound for the team from the Corners while Cliff Anderson will do the tossing for the West Seymour team and although there are hitters on both teams West Seymour has looked consistently better on the field and unless Barnum cuts the hitting down to a minimum they should be conceded a fair chance of taking the cup.

Peterboro C.C. Beats Lindsay

On Saturday the Peterborough Club travelle dto Lindsay to play their postponed match with the club there. Lindsay batted first and F. C.G.E. Trounces Politicians In Soccer Tilt

Through the lack of players not being able to get away from business, the local C.C.F. were only able to place eight players on the field against the Canadian General full eleven, on Saturday afternoon, to lose the league points by the score of seven to two in a one-sided match.

First Half

The C.C.F. started the game with seven men and awaited the appearance of some of the registered players, but only one made appearance in the second period. To start and describe the easy going attitude of the winners would be useless and they recorded five goals to none in the first half.

Second Half.

On resuming the C.G.E. changed their line-up in an endeavor to find out a scoring attack for future games. After ten minutes' play, Denisin scored to reduce the lead and followed this up with another before the end of the game, but the Canadian General added to their total to make the score, Canadian General 7, C.C.F. 2.

Goal scorers—Canadian General: Mitchell, Keith 2, Harris 3 and Murduff. C.C.F.: Walter Denisin 2.

Teams—

C.C.F.—J. Chamberlain, goal; Art O'Halloran and W. Denisin, fullbacks; E. Jones, F. Lawrence and F. Mayette halves; S. Henwood, E. Jobe, F. Dyer and H. Lapham, forwards.

Referee—T. Foster.

No Game in Deloro.

Deloro was notified on Thursday night by the local secretary that the Brinton club would be unable to play their scheduled game on Saturday, in Deloro, owing to the city team not being in a position to get their team to travel through injuries. The last time that the Brinton club went to the Smelters' ground they were rained out. This game will be played soon so as to complete the first half of the schedule.

YOUNG PETES DROP PAIR IN BALL DOUBLE-HEADER IN OSHAWA

Local Juniors Beaten Twice Over Weekend

OSHAWA, July 18. — Oshawa Juniors moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Lakeshore league when they took both ends of a double header from Peterborough Juniors here on Saturday. The homesters won the afternoon game 13-1 and nosed out a 2-1 decision in the twilight tilt. The double decision left Herb Ralph's Juniors two full games behind the Motor City team as they were tied before the twin bill opened and it was the fourth victory in eight days for the Oshawa crew.

"High pockets" McCabe was the hero of the first game as he limited Peterborough Juniors to only one single in the nine innings. After the only single in the third inning, smart defensive work by Oshawa who cut off three Peterborough runners at the plate helped them protect a 1-0 lead. After Peterborough tied the score in the seventh, the homesters came back in their half and every Oshawa player in the game crossed the plate in a wild 9-run rally that cinched the game. Oshawa added three more runs in the eighth.

Clark deserved better fate in the evening tilt. After Todd's fine display until bombed from the mound in the 7th when he was replaced by Condon, manager Ralph elected Clark for the second game, and his choice was excellent as he held Oshawa juniors to only two hits. Both of the runs were Clark's own fault, Fair reaching frist once on a walk and again when hit by a pitch and he crossed the plate both times. Cowie was almost as stingy with hits allowing only five safeties but for his own error, a wild throw, he would have had a shut-out as he kept the safe blows well scattered.

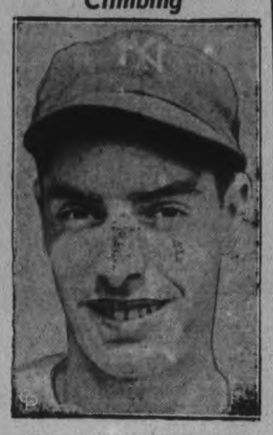
Climbing



What would seem to be a great pace for the average player but a slump for Joe DiMaggio, ABOVE, seems to be over. For the first part of the season Joe was only batting around the .315 mark and his long range blows came infrequently, but the past few weeks have seen him back at the old job of pinning pitchers' ears back with monotonous (for the pitchers) regularity.

Newark Halts Rochester's Pennant Hopes

TORONTO, July 18.—(CP).—Newark Bears in two years of running the International League, have developed their victory technique to a high degree. Like their parent club, the New York Yankees, they delight in holding a lead by knocking the ears off any contended that dares to come within striking distance.

Even with Les Scarsella, the first sacker, in and out of the line-up, Buddy Rosar returning behind the bat after 11 days' average and an average of around .500 for the past week, the Bears had enough to set down Rochester Red Wings 5-4, 5-3 yesterday.

The defeats cooled the Wings' title aspirations temporarily at least and sent them down to the level of the rest of the seven club second division in which Buffalo downed Syracuse twice, 6-5, 8-6, and Ballimore dropped a double bill to Montreal 3-2, 6-5 in the only other games scheduled.

Newark employed tight hurling and timely hitting to win both games. Marius Russo not only pitched and won the opener, but collected three hits to lead the attack. Mickey White's homer paced the Bears' attack in the second game.

The twin defeats for the Wings and Bisons gave the Buffalo team an even tighter hold on second place. The Bisons capitalized on breaks in the opener and then pounded the ball over the lot in the nightcap. Ollie Carnegie, the league's leading home run hitter, got No. 26 in the second game.

Royals scored two wins. Harry Smythe, veteran southpaw, won the opener and the Royals stifled an Orioles rally in the sixth to pull the twin bil lout of the fire.

Montreal defeated Baltimore 3-1 Saturday night and Toronto handed Jersey City a doubel defeat, 11-5 and 3-2. Newark defeated Rochester 10-6 while Buffalo turned back Syracuse 7-5.

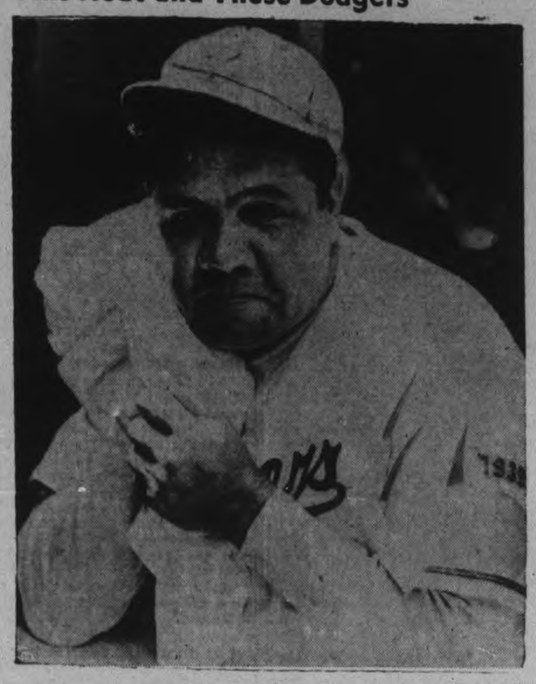
Runyan Wins P.G.A. Title

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP). — Paul Runyan, a dapper little champion who takes everything in stride, to-day has turned from the excitement of winning his second National Professional Golfers' Association title to the routine of his tasks as pro at the Metropolis Country Club in suburban White Plains, N.Y., without batting an eye.

Nothing disturbed the former Arkansas caddie on the way to his first tournament victory of the year—neither the Shawnee Country Club course, nor the heat of the Delaware river valley, nor the fact that he went into his title round match with Sam Snead a 2-1 underdog. He whipped them all, and the odds most decisively, for his margin of 8 and 7 over Snead was the most one-sided ever scored in 21 P.G.A. final matches.

And yesterday, just as if he hadn't beaten out 107 of the country's best professionals for the pros' own title, Paul was back at his own club giving the lessons he had signed up for before heading for Shawnee 10 days earlier.

"This Heat and These Dodgers"



Whew! It's hot! And George Herman Ruth mops his brow with a voluminous handkerchief as he seeks the shade of the dugout steps. The former King of Clout, now coaching Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League, was caught on a torrid day bemoaning the necessity of having to put up with the hot weather. As if the Daffiness boys weren't enough!

Fine Fight Card On Here Tonight

Nine boxing bouts will be run off by the Riverview A.C. here tonight (Monday) in the local lacrosse arena outdoors, under the lights, commencing at 8.30 o'clock. Promoter Harry Low and Match-maker Art Hunter have promised the program will start on time and there will be no delay between bouts. The locals are all in first-class condition and three topnotch Toronto fighters will appear on the card. With the reputation the Riverview Athletic Club has built up here in the past year for lively fight cards, tonight's show should be an entertaining one. A big crowd of boxing fans are expected this evening, the prices having been scaled down from 50 cents for this card. Bill Horrocks of the Peterborough A.C. will referee.

Main bout of five rounds is between Nick Orlando, 135, and Russ Oliver of Toronto. Five-round semi-final is between Dutch McIlmoyle, 160, and Bill Potter of Toronto. The top preliminarie bout sees Joe Taman, 122, mix with Eddie Pratt of Toronto. Norm Bowler, 155, and Ward Wright tangle in an all-local grudge fight. Joe Hobbins and Art Nokes meet in a welter scrap. Mal Packenham fights Milt Greenley, Peterborough A.C. lightweight. Dan McGregor and Gord Riel mix in a 100-pound duel, while Will Hayes and Frank Vasey have a 75-pound match, and Buddy Redmond and Ray Smith lift the curtain at 83 pounds.

TUNA SEASON NEAR

SHELBURNE, N.S.—(CP).—Nova Scotia fishermen passed the word along cheerfully that the herring had arrived—resulting in a harvest for them and an indication that the tuna were not far behind. Small boats all along the coast are ready for the United States anglers who will arrive shortly.

RECORD RAINFALL

BOMBAY—(CP). — This year's monsoon here has established a record in heavy rainfall for the last 50 years. In the first 15 days of June rainfall was 21.6 inches, 15.6 inches above normal.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP). — Mickey Cochrane is beginning to think there's a touch of Brooklyn in this Tigers. . . . In one game last week, the hit-and-run signals was on three times—and each time the batter never even lifted his bat off his shoulder to take a cut at the pitch. . . . The next time, says Mickey, it's going to cost somebody dough. . . . Dizzy Dean admits he doesn't shake off Hartnett's signals any more. . . . Ever since he tried it in last year's all-star game—and Lou Gehrig whacked a home on the pitch. . . . Incidentally, how does that four-hitter the Wiz tossed yesterday make his lawsuit against the Cardinals look?

Believe it or not, those daffy Dodgers lead the league in stealing bases. . . . Local writers who went down the bay to meet Helen Jacobs coming home think the "Jake" is aces as a sport. . . . She wouldn't hear or say a thing that even faintly resembled an alibi. . . . The Big League Pitchers' Union is going to sue the next guy that says flingers can't hit. . . . 14 of 'em have clouted homers this year, including two each by Lefty Lee and Monte Stratton (White Sox), Curt Davis (Cardinals), Spud Chandler (Yanks) and Clay Bryant (Cubs).

One consolation for Lefty Grove—they can't yank his teeth for his sore arm. . . . all of 'em went the last time old Mose's flipper went bad. . . . Bob Seeds, up from the Yanks' Newark farm, knocked in 17 runs his first 18 games with the Giants.

No Onions For Deer

GALT, Ont., July 18 — (CP). — Apparently deer are fastidious in their diet. Mrs. Bessie Davis, reporting she had seen two deer nibbling in her market garden yesterday, said they had eaten beets, peas and carrots, nearly all her vegetables—but they had left her onions alone.

Yesterday's Stars

Gus Mancuso and Mel Ott, Giants, and Gus Suhr, Pirates—Mancuso's ninth inning single drove in winning run for 2-1 opener victory; Ott hit homer with bases loaded and Suhr drove in tying run in ninth for 7-7 nightcap deadlock.

Tommy Henrich and Bill Dickey, Yankees—Each hit homer with two on and drove in four runs in 16-3 victory over Tigers.

Cookie Lavagetto and Dolph Camilli, Dodgers — Former's double drove in two runs in ninth inning rally for 5-3 opener win over Reds; Camilli hit homer with two on in 7-4 nightcap decision.

Bruce Campbell, Indians — Hit four-for-four, drove in one run and scored two to top Athletics 7-6.

Dizzy Dean and Bill Lee, Cubs — Dean pitched four-hitter and Lee tossed five-hit shutout for twin win over Bees.

Joe Vosmik and Pinky Higgins, Red Sox—Vosmik hit homer in each game, driving in five runs in opener and three in second in twin win over Browns; Higgins hit homer, double and single in nightcap, sending four runs across and scoring three.

Giants-Pittsburg Continue Battle For Circuit Lead

NEW YORK, July 18 (C.P.). — It would seem to be plenty of excitement around the major leagues with Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants battling for the National Baseball League lead and getting nowhere, and New York Yankees tuning up their war clubs for a similar "crucial" series with Cleveland Indians. But on top of it all, there's Dizzy Dean making a comeback.

Dizzy, pitching because he was ordered to after being on the shelf with a sore arm since May 3, made his comeback in the grand manner against Boston Bees yesterday. He pitched a four-hitter against Boston to win 3-1 and won the second 4-0 as Bill Lee tossed a five-hitter to get the better of Deacon Danny MacFayden, who has been out since June 15 with a broken hand.

The two victories returned the Cubs to third place, ahead of Cincinnati Reds, twice beaten by Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-3 and 7-4.

Dog-Eat-Dog Race.

Otherwise the National League contest continued to be a private affair between New York and Pittsburgh. After taking the undisputed lead with Saturday's victory, the Pirates went back to their old position of leaders by a few percentage points while trailing by a half-game on the won-lost count.

The Bucs fell back when New York won the first game of a doubleheader 2-1 before a record crowd of 43,241, then staged a six-run rally to tie the second at 7-7. The nightcap was called because of Pennsylvania's Sunday "curfew" law after the ninth inning.

Johny McCarthy's double and Gus Mancuso's single in the ninth won the opener, a keen mound duel between Carl Hubbell and Jim Tobin. Then the Bucs battled Slick Castleman out and went into the seventh of the afterpiece with a 4-1 lead. Mel Ott's homer with the bases full and one by Hank Leiber put the Giants in front, but the Bucs rallied and tied it up in the ninth on two-baggers by Al Todd and Bill Brubaker, a walk, and Gus Suhr's single.

Yanks Regain Lost Power.

The Yankees, who open their series with Cleveland to-morrow, turned on a display of the old-time Yankee hitting power to wallop Detroit Tigers 16-3, while Cleveland eked out a 7-6 decision over Philadelphia. That left New York a game and a half in front with Boston Red Sox, who walloped St. Louis Browns 11-5 and 14-4 trailing the Indians by two games.

Chicago White Sox, scoring seven runs in the seventh, whipped Washington 12-1 in the day's only other game. The Phillies-St. Louis Cardinals double-header was rained out.

The Yanks scored 11 of their runs on homers by Tommy Henrich, George Selkirk, Joe Gordon and Bill Dickey. Bob Feller got credit for his 10th victory for Cleveland, aided by a four-run first inning, as he made his first start since June 27, but Johnny Humphries hurled the last two innings and the tribe did some fancy fielding behind him to save the game.

In Saturday's American League games the Yankees defeated Detroit 7-5, while Cleveland downed Philadelphia 9-8 and St. Louis whipped Boston Red Sox 8-3. Washington defeated Chicago 3-2.

In the National League Pittsburgh won 7-3 from the Giants and Brooklyn won 12-5 from Cincinnati. The Cards lost 2-1 to Philadelphia and Chicago beat Boston 8-7.

Over 40 Arrests In Pittsburgh Racial Rioting

PITTSBURGH, July 18—(AP).—Police restored order early today in Pittsburgh's turbulent northside after a second wild night of street rioting between races that resulted in the wounding by gunfire of a detective and a Negro and the arrest of at least 40 persons.

Those under arrest were held for hearings today on charges of inciting to riot.

In another outbreak in the northside's west park—where police say the ill feeling between the whites and Negroes arose during the summer over use of recreational facilities—one man's skull was fractured.

City detective Verner Wagner, 40, was shot in a leg as he and other detectives leaped from a scout car to break up a mob of both races. Wounded in the same melee was James Lee Dixon, 21, who was shot in both legs.

The smoldering ill feeling broke out Wednesday night in sporadic street fights. Thursday night bands of white and Negro youths roamed the district and in numerous clashes eight were injured and 17 arrested.

Detective Inspector Walter Monaghan, who was placed in charge and who ordered all his available men to the scene to aid heavy details of uniformed police, said the outbreaks last night and early today covered a 3-mile area in the northside. This is a district of industrial plants and residences on a hill across the Allegheny river from the downtown "golden triangle."

Monaghan said that at one time near last midnight "several thousand persons were lined up at Bidwell and Allegheny streets, the whites on one side and the Negroes on the other.

Quilting Is Planned By Cottesloe W.M.S.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COTTESLOE, July 18. — The W.M.S. held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. William Forsyth on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting opened with the roll-call, which was answered by eight ladies. Arrangements were made to begin making their quilt for next year's bale. The treasurer gave her report which was quite satisfactory. Readings were given by Mesdames Forsyth and Harry Patterson, while Scripture readings were given by Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Harry Patterson, and M. McDonald. A short program on Racial Brotherhood was given by five of the ladies. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Forsyth served lunch.

An aluminum party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Kidd on Monday evening, when Mrs. McPherson cooked and served a lovely supper, demonstrating the value of having food cooked this way, both for health and economy. A very pleasant evening was spent. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. McColl and Mrs. Campbell of Nassau, Mrs. Ruth Reynolds and daughter Miss Loretta Sedgewick of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. William Forsyth and Maitland, Mr. and Mrs. F. Girven, Mrs. Strong and Mrs. McDonald.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

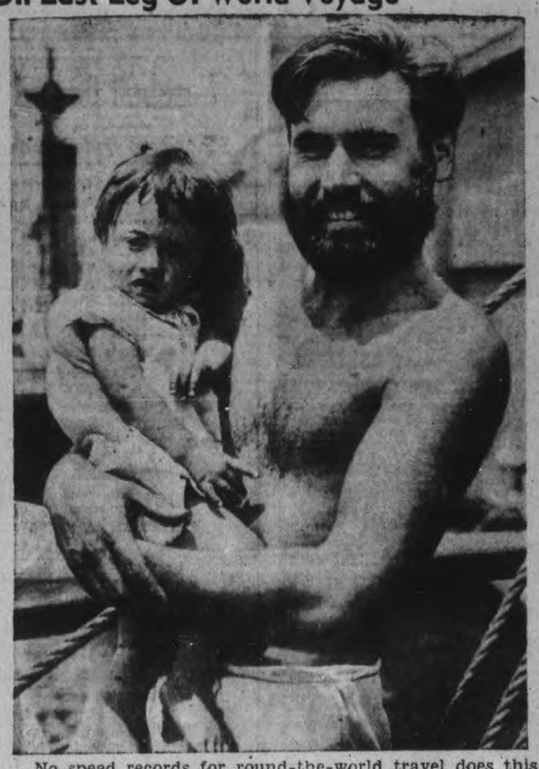
On Last Leg Of World Voyage



No speed records for round-the-world travel does this bearded adventurer seek, yet his circumnavigation of the globe is possibly just as hazardous as any other. He is George Batterbury of the amateur crew of the barkentine Cap Pilar now docked at New York resting up for the last leg of a globe-girdling voyage which began in 1936. The trip started as Capt. Adrian Seligman's honeymoon; the little girl is the captain's daughter, Jessica. Twenty-four Englishmen make up the crew which has navigated the barkentine over more than 35,000 miles of ocean.

Trent Institute Lays Garden Party Plans

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, July 18. — The Women's Institute met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph McNeely with an attendance of twenty. The president, Mrs. Walter Lewis was absent through illness, and the chair was taken by Mrs. Earl Greenly for the first part of the meeting, after which the vice-president, Mrs. H. Mann, took charge. The branch received an invitation to be guests of the Belmont branch for their August meeting, which was accepted. The members decided to hold a garden party on the lawn at the residence of Mrs. John Scott, some time in August. An address on Agriculture by Mr. Paterson, from the department, was expected, but the members were disappointed, as the speaker failed to attend.

Mrs. J. Brown gave a reading, "Father's Day." Mrs. W. C. Inkster had charge of an animal contest. Mrs. Shaw, a visitor from Admas, Mass., won the prize. The August meeting will be held in the United Church, when Havelock and Norwood branches will be visitors and put on the program. The district president, Mrs. Lean of Apsley, will be the guest speaker.

It was decided a field day will be held at the home of Mrs. Charlie Macoun next Thursday. There will be a program of sports during the afternoon.

Mrs. Evans of Claremont, who with Mr. Evans spent the week-end at "Restholme," was taken suddenly ill before returning to her home, necessitating medical attention. She was taken to Mrs. Cummings' nursing home at Havelock and will remain there for two weeks.

Mrs. Robert Lockwood of Halifax has been a guest at "Sunnyside."

Mrs. Bailey, son Hugh and Mr. Frank Hilman left Saturday for Salem, Ohio, after a week at the Sedgwick House.

Mr. and Mrs. Falkner of Toronto are week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Johnson at the Tedford cottage.

Mrs. T. W. Quinn and family and Miss Helen Covert of Havelock are holidaying at Rest-a-While.

Mr. and Mrs. George Doupe, daughters Alma and June, of Moncton, New Brunswick, are visitors with the former's mother, Mrs. Joseph Doupe and family.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Buchanan, Miss B. Thompson of Sarnia are guests at Mr. Robert Carnrite's cottage.

CAVAN

Mrs. Murray, Toronto, has been with her aunt, Mrs. James Douglas, for the past week.

Dr. Ives of Staynor attended the funeral of the late Mr. James Douglas on Thursday.

Miss Pearl Richards, Toronto, is spending her vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. S. Richards.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Earl McGill and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ferrin, attended the Orange celebration in Orono on Tuesday.

The death occurred on Wednesday, of an aged resident of Cavan, Mr. Thomas Gillis, at the home of his son, Mr. Ira Gillis.

Lauds Labor Men

In asking that Mr. Hagey be elected to the Legislature Mr. Hepburn reviewed the work of his Government and made particular reference to the labor policy at Queen's Park.

"In Ontario," he said, "we have the most advanced labor legislation in the world. The Industrial Standards Act, and the Labor Industry Board have worked to perfection, and I want to compliment the working men of this Province who kept their heads so well in the trying days of the attempted C.I.O. invasion of this province. We have less labor strife in Ontario than anywhere else on this continent, and if the United States Government had followed our example they would not be in the sorry position they are today."

Pointing to the youth of the Liberal candidate (Mr. Hagey is 32), the Premier declared: "I, too, was once the youngest member of the House of Commons, and I want to say that Canada needs young men in politics. Youth has the vision and the optimism so often lacking in older men. This Government is likely to continue in office for three or four more years, and I want Mr. Hagey at Queen's Park with us."

Saved on Coal Bills, Claim

Referring to Reginald Welsh, Conservative candidate in the by-election, the Premier declared his government had saved taxpayers $3,181 in coal bills at the Ontario School for the Blind there.

"Mr. Welsh is a coal dealer, and when Mr. Henry was in power in this province the people paid $9,089 for Mr. Welsh's coal to heat the Ontario School for the Blind. When my government was elected we bought the same kind of coal for $5,908," Mr. Hepburn stated.

(Mr. Welsh later denied the truth of the Premier's statement that the coal supplied by him had cost taxpayers $3,181 more than similar coal now purchased by the Hepburn government).

("Since 1935 the institution has been equipped with underfeed stokers, and besides the government is now buying Nova Scotia low-grade coal, while I furnished the home with American bituminous lump coal," Mr. Welsh declared.)

Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, gave a brief address, in which he promised that an unemployment insurance bill would be introduced at the next session of the Legislature.

"I can promise you that the bill will be introduced regardless of stalling in Ottawa or Quebec," Mr. Heenan said.

MOSCOW.—President Kalinin signed a decree today naming Major Vladimir Kokkinaki and A. M. Bryandinsky heroes of the Soviet Union for their recent 4,300-mile non-stop flight from Moscow to Vladivostok. In addition, each of the fliers gets a cash reward of 25,000 rubles (about $5,000).

$292,483 Of The July Taxes, One-Third Of Total, Received At The City Hall

Tax Payments On First Instalment For 1938 Exceed Same Period For '37; Gain Of 1.7 Per Cent. Is Reported

Receipts of taxes on the first instalment due on July 8 amounted to $292,483.69, an increase of 1.7 per cent. over the payment for the corresponding period last year.

The total amount of the city's taxes to be collected this year is $873,786.02, and the first instalment of collections, $292,483.69, is 33.47 per cent. of the total roll. In other words, slightly more than one-third of this year's taxes were paid into the city treasury in the first instalments that have passed through the hands of S. A. Couper, tax collector.

The total amount due last year was $895,463, and the payments at the tax collector's office up to July 16, 1937, were $284,633.19, or 31.77 per cent. of the roll.

The comparative statement obtained today from M. E. Shaver, city treasurer, apparently indicates that the taxpayers of Peterborough have the money to hand across the counter at the City Hall. The net result on the first instalment was a larger payment than last year on a smaller total of taxes to be collected for the year.

Reckless Driving Costs Fine Of $10

Convicted before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court Saturday morning of reckless driving on Highway 28, James Monaghan was fined $10 and costs.

The charge arose out of a recent accident when cars driven by Monaghan and Fergus Condin collided just north of Nassau. A similar charge was to have been heard against Condin on Saturday but after Magistrate Gee had given judgment in the Monaghan case which was taken first W. J. Arthur counsel for Condin suggested that another magistrate might deal with the charge.

"I do not think it fair either to the accused or to the court" said Mr. Fair, "that we should go ahead with this case now when you did not reserve judgment in the first case."

The defense counsel wanted to know if it were the practice of the Highway department now to prosecute every time there was a collision on the highway.

The suggestion was characterized by both the magistrate and the Crown Attorney McElderry as foundationless.

Mr. Fair however went on to complain that drivers were brought into court and prosecuted in cases that were only civil matters.

Evidence for the crown was given in the Monaghan case by Fergus Condin, driver of the other car, Provincial Traffic officer McClure, Alf McKee and Bert Delaney. The testimony of the crown witnesses was to the effect that the collision had taken place almost in the exact centre of the road, and liquor could be smelt off the accused's breath.

Monaghan in his own behalf admitted having two drinks some considerable time before the accident and explained the accident by stating that he was blinded by the headlights of the other car.

Magistrate Gee imposed a conviction, sayiny that while it was not a flagrant case of reckless driving there was negligence enough to constitute recklessness.

The Condin case was adjourned.

London Street Dam Closed To Public

Closing of the bridge over the Quaker Oats dam to pedestrians was begun this morning by a group of men who are erecting iron gates. The company notified the city council several months ago that as a matter of safety the main bridge would be closed to the public unless the city constructed a footwalk. The council followed that notice by taking a census of pedestrians and also obtaining estimates by City Engineer Parsons of the cost of a walk to be built along the west side of the bridge. The estimates involved an expenditure the council did not consider to be warranted by the census. No further action was taken by the city, and the company is simply proceeding to close the old crossing from London Street across to Hazlett Street, a short cut from the Nicholls Oval section of Ashburnham down town.

Sting Kills Woman

LIGGONIER, Pa., July 18—(AP)—The sting of a honey bee yesterday killed Mrs. Nancy Hamlin Shaffer, 52, wife of a councilman, in 20 minutes. She was stung in the throat while working in her garden. Dr. C. D. Ambrose said the resulting swelling strangled her.

The Rambling REPORTERS

SOFT DRINK HORSE

A horse with the soft drink habit is one of Peterborough's odd sights this warm weather. But he will take a drink from only one person.

Each day a bread wagon halts in front of Malane's Barber shop on Hunter street and Olive Northey walks to the door of the shop with a bottle of the soft drink in her hand. The animal immediately pricks up its ears, stamps on the pavement. If she does not reach him quickly enough he will often start across the sidewalk to her. He opens his mouth for the drink, downs a whole bottle of it. But he will accept the drink from no one else.

Achievement Day Set For July 20

Annual Girls' Achievement Day Peterborough county members of Girls' Clubs will take place at the County Court House, on Wednesday, it was announced to-day by Miss Greta Pollard, county coach in home economics.

The work is under the Institute Branch of the Department of Agriculture, and Miss Florence Eadie, of Toronto, provincial director, will be present for the day. During the past year members have been studying a Foods Project which they call the "Milky Way," and a Home Furnishing Project, "Cotton Accessories for the Club Girls' Bedroom," results of which will be demonstrated on Wednesday. Judging will take place in the morning, demonstrations in the afternoon. At the session next year's course will be mapped. Girls will be present from branch clubs at Lakefield, Apsley, Buckhorn, Havelock, Peterborough, Zion and South Monaghan. Winners will enter inter-county competition at the Peterborough Fair, and representatives from that contest will compete at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Price of Eggs Firm On Farmers' Market

Eggs were the firm spot on the market on Saturday, prices ranging upward from 25 cents a dozen. The first quotations were around 27 and 28 cents, and apparently quite a few sales were made at that level. The average price for the morning was perhaps 26 cents.

Farmers offered a fair supply of poultry, chickens at 23 cents and hens from 18 cents to 21 cents. Butter was steady at 25 cents. The new crop honey was a little more plentiful ,No. 1 white from sweet clover selling at four pounds for 55 cents.

Vegetables were abundant, especially new potatoes at 25 cents a peck. Sid Hughes of Clarke Township was one of the producers from a distance with Cobblers at 15 cents for 10 pounds.

Montmorency cherries from the Port Hope area sold at 65 cents for six-quart baskets. The offering of huckleberries was only moderate. Bill Saltern of Dummer was asking 15 cents a quart, or $1.25 for eight quart baskets. Red raspberries were of exceptional quality at two quart baseKts for 35 cents; black currants were 25 cents a quart, and gooseberries 10 cents a quart. Lettuce was 5 cents a head.

Peas were 25 cents the six-quart basket. Bert Arnott was again the only producer with locally grown tomatoes. He sold them quickly at 20 cents a pound.

Carrots and beets were three bunches for 10 cents with plenty of them for sale. Green beans were 5 cents a quart.

Some flowers added variety and color to the market. One of the booths that attracted a lot of attention was Herb. Cardwell's Creelman lilies at three blooms for 10 cents. Delphiniums were especially striking.

Saturday's market was largely attended, and although the bulk of the business was wound up by the noon hour, some of the producers on the outdoor section remained until after one o'clock.

New Rash On Sun

PHILADELPHIA, July 18—(AP)—The sun, says astronomer I. M. Levitt of the Franklin Institute, is breaking out in a rash again. Levitt said he counted 200 spots on Old Sol's face yesterday and predicted the number for the year might surpass the number visible during 1937, when a 67-year record was broken.

All Railroad Men

A happy reunion took place at 347 George Street South on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Leggitt. Four generations were present and are shown here. They are James Leggitt, 80, of Claremont, Ontario; his son, J. E. Leggitt of Mount Forest, standing; his grandson, J. S. Leggitt of Peterborough, at left; his great-grandson, Ronald Leggitt, aged two and a half, of Peterborough. The three men have all been railroad men during their lives and Ronald's favorite toy is a train. The oldest, Mr. Leggitt, retired now, helped to build the C.P.R. through to Peterborough in 1884. His son is still a railroad man; his grandson was one, is now employed at the Quaker Oats Company.

SIX DRUNK CHARGES.

There were six charges of drunkenness before Magistrate Gee in police court this morning. Four of the accused pleaded guilty and were assessed the usual $10 and costs and the other two asked and received an adjournment for a week.

WANTED IN COBOURG.

Word was received here this morning from Provincial Constable Menie at Cobourg that Harold Oliver, 19, is wanted there on a charge of attempted arson. Last night a notice was received from the Oshawa police department of the theft of a car from that city.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

Joseph Fontaine and John Callaghan were charged in police court this morning with the theft of a flashlight and cigarettes from the car of M. Wilson, and the case was enlarged until Wednesday. Fontaine was allowed to go until then but Callaghan remained in custody on remand. Chief Newhall stating that he had received a communication from Ottawa in regard to him.

CATCH LIMIT OF FISH

W. Love of Chicago and A. D. King of Toronto caught the limit of bass and muskies at Pigeon Lake over the weekend. Their count was twelve bass and four maskinonge, an entirely satisfactory outing. Mr. Love is spending a holiday at Bridgenorth and Mr. King came down from Toronto for the weekend. Their guides were Sam Fawn and Hiram Taylor, Sr., of Curve Lake.

DREAD ARMY WORM.

One small infestation of the dread army worm has been reported near Lindsay according to Frank Paterson, agricultural representative here. The onslaught is not serious at present and the worms seem full grown, near to the cocoon stage, he said. After the worms reach the cocoon stage they often disappear for as long as an entire decade because they are devoured by insects and parasites, according to Mr. Paterson.

THE CORPS REUNION.

Peterborough ex-servicemen who are planning to attend the corps reunion in Toronto are asked to register at once at either of the two local offices, Gil Downer's, Hunter Street or the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer office. It is essential that those who are going to Toronto should list their names in order to secure their pins and certificates. There will be a big delegation from Peterborough at the reunion.

WILL BE HELD.

On a report from Provincial Constable David Silvester that the Parole Board wanted him held here until he could be taken back for violation of his parole, C. Bridgewater, arrested some days ago on a vagrancy charge after he had left the farm on which he was employed was remanded for a week by Magistrate Gee this morning.

CONTINUE WORK.

The soil survey team from the Ontario Agricultural College, who have been mapping Peterborough county's soil for the past several months, are continuing their work through the entire summer. Already they have mapped large portions of Otonabee, Smith and Asphodel townships and have made preliminary surveys of the entire agricultural portion of the county as well as the northern portion.

ENGINEER ARRIVES.

First signs of activity in the construction of the Bell Telephone Company's new building on the south side of Hunter Street were shown this morning with the arrival of Dave Mitchell, constructional engineer for the contractors, Anglin-Norcross Ontario, Limited, and P. J. Wright, foreman carpenter. Arrangements were made for the building of temporary office quarters, and it was expected that the first excavation would be made by Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

SUSPENED SENTENCE.

Two youngsters, one fifteen, the other thirteen, were arraigned before Magistrate Gee in juvenile court Saturday in connection with the theft of $6 from the Burlington Refinery recently. The older boy pleaded guilty to stealing the money and the younger lad admitted receiving a dollar of the sum, knowing it to have been stolen. Both youngsters were allowed to go suspended sentence. The two are members of large families, seven children in one case and eight in the other.

GIRLS CHARGED.

Said by the police to have been mixed up with Arnold Cameron who caused a lot of excitement here last week by escaping from custody two girls, one of them married, pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge before Magistrate Gee in police court today. The married woman was sentenced to six days imprisonment, dating from her arrest, which meant that she was allowed to go. She promised to get out of town at once. The other girl, 17 was remanded for sentence on the promise of reporting regularly to the authorities.

Fishing Is a Cinch For George Paudash

Possibly all the fish stories that are told in George Robertson's barber shop wouldn't stand the test of an affadavit or other pledge of absolute truth, but it may be that this one is an exception. It is just a brief casual comment, as if it were nothing out of the ordinary, just be an everyday performance if necessary.

"Fishing isn't as good as it might be down at Hiawatha this season," George Paudash related. "I went out the other day and made seven casts, and would you believe I landed only six fish. Any time they run out of fish down at the village they call on me." That one wasn't told for publication, and wait until some of those guides read it. George is going to have a lot of explaining on his hands.

Opening Of Regatta Circuit Wednesday

The first regatta of the Rice Lake Aquatic Association will be held at Gore's Landing on Wednesday, July 20, with four others to follow in succession with a lapse of one week following Civic Holiday.

The list reported to the Examiner is as follows: Gore's Landing, July 20; Hiawatha, Wednesday, July 27; Wallace Point, Wednesday, August 10; Alderville, August 17; and Bewdley, August 24. The prizes to be competed for include five silver cups.

Jack Deyell is president of the Association; Mrs. C. Harris of Gore's Landing is vice-president; and Robert Hancock of Bewdley is secretary-treasurer. The programs of events will begin at 2.30 p.m. daylight saving time.

Grain Fields Stand Firmly Through Rain

Grain crops of the district came through Saturday night's heavy rain without serious damage, farmers reported this morning. Here and there some of the fields of oats showed patches that were lodged, but this was said to be largely due to the fact that with all the moisture and rapid growth this season stalks had become "sappy" and inclined to fall. This condition had been noticed prior to the recent excessive rains, and the total area lodged was said to be not a serious element in the present ripening stage of the harvest. Reports from Douro, Otonabee, and Smith indicated that on the whole the crops were standing up well.

Outline Program For Canadian Corps Re-union

Ex-service men in Peterborough are showing interest in the reunion taking place in Toronto. The event opens on July 25, but a number from here plan to be present for the week-end beginning Saturday, July 30. An outline of the program is given here:

Saturday, July 30:

At 11 a.m.—Parade of color party to the Cenotaph. Color parties will form up at the University Avenue Armouries and will parade to the Cenotaph, where a short service will take place.

Saturday Afternoon. — Canadian Corps March Past. The head of the parade will pas sthe lighthouse on Fleet street at approximately 2.30 p.m. You must fall in by 2.00 p.m. You may have to wait a long time before your unit moves off, but you will be entertained every minute of the time that you are waiting.

Saturday Night.—Unit dinners, 7 p.m. If you have not already let your unit know that you are going to attend the dinner, please co-operate by doing so. The unit dinners are shown in our reunion circular No. 4, and the latest up-to-date list will be published in reunion circular No. 6, which will be available in the course of a few days. It is anticipated that unit dinner tickets will be on sale at the reunion headquarters, 12 Adelaide street east on and after July 11.

Sunday, July 31:

Sunday Morning.—Prospect Cemetery at 10.00 a.m. Service will be held at the Cross of Sacrifice in memory of the men who have died since the war and are buried there, twenty-one hundred in number.

At 11.00 a.m.—Roman Catholic Military Mass in Varsity Stadium.

Sunday Afternoon. — Drumhead service. All troops to be in position at 2.30 p.m. An impressive background will be afforded at this service by the erection of a replica of the Vimy Memorial. This replica will be the actual size of the memorial and will be reproduced as faithfully to detail as it is possible to do. This will provide an opportunity for all those who have not seen the memorial to gain an idea of its size and impressiveness.

Sunday Night.—The concert in the Coliseum at 8.30 p.m. The Canadian Corps Review, "Twenty Years After."

Monday, August 1:

Monday afternoon.—Parade by towns at 2.30 p.m.

Coronation Park—Some time during the reunion period, at a time to be announced later, granite stones, a little brass plate indicating the unit, will be placed at the foot of each tree, showing clearly which unit that tree commemorates. The cost of these stones is $6.50. If your unit has not already sent in its contribution to ensure that there will be a stone representing it, please see that it is attended to.

Parade by Towns—Monday Morning:

You will have an opportunity to show how many ex-service men there are from your particular town attending the reunion. Banners will be allowed in this parade, telling of your town, its population, industries, and anything that particularly pleases you about your home town. Tell everybody about it by appearing in this parade. Banners, of course, will not be allowed in the march past and drum head service. The only colors allowed in the march past and drum head service will be the Union Jack, Regimental Colors and Unit Flags as approved by the committee.

Monday afternoon:

Sports and general entertainment.

Young Smith Farmer Named Grain Judge

Gordon Hancock of Smith Township is establishing a reputation for himself in the district as a grain and seed grower and also as a judge. He has been engaged to select winners in two field crop competitions probably this week. One is the standing field crops of barley entered in the contest sponsored by the Lirdsay Exhibition throughout Victoria County, and the other appointment is to judge fields of oats in Northumberland and Durham for the Orono Fair Board. These competitions are similar to that of the Peterborough Exhibition, except that the grains are different. Peterborough fields of winter wheat were judged last week by representatives of the Department of Agriculture, and the results will be published when the decisions are returned to the secretaory, F. J. A. Hall.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, July 19

Judging by the lunar aspects of this day, there may be difficulties, setbacks, postponements and disappointments, all of which may be counteracted by sagacity, wise counsel and a brave spirit of adventure. Such perplexities, doubts and anxieties may best be routed by some spurt of inspiration, a novel slant or a stroke of genius. In all, be conservative and modest where public contracts may be necessary.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which they may be beset by doubts and difficulties. They may find hard knots to undo by ingenuity and new modes of attack. With care and cleverness, there may be unexpected denouements spelling progress.

A child born on this day, while being clever, original, inventive and possessing a certain amount of adventure in its make-up, at the same time may be sedate and studious.

Garage Owner Recovers Drill

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 18—An electric drill valued at over $125, stolen from W. Wellman's garage here two years ago is believed recovered. The drill was located in a Norwood shop last week.

By co-incidence, an electric drill, similar to Wellman's was taken from the Imperial Oil Co. Peterborough branch, some time ago and two Otonabee youths are charged with the theft. Wellman said he positively identified the drill as his.

Orphan Runaway Returned Home

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, uly 18—Wilbert Adams, 12 year old Toronto boy, who hitch hiked to Hastings over a week ago and caused police here considerable worry, was returned to the city for the second time Saturday.

A local man drove the boy to Toronto Thursday but he refused to stay and hitch hiked back here again, arriving Friday noon.

A lady and man arrived from the Children's Aid Society Saturday to take the boy. According to local police, he put up a terrific struggle before being subdued. He is said to have tossed the car keys away and 15 minutes were required to find them. He then attacked the lady and kicked her.

Officials from the Children's Aid said he would probably be sent to a reform school or similar institution.

GREETINGS BETIMES

WINCHESTER, England—(CP).—Convicted 42 times since 1901 Michael Devaney, 75-year-old tramp, shouted "good luck and Merry Christmas" to the magistrate who sent him to prison for nine months for theft.

No Prosecutor So Cases Are Adjourned

The absence from the city through a death in the family of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., threw a monkey wrench into the docket at the police court this morning and a number of important cases scheduled for to-day had to be adjourned because there was no prosecutor on hand.

Among the cases that had to be adjourned was that of Eric Way of Foxboro, facing charges of drunken and reckless driving on Highways 7 and 30.

W. B. Gordon represented Way and voiced an indignant protest when it was announced that the Crown would be unable to go on because of the absence of Mr. McElderry.

"Apparently everyone else but myself was informed in advance that there would be an adjournment, said Mr. Gordon. "We have six witnesses here from Foxboro and Trenton, including Col. Vanderwater, who have been brought here this morning at inconvenience and loss of time to themselves and we are ready to go on. If I had been notified in time I could have sent word to my client and avoided this situation."

"It is ridiculous," agreed Magistrate Gee. "There is no reason why you should not have been given notice.'

"In order to save time," said Mr. Gordon, "we are willing to enter a plea of guilty to the reckless driving charge if the other is dropped."

"In view of the circumstances I cannot in all fairness consent to dropping the charge of drunken driving," replied Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton.

"I wish I could order costs against the Crown," remarked Magistrate Gee.

The case was finally adjourned until Monday of next week.

Other cases that had to be adjourned included charges of drunken and reckless driving against George Perrin, adjourned for another week, and a charge of breaking and entering and stealing an electric drill from the Imperial Oil Garage against Neill and Clyde Edwards in which there was a remand until August 3 by consent. W. B .Gordon appeared for the latter pair.

Boy Slightly Hurt As Cars Collide

A six-year-old boy slightly injured was the only casualty when two cars collided at the intersection of Reid street and No. 7 Highway Sunday afternoon, but both machines were damaged.

The accident happened when a car owned by William A. Armstrong, 9 Humboldt avenue, Humber Bay, and driven by his eighteen year old daughter Frances was coming into the city along Highway 7 and another automobile driven by H. Robertson, 613 Chamberlen street, was turning out of Reid street into the Chemong Road. The Humber Bay girl thought the highway continued straight on and did not stop, but fortunately both cars were travelling slowly.

The Armstrong family were en route for Trent Bridge to spend a vacation and had to borrow another car to complete their journey. No one in the Armstrong car was injured.

Is It Lawful To Pick Berries On Sunday? Farmers With Big Crop Wait Till Monday

Here's a little problem to try on your ethics. Is it wrong to pick raspberries on the Sabbath Day?

Farmers probably would hesitate about making pronouncement one way or the other but their attitude is eloquently expressed by their practice. To them the picking of berries is a servile work prohibited by the commandment which enjoins the Lord's Day to be kept holy.

Market gardeners and others on the outskirts of the city observed a great crop of berries ripening on their bushes on Sunday, but it didn't occur to them to round up a crew of workers and fill up crates to be rushed to market early this morning.

And while the farmers refrained from this routine labor, scores of people from the city spent Sunday in the wild red raspberry bushes, filling pails and boxes, without any compunction or misgiving about the lawfulness of their act.

So, there's the little problem, and some of the evidence such as it is, and also some of the precedents are quoted, and others are suggested.

"Our bushes were red with berries this morning," Norman Moncrief told the Examiner today, but don't blame him for posing the ethical problem. It was merely an afterthought inspired by the contrast of farmers resting on the Lord's Day while many persons from the city labored at the same kind of work the farmer would not do. Mr. Moncrief simply supplied the information that the raspberry crop broke out in a deep red against the green of the foliage over the week end and that dealers today had such large supplies on hand that they sold to the retailers at a price that can be passed on to the consumer at two quarts for twenty-five cents, and that means four pints for the same price.

Crop Now at Peak

"The people in the city might be reminded that the red berry crop is now at its height," Mr. Moncrief said. "Those who want raspberries for preserving should not put off buying any longer. I don't think the price can go any lower. Most of the berries on the market Saturday sold at two quarts boxed for thirty-five cents. So the drop in ten cents a box, although there were a few at the lower figure on Saturday, is a big advantage for the buyer."

That was the item of crop news about which the Examiner called Mr. Moncrief, and out of it arose the thought of the practice of Ontario farmers, certainly those of the Peterborough district, who adhere to traditional observance of the Lord's Day by avoiding unnecessary work.

Rural Tradition

"Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy," still means to the farmers of Peterborough county that they can't keep on working the same as on Saturday or Monday no matter what city people may do. They are convinced that they wouldn't be any further ahead if they did, and any way there is the rule accepted by the pioneers and observed all down the years without variation. There have been times when the threat of rain prompted some farmers to get a grass or grain crop under cover, and probably not even the most orthodox of their neighbors could find fault with them; but generally farmers hue to the line except in such essential and necessary work as the milking of cattle.

So the question then turns toward the city berry pickers and on the evidence of their actions they apparently see no harm in picking berries on the Lord's Day. To them it is just a diversion, a holiday, escape from the city, to say nothing of providing themselves with fruit that might otherwise go to waste.

CHAPTER 41

Bill walked slowly toward her house—then heard a voice and saw a profile that he instantly recognized.

"Good glo-ory!" Bill exclaimed. "Sid Bromberg!"

With no warning whatsoever, a car full of Hollywood people had arrived at the Dale-Durango ranch about 9 p.m. Ellen had come to the door looking very housewifey. She wore an apron and she had flour on her hands; Concepcion Rivera, her cook, had been teaching her the intricacies of baking a four-layer cake.

"Sid!" she had shrieked, unbelieving, then had greeted the other four with genuine pleasure, too.

There were the Conways, man and wife; and Geneva James and Elwood Loring. All movie folk, all formerly in somewhat close association with Ellen in her picture work. Loring was a dancing instructor who had devised many of Ellen's routines, and both the Conways had acted with her. Geneva James wrote scenarios.

They had waited with some interest for Bill Baron to return, and when he burst in on them the greeting was an hilarious one indeed.

"Baron, I have come with a warrant for you this time," Sid Bromberg declared when they all had become acquainted. "Remember how you pulled your star and six-shooters on me, ha ha?"

Bill grinned. "All right. Whatever you say, Sidney. But I've got henchmen all around out here, I might take to the hills."

"No, no, I'm not the law. I'm the picture business! I told you before I wanted you. I still do. I have a contract here now. You're going into the movies."

Bill didn't reply; he just stood smiling, not quite sure of himself. The others had crowded around. Automatically Bill's eyes sought Ellen's. The other people all were happy, at what they evidently thought would be good news for him. But Ellen, he observed, appeared quite serious.

"What you say, hunh?" Sid went on. "You don't ask what I offer you. I'll pay plenty. You got the looks, my friend. We do a western epic with you, maybe. Geneva, here, she has ideas. How much you want? I pay you—let me see—"

"Never mind, never mind!" Bill drawled, pleasantly. "I'm not sure whether it's a gag or a proposition but it doesn't make any difference now. You're guilty of a breach of etiquette, Sidney; or rather, we are. In the southwest, nobody ever talks business until all the pleasure is done! Especially on a Spanish rancho. And this rancho is Spanish in everything except ownership. Bring in the enchiladas, Ellen, and let's get the hospitality going!"

Amid much laughter they did, indeed, arrange a midnight feast. There was some Mexican food, and a deal of other refrigerator pickings. The guests had insisted that Ellen go on with her cake making—so that they might watch her at it—and by now the cake was ready and fairly creditable. It was a white cake with generous layers and icings of shredded coconut. The gay people devoured it down to the last crumb.

It was 2 a.m. before the guests were escorted to their rooms. Reynita Ybarra, Ellen's secretary and companion, had come in late herself from a date in Nogales, and she came to sleep with Ellen that Mr. Loring might have a private room. Ellen's house, big though it was, had only four bedrooms besides her own suite upstairs. Ellen and Reynita lay talking for quite a while after they retired.

"Sure enough!" Reynita sat up, excited.

"Yes. But it's not so wonderful as it sounds. I think Bill could make good at it; I'm sure he could, in fact. He is a perfect type. He'd be better in he-man parts than Gary Cooper. He could learn to act, but it wouldn't matter a lot, the way Sid could handle him."

"Ellen, I think it's wonderful! Why aren't you thrilled? Or do you—?"

Reynita Ybarra was a smart girl. And while her name and looks and ancestry were Spanish, her rearing had been American all through. She had come to be very close to her employer-friend. She halted her enthusiastic speech now, reached through the darkness to find Ellen's hand and hold it. Ellen cried softly for quite a little while. No more words passed between them that night.

At nine o'clock Bill Barron and Buckshot Brown were on Ellen's front porch beaming like a couple of schoolboys, knocking loudly and demanding to be let in. They had something to tell.

"It's all set!" Bill told Ellen and her guests. "Buckshot and I have doped out a fandango, a fiesta that'll knock your eyes out. We're going to make a celebration for the DD ranch that'll turn the clock back 60 years. How about it, boss?"

"Oh, Bill—!"

"Swell I knew you'd want it. You know this Casa Hermosa hasn't been properly dedicated yet, anyway. With these Hollywood people here, we might as well do it in their honor. Are there any more you want to invite?"

"Yes!" Ellen was beaming at the thought. "Yes! Surely! Oh do lets! Let's make it a real fi—fiesta. A big one. Like old times here. Concepcion has told me something about it. And you too, Uncle Buckshot. Remember?"

The old man shone with happiness.

"F'r 70 year, I reckon, this very spot was social headquarters for th' border," he declared. "Even before th' treaty, when Uncle Sam got Arizona in '48. I heard th' old folk tell about it many a time. Old Durango, he was rich, and he believed in good times."

Everybody wanted to talk at once then, but there was general agreement. And mounting enthusiasm.

With customary efficiency Reynita Ybarra dug out of her files a manuscript history of the old Durango ranch, as much as was recorded of it. She had gotten it from the state university. The university, too, had furnished her with copies of unpublished books on "Arizona's Heritage From Spain" and similar theses.

"Great! Great!" approved Bill. "We'll make it as authentic as we can. Just for old times' sake. And your own pleasure."

Ellen's enthusiasm grew every hour. She thought of a dozen things for Reynita and Bill to do. Bill grinned wryly about noon, and quietly told himself that the cattle business would have to struggle along without him for a while. But he had responsible cowboys on the job.

The arrival of Sid and the others seemed to have revived all of Ellen Dale's old-time craving for excitement. She bubbled and laughed like the girl she had been on the screen, Bill observed. Somehow he didn't like the change, but was too busy to think much of it.

He ate lunch in the big house that day with Ellen and the guests, and right afterward Sid cornered him again about the movie contract. He offered Bill really a fantastic salary for an actor without experience or following, but Sid Bromberg was renowned for discovering screen talent. Bill thanked him and grinned, preferring to regard it as a joke.

The DD fiesta was set for the following week-end. Bromberg, Conway and Loring arranged, through Bill, to go into Sonora meanwhile on a jaguar hunt. The hunt—ostensibly spotted cats, some of them man eaters, are still to be found there, and even occasionally drift into Arizona. "Los tigres" the Mexicans call them, with much fear and awe.

Other Hollywood people had telegraphed or telephoned prompt acceptances to fiesta invitations. By nightfall, eight days in advance, the pleasure had already begun for the DD cowboys could be heard singing and playing in the cookshack and bunkhouse; a contagion of fun was creeping through the air, and that's exactly what a genuine fiesta is supposed to foster.

Bill happened onto Ellen by chance just after nightfall, and they paused to talk for a moment alone, standing by the carreta in her front area. They discussed party plans and guests.

"I'll bet you are glad to see the California folk," Bill said, at last. "You have been made happy by them, I can tell."

"Yes, Bill."

"Sid Bromberg told me he had come positively to take you away, Ellen. He said—he said he didn't want you to go back onto the screen. He was going to marry you instead."

Ellen looked earnestly up at the broad form of her foreman. Finally she answered that, too.

DOROTHY DIX

Men and Women Should Subject Themselves To Thorough Analyses and Determine If They Are Suited To Married Life Before They Go To The Altar.

A LEARNED Judge, after watching divorce trials for a quarter of a century, says: "There should be a law to prevent persons divorced three times from getting married again. Three strikeouts should retire the most ardent and determined seeker after marital bliss."

It should do more. It should convince these misfit marriers that either they are very poor pickers of husbands and wives, or else that they are themselves not adapted to the holy estate. "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again" is not a good matrimonial slogan. Two attempts is really enough. Three should be out. And no repeating.

The trouble is that we cherish the naive belief that everybody is fitted by Nature for marriage and that pulling off a happy marriage is a task so easy and simple that a child or a fool can do it. It never occurs to us that to be a good husband or wife takes any especial talent for the job such as would be required, for instance, for making a success in business or singing in grand opera. So when we go bankrupt in marriage, or are given the hook, we don't reflect that the reason of our failure is generally due to the fact that we have been trying to do something for which we were unfitted by temperament or training. We merely blame the divorce on the party of the other part, and try marriage over again with the same disastrous result.

There are people who have a genius for marrying and who could be happy themselves and make even a grouch or a nagger purr under their hands. But there are other people who have no facility whatever for domesticity, who would mess up any marriage and fight with Romeo or Patient Griselda. There are plenty of worthy men and women who should never marry just because they haven't the gift for it.

Among men who should never marry, for example, are the philanderers. There are many men who know in their souls that they can never be true to any one woman. Every fresh face allures them. Every fluttering petticoat is a signal to them to get up and follow. Life is dull and flat to them if they are not engaged in some affair. They have loved a hundred women. They will love a thousand more, which would make no particular difference if they stayed single. It is only when the philanderer marries and his infidelities shame his wife and break her heart that he commits a crime.

The undomestic man should never marry. There are men to whom freedom is the very breath of life. They must have liberty to come and go as they please, or else they are miserable. To such men home is a prison. Their wives are jailers. Marriage is a ball and chain around their feet.

All right for a man to put on his hat and go down to the club as soon as his dinner is over or stay out all night playing poker with the boys or go off fishing or play golf every Sunday so long as he has nobody's pleasure but his own to consider, but it is pretty tough on the wife who is left to spend her evenings by her lonesome and whose only companion is the cat.

Nor should the stingy man marry. Wives are an expensive luxury. It takes more money to keep a family than it does to keep a yacht. The price of marriage comes high and no man should marry who begrudges the cost. It doesn't make for the peace and happiness of a wife for her husband to be always rowing over the bills and making her feel that he regrets the bad bargain he made in investing in her and the children.

No woman should marry who wants to follow a career, for careers and marriage no more mix than oil and water. The woman who wants to give every ounce of her strength and energy to making her business or her profession a success; who must spend much of her time away from home lecturing or singing or acting or chasing down orders, who must sacrifice herself and all connected with her to her ambitions, should stay single.

She is married to her career and her husband runs a bad second. It doesn't make a happy home for a man to have to pinchhit for a wife who is too busy to attend to the housekeeping and who is too tired and exhausted when she comes home at night to be a gay and interesting companion.

The woman who is celibate by nature should never marry. To her all men are excrescences on the face of Nature that could have been perfectly well omitted; blunderers who are always under foot when one is cleaning up; trouble-makers who track in mud and hang up towels on the floor; monsters who have to be fed on roast beef and potatoes instead of tea and toast. The old maid wife's husband always wonders why he did it and she did it.

Nor should the unadaptable woman marry; nor the born boss; nor the woman who looks upon marriage as domestic slavery. These furnish the grist of the divorce mill, even when they are the best of women, just because they were not fitted for wives.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Several years ago my father-in-law died and my husband, in order to be a kind son and at my suggestion, too, went to stay with his mother until she could get herself together and find some one to live with her as a companion. I have the greatest reverence for mothers, so I didn't mind my husband staying months or even a year, but now it is four years since he went to stay with her and she absolutely refuses to let him return home to his family. My husband is anxious to come home, but he doesn't want to hurt his mother and neither do I, but we both think she is going a little too far. The mother is well off financially. Do you think a son or daughter-in-law should have patience with such a woman? DISGUSTED.

ANSWER:

Certainly not. No mother has a right to separate her son from his wife and children and you and your husband are silly to put up with such treatment. Your husband should just pick up and come home. His mother will find somebody to stay with her if he leaves, but she never will as long as he is weak enough to let her tryannize over him.

Looking Back
On This Date

JULY 18

One hundred years ago, on July 18, 1838, a special judicial commission convened at Niagara to try the Canadian "Patriots" and their United States allies for the raid on the Short Hills the previous month, and especially for the attack upon the lancers at St. Johns. Mr. Justice Jones was the presiding judge; Solicitor General Hagerman prosecuted. The first case tried was that of James Morrow (or Morreau), the Irishman from Illinois, who had no previous connection with Canada, but who had been the leader of the expedition and has issued a flamboyant proclamation promising "freedom to the Canadian people." The grand jury had returned a true bill on the charge of treason felony. Morrow was provided with counsel, D'Arcy Boulton, and stress was laid by the crown upon the fact that although he might have been tried by court martial, it had been thought better and more British to bring him to trial before a jury of the district which he had injured.

After a number of witnesses had been heard, Judge Jones told the jury that Morrow and those leagued with him might have been summarily executed without trial, they being nothing but pirates and outlaws, or they might have been tried and executed by court-martial. The jury was out only two minutes and returned with a verdict of "Guilty." Judge Jones sentenced the prisoner in these words:

"James Morrow, you have been convicted of an offence for which your life is forfeited; you have enterd this province for the purpose of giving liberty, such as you enjoyed in your native country, to the inhabitants; not content with enjoying it yourself you would have forced upon them what they did not require. You might fancy yourself in the performance of a philanthropic act, but you have doubtless ere this found out your mistake. You have discovered that the people of this country desire not to exchange monarchical for republican institutions. Your life was forfeited at the moment of your capture, but you have been preserved to undergo a full and fair trial before an impartial jury. The fact of your guilt, of your having entered this country in a hostile manner and waged war against the queen's government has been made to appear clearly and undeniably."

The prisoner making no reply to the usual question as to why sentence should not be passed, he was ordered to be hanged on July 30. And he was. Many of his companions in the Short Hills raid were soon tried and also sentenced to death, but they were respited by Lord Durham and transported. Morrow was the only one hanged.

He was not a Canadian; he had no stake in this country. He was a mere brigand. Yet his name has been placed on that arch in Niagara Falls as "A Canadian Patriot!" Was there ever such a travesty of history?

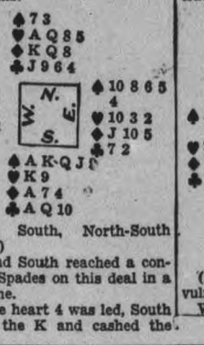
THE TRUMP COUP IDEA

IT IS A GOOD thing for every player to know the principle of the grand coup and its simpler brother, the trump coup. These are based mainly on the idea that, if you have no trump left in the dummy to lead for a finesse against an honor held by the opponent who had the suit bunched against you, the same purpose can be accomplished by having some other suit led through him late in the hand, when he has nothing left but trumps. You therefore get the last crack at him with your own trumps. This principle of play may be employed in various ways to protect you against unfortunate trump breaks.



(Dealer: South, North-South vulnerable.)

North and South reached a contract of 6-Spades on this deal in a rubber game.

When the heart 4 was led, South won with the K and cashed the spades A and K. South was disappointed on the second round to find that East held as many trumps as himself and in addition he had to count on a possible club loser.

He managed to make the contact by switching then to the heart 9, which he won with the Q. On the heart A he discarded a diamond. The diamonds A and K were then cashed and on the diamond Q he tossed a club. Instead of finessing the club then, he went right up with the A and played a club, not caring who won it. No matter what West then played, South, with a Q-J-9 holding in trumps, was able to capture East's 10-8-6, so that South made the contract.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

WHO TURNS ON HEAT, ANYWAY?

It had been very warm all that day, and in the evening, after the children had gone off to bed, Knarf and Hanid, the two shadows, went down into the playroom to sit by the open window and enjoy the cool evening breeze which had come up.

They were surprised, on entering the playroom, to find their old friend, Mr. Punch, sitting shivering on the stage of the little show house in which he lived (for Mr. Punch was an actor, you know, even though he couldn't act a bit until someone pulled his strings). Yes, he was sitting and shivering as though he were in the middle of a blizzard.

He was sitting there shivering.

"But it is warm," Knarf said. "Everybody says so. The children were so hot that Mother wouldn't let them play out in the sun at all."

"Maybe it was warm enough for them. But it's cold for me. The trouble with them is that they've never lived in a place where it's really warm. Now when I was a boy," he added, "I shipped on a sailing vessel as a sailor. I had decided to go and see the world, to visit all the strange countries and peoples wherever they might be. We sailed for many days in a southerly direction across the ocean. The sea was calm. There were hardly any waves. But the farther south we sailed, the warmer it became. Then one afternoon the captain spoke to me. 'Punch,' he said, 'we will soon come to the equator—' "

"What's the equator, Mr. Punch?" the two shadows asked eagerly.

"The equator," answered Mr. Punch, "is the line which goes all around the middle of the earth. It's like a belt. You can see it on all maps. And you can be quite sure that any place on the equator is the warmest place on earth. 'Well,' said the captain, 'I want you to go up that mast and watch out for the equator. The moment you see it I want you to shout down. Because we are going to follow the equator all around, as far as it goes. We are going to visit all the countries along the equator. The first country is on an island. It's called Pipingho. You'll soon spy it on the horizon.'

"And did you, Mr. Punch?"

"Just wait till I tell you," Mr. Punch replied.

Mildred E. Purdy
Weds
Gordon D. Marshall

A very lovely summer wedding was solemnized at two o'clock Saturday afternoon in Mark street United Church, when Mildred Emily, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Purdy of Selwyn, became the bride of Gordon Douglas Marshall, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Marshall of Port Hope. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. W. Rowland.

The bride, who was given away by church to the Lohengrin's Wedding March, which was played by Mrs. (Rev.) Rowland.

The bride who was given away by her father, was charming in a graceful gown of white satin made on princess lines, and trimmed with suede lace and tiny white satin buttons. The Queen Anne collar was caught at V-neck with a brilliant clasp, and the long sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, were tight-fitting from elbow to wrist. A long bridal veil of cloud-like tulle was held in place by orange blossoms, and the graceful bridal bouquet was of Columbia roses and gypsophila.

Miss Eva Hendren of Lakefield was bridesmaid, gowned in a redingote-style frock of pink radium lace over pink silk taffeta. She wore a shoulder-length veil of pink net fastened with white gardenias, pink net mittens, and white slippers. Her bouquet was of pink Briarcliffe roses and blue cornflowers.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of silver; to the bridesmaid and organist silver flower baskets; and to the best man a tie pin.

Amid showers of congratulations and good wishes the happy couple left by motor for a trip to Chicago, the bride travelling in dress of light, blue triple sheer trimmed with dusty pink, large picture hat, and white accessories.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will live in Peterborough.

Presentation
To Harvey Teacher

Earle Chase, who has resigned from his position as teacher at Sandy Lake School, was made the recipient of a brief case, accompanied by a complimentary address, on Friday evening, when all his pupils, their parents and neighbors, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cabert to bid him farewell, and extend their good wishes for the future.

The address, signed on behalf of the community by Messrs. Roy Chesney, W. J. Stockdale, R. Colvert, R. Irwin, C. Ireland, L. Stockdale, E. Dixon and R. Stockdale, was read by Mrs. W. J. Stockdale, and was followed by the presentation by B. E. McKenty. Mr. Chase, in a few brief words, expressed his appreciation for their good wishes, and for the useful gift, and said that the good fellowship which he had enjoyed during the three and a half years in their community had left him happy memories which would last throughout his lifetime.

The evening was spent in music, and the serving of refreshments by the ladies of the school section.

Bride's Father Performs
Wedding Ceremony

Against a background of ferns, roses, lilies and delphiniums the marriage took place in St. Andrew's United Church on Saturday afternoon, July 16, of Dorothy Gladys, only daughter of Rev. E. W. and Mrs. Young, of 439 Rubidge street, to Frederick Arthur Burr of Windsor, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burr of London, Ontario. Rev. E. W. Young, M.A., D.D., father of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in mariage by her cousin, Mr. Douglas Musgrave of Toronto, wore a gown of cream satin made on princess lines with a bodice of real lace, buttoned to the waist at the back with tiny satin buttons. Real lace was also inserted in the sleeves, which ended at the fingers in satin points. The bride wore her mother's wedding veil of hand-embroidered silk tulle, which fell to the ground at the back from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses and Baby's Breath.

Miss Aileen Musgrove of Toronto, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. She was gowned in pale blue taffeta of floor length with a close-fitting bodice and full skirt, and wore a Juliet cap of matching taffeta. She carried a shower bouquet of Briarcliffe roses, and wore a heart-shaped silver locket, gift of the groom.

Dr. Percy M. Young of London, brother of the bride, was the best man, and Mr. Stanley Burr, brother of the groom, and Messrs. Arthur and Alex Young, brothers of the bride, acted as ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Manse, home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Young received in a gown of black lace with black and white accessories, and wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Burr, who received with her, was in navy blue sheer with short matching coat, and blue and white accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Afterwards the bride and groom left on an extended trip via Toronto to New York, the bride travelling in orchid flowered georgette, white polo coat, and white accessories. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Burr will live at 1440 Gladstone avenue, Windsor.

McColl—Couch

A wedding of local interest took place in St. George's Church, Peterborough, on Saturday evening, July 9, when Rena Rose Mary, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Couch, Loon Lake, became the bride of John Alexander, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John McColl, Apsley. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. S. Gault. The bride was charmingly gowned in a toe-length gown of white satin with lace bolero white crepe hat, gloves and pumps, and carried a bouquet of pink, white and blue flowers.

Miss Vera Stephens, who attended the bride, wore a white sheer chiffon dress trimmed with blue, white accessories and carried a bouquet matching the flowers carried by the bride.

After a short honeymoon at Clear Lake, Mr. and Mrs. McColl will live in Apsley.

Cragg—Clare

MARMORA, July 18. — The following report of the wedding of Miss Florence Gertrude Clare, B.A., daughter of Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Clare of Port Credit will be of interest to Marmora folk since the bride lived for three years in the village and was most popular with all classes:

The marriage of Miss Florence G. Clare, B.A., daughter of Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Clare of Port Credit, to Rev. Arthur B. Cragg, son of Harry Cragg and the late Mrs. Cragg of Calgary, was solemnized on Saturday, July 2, in the historic village church of Chessington, Surrey, England. Dr. John Line of Emmanuel College, Toronto, assisted by Rev. D. R. Evans, rector of the parish, performed the ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by A. Midford, wore a long white satin gown made on princess lines with cowl neck. Her veil of silk net was formed in a halo around the face. She carried a hand-embroidered net handkerchief which had been carried by her grandmother and her mother at their weddings. Her flowers were American Beauty roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by Miss Louise Midford, gowned in blue net with a coronet of blue and rose flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The wedding luncheon was served at Fleetwood, Chessington, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. A. Midford, uncle and aunt of the groom.

Included among the guests were Mrs. Emily Cragg Zbinden of Switzerland, Mr. and Mrs. W. Moggridge and Mr. and Mrs. Don Misener of London, England, formerly of Toronto, Dr. Line and Mr. and Mrs. J. Moffat of Toronto.

Rev. and Mrs. Cragg motored to Canterbury, and after spending several weeks touring Europe, will return to take up residence at Northport, Ontario, where Mr. Cragg has been appointed pastor of the United Church.

We Noticed

....Someone wearing a cleverly hand-knitted one-piece dress of cool, natural cotton. The only color notes were the bag...also knitted...and the off-face, halo type summer felt the shade of wood violets.

✧ ✧ ✧

✧ ✧ ✧

....A trio of girls in up-to-the-minute sports outfits. One in olive green corduroy trousers and rust and green plaid jacket; two, in yellow slacks, smartly cut, and a trim brown bolero worn over a yellow pullover sweater; three, coolly attired in white slacks and tailored shirt, blue flannel jacket and white sailor cap.

✧ ✧ ✧

....For bicycling, a comfortable pullover of light-weight wool jersey in navy blue and a matching culotte skirt of summer-weight flannel, made an ideal outfit. Cashmere anklets, sneakers and a colorful kerchief, tied peasant fashion to keep the hair in place, are practical accessories.

Blom-Steenburgh Nuptials at Havelock

"Y.W." Pools Is Popular Spot

The 'Y' pool was a popular spot Saturday afternoon during the Junior sports hour, and the pool was crowded with a number of enthusiastic youngsters who may some day be champion swimmers. The Silver Finnettes will give a lovely demonstration of swimming and diving tonight (Monday) to which all the girls are invited to attend.

Winners of the junior sports hour competitions were as follows: In the 10 years and under, for speed and diving—Joan Foster, first, Nancy Sootheran, second. In the 12 years and under, Irene Kendry, first in speed, Iris Forbes, second. Angeline DeCarlo was first in diving, and Iris Forbes second.

In the 14 years and under—Doris Fanning was first in speed and Jean DeCarlo second. Jean DeCarlo was first in diving, and Doris Fanning second.

Now Is The Time For Wise Shopping

This late in the season girls who shop for clothes to wear in town or country look for "classics"—the kind that will be useful next summer.

You don't see a smart shopper who waited until now to buy an active sports ensemble getting "too different" slacks in a high-fashion print or anything else that is definitely labelled 1938 in the minds of all and sundry.

No, indeed. Slacks she buys at this point will be of plain flannel in a solid color that always has been and always will be smart and popular. If she orders a sweater for her August vacation, it will be a classic pullover or cardigan that will be just right for country week-ends for years to come.

Right now, simply cut shorts, with shirt, bolero jacket and full skirt to match, would be a good investment. Natural hopsacking, natural linen and natural cotton crash slacks and shirts are something to consider too.

Wise Sales Shopping

The woman who never has to say "I can't go—I have nothing to wear," usually turns out to be an individual who watches late-in-the-season sales at good stores and buys classics" then—content to put them away for months if necessary.

Watch for bargains in beautifully tailored slacks and shirts of flannel. There are stunning gray ones with a pin stripe of deeper gray, and dusty rose ones with pin stripes in natural or wheat that you may like better than plain navy or gray or beige.

If you need another dress for town, a navy black sheer with spid and span white collar and cuffs would be a better choice than a print. Somehow, one seldom looks smart in figured fabrics after the middle of August. September may be hot, but there will be a look of fall about you even in the midst of a heat wave. And you'll be happier in a dark solid color than in a springlike print.

If the dark, short-sleeved frock you get now happens to have a long-sleeved jacket and is in a rather heavy sheer, you'll be able to wear it next fall and winter. Don't let thoughts of all keep you from buying something which will be comfortable and flattering the rest of the summer, but if your budget is limited, it's pretty wise always to keep the folowing season in mind when shopping for things to wear during the present one. Especially if you are what is known as a late-in-the-season buyer.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY
Home Jellied Veal Loaf (see note)
De Luxe Potato Salad
Hot Buttered Finely Chopped New String Beans
Chilled Cantaloupes Halves filled with Red Raspberries or Vanilla Ice Cream
Iced Tea

NOTE: We are majoring on veal this month because of its low cost. The nice part of this loaf is that it is not entirely ground—many of the sections of meat that hold together after boiling are left intact—others that are not sightly are ground. Have the butche select you a shank of veal weighing about 4½ to 5 lbs. On this there will be about 2 lbs. of lean meat. Have him saw through the bone in 2 or 3 places. Wipe it well with a clean cloth and submerge in large pot of cold water, with ½ sliced onion, and slowly bring to boiling point, then reduce heat and cook at simmering point for from 3 to 4 hours—when meat will fall away from bones. Drain meat and bones from water and put liquor back on to boil down to 1½ cups while you are removing all meat from bones, keeping choice pieces and long strands intact and forcing small bits through meat chopper. Discard bones and gristle. In the bottom of enamel or tinned metal mould place row of sliced hard cooked eggs alternately with choice pieces of veal, then sprinkle all with finely chopped parsley, lay on more veal, then sprinkle over minced portion. Season liquor with salt and pepper and pour it over all, knocking mould on table to make liquor flow through to bottom. Press down with plate or saucer, putting weight on top to keep meat from floating and put away to chill. When ready turn out on platter surrounded with choice lettuce leaves, and garnish with sweet gherkins. This must be sliced with very sharp knife.

MONDAY (Semi-Vegetarian)

Peterborough Girls Guests at Toronto

Miss Marguerite M. Rome and Miss Mary Harstone were invited guests of Colonel and Mrs. F. H. Deacon who entertained on Saturday, (July 1) afternoon at their home, "Glenhurst," Elm Avenue, Toronto, at a lawn party for the Toronto Conservatory of Music Summer School and members of the Conservatory faculty and staff.

The guests were received on the lawn by the host, who is chairman of the board of governors of the Conservatory, and Mrs. Deason. With them were Sir Ernest MacMillan, Principal of the Conservatory, and Lady MacMillian.

Other members of the board of governors and their wives attending the reception included Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Plant, Col. and Mrs. H. L. Edmonds, and Mrs. R. R. Matthews.

Marquees on the lawn sheltered the tea-tables and multi-colored umbrellas dotted the grounds. Miss Marion Ferguson, honorary registrar at the Conservatory, and Miss Mabel Henderson, superintendent of residences, poured tea.

Many members of the Conservatory faculty attended and more than 100 other guests, including those attending the Summer School, were entertained.

A Canada-wide and international touch was noted in the list of guests who came from as far west as Duncan, B.C.; from Halifax in the east; Noranda in the north; and from Florida in the south.

The lawn party marks the highlight of the many social and musical events which have been arranged for those taking the special course in music this summer at the Conservatory.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT, if you are cross, lifeless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure.

Lewis Draws Up Congress "Blacklist"

WASHINGTON, July 18—(AP).—United States Labor's Non-Partisan League, headed by John L. Lewis, committee for industrial organization chieftain, put 40-odd Congress members on a "blacklist" today and marked them for defeat.

The opposition, it was indicated, was based chiefly on the candidates' stand on the wage-hour bill. The list included a majority of the United States House of Representatives' rules committee which kept that measure pigeon-holed for many months.

It was this committee, too, which spiked Lewis' attempt to force through Congress in the closing hours of last session a contractor "blacklisting" bill.

The list accentuated also the split, politically as well as on unionization views, between the committee for industrial organization and the American Federation of Labor.

It included names of several men whom the A.F.L. has endorsed. Among these were Senators Adams (Dem., Colorado) and Lonergan (Dem., Connecticut) and Representatives Sumners (Dem., Texas) and Lamneck (Dem., Ohio).

The league, spokesmen said, has rated Congressmen "A," "B," "C," and "D," according to their Labor views.

At the same time the league's "blacklist" was disclosed, E. L. Oliver, executive vice-president, also named over several Senators and others whom the league accord an "A" rating because of their Labor records.

The classifications of Senators followed closely in most cases the ratings as to "Liberals" and "Conservatives" reputedly made by administration advisors. Oliver conceded there was a close parallel but said the league was primarily concerned with Labor records of candidates while the administration considered primarily loyalty to its leadership.

Bombing Hospitals

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18 (AP)—Dr. Leo Eloesser, prominent San Francisco surgeon who served seven month with the Spanish government medical corps, today charged Insurgent planes bomb and strafe hospitals "as they would a trench."

"I have seen planes dive on hospitals, dro pbombs and fire machine guns killing, shocking or wounding doctors, nurses and patients," said the 72-year-old surgeon who returned home yesterday.

RHEUMATIC PAIN AGES YOU

A pitiful sight to see him looking years older than he really is. But in most cases this is unnecessary. What causes Rheumatic twinges? Damp, Cold? No. The weather only aggravates what is already there. The cause of Rheumatic ailments, Neuritis, Lumbago, Sciatica, is often Uric Acid in your system. Uric Acid forms crystals—hard, sharp, very painful. Uric Acid is caused by congested waste matter that poisons your body. And within that poisoned body is a sluggish liver.

Now Fynnon Salt helps stimulate the liver. The combination of Sodium, Potassium and the elements of Lithium in Fynnon Salt works through your system to clear out poisons and help dissolve Uric Acid crystals. With the cause of the trouble removed you are soon fit again. Large bottle of Fynnon Salt, 75c at all druggists'. 33

Movie Director Sues For $250,000 And Gets 6 Cents

Los Angeles, July 18

JAMES CRUZE, Motion Picture Director, who sued McFadden Publications for $250,000, allegedly libel, won vindication — and six cents.

"I find that the defendent intended no reflection on Mr. Cruze's character or ability," Superior Judge Benjamin J. Scheinman said yesterday, in signing the judgment. "For this reason, I render nominal damages in his favor to vindicate him, if any vindication is necessary.

Cruze complained that a magazine article implied that he had become impoverished and had lost his professional ability. His attorneys, however, agreed to compromise on the six-cent settlement.

As Hughes and His Crew Touched New York Soil Again

Back at Floyd Bennett Airport, New York City, after an historical flight around the world in less than four days, Howard Hughes and his four companions alight from their giant plane as a tremendous throng surges about their ship. Four of the five flyers are shown here. Hughes is wearing the hat. In foreground is Radio Engineer Richard Stoddart; behind him, also smiling, is Edward Lund, engineer mechanic. In the doorway, back of Hughes, is Thomas Thurlow, navigator.

Rome Takes Gayda As Duce's "Voice"

ROME, July 18—(AP).—When people want to know what Premier Mussolini may do next, they read Virginio Gayda, editor of Il Giornale D'Italia, generally regarded as the newspaper sopkesman for Il Duce.

Italian and foreign observers have found out that while Gayda may not reveal all that is in Mussolini's mind on any particular day, a fairly good idea of his policy may be obtained by following Gayda from day to day.

Fascist officials deny he is Il Duce's mouthpiece, but usually add, "but of course, he's a very sound and competent journalist; quite reliable."

When Mussolini has something of prime importance to announce, he usually says it in a speech. Or, being a newspaperman himself, he writes an article for his Milan newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia.

Gayda is not personally close to Mussolini. He sees him perhaps a dozen times a year. But he is in daily contact with Foreign Ministre Count Ciano, who is in daily contact with Il Duce.

Gives Ciano Ideads

Gayda, it is said, frequently suggests the line of an editorial to Ciano in the morning. Ciano sees Mussolini at 11 o'clock. Mussolini approves or disapproves it, adds or subtracts ideas, and Ciano passes the word on to Gayda. Gayda is a rapid writer, and by 1.30 in the afternoon a lengthy editorial, occupying the main position in the paper, is on the streets.

Born in Rome in 1885, Gayda was a foreign correspondent for Turin and Milan newspapers for years; working in Germany, France, Switzerland, Russia and the Balkans. He married a Russian woman. The Giornale d'Italia, once a leading Liberal organ, was acquired by pro-Fascist interests when Mussolini suppressed the opposition press. Gayda has been its director since 1926.

Gayda's political philosophy might be summed up something like this: Mussolini is always right; Fascist policy is wise, benevolent, far-seeing and just; Italy wants peace but it is prepared to unloose war to protect her interests and honor.

Robins vs. Snake

FORT ERIE, July 1 (CP).—G. F. Cady, resident here, witnessed a battle of the species in his backyard the other day. A garter snake attacked and captured a young robin. Within a few minutes the chirping of the robin attracted 15 others who made a mass attack on the snake. When their efforts seemed futile, Mr. Cady's son, George killed the snake and release the robin.

Bluefin Sportsmen Draw First Blood

YARMOUTH, N.S., July 18—(CP)—Cry of "tuna! tuna!" rang out along the swells on Soldier's Rip yesterday and when the boats sailed home the masthead of the vessel occupied by Townsend Martin, New York sportsman, announced the first blue fin of the year had been landed.

Although four of the monster fighters were hooked on a rod and line yesterday, Martin drew first blood of the 1938 season when after a three-hour battle he landed a 470-pound tuna.

Meanwhile at Liverpool preparations were underway for the international tuna matches.

A patrol boat whistle at dawn on Aug. 27 will send 18 big game fishermen, representing three nations seaward on a hunt for the biggest and best of the Atlantic bluefins.

Angling teams of the United States Cuba and the British Empire will enter the three-day contest for the Sharpe trophy won by the British team at the first international match off Wedgeport, N.S., last year

The anglers won't be allowed to use lines heavier than the 36-thread lines they carried at Wedgeport a year ago. Tapered lines and steel rods are barred too.

Fishing from power boats will not be permitted. Anglers must use dories, though the power craft will stand by. Teams will be limited to six men. In 1937 they had seven.

YOUNG'S POINT

The friends of Miss Aileen Young, daughter of F. M. Young and the late Mrs. Young, who is attending Summer School at Guelph, will be pleased to know that a great honor was conferred on her recently when she was made president of the House. She was chosen out of 150 girls, and she was also elected convenor of the social activities.

Since the first of July the fishing has been especially good. Splendid catches have been made by Mr. and Mrs. J. Belcher of Dayton, Ohio; also other guests at Lakeview House, Messrs. Edward Salawony, Robert T. McKee, Bridgeville, Pa., S. Brierly, Toronto, L. Davidge, Toronto, A. Wilkinson, Toronto.

Congratulations are extended to Edgar Moore and Clare Johnston, who were successful in passing the entrance exams.

Rev. E. C. Moore and Mrs. Moore were called to Howell, Michigan, on Sunday owing to the death of an old parishioner of that place.

Tax Rate Raised For Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, July 18—Lakefield's tax rate for 1938, was set at 42 mills, which is the highest rate since 1934, when the council held their regular meeting in the Memorial Hall. The rate for 1937 was 32.8 which means a jump this year of 9.2 mills.

Reeve Chas. S. Tanner, and Councillors W. J. Hendren, G. D. Scriver, C. K. Armstrong and D. B. Millar were present.

Mrs. S. Higgins and Miss M. Sanderson, were present, and as representatives of the Women's Institute requested permission to make certain charges in the kitchen of the Memorial Hall at the expense of the Women's Institute. The matter was referred to the chairman of the property committee.

It was moved by Councillor C. Armstrong and seconded by Councillor G. D. Scriver that Frank Dralling's services being no longer required, that he be asked for his resignation the same taking effect June 30, 1938.

Correspondence was received from the following sources, and placed on file: Lakefield School boards, re estimates for 1938; Lakefield Public Library, re estimates for 1938; Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton Tourist Association, re payment of grant; County clerk, re county rate and indigent patients; Hall, Hall and Stevenson, re village islands; Porter Co., re concession lease.

Bylaw number 801 received its several readings, was passed and the reeve and clerk were authorized to sign and seal the same thereby setting the tax rate for 1938 at 42.0 mills per dollar.

Tiff Over Girl Leads To Murder

Gun Stops Mob 3 Hrs. But Coroner Makes Arrest Alone

COCHRANE, Ont., July 19.—(CP)—After Harold Johnston was shot down in nearby Hooker Creek last night, Louis Lee held a crowd of villagers at bay for three hours with a rifle before giving himself up to Chief Coroner E. R. Tucker, M.D., of Cochrane.

Johnston was shot on the doorstep of his own home, 50 yards away from Lee's house. He and his mother had just returned from a drive with Lee's daughter, Doris.

Lee was arrested only after the coroner had argued with him, at a distance, for peaceful surrender. When threats were no longer forthcoming, Dr. Tucker walked over to the Lee door, opened it and walked in. In a few minutes he came out again followed by Lee. The coroner was carrying a rifle.

Lee was taken to Matheson jail and held on a charge of murder. No date has yet been set for an inquest. Lee is expected to appear in court at Cochrane later today.

Police said Lee had objected to his daughter, who was married five months ago, being seen in Johnston's company.

When Doris got into a truck with Johnston and the latter's mother last night Lee ordered the girl down from the cab seat. She refused and the three drove away.

On their return to the Johnston home, Lee was waiting. Words were exchanged between Lee and Johnston and Lee allegedly ran to his house, brought out a rifle and shot the younger man.

2 Fisher Children Perish In Fire

EASTERN HARBOR, N.S., July 19. (CP).—Fishermen in this Scatarie Island village prepared to-day for the burial of three children burned to death when fire swept their home yesterday, causing fatal burns to their mother, Mrs. James Parsons.

As neighbors found shelter for the five surviving children, their father lay in a Glace Bay hospital, 30 miles away, being treated for serious burns suffered when he tried to save the three tots from the flaming cottage.

Dazed by the tragedy which struck in this hamlet of eight families on Cape Breton's east coast, neighbors were unable to say how the fire started.

Twenty minutes after discovery of the blaze, the fisherman's cottage had become the pyre of the three children. William, eight, Joseph, six, and Susie, two.

A few minutes after being admitted to a Glace Bay hospital, Mrs. Parsons succumbed. Her husband was burned badly about the face and was unable to see or speak.

Four other children who were absent at the time returned last night to find their home in ruins.

The tragdy struck while the island's eight families were preparing for a celebration in honor of a fisherman who had won a boat race at nearby Main-a-Dieu a week ago.

Cuba produced 2,976,000 tons of sugar in the last fiscal year.

Lad Delivers Papers Containing Story Of Brother's Death

Toronto, July 19.

ALLEN ROBINSON, 16, did not smile last night when customers greeted him as he delivered evening editions of a Toronto newspaper. In the paper was the story of his brother's death just a few hours before. The brother, Peter, 14, was electrocuted as he attempted to repair an elevator.

Allen Robinson told his newspaper dealer nobody else knew his route and so he would deliver the papers himself.

Sidley Inquest On July 26 May Clear Case

TORONTO, July 19.— (AP).—Amid reports that bank assets of W. Perkins Bull have been tied up by government investigators, the mysterious Mabelle Horlick Sidley case moved to-day toward what was expected to be the first public hearing of details of her death—an inquest scheduled for July 26.

Reports that investiagtors under the Ontario Succession Duty Act had tied up Bull's bank accounts and deposit boxes, preventing him from making any financial transactions, remained unconfirmed. Bull, at whose home Mrs. Sidley died July 6, declined to make a statement.

The succession duty investigation was launched last week following announcement that the Toronto lawyer and historian was one of the chief beneficiaries in Mrs. Sidley's will, which disposed of an estate valued variously at from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000.

At his Rosedale home Bull refused to discuss reports that he had been instructed to appear for a detailed examiantion by the succession duty branch of the treasury department some day this week.

Premier Hepburn initiated an aggressive campaign to collect succession duties four years ago and at this year, the government amended the Act to give investigators wide powers in the examination of estates.

Succession duty collections for the last three years have averaged nearly $20,000,000 annually, constituting one of the treasury's richest sources of income. Scores of "closed" estates were re-opened and additional duties paid to the government.

Safety Boxes Sealed.

Seeking to establish what part of the Sidley estate was in Ontario, government investigators last week sealed safety deposit boxes held in Toronto banks under Mrs. Sidley's name. It was presumed the government sought permission of the will executors to open the boxes.

Police, concerned with an investigation into Mrs. Sidley's death, planned to summons more than 20 witnesses for the inquest. Only summonses delivered so far were those to Bull and his son, Thomas Henry Bull, who left a liner bound for England and returned home.

Other chief witnesses will include pathologists conducting an autopsy at the request of Mrs. Sidley's son, William of Racine, Wis. Their reports were expected to be completed this week.

A New Hero

Add to the galaxy of transatlantic heroes the name of Douglas Corrigan, 31-year-old mechanic-flyer, of Santa Monica, Cal. Corrigan amazed the aviation world by taking off quietly from New York and landing at Dublin, Ireland, 28 hours and 13 minutes later. Flying the same nine-year-old plane in which a week previously he had made a non-stop flight from Long Beach, Cal., to New York, Corrigan landed on the other side of the ocean unperturbed by the fact few would dare fly even for a short distance such an ancient plane.

Rumanians Will Mourn Marie For Six Months

BUCHAREST, July 19.—(AP). — The death of their mother, the dowager Queen Marie, brought at least temporary reconciliation today between King Carol of Rumania and Nicholas Brana.

The King summoned his brother —the former Prince Nicholas, shorn of his titles and in exile in Italy since April 26, 1937, for marrying a commoner—to attend the funeral of the Queen. Her Majesty died Monday of an unusual form of cirrhosis of the liver at the age of 62.

King Carol warned Brana, however ,that he must leave Rumania immediately after the ceremonies.

A solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Miron Christea, Prime Minister and Patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox Church, at the cemetery at Sinaia, seat of Queen Marie's castle where she died. The mass marked the beginning of six months' mourning.

A Royal train is to convey the body Thursday to Bucharest, where it will lie in state Thursday and Friday in Cotroceni Palace, the Queen's former residence in this capital.

A special funeral train will take the remains to Kurtea De Argesch on Sunday for interment beneath a 16th century cathedral cloister, where a vault next to that of her husband, King Ferdinand, has been prepared for her. Ferdinand died in 1927.

Special cheap railroad fares will be instituted to enable poor people to visit Bucharest for farewell to their beloved Queen.

Music was forbidden throughout Rumania, amusement places were closed until after the funeral and masses were conducted throughout the country.

Father Urges Lashes For His Son But No Jail Term

Hamilton, Ont., 19.

WILLIAM FORRESTER suggested in court today his son receive lashes instead of a jail term so he would not be "contaminated" by contact with criminals. Raymond Forrester, the son, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a golf club from the Hamilton Golf and Country Club. Sentence was reserved until Saturday.

'Peg Sportsman Wife, Son Tied, Robbed

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP).—A. C. Tarn, wealthy Winnipeg turfman, and his wife and son were bound and terrorized last night by two masked gunmen who escaped with $585 after threatening to kidnap the son for ransom.

The robbers spent 30 minutes at the suburban Lake Zurich cottage occupied by the Tarns during the Arlington Park racing season in search for more money.

Tarn, 46, owns a stable of horses now running at Arlington Park. He cashed a cheque for $500 at the track yesterday and it was believed the robbers saw it and trailed him.

Upon their entrance, the robbers said, "We want the dough." They forced Mr. and Mrs. Tarn and their 19-year-old son, Clifford, into a rear bedroom, made them lie on the bed and then tied them with neckties and hosiery. One stood guard while the other searched the cottage and found $585.

After a whispered conference one of the robbers turned to the son and said, "Get ready to come with us." Turning to Tarn he added: "Unless you give us more money, we'll kidnap your son for ransom."

Tarn said he told the robbers, "You'll have to do it then, because there isn't another cent in the house."

The gunmen held a second conference that lasted five minutes. Then they walked out. The Tarns quickly broke their bonds and notified police.

Hepburn's Plane Totes Dope To Save Horses

WINNIPEG, July 19—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn's holiday airplane journey across Western and Northwestern Canada to-day turned into a service mission as the big twin-motored plane piloted by Jimmy Towne took off from Stevenson field here for Regina with about 400 pounds of brain disease medicine for horses.

Moose Jaw authorities, it was learned here last night, sent a rush order for medicine to combat encephomyelitis, the brain sickness which was reported to have caused numerous horse fatalities in Saskatchewan during the week-end.

Manitoba Government officials who supplied the medicine had asked Premier Hepburn's party to take it by plane to Regina, 360 miles west of Winnipeg, from where it will be rushed the remaining 40 miles to Moose Jaw.

The party is expected to arrive at Regina at about 1.30 p.m. E.D.T.

Calling on Gardiner.

Premier Hepburn plans to visit the farm of Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, during a brief stopover in the Saskatchewan capital. Then Pilot Towne will take the party to northern mining fields and eventually to the Klondyke area of the Yukon where the Ontario Liberal Leader expects to visit the old haunts of "Dangerous Dan McGrew."

The 8,000-mile holiday trip began during the week-end and after a flight over Western Ontario the big plane landed at Stevenson Field, Winnipeg, Sunday night.

Yesterday Premier Hepburn, Mr. Bickell and several others visited the farm areas south of Winnipeg.

FUNDED DEBT

HALIFAX—(CP).—Halifax's net bonded debt, representing all debts except sinking funds and self-supporting utilities, was $7,978,301 on January 1, 1938, or a net bonded debt of $134.60 for each resident of the city.

Richmond, Ont., July 19.

THREE armed men held up the staff of Bank of Nova Scotia here to-day and escaped with a sum of money. The amount taken could not be ascertained immediately.

Provincial police at Ottawa and Perth were notified at once and officers set off in pursuit of the bandits who escaped in an automobile.

A bank official gave a tentative estimate of the loss at $12,000.

Starlings Assail Army Worms Cheer Farmers

TORONTO, July 19 (C.P.). — An old Ontario pest, the maligned black starling, may be of some use after all, farmers are beginning to suspect. Despised by fruit farmers because the birds eat the fruit, they are seen as a new hope by grain farmers whose fields are being threatened by the destructive army worm.

In Oxford County farmers report great swarms of starlings are settling down in infested fields to feed on the worms. But the presence of the birds indicates the presence of the worms so they are not entirely welcome.

One of the greatest grain and hay crops in years in Calvin Township, North Bay district, is threatened. Farmers are unitin gto fight the worms in the Corners district there.

The pest has moved south from Perth Township into Oxford and corn on several West Oxford and Zorra Township farms has been attacked. It is hoped there, however, that other crops there will be ready for harvest before great damage is done.

Cutting Grain Green.

Dozens of Bruce County farmers have sought assistance from Agricultural Representative George R. Patterson at Walkerton in their fight against the worms. Grain is being cut for green feed in an attempt to halt the advance. A spraying solution approved by experts at the Ontario Agricultural College is being used with some success.

W. M. Coburn, York County representative, led a bee of 100 farmers yesterday on the farm of William Brodie near Markham. For hours, they filed through a 28-acre field of barley and oats spraying poisonous mash over the grain. The bee was the fourth in a fortnight in that district in the fight against the worms.

One Bruce farmer reported he attempted to stop the spread of worms from an infested field by ploughing a border about the area. So thick were the worms, however, that the plough greased up and made it almost impossible to dig a furrow.

France In Blaze Of Splendor Hails British Rulers On Historic State Visit

Paris Echoes To Salute Of 101 Guns As Nation Of 102 Million Welcomes Monarch Of 500 Million

PARIS, July 19 (AP).—A booming salute of 101 guns welcomed King George and Queen Elizabeth today on their arrival for a historic visit of State to France.

The King, sovereign of an empire of nearly 500,000,000 people, came with his Queen by boat and train from London to this capital and was greeted by President Albert Lebrun, titular chief of State for 102,000,000 people.

The visit of the British sovereign was designed to reaffirm—as did a similar visit by King George V. in 1914—the common front of two of the world's greatest empires.

Tonight a State reception was held at President Lebrun's Elysee Palace in honor of the British monarchs, first of the major ceremonies of the four-day visit to emphasize the friendship of the two great democracies.

Outside the palace all Paris celebrated. The day was proclaimed a holiday, British and French flags garlanded the capital, fireworks blazed and crowds danced in the streets to the music of orchestras and bands.

The royal party arrived at the Little Bois de Boulogne Station in the aristocratic northwest corner of Paris, a square, gray-stone structure under whose green cupola visiting royalty traditionally descends.

LeBrun Extends Welcome.

As the royal train arrived, the King and Queen, smiling broadly, stepped to the platform and shook hands with President and Madame LeBrun. The King wore the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet. The Queen was all in white.

Marines lining the platform presented arms, while a marine band played "God Save the King" and then the "Marseillaise."

The Royal Standard and the French Tricolor ran up on gilded masts. From a huge cage, concealed banks of flowers, 10,000 white doves were released as Their Majesties appeared, a symbol of Franco-British aspirations for peace.

King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived at Boulogne this morning from London and came to Paris over 120 miles of carefully guarded rails which became, in effect, their private line for the occasion. All traffic was stopped and stations shut an hour before their passage. Troops, mobile guards, gendarmes and police guarded the entire route.

All Cabinet Presented.

Premier Edouard Daladier and his entire Cabinet were presented to the Sovereigns by President Lebrun, after which the King inspected the marine guard.

Then the Queen took the arm of the President, Madame Lebrun took the King's arm, and the party entaered automobiles for a three-mile ride through Paris to the Foreign Ministry on the Quai d'Orsay, the visitors' home during their four-day Paris stay.

Throngs along the route were estimated at more than 2,000,000, shouting "Long Live the King!" and "Long Live the Queen!" as the motor cars, surrounded by mounted Spahis in brilliant red, white and blue uniforms and Republican Guards in flashing gold helmets, went by.

Japs Redouble Protests To Moscow

TOKYO, July 19 —(AP)—Instructions to make a new and stronger protest to Soviet Russia over alleged seizure of Manchoukuo territory were telegraphed tonight to the Japanese Embassy in Moscow, coinciding with a Tokyo demonstration demanding war on Russia.

Japan charges that Soviet troops have occupied territory of Manchoukuo, Japan's protectorate, near Changkufeng, close to the junction of the boundaries of Manchoukuo, Russian Siberia and Japanese Korea.

Japan already had protested the alleged invasion, while the Manchoukuo Government at Hsinking had sent a stiff note directly to Russian border forces demanding speedy withdrawal from the disputed area. (In Moscow Russian officials, declaring Soviet troops had merely taken over territory belonging to Russia, refused to take the matter seriously.)

In Tokyo 25 Japanese, carrying heavy canes and wearing arm bands of an extreme Nationalist Society, demonstrated before the Soviet Embassy.

"Get out of Manchoukuo or we will throw you out," some yelled, referring to recent reported clashes on the Manchoukuo-Siberia frontier.

They were not permitted to enter the Embassy grounds.

Fire Almost Circles B.C. Settlement

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C., July 19 (C.P.). — British Columbia police here announced last night that nearby settlement of Forbes Landing was "almost encircled" by raging forest fire.

Little summer resort, evacuated by most of the residents last week when the timber blaze came within a few hundred yards of the community, it was cut off from telephone communication and the bridge over the only road from here to town had been destroyed.

Police officers said some persons were believed still in town, but did not think they were in immediate danger.

De Valera Lauds Corrigan, U. S. Dusts Celebrity Trail

The Prime Minister hurried from a cabinet meeting to greet the 31-year-old Californian, who told him the details of the flight in his old $900 plane which Corrigan insisted brought him to Eire instead of California because of a little "mistake" in direction.

After thanking De Valera for Eire's kindness to him, Corrigan, appeared as fresh as if he had just hopped across the Irish Sea, visited government buildings to straighten out difficulties arising out of his failure to have any of the papers a flier abroad is supposed to carry.

Officials of Eire's Department of External Affairs told him they would place no difficulties in his way.

Corrigan went out to Baldonnel airport to see his "old crate" and disclosed he hoped to visit London to exhibit the plane. There was some talk that he might take the machine to the Glasgow Exposition.

"I am not going home without that plane, but I won't fly it," the Californian explained.

He said he would take it back by steamship.

He lunched at the United States' Legation, where messages from many parts of the world poured in with congratulations on his flight. One of them was said to have been from Henry Ford.

Corrigan was $2,000 to the good

New York, July 19.

A DEFENSE of United States womanhood no matter how humble her station in life," as "not to be treated as a chattel and afterward dropped like a toy by a drunken playboy," came today from Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo, using the case of Mrs. Martha Barkley Ryan, 22, as an object lesson.

The court awarded comely Mrs. Ryan, of Morganton, N.C., a separation, $833.33 monthly permanent alimony and $7,500 in lawyers' fees from her husband, Basil A. (Pat) Ryan, who asserted after their marriage he had no recollection of it, and was "trapped into it" while he was drunk.

Ryan is the wealthy heir to part of the Wall Street fortune of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan.

Changed His Mind

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 19 (C. P.). — James Bowman had just decided golf was greatly over-rated as a sport when he drove from the eighth tee and he could not find his new ball. Mr. Bowman changed his mind. He found the ball in the cup, a hole in one on the Municipal Links.

Shanghai Suburb Fighting Kills 600

SHANGHAI, July 19 (AP).—Sharp guerrilla fighting in industrial Pootung, across the Whangpoo River from Shanghai, has taken perhaps 600 lives the past four days.

The Pootung area had not been a scene of major fighting since the Japanese offensive to capture Shanghai last August and September.

Chinese, who finally withdrew, listed 200 Japanese casualties, 100 dead among the attacking irregulars and 300 peasants killed accidentally or by Japanese upon suspicion of guerrilla activity.

The Japanese drive to capture Kiukiang, 135 miles below Hankow, continued with heavy artillery and aerial shelling, but still without marked result.

The Japanese want Kiukiang so they can press on toward the China capital, and today two of their warships, in the upper Yangtse alternated with warplanes in bombing the city. Defending land batteries replied with steady fire.

Chinese reports said many of Kiukiang's important buildngs were destroyed and that there were heavy casualties among civilians.

Indian - Starving, Laziness Is Verdict Of Trappers

EDMONTON, July 19 — (CP) — There is no need of additional game preserves in Canada's northland, a group of trappers who are spending the summer here declared yesterday.

A proposal that a new game sanctuary of 50,000 square miles be established northwest of the present Thelon preserve was made by Dr. J. E. Amyot, former Indian agent and medical officer at Fort Resolution, N.W.T. He said creation of such a preserve would give northern wild life a chance to multiply undisturbed and would also benefit Indians dependent on the fur-bearers for a livelihood. Dr. Amyot claimed foxes particularly were showing serious reduction in numbers.

The fur famine during the last two years in the northland was due to a natural cycle of scarcity and plenty and not an indication of reduction in numbers, the trappers claimed. Foxes, scarce most of the winter, suddenly appeared in large numbers in the spring, they added.

There is plenty of fur in the north for both white trappers and Indians, said A. J. Knox, former game warden of the Thelon preserve. "Trapping is too tough a life for many persons to stick with it. If the Indians are starving, it is because they don't like to get out and work for their game and fur."

LONG TRIP

BERWICK, N.S.—(CP).—Warren K. Clements, 17-year-old schoolboy, completed the 660-mile trip from Boston to Berwick on a bicycle in six days.

"The Countess and myself will be content with our 437-acre grain farm at Calgary," the rancher-Earl told newspapermen as he arrived aboard the Queen Mary en route to Western Canada.

"It costs me more than $10,000 a year to maintain my Hampshire estate," Lord Egmont explained. "There are 1,321 acres in the castle grounds and seventy-five rooms in the castle itself, and it ought to sell well as it is only 100 miles from London."

Budgetted Spree

EDMONTON, July 19—(CP). — With $89 and every nickel of it budgetted, 35 children from Lopstick Rural School, near Warspite, 50 miles northeast of here, came to Edmonton yesterday to visit the Dismond Jubilee Exhabition. Their capital was raised through concerts and dances in the winter and was budgetted so each would have four rides on the Midway, see four tent shows, and take in the evening grandstand performance.

Timber Handed Millionaires Rowe Charges

BRANTFORD, July 19.—An estimated 4,000 Brantfordites turned out here last night at Victoria Park for the last major gathering in this riding's by-election campaign, to hear Hon. Earl Rowe, M.P., Conservative Leader, Hon. Leopold Macaulay, M.L.A., Conservative House Leader, and the Conservative candidate, Reginald Welsh.

If he had "out-Hepburned Hepburn" in the last election, he no doubt would have won the 1937 Provincial fight, Mr. Rowe said.

He charged a neglected need for "productive employment" in Ontario and a turning to temporary employment which would in the end do the workmen no good.

Referring to the "great betrayal" of Hydro, Mr. Rowe said that while the Premier was "shouting up and down the Province" a "back-to-Niagara policy," he was negotiating for renewal of Beauharnois contracts.

"I know that, and he knows that I know it," Mr. Rowe said.

With reference to the timber reallocation bill, he stated: "During the last three years Premier Hepburn has been in office he has given away more timber lands than both Liberal and Conservative Governments have given away since Confederation. And who is he giving these lands to? Why, to his millionaire friends. He is running with the millionaires. His eye are turned less and less to the man on the back concession."

"There are only three things we are vitally concerned with in this Province and Dominion. These are preservation of respect for our form of government, preservation of unity of this Dominion, and preservation of our place in the British Empire. We must develop Canada for Canadians and develop a national spirit, it is true, but I believe, with the troublous condition the world is in, we cannot afford to support a Government that says Great Britain cannot establish a training school in Canada for the Royal Air Force. We must stimulate our relations within the Empire."

"Debt Increased"

Mr. Macaulay charged Premier Hepburn with increasing Ontario's public debt, its expenditures and its taxes.

"He says he has decreased the debt. But he hasn't reduced the net debt—the real debt. The cost of government has increased 50 per cent in the hands of this vast spending machine," Mr. Macaulay said.

"I am not surprised," he went on, "that Mr. Hepburn came here Saturday night and told you he had reduced the debt, but I am surprised that he would so insult the intelligence of the citizens of Brantford as to tell them that if they wanted any public money spent in this riding they would have to vote Grit. I just ask Hepburn and Hagey whose money it is that they are spending. You bet your life, it's your money."

"It isn't yet, but it will be a washout. It will wash him right out of power before we are through," Mr. Macaulay said.

33 Jap Warplanes Swoop In Hankow

HANKOW, July 19 — (AP) — Thirty-three Japanese warplanes made the most entensive attack of the war today in the tri-city area about Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang.

The bombardment was pointed at Wuchang and Hanyang, and hugh columns of dark smoke gave evidence of fires and material damage that resulted.

Meeting no opposition in the air and flying too low to be hit by Chinese anti-aircraft fire, six of the Japanese planes dived repeatedly, pulling up within a few feet of the Hankow airfield.

already as a result of the little "mistake" in direction, having received that much for a radio broadcast to America.

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP). — Douglas Corrigan to-day faced a warm and probable profitable welcome home and nothing worse than a spanking outside the hangar at the hands of a forgiving government.

For a trans-Atlantic flight violating all the United States air regulations, unpredicted ocean hop before a world now yawning over fliers who can let a robot do the heavy work and reach announced destinations on schedule, riches may be the reward if Corrigan will take them.

Stifling snickers that turned open-mouthed amazement and then to admiration, persons of influence indicated his penalty, if any, for failing to get government permission for the flight would be light.

From Denis Mulligan, head of the United States Bureau of Air Commerce, on the official side, to the Irish-American societies of New York, on the sentimental, the flight so caught imagination that the policy was to forgive—and not forget so far as a welcome is concerned.

Already, they're dusting off the "celebrity trail" through New York travelled only last week by Howard Hughes and his four world girdler companions.

Mulligan, torn between Irish pride and duty, asserted between chuckles that something would have to be done.

Real Offers Pour In.

Now that Corrigan has completely captured the front pages concrete offers of profit are piling up.

Oil companies whose regularly prepared products fueled and lubricated Corrigan's plane checked Floyd Bennett Field yesterday to learn just what he bought or bartered from them.

One representative, thinking Corrigan merely had intended to complete his trans-continental round trip with a non-stop hop back to Long Beach, offered $5 worth of oil for the right to use Corrigan's name in advertisements.

Corrigan declined to sign, offered to pay and was given the oil anyway.

A New Jersey amusement park announced a $25,000 offer if Corrigan would christen his plane with its name.

Upon hearing that difficulties might arise from Corrigan's violation of the rules, Irish organizations in New York immediately offered any help he might need—legal or otherwise—in the way of defence. Although Corrigan steadfastly assured the Irish populace that he thought all the time he was flying to California, that his compass worked backwards or something, he can hardly plead innocent when brought to the bar of the Federal bureau controlling aircraft.

He applied once before for permission to fly to Ireland and was refused.

Honors already are heaping upon the unpredictable non-stopper, not the least of which is a life membership in the Liars' Club of Burlington, Wis., on the basis of his straight-faced, persistent assertions he thought he was flying toward California.

Chance in Movies.

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 19.—(AP). — Douglas Corrigan got a movie offer to-day as a result of his daring New York to Dublin flight.

Hal Roach Studios cabled Corrigan, "Will you consider making test on your return here for important role with Brian Aherne in story written and directed by Norman McLeod, ex-war ace, which closely parallels your achievement?"

Witness Killed

CORBIN, Ky., July 19 — (AP). — Oscar Skidmore, 22, defence witness in the Harlan Anti-Labor conspiracy trial at London, Ky., was killed in an automobile accident late last night on a highway four miles east of here. Skidmore's death was the fourth fatality in the course of 10-weeks-old trial. Three other men, either witnesses or defendants, have been shot dead.

Stroma, Scotland, has just heard a cuckoo for the first time.

Mistake Flight Nets $2,000 For Corrigan

DUBLIN, July 19.—(AP).—Douglas G. Corrigan was $2,000 to the good to-day on that little "mistake" in direction which took his $900 plane across the Atlantic.

Dismissing this "wrong way" flight as "not much," the 31-year old Californian was up at 10 a.m. after a long night's sleep.

There won't be any more "errors" of compasses going wrong again, Corrigan intimated, because he's going to take his "unairworthy" plane home by steamer.

Funds were no worry, although he was broke on landing yesterday.

"The $2,000 I got for my broadcast to America last night will keep me in pocket money while I'm here," he said.

"But as soon as I can get steamship passage fixed up I am going home. I am trying to get a boat

London Doctor Is Cleared In Test Case

LONDON, July 19—(CP-Havas)—Dr. Aleck William Bourne, prominent London Obstetrician, was acquitted in Old Bailey today of charges that he performed an illegal operation on a 14-year-old girl who was criminally assaulted by Royal Horse Guardsmen.

The jury ruled Dr. Bourne was not guilty of illegal action and the charges were dismissed.

The trial, which aroused profound interest in medical circles, began yesterday. During the proceedings, Lord Horder, Physician-in-ordinary to the King, came to the defence of the noted obstetrician, who had invited prosecution for purposes of a test.

Lord Horder and two prominent gynecologists Dr. John Rawlings and Dr. William Gillatt, testified they would have acted in the same way as the defendant under the circumstances.

Jury Out 45 Minutes

The jury, which included two women, took 45 minutes to reach a verdict after Justice MacNaughten, summing up, said Dr. Bourne had performed "an act of charity without fee."

Cheers from the crowd, including leaders of the British medical profession and prominent society figures, greeted the verdict.

Dr. Bourne had insisted on being prosecuted in order to test Great Britain's rarely invoked statute against operations to prevent motherhood.

Dr. Bourne said the girl undoubtedly suffered injuries when she was attacked by the guardsmen which might have affected her ability to give birth without danger. The age and temperament of the young girl also strongly influenced his decision to operate, the physician declared.

Why Bridges Are Built

Maybe she's an ambassador or something for the new Blue Water bridge which links Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia, Ont., across the St. Clair River, but anyway Charlotte Ketting of Port Huron is mighty attractive as she goes for a personal inspection tour of the structure. The bridge will be opened in early September, it is expected, with President Roosevelt of U.S. and Prime Minister W. L. M. King of Canada attending the ceremonies. If bridges bring Charlotte any closer, we're all for them.

Five-Year-Old Warkworth Baby Drowns In Pond

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, July 19. — Five-year-old Vera Dobbs, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dobbs, died in the deep waters of mill pond Monday afternoon when she slipped and fell headlong into the flume leading to the mill.

The body was not recovered until twenty minutes had elapsed. Arthur McKee, an employee in a nearby butcher shop, brought the body from the water, and two doctors, C. C. Armstrong and F. G. Britnell, applied artificial respiration for two hours but the child failed to respond.

Re-elect Officers For Gilmour M.B.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

The annual Mission Band picnic was held on Thursday at Gilmour Church, with a splendid attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Miss Hazel Telford, and the Bible reading was read by one of the members, Douglas Palmer of Shedden, Ont. Mrs. Young then spoke a few words on preparation of the association which is to be held in Gilmour Church this fall.

The election of officers took place and Mrs. A. I. Edmison moved that all the 1937 officers be re-installed. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction. Games and supper were the next items and were enjoyed by everyone.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 19—(CP).—Today's session of the Winnipeg Grain Market was dull and listless most of the morning being almost entirely local in character. At the close, quotations were ⅛ to ¾ higher, with July at 99⅜c, October 77½c, November 77½c, and December 75c.

Unfavorable reports from Southern Saskatchewan caused marked uneasiness and short covering resulted.

Early gains were credited to strength at Liverpool and moderate buying but after a half hour, operations settled into a dull, uninteresting routine.

Cash wheat spreads mostly unchanged with durums moving down about a cent. Offerings were light and confined to odd car lots.

Pit trade in coarse grains continued in a listless groove.

Uniforms Please

ROME, July 19 (A.P.). — Premier Mussolini to-day ordered all government civilian employees to wear uniforms henceforth during working hours. Il Duce's newspaper Il Popolo d'Italia described the order as "another step in the spiritual mobilization of the country."

Miner Is Entombed By Kirkland Cave-in

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., July 19 (CP).—A miner was trapped 2,000 feet below the surface of the Lake Shore Gold Mine today by a cave-in.

Louis Zager, 33, dazed but apparently uninjured, was rescued from the level where a fellow-worker remained entombed. Zager was rushed to hospital for x-ray examination without giving the name of the trapped man.

Two miners who narrowly escaped when the cave-in occurred sounded the alarm and within a few minutes rescue crews were at work digging. They reached Zager and brought him to the surface inside an hour.

Advice by M.O.H. If "Polio" Appears Again

Recalling the epidemic of infantile paralysis in Ontario last summer, Dr. G. Murray Fraser, M.O.H., reviews in the following article the nature of the symptoms of the disease merely as helpful precaution for parents and without in any way wishing to cause any feeling of alarm by referring to the experience of 1937.

The epidemic began early in July, reached a peak in September and gradually declined during October and November.

The disease is caused by a virus, i.e., a toxic substance too small to be seen with the most powerful microscope. It is found in the nose and throat secretions of persons affected. Entrance is gained to the brain and spinal cord through the nerves of smell which enter the brain at the roof of the nose. The virus attacks the spinal cord, causing destruction of the motor or action nerves which results in paralysis.

The disease is not caused by fruit, milk or water or other foods. No evidence has ever been found to indicate that any of these factors is responsible for the spread of the disease. Nor can flies, insects or animals be blamed for it. A suggestion has been made that ragweed pollen contributes to the cause but the epidemic last year began prior to the ragweed season and continued after the season closed.

The age group 5-9 years shows the highest incidence and males are more susceptible than females in the proportion 6 to 4.

Symptoms.

The most frequent symptoms reported were fever, stiff nack and headache. Parents should watch for any signs of sickness in children. Such simple things as a slight cold, nausea and vomiting, diarrhoea, headache, sore throat; inclination to lie down, stiffness or soreness in the neck, may all be the first signs of infantile paralysis and of these about two thirds recover.

At the first signs or symptoms the family physician should be called and the entire treatment placed in his hands. The earlier he is called the better will be the result as it has been found that when treatment begins in 24 hours or even 48 hours, the child's chance of escaping paralysis is improved. Serum from persons who have recovered from infantile paralysis is used as it contains the antitoxin or antidote for the disease. It should be given early in the disease to be of benefit and this is sufficient reason for calling the doctor even in the presence of mild disorders which ordinarily are treated without medical aid.

If paralysis develops, the essential point is treatment of the affected muscles to remove strain. This is a disease of nerves and not of muscles but by resting the muscle we assist nature in restoring the function of the nerves supplying it.

Methods of Prevention.

The disease is spread from person to person by contact. Therefore isolation of the patient is absolutely necessary. All contacts should be quarantined. Exposure of children in groups should be discouraged and consequently the closing of schools may be justified.

Last year an attempt was made to determine if spraying the nose was of any benefit in preventing the disease. Over 5,000 children in Toronto were sprayed with a solution of zinc sulphate. Specialists were employed to do the work in order that there would be no doubht of the efficiency of the procedure. It was found, however, that as many cases occurred in the sprayed group as in an unsprayed group of equal numbers. We may conclude therefore that the use of a nasal spray is of no value in preventing the disease.

Serum is also of no value in prevention and is used only in treatment.

Summary.

We know the disease is caused by a virus and that it is spread from person to person by contact.

Half the cases develop paralysis in some form and of these two-thirds will recover.

Boys in the age group 5-9 years are more susceptible than girls.

Nasal spraying and convalescent serum are of no value in prevention.

The family physician should be consulted as soon as possible when even mild illness is noted. Early treatment is effectual and delay may lead to serious developments.

A Robot Cop

VERONA, N.J., July 19—(AP).—At one o'clock this morning Charley the cop dropped his sturdy arms which he had raised without pause 51,000 times in 17 hours.

In fact many sighting the new addition to Mayor David Slayback's police force for the first time yesterday drawled out "Hi Charley" only to receive the dogged stare of the glass-buttoned robot.

Shooting Bear Three Miles Off Shore Nearly Ends Boat Builder

St. John's, Nfld., July 19

The veteran boat builder was alone in a rowboat three miles from shore, setting a seal net, when he saw the big black bear in the water and fired wounding the beast.

Enraged by the wound, the bear attacked Reid. The man grabbed his axe and struck at its head, but the animal knocked the weapon aside and tore Reid's arm and leg.

After beating off the animal, Reid started for shore and was rescued by men attracted by his feeble signals. He was rushed to the lumber camp and taken 40 miles north to hospital when infection set in.

Haliburton Man Dies After Mill Mishap

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, July 19.—James Pearsell, of Haliburton, passed away in the Ross Hospital on Sunday as the result of injuries received at Wessell's lumber mill on Saturday. Pearsell was working at a picket machine when a board with a flaw in it flew back, cutting his face, neck and shoulder. A sliver of wood about eight and a half inches long and a half inch wide penetrated his body. This was not noticed until some time after the accident, and he was rushed to the hospital where an operation was performed and the piece of wood removed. The unfortunate man suffered intensely before passing away. He was a native of Victoria Road, and is survived by his wife who is an invalid, one daughter and two sons. He was very popular in the north country, being a member of the Haliburton Citizen's Band.

As a result of his car being ditched at Haliburton on Sunday, Herbert Millar sustained injuries that necessitated six stitches to close a wound in his arm. He was taken to the Red Cross Outpost Hospital.

Mrs. H. M. Pescock, Toronto, lost her beautiful cottage at Maple Beach near Beaverton, on the weekend. A hot water heater had been left on while the guests at the cottage were at the golf links, and fire completely destroyed the home. The house was elaborately furnished and everything was completely destroyed. Firefighters prevented the flames from spreading to adjacent cottages.

A serious automobile collision occurred at Argyle on Sunday evening, when little Joan Salter, aged five, and her grandmother, Mrs. Alice Salter, aged seventy-two, were injured. They were rushed to Ross Hospital where it was found that the child had sustained severe head injuries. Mrs. Salter suffered from bruises and a severe shaking up. A car driven by William Salter, father of the girl, collided at an intersection with a car driven by Dr. Devine, of Beaverton. The Salter car was thrown over on its side and the occupants thrown out. Provincial Constable Adair, of Lindsay, is investigating the accident.

Provincial police in this district are checking up on patrons of local summer resorts who thoughtlessly carry liquor in their car while visiting these points for a dance. Provincial Constable Adair visited Greenhurst on the week-end, and as a result charges of illegal possession followed the finding of two Toronto girls, one Toronto man and a Lindsay man in a car with a quantity of liquor.

Cecil Holder, of Carden township, was fined $262.85 during the week-end on two charges of having liquor illegally. In default of payment he will serve six months. Some weeks ago the accused was arrested on this charge and was remanded. While awaiting trial he was rearrested on a second charge.

Bess Abercrombie, who was charged with assault occasioning bodily harm on his son, Roy, was given his freedom on the weekend. The father was accused of hitting his son with a milk bottle, necessitating his removal to the hospital. Magistrate Campbell, of Port Hope, and County Crown Attorney Anderson, after reviewing the circumstances surrounding the offence, dismissed the case.

Janetville W.I. Hears History Institute Work

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, July 19.—Mrs. E. Michell of Lindsay, district president of the Women's Institute of East Victoria, Mrs. Waite, president of the Lindsay branch, and Mrs. Campbell, also of Lindsay, were special guests at the July meeting of the local branch which was held in the Institute rooms on the community park on Thursday afternoon.

The correspondence included bills, expressions of appreciation from several who had received fruit and flowers during illness and an announcement from Miss Greta Pollard of the Department in regard to the Victoria County Girls' Achievement Day which is being held in Lindsay on Saturday, July 23rd. "Clothes Closets Up-to-Date" and "Cottons May Be Smart" are the courses to be demonstrated.

Arrangements were made for the annual picnic which will be held at Lake Scugog on Wednesday, August 10th. Mrs. B. Hyland, Mrs. A. Suggitt and Mrs. R. G. Bradburn were named as the sports committee for the event.

Five new members paid fees, making a total membership of thirty-three. The roll call, "Time Savers for the Kitchen," was well responded to by many useful suggestions.

The presidet announced that the fall sewing for needy families of the district would commence at the September meeting.

During the following program Mrs. Mitchell of Lindsay, the guest speaker, was heard in an excellent address, basing her remarks on the origin and growth of the Women's Institute.

The following numbers were also enjoyed:

Reading, "Memory System," Mrs. Suggitt.

Vocal solo, "Sunrise," Mrs. W. Campbell.

Community song.

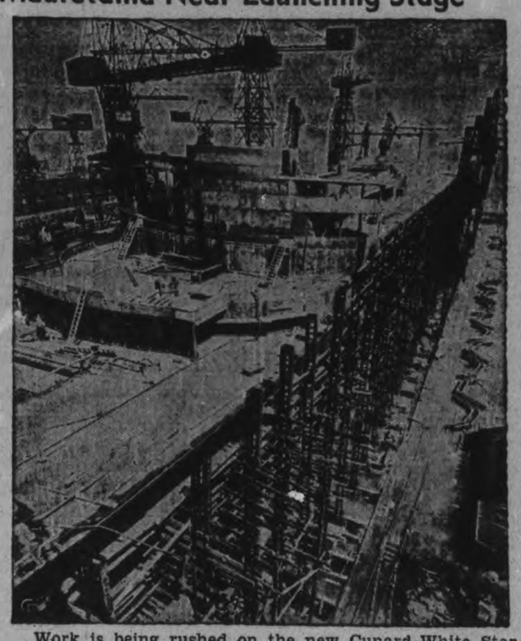
Reading, "Home," Mrs. G. Wilson.

Short speeches were then given by a few of the visitors, including Mrs. Waite and Mrs. Campbell of Lindsay, Mrs. W. McKeown of Mona Road and Miss Norma Stacey of Hudson, Ont.

Current events, with accompanying photographs were reviewed by Mrs. B. Heaslip and included an account of the death of Prof. Day who is famous for the accomplishment of his dream in the draining and the making of choice gardens of Holland marsh. This item was doubly interesting due to the fact that Prof. Day is related to a number of local people.

The vote of thanks to the speakers and to Mrs. Walker for her outstanding and highly educational paper, was voiced by Mrs. G. Wilson.

Mauretania Near Launching Stage



Work is being rushed on the new Cunard-White Star liner, Mauretania, rapidly nearing completion at the shipyards of Birkenhead, England, so that the launching can take place, as scheduled, on July 28. The new ocean giant is seen at her present stage of development. When completed she will be 750 feet long and have a gross tonnage of approximately 33,000 tons, making her slightly larger than her famous predecessor, which for so many years held the blue riband of the Atlantic.

Summary.

We know the disease is caused by a virus and that it is spread from person to person by contact.

Half the cases develop paralysis in some form and of these two-thirds will recover.

Boys in the age group 5-9 years are more susceptible than girls.

Nasal spraying and convalescent serum are of no value in prevention.

The family physician should be consulted as soon as possible when even mild illness is noted. Early treatment is effectual and delay may lead to serious developments.

A Historic Changing Of the Guards

For the first time in history a territorial unit of the British army took over guard of Buckingham Palace and St. James' Palace, when the Honorable Artillery Company took up guard duty at the palace. Members of the Honorable Artillery Company are shown here as they marched to their duties.

A Robot Cop

VERONA, N.J., July 19—(AP).—At one o'clock this morning Charley the cop dropped his sturdy arms which he had raised without pause 51,000 times in 17 hours.

Thus ended the first day's traffic duty for Verona's robot policeman—six feet one of sturdy stuff suspiciously resembling real life patrolman Charles Marchant, 22.

In fact many sighting the new addition to Mayor David Slayback's police force for the first time yesterday drawled out "Hi Charley" only to receive the dogged stare of the glass-buttoned robot.

Shooting Bear Three Miles Off Shore Nearly Ends Boat Builder

St. John's, Nfld., July 19

The veteran boat builder was alone in a rowboat three miles from shore, setting a seal net, when he saw the big black bear in the water and fired wounding the beast.

Enraged by the wound, the bear attacked Reid. The man grabbed his axe and struck at its head, but the animal knocked the weapon aside and tore Reid's arm and leg.

After beating off the animal, Reid started for shore and was rescued by men attracted by his feeble signals. He was rushed to the lumber camp and taken 40 miles north to hospital when infection set in.

Haliburton Man Dies After Mill Mishap

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, July 19.—James Pearsell, of Haliburton, passed away in the Ross Hospital on Sunday as the result of injuries received at Wessell's lumber mill on Saturday. Pearsell was working at a picket machine when a board with a flaw in it flew back, cutting his face, neck and shoulder. A sliver of wood about eight and a half inches long and a half inch wide penetrated his body. This was not noticed until some time after the accident, and he was rushed to the hospital where an operation was performed and the piece of wood removed. The unfortunate man suffered intensely before passing away. He was a native of Victoria Road, and is survived by his wife who is an invalid, one daughter and two sons. He was very popular in the north country, being a member of the Haliburton Citizen's Band.

As a result of his car being ditched at Haliburton on Sunday, Herbert Millar sustained injuries that necessitated six stitches to close a wound in his arm. He was taken to the Red Cross Outpost Hospital.

Mrs. H. M. Pescock, Toronto, lost her beautiful cottage at Maple Beach near Beaverton, on the weekend. A hot water heater had been left on while the guests at the cottage were at the golf links, and fire completely destroyed the home. The house was elaborately furnished and everything was completely destroyed. Firefighters prevented the flames from spreading to adjacent cottages.

A serious automobile collision occurred at Argyle on Sunday evening, when little Joan Salter, aged five, and her grandmother, Mrs. Alice Salter, aged seventy-two, were injured. They were rushed to Ross Hospital where it was found that the child had sustained severe head injuries. Mrs. Salter suffered from bruises and a severe shaking up. A car driven by William Salter, father of the girl, collided at an intersection with a car driven by Dr. Devine, of Beaverton. The Salter car was thrown over on its side and the occupants thrown out. Provincial Constable Adair, of Lindsay, is investigating the accident.

Provincial police in this district are checking up on patrons of local summer resorts who thoughtlessly carry liquor in their car while visiting these points for a dance. Provincial Constable Adair visited Greenhurst on the week-end, and as a result charges of illegal possession followed the finding of two Toronto girls, one Toronto man and a Lindsay man in a car with a quantity of liquor.

Cecil Holder, of Carden township, was fined $262.85 during the week-end on two charges of having liquor illegally. In default of payment he will serve six months. Some weeks ago the accused was arrested on this charge and was remanded. While awaiting trial he was rearrested on a second charge.

Bess Abercrombie, who was charged with assault occasioning bodily harm on his son, Roy, was given his freedom on the weekend. The father was accused of hitting his son with a milk bottle, necessitating his removal to the hospital. Magistrate Campbell, of Port Hope, and County Crown Attorney Anderson, after reviewing the circumstances surrounding the offence, dismissed the case.

Janetville W.I. Hears History Institute Work

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, July 19.—Mrs. E. Michell of Lindsay, district president of the Women's Institute of East Victoria, Mrs. Waite, president of the Lindsay branch, and Mrs. Campbell, also of Lindsay, were special guests at the July meeting of the local branch which was held in the Institute rooms on the community park on Thursday afternoon.

The correspondence included bills, expressions of appreciation from several who had received fruit and flowers during illness and an announcement from Miss Greta Pollard of the Department in regard to the Victoria County Girls' Achievement Day which is being held in Lindsay on Saturday, July 23rd. "Clothes Closets Up-to-Date" and "Cottons May Be Smart" are the courses to be demonstrated.

Arrangements were made for the annual picnic which will be held at Lake Scugog on Wednesday, August 10th. Mrs. B. Hyland, Mrs. A. Suggitt and Mrs. R. G. Bradburn were named as the sports committee for the event.

Five new members paid fees, making a total membership of thirty-three. The roll call, "Time Savers for the Kitchen," was well responded to by many useful suggestions.

The presidet announced that the fall sewing for needy families of the district would commence at the September meeting.

During the following program Mrs. Mitchell of Lindsay, the guest speaker, was heard in an excellent address, basing her remarks on the origin and growth of the Women's Institute.

The following numbers were also enjoyed:

Reading, "Memory System," Mrs. Suggitt.

Vocal solo, "Sunrise," Mrs. W. Campbell.

Community song.

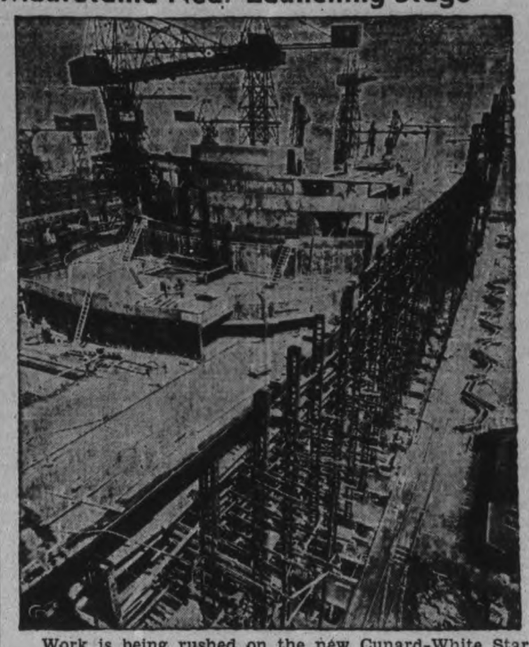
Reading, "Home," Mrs. G. Wilson.

Short speeches were then given by a few of the visitors, including Mrs. Waite and Mrs. Campbell of Lindsay, Mrs. W. McKeown of Mona Road and Miss Norma Stacey of Hudson, Ont.

Current events, with accompanying photographs were reviewed by Mrs. B. Heaslip and included an account of the death of Prof. Day who is famous for the accomplishment of his dream in the draining and the making of choice gardens of Holland marsh. This item was doubly interesting due to the fact that Prof. Day is related to a number of local people.

The vote of thanks to the speakers and to Mrs. Walker for her outstanding and highly educational paper, was voiced by Mrs. G. Wilson.

Mauretania Near Launching Stage



Work is being rushed on the new Cunard-White Star liner, Mauretania, rapidly nearing completion at the shipyards of Birkenhead, England, so that the launching can take place, as scheduled, on July 28. The new ocean giant is seen at her present stage of development. When completed she will be 750 feet long and have a gross tonnage of approximately 33,000 tons, making her slightly larger than her famous predecessor, which for so many years held the blue riband of the Atlantic.

J. H. Howden Passes

NEEPAWA, Man., July 199 (CP)—J. H. Howden, K.C., 77, Provincial Secretary in the Sir R. P. Roblin Conservative government of Manitoba in 1907, and Attorney-General from 1911 to 1915, died suddenly during the weekend.

Death, believed due to a heart attack, came while he was presiding at a family reunion at Wasagaming, in Riding Mountain National Park, 30 miles northwest of here, Saturday.

Mr. Howden, veteran of the Riel rebellion in 1885, was Mayor of Neepawa from 1900 to 1907.

Havelock Principal Is Raised To $1,900

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 19. — The Havelock High School Board met last Thursday evening, with Trustees Mrs. Rigby, Roche, Lancaster, and Chairman G. Denike present.

R. W. Goheen was re-appointed as principal of the High School for 1938-39 at an increased salary of $1,900.

Several applications were received for the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss J. K. Whitton from the staff. A committee composed of Chairman Denike, Lancaster, and the secretary was appointed to deal with the applications as received, and report to the board at the meeting to be held on Friday, July 22.

The following accounts were passed and ordered paid: J. Brown, work on school fence, $1.03; J. Leask, hauling garbage, $1.88; Hubbel Hardware Co., $19.96; A. Spencer & Son, $13.45; Edward Fennell, secretary, salary July, postage and excise, $2.65; R. W. Goheen, express on examination papers, $1.15; J. Parcels, attendance officer, $3.00; R. Buchanan, July salary, $21.88.

Now Comes Corrigan

Last year Douglas Corrigan applied to officials at the Floyd Bennett Field in New York for a permit to fly the Atlantic Ocean. It was refused and for apparently good and sufficient reasons. He went again this year but asked for papers to go to California, which was something different. When he got in the air some of the officials thought the man was somewhat off his dot as he was heading in the wrong direction for California. Twenty-eight hours later he landed at the airport near Dublin, Ireland.

Some of the officials are trying to take a serious view of the exploit; they have been looking up the regulations to see what punishment is due to descend upon Douglas Corrigan. What business had he to go alone across the Atlantic ocean?

No person was financing his trip for publicity. Corrigan did not have any radio; his plane was less powerful than the one Lindbergh used when he astounded the world some years ago; the machine was at least partially home-made. When Corrigan got in to start he found the door would not stay shut and he used a piece of wire hitched over a nail such as one might use to close the gate in a fence.

Those whose business it is to predict the chances of success say Corrigan had one chance in a hundred. Of course it is a fact that had he landed in the middle of the Atlantic we might be writing about him to say that he was a rattle brain, but seeing that he made the trip in safety we call him somewhat of an unheralded hero.

Take it which way you please; scold Corrigan and lecture him if you will, and there still remains a wide margin in his behalf. We have just finished telling people all about the trip of the New York millionaire who had a machine costing $300,000; had everything which science could devise and in addition carried four experts to help him run his giant plane on a remarkable world trip. Then up pops this Douglas Corrigan with a machine on which he had to close the door with a bit of wire and he crosses the Atlantic and lands in Ireland safely but with nearly all his fuel exhausted. The officials can scold if they wish and look perplexed, but the average person will conclude it was a great day for the Irish. And on top of that we have not figured out exactly which was the greater trip, that of the millionaire in his round-the-world cruise or the lone man in a plane which most people would designate as rattle-trap because it was seven years old.

The Cost Of Raising Children

The Ottawa Journal refers to a monograph issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics based on the 1931 census and information which supplements the figures then secured. It deals with the cash outlay involved in the rearing of children to what is called the age of independence, and right now that is an age difficult to determine. The income taxation department insists it begins at age 21, while there are a good many income tax payers who know well enough it does not. The Bureau of Statistics says 18 years.

The Journal says:

> The total cost of rearing a child until his (or her) eighteenth birthday, the Bureau finds, is about $5,700, of which 77 per cent. is spent on his physical needs, 10 per cent. for health and recreation; 13 per cent. on education.
> To feed a child to the eighteenth birthday costs, it is estimated, about $3,500. Clothing costs $800, and shelter $2,000. Health, recreational and social costs add $600 to the bill, and education about $750.

Those figures are at least interesting, and we also find that if a person desires to send a child to university the cost per year for that child's living is increased $500. The Bureau of Statistics regards 18 years as the basis for its calculations, so if it costs $5,700 to keep a child for that period it means an outlay of $316.66 per year or about $6.09 per week.

The trouble with any set of figures seems to be to get all the people to agree and say "Yes, that's so." We were talking to a man who came into the office and he was trying to figure out how he ever managed to raise a family of five children on the amount of money he was earning. He looked over the statistics for some minutes and used a stubby pencil to do some calculating on the back of an envelope which he drew from his pocket.

He claimed there were a number of years when he had the five children all under the age of 18 and if the Bureau of Statistics was right in its calculation then he could not understand how he ever did it. He said his wages at no time had been over $1,400 a year, and yet there were five children at $316 per year which would have meant an outlay of $1,580. Whether the living of his wife and himself should be included he did not know and we could not enlighten him. But he was sure he must have been going in the hole all along by spending $1,580 a year on the five children when he was earning only $1,400, and yet he had never been in debt.

It may be some satisfaction for parents to be able to inform their children when coming of age that they have spent $5,700 on each of them but as they have no intention of seeking to recover the amount we cannot tell exactly to what use the information is going to be turned.

Policemen As Athletes

Are policemen good athletes? That question suggested itself after looking over the results of the games conducted in Toronto under A.A.A. auspices of the Toronto force, when contenders were present from Montreal, Detroit and Toronto. A policeman must be a pretty sound sort of individual physically otherwise he would not be eligible for the force. In the larger centres too they have a course of training to keep their men fit and prior to the police games they do a good deal by way of preparation for the events. Comparing records we find this:

The 100-yard run in Toronto was won by Kelly from Detroit and the time was 10 7-10 seconds. The record for that distance is 09.4 seconds made by Frank Wykoff in 1930 and not since lowered.

In the running high jump Hume of Montreal was the best man and he cleared 5 ft. 11 inches; the record for that event was made by W. Marty in 1934 at 6 ft. 9 1-2 inches.

The running broad jump is an old event, and in the police games at Toronto Goeriz from Detroit took first place with a distance of 20 ft. 11 3-4 in. He would have to put a great deal more in his work to approach the record made by the Jap, C. Nambu, who in 1931 put the record at 26 ft. 2 1-8 inches.

In 1904 R. C. Ewry in the standing broad jump cleared 11 ft. 4 7-8 inches for a record which has never been bettered. In the police games Hill of Toronto cleared 10 feet, a fair enough performance.

Hume from Montreal took the pole vault in Toronto at 11 ft. 1 3-4 inches, while W. Grabber in 1932 set the record at 14 ft. 4 3-8 in.

Huber from Detroit threw the 16-pound hammer for a distance of 156 ft. 11 inches, and an event of this kind might fairly be regarded as one where a well built policeman should come close to the best that any one else can do. But away back in 1913 P. J. Ryan, an enormous sort of man, made the record for that event at 189 ft. 6.5 inches, almost 43 feet farther than the best mark by the best athlete of three large cities.

In Toronto there was a revival of an old event, the run, hop, step and jump, something which is now seldom seen at track meets. Goeriz of Detroit got first place with a distance of 42 ft. 1-4 in., but that is quite a few feet short of the record of C. Nambu, the Jap, who in 1932 set the record at 51 ft. 7 inches.

It seems that by taking records made by policemen that they should be classed as average athletes. It would not be fair to expect them to compete with the highly trained professional or amateur at track events, because the best men at 100 yards are not very large nor are they heavy and usually they are highly nervous. The purpose of these police games is to provide an event which would encourage physical training among policemen because a good many chiefs have admitted that one of their problems is keeping their men in good physical condition. Too many of them are inclined to put on weight. A policeman who could take ten feet in a broad jump is indeed doing well.

It's Worth Thinking About

The Canadian National Federation of Home and School Associations is in session at Halifax, and the president, Dr. G. W. Kerby of Calgary fashioned his opening address on the tendency of the times to tolerate vast wealth and poverty in the same country. He quoted rather copiously from Ferdinand Nundberg's book "America's Sixty Families," and told about one wealthy man who spent $12,000 for a marble bath tub with gold plated fixings. Against that is the claim that half of the rural homes in United States have no bath tubs.

The next case was that of the family which spent $250,000 on a coming out party for their daughter, while there are 250,000 girls across the continent who have not enough to keep themselves decent.

If one started looking for similar cases with their opposites it would be possible to find many of them, but we doubt whether the cure for our problem of employment and the more even distribution of wealth is going to be brought about by merely calling attention to these inequalities. The reason for that belief is simply this — such argument overlooks one vital fact, and that is that in these cases the rich people were spending their money.

When those who have money are spending it freely then there is a chance for people in general to get some benefit. Making a bathtub worth $12,000 would mean work for a number of people for a good many days or weeks. Giving a party which cost a quarter of a million dollars — a foolish thing we admit — would create a good deal of employment. It would mean the purchasing of many dresses which would have to be made; it would mean enormous orders for edibles and the engaging of orchestras and waiters in number.

It seems to us the trouble comes when money is not being spent; when people start hanging on to it, fearful that they will lose it. When they are buying things they are making people busy, and if the buying and spending were more pronounced then employment would rise to a higher level. If a rich man wanted to buy a dozen bath tubs at $12,000 each it would be a good thing for the men working in that line. It would help a good many more people than having that same rich man do his washing in a tin dish.

When a Man Explains

Premier Hepburn was in Brantford to take a hand in the by-election necessary to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. M. M. MacBride. The Conservative candidate in the contest is Reginald Welsh, and referring to him Mr. Hepburn said:

> "Mr. Welsh is a coal dealer and when Mr. Henry was in power in this province the people paid $9,089 for Mr. Welsh's coal to heat the Ontario School for the Blind. When my government was elected we bought the same kind of coal for $5,908."

We believe it fair enough to conclude that Mr. Hepburn was seeking to create the impression that Mr. Welsh had been getting far too great a price for his coal, otherwise there would have been no point in mentioning the coal contract at all. It was one plain enough way of stating that Mr. Welsh had been feeding at the public trough and therefore would not be the proper person to be returned by the voters of Brantford.

After Mr. Hepburn made his address Mr. Welsh took occasion at the first opportunity to explain the coal contract. His statement was:

> "Since 1935 the institution has been equipped with underfeed stokers, and besides the Government is now buying low-grade Nova Scotia coal, while I furnished the home with American bituminous lump coal."

There is nothing in Mr. Hepburn's address or in Mr. Welsh's explanation to show the length of time covered by this contract, but there is a difference in the price of the two varieties of coal named. A coal dealer in Peterborough informed the Examiner that the low-grade Nova Scotia coal (three-quarter slack) would cost at the present time $7 per ton, while American bituminous lump coal would cost $8.60, showing a difference of $1.60 on each ton of coal. The thing looks different when Mr. Welsh's explanation is offered, and unless Mr. Hepburn were prepared to show that the coal merchant in Brantford had been soaking the government there was no good reason for bringing up the question at all.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The army worm is one summer visitor which does not wait for an invitation.

When a gentleman named Corrigan started to fly across the Atlantic it seemed the most natural thing under the sun that he should land in Ireland.

Lakes and rivers headed the weekend fatality list, and if treated with due respect they are actually delightful things.

When the King and Queen started out to visit in France there were 100 trunks sent on ahead. A trip like that can hardly pass muster as a holiday.

Premier Hepburn is making an air trip through the West and says his visit has no political significance. Under the circumstances anything he may have to say would be over the heads of the Westerners any way.

Man in Buffalo wants the city to pay him $5 because the garbage collector took away a bundle of laundry from his home. It would be hard to blame the garbage man as the average bundle being sent by a man to a laundry looks a great deal like a carefully wrapped parcel of garbage.

FREE

(By A. R. E.)

¶ I built a little cabin place, where there were rocks and trees to brace, upon a pleasing site; and it was far from noise and roads, or teams or trucks with heavy loads, it was I think just right.

¶ I paid for all the timber there, for men to cut it straight and square, I likewise bought cement; I paid for paint when it was done, for doors and windows one by one, I didn't owe a cent.

¶ When I sat there at even tide, the sky looked big and long and wide, it seemed stretched out for me; the sunset glories that I saw, in color schemes no man could draw, for that there was no fee.

¶ I didn't plant the flowers that grew, but they came up so fresh and new, all there for me to see; I didn't plant the giant trees there, no one had brought the scented air, for all such things were free.

¶ At night there'd be the stars and moon, the glorious sun full-grown at noon, at even-time the breeze; and birds that nested in the tree, would sing their own good song for me, paid not a cent for these.

¶ I paid for lumber and cement, to build a place of quiet content, the bill was rather tall; the Lord provided trees and flowers, and scenes that change with passing hours — and made no charge at all.

Profiteer Has Shown His Hand

(By J. V. McAree in Globe and Mail)

WHEN THE HEAD of a Government can convince the Opposition either by flat statement or indirect suggestion that a national crisis exists he can follow it by heaving a great sigh of relief. For he has made certain that irrespective of the crisis he will be only moderately and perfunctorily criticized. That is the position of Prime Minister Chamberlain. The belief that a crisis exists has been current in England for the past two or three years. It may not be the same crisis but another one equally dangerous, and probably the Conservatives believe in it not more strongly than the Laborites. Otherwise the government's handling of its rearmament program would have been subjected to much harsher condemnation than it has, and probably the airplane scandal would have brought about its overthrow, that is supposing that there is an alternative Government ready to take charge, which we doubt. Even the critical remarks that have been made in the House of Commons seem to have been paid scant attention by the Canadian press, and we do not doubt that some of the facts presented in The Nation by H. C. Englebrecht will come as a surprise to our readers.

Rearmament Racket.

His main contention is that rearmament in Great Britain has become a racket or, as they would say there, a ramp. Three years ago Stanley Baldwin said: "I am certainly determined that in the efforts which we regard as necessary for the nation for the next two years there shall be no profiteering." Events have falsified the promise. Recently The Economist showed that thirty of the most important arms makers had made profits of from less than $20,000,000 in 1934 to nearly $59,000,000 in 1937, an increase of almost 200 per cent. Dividend payments are high and special bonuses for shareholders frequent. Of course, the greater the profit the greater the Government will benefit by taxation; but that hardly justifies profiteering. R. B. Stokes, M. P., who is managing director of Ransomes and Rapier, was an artilleryman in the war, and speaking on behalf of his firm offered to make shells for the Government without profit. He said that his firm did not like the shell-making business, but having been approached by the Government had decided to take orders which would have made a saving of 6s 8d on a 21s 6d shell. The Government declined the offer for reasons not set forth by Mr. Engelbrecht. In addition to the profits of the armament makers The Daily Herald estimated that the advance in their stocks amounted to $190,000,000. Insiders knew two or three years ago that a great rearmament campaign was being considered and put their money down with confidence.

Shrouded in Mystery.

It is impossible for any outsider to guess how intelligently the rearmament program is working out. The arms industry has been decentralized and is now scattered over England, Scotland and Wales. Only officials have information as to what is going on, and the Government's attitude on the matter is subject to change. When there are protests against yielding to the latest Fascist aggression it is suggested that Britain is virtually disarmed. When there is criticism of the arms muddle the Premier states that "If put to the test tomorrow Britain's air force would prove to be one of the most formidable fighting machines in the world." Says Mr. Engelbrecht: "Not since the shell shortage in the early days of the war has there been such a mess as the present aircraft situation." The Government kept the House of Commons in ignorance of the number of planes available, and then was embarrassed to find that the facts had been published in a German military handbook, although the responsible Minister had said that it was not in the public interest to disclose them. But as the figures change from day to day, it is possible only to guess what they might be at any given time. The guess of the Labor Party a month ago was that Great Britain had 1,750 military planes, while Germany had 3,000.

WHEN U. S. GROWS UP.

(Christian Science Monitor)

WITHIN 50 years the United States will have reached its population peak of 158,000,000, whereupon the search for new frontiers will become less frantic, and a young nation, having reached its maturity, will be faced with the necessity of developing a way of living more calm, more mature. This is the conclusion of the National Resources Committee subcommittee which has been studying the problem. The report, by the way, is as optimistic as it is cautionary. America's middle age it implies should be its happiest and most productive period—its years of serenity and poise, so to speak. But in order to prepare the way for this more mature national development, vast readjustments will have to be made. In fact it looks as though Americans would have to earn their peak of serenity as they approach the peak of population.

TOASTING THE KING.

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

FRANK P. GIBBS, C.A., president of the Stratford Rotary Club, has performed a useful service by clarifying the procedure in toasting the health of His Majesty the King.

Mr. Gibbs addressed a letter of inquiry on the subject to the Secretary of State of Canada and received a reply from the Under Secretary of State, E. H. Coleman, K.C., LL.D. We quote part of Mr. Coleman's letter:

"The toast to the King should be proposed by the chairman or toastmaster after lunch or dinner and should not be proposed with any preface or introductory speech. It is correctly proposed by the chairman rising and saying, 'Gentlemen (or, ladies and gentlemen), The King.' If the National Anthem is sung, the correct procedure is for the health to be drunk immediately following it. There should be no delay between the proposing of the toast and the first note of the National Anthem."

INVITATION?

"So you're not yet an octogenarian? Well, I hope you don't mind me taking you for one?"

"Lor', no, zur! Oi can just do wi' one." —Humorist.

• Newer Methods For Curing Hay

(By F. E. Ellis in Montreal Herald and Weekly Star)

AT ONE TIME, hay for the city market was a main cash crop for farmers in Eastern Canada and the New England states. Timothy hay, cut when well matured and then dried thoroughly, was then favored. Now the horse is gone from city streets and the hay is fed at home to dairy cattle. And the handling of the crop has changed entirely. Travelling through New Hampshire the last week of June I noted that already a good percentage of the hay was cut and in the mow. Haying was general everywhere. There, as in Canada, early cut and quickly cured timothy has proven much superior as a roughage for dairy cattle. I also found that many dairymen were making molasses silage of their timothy.

Molasses silage is claimed by George Hart of Oxford county to be so sweet and palatable that "you can chew it yourself and relish it. What I can relish, I figure is extra good for the cattle."

But there are many farmers without silos or without the equipment available to make molasses silage. Are they to lose the extra value of early cut hay? Mr. Hart says no. He is curing his first crop alfalfa, cut in the late bud stage, on tripods. "The Danes have been doing this for years but it has taken us a long time to learn from them," he commented regretfully. "On tripods the air circulates under the hay and up a chimney in the centre. We make them large enough that each will have one-third ton of cured hay,—three to a load. We draw the hay to the tripods with a rake after a day's wilt. Last year, when hay cut early and piled on the ground rotted, we had an excellent cure on the tripods. It takes longer to cure hay on tripods than to put it in the silo. It takes considerably longer than curing in the ordinary way but the food nutrients conserved and the extra palatability make it wholly practicable for the Ontario dairy farmer."

Just the week before my chat with Mr. Hart, I had been in the dairy stable at the Ontario Agricultural College just as molasses silage was being forked out of the silo. Mr. Luscombe, herdsman for many years, told me that they were extra well pleased with clover silage preserved in this manner and he was sure that it meant less protein in the form of millfeeds. Prof. Geo. E. Raithby, who heads up dairy cattle activities at the college, supplied me with a circular on the subject that he had just prepared. His recommendations were practically along the same lines as those of Mr. Hart. A few additional notes were as follows:

Some of our present hay harvesting machinery is not strong enough to handle the heavy green material. This is particularly true with the older drum-type hay loaders. These should be strengthened with extra cross slats and extra ropes and chains.

The ensiled crop should have a moisture content of approximately 70 per cent. This is difficult to guage but is one of the most important factors controlling the quality of the final product.

Per cent. water (moisture) in new cut alfalfa clover hay 75-80 per cent.

Per cent. water (moisture) in new cut timothy hay 70 per cent. This would suggest that alfalfa and the clovers should be wilted slightly before filling.

More care must be exercised in closing—"sealing"—a silo filled with grass than when filled with corn. The grass material has a tendency to dry out during the summer and to prevent excessive spoilage the following suggestions are given: Fill the top few feet with very wet material. This excess moisture will not be injurious to the feed at the top of the silo as there is considerable evaporation and this cuts down the excess. The extra moisture also adds weight which is beneficial to the whole silo. (Placing weights on the material is advised but not often practical.) Cover the green material with old building paper, or old bags, or sawdust, or straw and soak a quantity of oats in water and sow thickly over this material. Tramp daily for about a week after filling.

• Horses Have Plenty of Ailments

(Montreal Herald and Weekly Star)

A. H., Ont.—Filly has soft swellings at knees. Apply Tinct Iodine daily.

E. K., Que.—Colt breathes heavily and is stiff in the shoulders. Stand her in cold water for half an hour twice daily.

E. P., B.C.—Three-year-old horse has an enlarged fetlock, caused by a hard road. Apply Pine Tar daily.

R. B., Nfld.—Aged horse has had a lump in the throat for some years. If it has been in five years it will not hurt him.

W. E. C., B.C.— Is there a cure for bog spavin and thoroughpin in colts? Keep mineral lick in pasture. Apply Pine Tar daily.

V. B., Alta.—Aged gelding is slightly thick in the wind, sometimes chokes, discharges from the nose and throat. Feed ground feed and dampen it.

J. S., Ont.—Horse has a hard lump at the opening of the ear; it is open and has a bad odour. A cyst; swab with 10 per cent. Silver Nitrate Sol.

J. F. A., B.C.— Horse's front feet have small lumps between the lower joints and hoof. Keep the feet well pared. Apply a blister to enlargements.

E. J. T., Alta.—Horse choked on his oats, which gave him a cough. Dampen all feed. Do not feed any oats. Give a tablespoonful of baking soda twice daily.

S. S., Alta.—Young horse worked briefly developed a hard lump on the shoulder joint, which is very sore. Advisable to open this swelling. Consult your local veterinary.

R. W. I., B.C.—Horse developed staggers, apparently from eating bracken. Now shows symptoms of stringhalt. Give a teaspoonful of Potassium Iodide twice daily for a week.

H. S., N.S.—Light mare has been going lame in a fore foot, and it is now contracted. Keep hoof well pared down. Shoe with a flat shoe. Blister around the hoof head every ten days.

A. D., Sask.—Colt has a loose stifle, which clicks when he walks. Apply a blister every ten days. One part Biniodide Mercury, one part Turpentine, eight parts vaseline.

D. D. F., N.S.—Yearling colt has growth in both nostrils which interferé with his breathing. Give a half teaspoonful Potassium Iodide twice daily for a week. Miss a week and repeat.

• Says Store Clerks Work Too Long

(Letter in Montreal Herald)

SIR,—I HAVE been reading with considerable interest the many letters appearing in your columns in regard to the earlier closing of stores.

Many of your correspondents seem to think that by educating the buying public and gaining their sympathy the object may be achieved,—a very commendable idea, of course, but more drastic measures will have to be adopted with the hard-boiled store keepers of Montreal. A strictly enforced law is the only remedy applying to Jew and Gentile alike. I have been told it cannot be done in Montreal. It is done in London with a population of eight millions. It is done in every province except Quebec. It is done with the taverns in Montreal; a time is set to close and has to be strictly adhered to, with a few minutes "leeway" to "get out".

If you park your car in a sixty minute street section and overstep the limit, you expect to get a ticket. Why should not a police officer have power to give a store keeper a ticket for keeping his store open after 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Saturday?

Recently our city fathers decided to pay the "road cleaners" $18 a week salary for a 44-hour week. There are thousands of the "White Collar Brigade" working in stores in Montreal for that amount, and a good deal less, and putting in 64 and more hours a week, to say nothing of having to keep up a smart appearance and be diplomatic with your customers and take all kinds of dirt from the "Higher Ups."

Daylight saving was first adopted to give us a longer time for recreation, but the average small stores take advantage of this by keeping open later in the hope of catching a stray tourist who has all day to shop.

There is only one remedy, a drastic closing law strictly enforced, and a half-holiday once a week for everyone employed in a retail store.

The "Red" elements in our midst find the disgruntled store clerks easy marks for their propaganda, and unless something is done about it soon the consequences will be just too bad.

"YOURS FOR A SQUARE DEAL."

• Chinese Smile As Japs Bomb

(Anna Louise Strong, in Asia Magazine)

MORE THAN 3,000 Japanese bombs have been dropped on the Hong Kong-Canton-Hankow RaHroad, yet it still runs. The chief of the railway told me how it was kept open.

"The Japanese call it the mystery of Chinese labor, but it's realy quite simple. Every eight or 10 miles along the track we have organized an emergency repair gang of the local farmers. As soon as a bomb falls on the railroad, the local gang rushes to the spot and fills in the dirt.

"In an hour or two, the repair train comes down the line with ties, rails and skilled workers, who install the track over the earth-fill which the farmers have made. Hero stories? Oh, there aren't any now; it's settled down to routine. Routine bombing, routine damage, routine repairs and routine traffic. We are seldom shut down more than a couple of hours.

"Only," he added, with his Cantonese care for exact accounting, "our railroad will hardly make a profit this year because there are so many repairs!"

"It costs the Japanese 20,000 yen to make a hole in the ground and it costs us $10 to fill it up." Cantonese coolies say with a grin, oddly combining their love of good bargains with defiance of Japan. "Figure for yourself; these raids are good for us, since Japan goes more and more in the hole."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

NOW WHEN HE had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum. . . . And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nain; and many of his disciples went with him, and much people.

Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the city was with her.

And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not. And he came and touched the bier: and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise.

And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother. And there came a fear on all: and they glorified God, saying, That a great prophet is risen up among us; and, That God hath visited his people.—Luke vii, 1, 11-16.

ONE PARTY IS DOOMED.

(Farmer's Advocate)

SIGNS AND political developments in Canada point to the gradual and ultimate elimination of one or the other of the old political parties. The Liberal and National Conservative Parties in this Dominion are so much alike in background, outlook and policy that radical thinking elements will continue to break off into dismembered groups and then some political Moses will assemble the scattered regiments into an effective force that will displace one of the old line parties just as the Liberal Party has been effaced in the Old Country.

Canada is by no means free of isms and radical groups of many shades and complexions. If by any chance they should gang up on the traditional political institutions, Liberals and National Conservatives, both thinking and acting alike, but separated into two warring camps would offer a weak defence.

DOCTOR'S LAMENT.

(Journal of the American Medical Association)

LAST NIGHT when others were at rest
I rode about and did my best
To save some patients, called by fate,
From traveling through the Golden Gate.
This morning, when the news I spied,
I thought they might as well have died.

"Two Hundred Injured in a Wreck."
"Man Falls, Sustains a Broken Neck."
"Two Drown While Rocking a Canoe."
"Grade Crossing Murders Twenty-Two."
"Gas Blast Takes Lives of Twenty-Three."
"Two Die 'Neath Falling Apple Tree."

All night I toiled to save one life,
And millions die in useless strife;
What is the use to make one well,
While thousands harken to death's knell?
Where is my labour's recompense?
Why can't the world have common sense?

What Do You Mean— GOOD OLD DAYS ?

Your grandmother probably lived in a house like this. Perhaps you had many a good time there as a child. But would you want to go back to grandmother's house — to live there now ? The "good old days" were not good; nor were they easy. They were crude, inconvenient and uncomfortable. They were marked by a way of life that may have been satisfying to those who lived it, but scarcely broadening, hygienic or entertaining.

Good Old Days? The town's richest family lacked the safeguards and conveniences we all now take for granted: electric fans, adequate refrigeration, reliable drug products that the doctor can prescribe with safety, cheap telephone service, day and night, nationally known dependable packaged foods, automatic central heating, chic popular-priced apparel, and that modern bathroom!

Many things have made these blessings possible — inventive genius, plentiful capital and that insatiable desire for "something better". But only one thing has made them available to everybody, north and south, city and country, banker and workingman alike: Low cost manufacture and distribution created by advertising.

When you look at the ads in this newspaper today consider this fact: All over the country millions of other informed men and women are reading ads in their own local newspapers, checking values very similar to those being offered you by Examiner advertisers. They are visiting their own local stores . . . they are viewing and selecting stylish clothes, tasteful furniture, smart shoes, delicious food products and many, many other things, all having the same high quality as those you, yourself, buy!

And it is this uniform, nationwide demand, created and fostered by newspaper advertising that has made it possible for you to buy these luxurious necessities at the low popular prices everyone can afford to pay.

Consider this, too! Grandmother had to be a shrewd trader. Not every merchant was trustworthy in her time. But because newspaper advertising is universally accepted and believed it has actually brought about higher standards of buying and selling. Long ago advertisers discovered that unless their goods were "as advertised" they could not hold public confidence and stay in business. In this way newspaper advertising protects every man and woman who buys. Today the watchwords of every advertising merchant are "Dependability and Service ... First, Last and All the Time".

Do you want proof? Then check the ads daily in The Examiner! You will find that every item advertised is a real value calculated to make your buying dollar go farther. More important, when you purchase any article advertised in The Examiner you will find back of it a real pledge of dependability; dependability that your grandmother often sighed for but seldom found.

QUEBEC TEAM, '37 GOLF WINNERS CONFIDENT OF CUP VICTORY

Somerville Heads Ontario Team For Willingdon Cup

Getliffe Of Bruins Represents London In Golf Cup Hunt

TORONTO, July 19—(CP)—Mixture of veterans and newcomers will fire the opening shots when Canada's annual big week of amateur golf gets under way with the Willingdon Cup team competitions at the London Hunt Club next Monday.

Entry of seven four-man combinations was formally recorded today by secretary B. L. Anderson of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, and the team lineups include a flock of champions, near chapions and also rans in major and minor tournaments.

The provincial teams will fight it out over 36 holes of medal play for the trophy donated by Earl Lillingdon and first played for 11 years ago.

These three alone carry a wealth of experience into the competition they are Gordon B. Taylor of Montreal Kanawaki, Phil Farley of Montreal Marlborough and Frank Corrigan of Ottawa Chaudiere. Named with them are Jack Archer of Marlborough and Bill taylor of Summerlea. The Quebec Association may not make its final selection until the eve of the tournament.

Somerville Heads Ontario.

Against this starry combination, six other provincial associations will trot out their best. Ontario, five times holder of the title against Quebec's three, will again be led by Sandy Somerville, this year playing over his home course.

With Sandy will be two members of last year's team, Gordon Taylor, Jr., of Toronto Summit, runnerup to Somerville in the 1935 Dominion tournament at Hamilton, and Jim Boeckh of Toronto York Downs, the new 1938 Ontario amateur title holder. Rounding out the team is Ray Getliffe of London Hunt who travels the ice paths for Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League in winter. He is a newcomer to the competition.

Another hockey star will lead the combined New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island team. He is Pete Kelly, who last winter did his puck chasing with Detroit and Pittsburgh.

Knocking at the championship door and ready to blast the east out of the picture comes a quartet of Western teams. Three times the West has swept through to the title, and each time it was British Columbia that turned the trick.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 19 (A.P.). — Henry Armstrong has been doing the pitching for a Los Angeles softball team called the "Armstrong Dynamiters."....What was that Dizzy Dean muttered about a "lemon rickey" after he got that four-hitter out of his system the other day?

If you are still horsing for real long shots, why don't you place a quid on "Feller and Hemsley and Brown and Todd" as the batteries for the opening game of the World Series?....And before you laugh that one off, remember that Connie Mack pulled old Howard Ehmke out of the bull pen and sent him against the Cubs one day—and won.

Flying isn't sports, but you can't help but doff your new straw to that Corrigan guy....His grand feat in flying the Atlantic in an old sewing machine has touched the hearts of the nation....Last night, as this album of songs was being groun out, Jack Rorbett, president of the Syracuse Club of the International League, called to say he was forwarding a cheque for $100 to start a fund to buy a new plane for Corrigan....This department is too busy (?) to undertake the handling of such a fund, but I'll guarantee to turn Corbett's cheque over to anyone who will....Anyway, Corrigan rates a new mount, we say.

Judge Landis bought himself a new skimmer and went out to see the Cubs play....The park attendant didn't recognize the Judge in his new finery and wouldn't let him in....A youngster named Earl Tolley is apt to drive Sam Snead, the pride of West Virginia, right off the front pages down there....Tolley is the pro at the swanky Greenbrier Club at White Sulphur and has all the earmarks of a comer....And if all this happens, the irony would be that Tolley learned most of his golf watching Snead play.

What does Mike Jacobs know that he isn't telling (until after the Armstrong-Ambers bout)?....We'll tell you....It's a September heavyweight bout and involves Joe Louis, just as sure as shooting.

Hank Predicts K.O. For Ambers

NEW YORK, July 19—(AP)—Everytime you look up Henry Armstrong is getting ready to knock some fellow's head off. This time it is Lou Ambers and the Los Angeles negro goes so far as to predict he'll knockout the king of the lightweights.

The buzz-saw is making his first appearance here since he battered Barney Ross into pulp and added the welterweight championship to his featherweight crown. He starts training tomorrow and is willing to admit that Ambers has gone back and that he, Henry, will have him on the floor.

The inference drawn from Henry's remarks was that Ambers, after five years of fighting on or around the top, has passed his peak.

"Maybe so," admitted Hank, who is as hard to hit with a question as with a right hand, "but I'm not too sure. All I can say is if he doesn't get better, I'll drop him."

'You Bet I'm Champ'

He's world's lightweight champion until the evening of August 10, anyway, and wearing his crown at a jaunty angle and his best Sunday smile, Lou Ambers seems to be quite sure he'll be champ right on into the winter. In passing it might be mentioned Lou fights Henry Armstrong, August 10.

Petes Defeated At Sound 12-11 Lacrosse Tilt

Owen Sound took a 12-11 win over the Petes in an O.A.L.A. senior "B" fixture last night in Durham. It was a torrid tilt, with the short-handed Petes just nosed out after a hot battle, their second schedule loss of the season. There were penalties galore, with the homesters drawing 10 of the 19 handed out in a rough exciting fray on a poor floor.

Snyder scored the first for Owen Sound with D. McDonald getting another. Whitton and Chute each tallied for the visitors. Murdock got one for the northern gang and then G. Creighton scored on Whitton's pass. The latter bulged the twine before Murdock got another. Magee tallied a neat one and then Lee broke through for two fine goals. Snyder fooled the goalie again before the Petes broke loose for a pair, Vitarelli scoring from Whitton and Magee from Hendy. McLeod counted and aided Lee in another, with E. McDonald and Murdock adding another two as Owen Sound pressed. The Petes fought back, Chute notching two in a row and aiding in another. G. Creighton scored from Magee, but Snyder sank the winner a minute before the finish.

While all the visitors battled their heads off, Chute, G. Creighton, Whitton and Magee were outstanding, the later pair having to play through the last frame without a rest. The others of the team went down fighting gallantly. Murdock, the McDonalds, Snyder, McLeod and Lee all starred for the winners. Both goalies had a flock of fine saves.

Petes: Goal, R. Creighton; defence, G. Creighton and Chute; centre, Magee; wings, Vitarelli and Loucks; rover, Bowen; alternates, Pammett, Hendy, Sloan and Whitton.

To Play Cricket In U.S. Cities

TORONTO, July 19.—(CP)—Captained by E. F. Loney, noted Toronto player, a team of Eastern Canadian cricketers will visit New York and Philadelphia at the end of July for a series of matches. Thirteen players will make the trip with Harry Dean, veteran Toronto cricketer, as manager.

The Canadians are scheduled to oppose a New York and Metropolitan District Association eleven, July 30 and the following day meet a team representing the Cosmopolitan New York and Interstate cricket leagues.

Going on to Philadelphia the tourists play Haverford College Old Boys Aug. 1. The Haverford eleven is expected to be led by Christopher C. Morris, veteran Philadelphia star.

Two-Bodied Pig

TIMMINS, Ont., July 19.—(CP)—Joe Langlois, McFarlane Lake farmer, could hardly believe his eyes when he started checking over a litter of pigs just born on his farm. Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

THE RAT-TAT-TAT of racing motorcycles will enliven this town on Civic Holiday, a week from next Monday, in the Exhibition Grounds. The occasion is the Canadian half-mile dirt track championship motorbike races, sponsored by the Peterborough Lions Club in conjunction with the Kawartha Motorcycle Club. Proceeds go to the Lions Club boys' band. The event was first staged last year and proved highly successful, bringing in a bunch of crack riders—not cracked nor cracked-up either, by golly!—and a whole flock of people. An even more ambitious program is arranged this year and several of the best pro riders on the continent have sent word they'd be on deck to do their stuff. The races have the Canadian Association sanction.

WESTCLOX GALS got back from vacation and started right in winning again, grabbing off a 2-1 nod in a tight tilt last eve in Keene. A swell scrap, and Keene will have to hustle now to make the sectional playoffs. H. Bradley and B. McDowell both pitched good ball. Manager Ab Delahaye of Westclox pulled a boner once when a pop fly went up over second. He yelled: "Marie!" And both Marie Ferguson at short and Marie Allison at second went for it and collided! Maybe he should call one Marie "Pete. It is Westclox and C. G. E. at the Bowl tomorrow night.

Look Who's Here Again

OSHAWA GM-MEN meet the Petes at 6.15 in Riverside Park this Thursday in the twilight. Probably the last meeting of these clubs here ere the loop playoffs. On account of the Petes have lined up three exhibition jousts with pro squads to keep in shape for the next two weeks. Buffalo semi-pros come here next Saturday and the House of David whiskerinos have two tilts with the locals here late the following week. Jake Biddle will probably pitch this one for Oshawa on Thursday, it being his turn, while we dunno which of the Petes will get the call. Hope it is another whiz-bang of a baseball battle like the last clash between these clubs on local terrain. No doubt, the Motor Citizens are still smarting, like a spanked lad, after that three-run rally in the ninth which robbed 'em of a win in their last appearance in Peterborough. It was robbery all right—a case of grand larceny, especially grand for the home customers.

SOME WILD AND WOOLLY action last night at the Riverview A. C. boxing show in the lacrosse arena. Crowd of 800 fans enjoyed most of it but got their fill of fouls at the finish. Two bouts ended in fouls and another in a claim of a foul—three most unsatisfactory endings to good bouts. But to start at the beginning. Will Hays and Frank Vasey put on a good curtain-raiser. Frank Smith and Buddy Redmond mixed it well in a no-decision tilt, while Red Riel won on points from Dan McGregor in a fair fracas. Mal Packenham kayoed Hilt Greenley in the first round, putting him down for the count of 10 with some hard rights to the whiskers. Hilt was slow getting up and it was Knockout No. 1. Reg Lesurf toyed with young Art Nokes to win handily on points. Art was game but green compared to the experienced Lesurf, who gave him a boxing lesson. And then came Wardie Wright and Norm Bowler in a honey of a grudge battle, the show's high-light.

No Pink Tea Party

THEY TORE AFTER each other from the start with Wright more aggressive. He downed Bowler twice for counts of four and seven halfway through the round. Norm, apparently dazed after the second, staggered to his feet and suddenly—the old 'possum trick—ripped into Wardie hard and hurt him as the round ended. They hammered each other without mercy to open the second and both tripped and went down heavily, Wright on top. Bowler staggered to his corner and flopped, sick at the stomach, after they had mixed it following the bell. Norm couldn't come out and Wright got the duke on a technical kayo. They are supposed to meet in a return go July 26th in Lindsay and, if Bowler is in shape, we'll see it or sprain a thumb trying to get there!

SOMEONE ASKED Referee Bill Horrocks afterward if Wright should not have been disqualified when his second helped him to his feet with both men on the floor. "Sure," he replied, "they should both have been disqualified several times, but it was a grudge fight and they weren't attempting to use science at all. They wanted to fight and the crowd wanted them to, so I didn't stop it." And then came the last three unsatisfactory fizzles. Eddie Pratt and Joe Taman were staging a dandy duel of the whirlwind variety when Taman doubled up and claimed a foul in the third. It was a hard blow to the stomach but the referee wouldn't allow it and gave Pratt the nod. He was in a better spot to see than we were, so we can't argue. The boys around the gym said afterward Taman had a big bruise on him below the belt.

And Some More Fouls

McILMOYLE AND POTTER were pasting each other hard in the semi-final when Dutch staggered out of a buzz-saw mixup in the second, doubled up and claiming he had been hit low. The referee stepped over to the ropes with him to check on the extent of his injury, when Potter raced across and walloped McIlmoyle again in the pantry. And the referee promptly gave Dutch the bout on a foul, claiming this second blow was illegal while he was examining the fighter. We don't know whether or not he had waved Potter aside first. If he did, then the Toronto pub should have stayed back. But otherwise he was entitled to keep swinging so long as Dutch was on his feet. The first rule of the ring is "protect yourself at all times." And the main bout saw a dandy scrap between Orlando and Oliver, with the latter being warned several times for low punches, when the Toronto champ hurt Nick with one below the belt. He was disqualified. We don't blame the local fighters, nor do we think the visiting pugs were deliberately fouling—but it made a bad ending to a good mitt card. Most decidedly.

YESTERDAY OUR lacrosse lads journeyed nigh onto 200 miles to a spot called Durham and when they got there, darned if the Petes didn't lose a 12-11 decision. A nifty game in a poor box, but the Petes didn't have several regulars. Injuries or illness kept Pete King, Ira Dundas and Norm Worthy from making the trip, while Don Crowe was off on vacation. And at that the Petes have lost but two and tied two while winning enght in O. L. A. games. They're going good, and put up a neat struggle last e'en after a long trip and being shorthanded. Mount Hamilton plays the Petes here this Friday in the gloaming with the midgets, Lions and Y's Men's, meeting first.

DESE, DEM AND DOSE: Motorists and Westclox have a men's softball setto at the Bowl tonight . . . While Y's Men's and Kiwanis play a midget lacrosse match this evening. . . . Lions practise tonight at seven with these players (and others who want a trial, under 16) asked out: D. Anderson, L. Ascott, D. Vitarelli, L. Vitarelli, T. Caravaggie, S. Detlor, J. Maloney, J. Ainslie, J. Roberts, S. Kinmond, R. Eason and B. Crowe. . . . To date in loop frays, the Petes in the O. L. A. have scored 144 goals and had 91 against them. . . . Danforth Aces play Keene gal softballers at the Bowl Sat'day eve. . . . P. C. I. tackles Pirates tomorrow in the gloaming at the Ex. in a junior ball game. . . . Riverview A. C. puts on a fight in Lakefield this Friday p.m. and in Lindsay the 26th. . . . If we were running these mitt shows we'd warn Toronto pugs in future that they'd get no expense dough if they fouled out on low blows; these fouls ruin a show. . . . Yet ya can't blame boys from doubling up when they get a sickening punch under the belt—it takes all the fight out of one. . . . Bowler says he'll take Wright in four rounds in Lindsay. . . . That Brinton field day, mentioned here before, was postponed for a time. . . . Just a thought: Seems to us that if a guy with hay-fever could see himself when he was hay-fevering at his highest pitch—well, it would cure him!

Soccer Notes

At the meeting of the Soccer Association last night a letter was received from a Toronto team requesting a game here on Civic Holiday. A team chosen by the local executive was proposed; but the idea was held in abeyance after the financial proposition had been considered.

The Brinton executive is endeavoring to arrange a game in Port Credit on Civic Holiday. That will be the return game with the visitors, but the local boys await definite information.

There will be no game to-night. The Deloro executive notified the association and the C.C.F. representative that they could not get transportation, compelling them to call the game off.

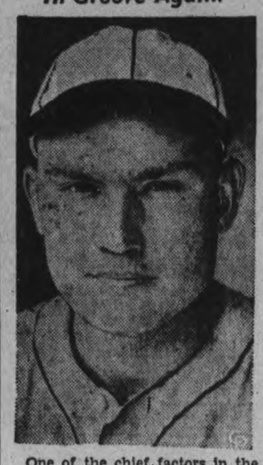
On Thursday night, the Corinthians meet the Brinton in the Injured Players' Cup. Kick-off at 6.30 prompt. This will give the fans an opportunity to witness the old-timers in uniform again.

The secretary was instructed to write Deloro informing them that a game had been scheduled for Saturday night in Peterborough with the C.C.F. in the Injured Players' Cup. Kick-off at 6.45 prompt. Referee S. J. Hanlon. If not possible, the Brinton club would travel to Deloro in the afternoon to play the return fixture with Smelters. They must notify the local secretary also the C.C.F. and Brintons.

Jack Parry, who played for the Canadian General until his recent operation has made application to the board as an official referee, and will be given a trial as soon as possible.

The Injured Players' Cup final will be played next Tuesday night.

In Groove Again?



One of the chief factors in the slump of St. Louis Cardinals this year has been the failure of Johnny Mize, above, to hit. It left the team with only half of its famous Medwick and Mize, one-two punch. Frisch & Co. are hoping Johnny returned to normal when he belted three successive homers in a game with Boston Bees.

Peterboro Club Gains Deadlock In Belleville

In inter-club tennis matches in Belleville on Sunday, the Peterborough Tennis Club and the Bay of Quinte Club racquet-wielders broke even at 5-5. One match was incompleted, Vi Davidson and Doug McPherson of Peterborough having 6-4 and 3-5 scores against Grace McCreary and Art Cole. Return matches will be played here on August 7th.

In ladies' singles, Helen Cole of Peterborough defeated Grace McCreary in straight sets, 8-6 and 6-3. Fred Baines of Belleville won the men's singles over Doug McPherson, 6-4 and 6-1. Bud Odell of Belleville defeated Ben Swartz in another, 6-1 and 6-2. Murray Mitchell of Belleville took a men's single from Andy Rutter 6-1 and 6-4. In men's doubles, Bud Odell and Art Cole of Belleville won over Harry Marsh and Andy Rutter, 6-3 and 8-6. In another, Fred Baines and Murray Mitchell of Belleville won from Jack Patte and Les Storey, 7-5 and 6-4. Max Swartz and H. Hammell of Peterborough took a men's double over Bill Barry and Ted Doyle, 6-4 and 6-3. G. Scott and Don McPherson of Peterborough defeated E. Whelpton and J. Amell, 6-3 and 9-7. In mixed doubles, Mrs. Storey and Geo. Scott defeated Rose Lazure and E. Whelpton, 6-0 and 6-4. In ladies' doubles, S. Levine and E. Kirn of Peterborough were successful against S. Burroughs and Rose Lazure.

8 Rinks Compete Havelock Jitney

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 19.—Eight mixed rinks competed Monday evening on the Havelock Recreation Club greens in the regular Monday evening jitney. A perfect evening for bowling was enjoyed and the spectators were treated to several close and exciting games.

The rink skipped by Rae Williams took first prize with three wins and a total of 28 points. Other members of the winning rink were Mrs. D. Brennan, Mrs. R. Jones, and Mrs. J. Hoffman.

Second prize went to L. G. Hagerman's rink, consisting of Mrs. F. Wrightly, Mrs. Crooke, and J. Hagerman. Their score was two wins with 21 points.

E. Chiles' rink of Mrs. D. Hutchinson, Mrs. F. Thompson, and Mrs. Russell were awarded the consolation prize with no wins and five points.

Other skips and their scores were: H. T. Mathison, skip, 1 win, 14 points; J. Hooper, skip, 2 wins, 19 points; J. Moore, skip, 2 wins, 20 points; D. Brennan, skip, 2 wins, 18 points; H. Krantz, skip, 0 wins, 12 points.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

In both the single and doubles competition of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association playoffs, held on our local greens last night, it was necessary for the winners to play off fou rextra ends before the final distribution of the prizes. So keen was the competition that both winners and runners-up won all 3 games, thereby causing the extra elimination series. Rinks from Cobourg, Port Hope, Cannigton, and Peterborough commenced play at 7.30, and continued until well after midnight.

The annual rink competition for the Central Ontario will take place in Oshawa some time later in August ....The twilight tournament tomorrow night starts at 6.30. Please make your entry to-night.

The Winners.

Oshawa Ballsters To Tackle Petes

Lefty Biddle is slated to hurl for Oshawa GM-men when they tangle with the locals here Thursday in a twilight tussle at 6.15 in Riverside Park. The flashy forksider sat on the bench while Jack Turner was being nosed out here last week and it is Biddle's turn now to take the slab. In his one start against the Petes this season—on his home mound—the lanky lefthander limited the locals to three hits in a fine flinging performance. Upon him rest the chief hopes of the Oshawa outfit of retaining their C.O.B.L. championship this season, Jake Biddle having hurled them to two in the last two years and to one Provincial title. No definite announcement has been made as to who will twirl for the Petes this game McNally, Kitchen, and Whitehill all being available, with Jakafby a possibility, too.

This will probably be the last Oshawa-Peterborough game here till the playoffs, several exhibition

Outlaws Club Increase Lead Hastings Loop

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 19.—The Outlaws increased the lead in the town softball league when they defeated the last place Elgin team 16 to 10 last night. The game was tied at 10 all going into the last innings but the Outlaws put on a 6 run rally to sew the game up.

McKee allowed Elgin 12 hits while he struck out 8 and walked 6. P. Scott started for Elgin but had to be relieved in the fateful last innings by R. Richardson. He had given up 9 hits, struck out 6 and passed 9. Richardson held the Outlaws hitless and struck out 1. He also had good control, walking none.

Stickles, with a long homer and 2 singles, led the batters for the Outlaws while J. Richardson, with 3 singles topped Elgin's clouters. The teams:

She Renounced a Fortune to Wind Up On A Park Bench

It never dawned on Noel Shayne, who took quite for granted her $100,000-a-year income, that the day would come when she would be sitting on a park bench, in desperate need of a job herself, trying to console a forlorn specimen of her own sex. Yet this casual meeting in the park led to a friendship that contrasting breeding and environment could not blemish, although these girls were born to

ORLANDO WINS ON FOUL OVER ONTARIO LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP

Three Fights On Program End In Fouls

Nick Orlando, local lightweight, won on a foul in the third round here last night from Russ Oliver of Toronto, Ontario 135-pound champion. It was the main bout of the Riverview A.C. amateur mitt card and was the third straight fight on the nine-bout card to end in a foul. A crowd of over 800 fans expressed disapproval at the unsatisfactory endings of these bouts. Otherwise it was a good boxing card.

In the semi-final, Dutch McIlmoyle was awarded the decision on a foul over Bill Potter of Toronto at the end of the second round. The previous bout saw Eddie Pratt of Toronto given the decision over Joe Taman, local 121-pounder, at the end of the third round Taman claiming a foul and unable to come out for the fourth.

Best of All

High-light of the card was the grudge fight between Wardie Wright and Norm Bowler, local middleweights, with Wright winning on a technical knockout when Bowler became sick to the stomach and could not answer the bell for the third heat. It was a furious slugfest while it lasted with both boys ending up on the floor after a wild spill. This pair will be rematched in Lindsay on July 26th.

Art Hunter was matchmaker with Harry Low the promoter. Bill Horrocks of the Peterborough A. C. was referee, with Archie Menzies, Hugh Davis and Howard Shimer the judges. The timer was Jack Withers, while Fred Scates did the announcing. It was a nine-bout card, with Will Hays and Frank Vasey in a no-decision curtain-raiser, and Frank Smith and Buddy Redmond also staging a neat no-decision affair. Red Reil won on points over Dan McGregor in the first decision bout, these boys being 100-pounders.

Mal Packenham kayoed Hilt Greenley in the first round of their lightweight scrap. He parked a couple of hard rights on his chin to put him down twice, once for nine seconds and then for 10. Greenley being too slow climbing to his feet. The round had gone two and a half minutes when the knockout came.

Good Boxing Shown

Reg Lesurf returned to the ring after a lengthy layoff and won handily on points from Art Nokes. Reg went 140 to Art's 145 pounds but had far too much experience for his game but green rival. He toyed with him most of the three rounds, knocking him down once and outboxing him by a good margin in a rather listless three-round affair. The knockdown came in the second stanza and was for four seconds.

Wardie Wright, 152, won on a technical knockout at the end of the second round from Norm Bowler, 155, when the latter could not come out of his corner to start the third. He was sick at the stomach after a wicked two rounds of hammer and tongs fighting. Wright knocked him down twice in the first round and was in turn staggered when Bowler came back fast after his second knockdown to slam some hard ones to the head. It was a redhot slugfest, with no science used, and had the place in an uproar. They went at it ferociously again in the second and were slamming roundhouse wallops to the head when both tripped and went down hard. They got up and were mixing it after the bell when parted. Bowler was wobbly and half-sick in his corner and Wright got the decision.

First of Fouls

Joe Taman, local 121-pound pugilist, lost on a technical kayo to Eddie Pratt of Toronto 122 pounds, at the end of the third heat. Joe Took the first with a whirlwind attack with both hands flashing up and down as Ed hung on. They fought furiously and at a hot clip again in the second with Ed hitting harder but not as often as his smart opponent, and both getting in some hard smashes to the stomach. It looked like Joe's round. Pratt had an edge in the third, finding the range with a pile-driving right hand to the midriff and the odd cross upstairs, but Taman was throwing lots of leather, too. Near the end, Pratt landed hard to the pantry with Joe near the ropes and the latter staggered to his corner and claimed he was hit low. He couldn't come out for the fourth and Pratt got the nod.

Dutch McIlmoyle, 160, and Bill Potter of Toronto, 145, met in a slugging bee and had the fans yelling as they hurled hard punches up and down to body and head. Dutch landed a few more stiff ones in the first and had Potter's nose bleeding. They slugged hard in the second and Dutch was doubled up, apparently from a low blow. He leaned against the ropes and the referee came over to examine him. Just then, Potter tore across the ring and knocked Dutch down with a hard swing to the stomach. A big argument followed and the referee awarded the fight to McIlmoyle on a foul.

Nick Orlando, 135, and Russ Oliver, 135 champion, Toronto, had a nifty three-round fight before it ended in a foul. They were both smart boxers and hit hard to put on a real fight with the first two rounds even. The Negro was warned several times on low blows and finally, when Nick was doubled over by a blow under the belt in the third round, Referee Horrocks stepped in and gave the fight to Orlando to end the card.

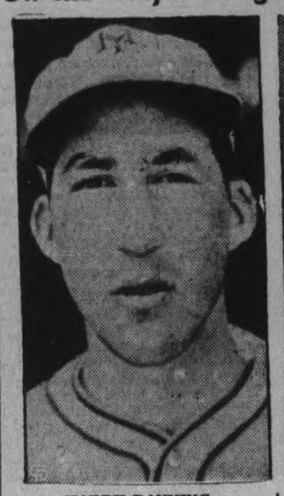
On the Major League Battle Front

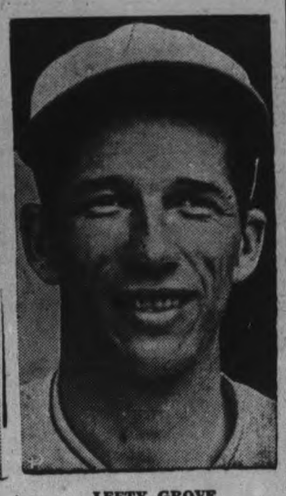


HARRY DANNING

Manager Bill Terry of New York Giants has suspended indefinitely his first-string catcher for breaking training rules. The Giants are on a western trip and Danning was expected to be ordered home. He was suspended without pay.

MICKEY COCHRANE

The Detroit Tigers' boss has been a bench manager since his near tragic beaning last year, and in a game with the Red Sox was overcome by a dizzy spell and left the park. The attack was not believed to be an aftermath of his head injury.



LEFTY GROVE

While registering his 14th pitching triumph of the year for Boston Red Sox, the ace southpaw and mainstay of the team, suffered an ailing arm and retired from the game in the fifth inning. It was not known how serious the injury might be.

Ulster Headed For Cup Final Canada Soccer

TORONTO, July 19. — (CP)— Fortune may ordain otherwise, but veteran George Graham of the Toronto Ulster United soccer team maintained to-day this looks like his year to win a Dominion cup medal—something that has eluded him during more than a dozen years as a star here.

The veteran's ambition is to play on a Dominion championship team and win a cup medal. And the man who says, "I won't retire until I win that medal," is playing a major part in the drive of the Ulstermen, now in the Eastern Canada final against Dome Mines, Northern Ontario champions.

Oust Carsteels.

Ulster United gained the sectional final by eliminating Montreal Carsteel in straight games in their best-of-three series, taking a 4-0 victory Saturday and a 5-1 win here last night.

Graham scored three goals in the first game, and then added two more last night.

He almost realized his hope last year when Ulster United went through to the Dominion final, but the Torontonians were defeated by Vancouver in a series at Winnipeg. But even an injured leg can't keep Graham from the field, nor subdue the fighting spirit of the classy centre-forward.

Graham suffered a leg injury July 11 against Toronto Scottish in a National League game here, but he still is the leading scorer in the league.

Officials of the Ulster club said last night the series with Dome Mines would be played in Toronto, opening Thursday night. There was a possibility, however, the teams might stage their play at Timmins, Ont.

Wrestling Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Portland, Me.—Count Otto Von Zuppe, 189, Germany, defeated Jim Spencer, 198, Boston two of three falls.

New York—Cliff Olson, 218, St. Paul, and Hank Barber, 230, Boston, drew, 13:06 (both unable to continue after fall from ring.)

Record-Equaller

Frank Moore, ABOVE, who, before the start of the U.S. P.G.A. tournament was best known as the brother of Terry Moore, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, posted a 36-hole score of 136 in the qualifying rounds to equal the Alex Smith Memorial medal. He couldn't stand the match play pace, however, and went out in the first round of the tournament proper.

Chicago Gives Dean Warning To Giantmen

NEW YORK, July 19.—(CP)—No matter what may happen to those pennant-hungry New York baseball clubs within the next week or so, no one can say they haven't given or received fair warning.

The Yankees, leading the American League by a game and a half as they go into a "crucial" four-game series with Cleveland's second-place Indians, sounded the alarm by winning 17 of their last 20 games and tying another. The Giants, dropped into second place by Pittsburg Pirates, have heard a similar warning from Chicago Cubs. They have to tackle Chicago and its newly-recovered Dizzy Dean late this week after what they hope will be a pleasant interlude at St. Louis.

The Cubs, right now, look like a team to watch in the National League. They have won seven straight now from Philadelphia and Boston to move back into third place. The return of Dean undoubtedly will be an inspiration to the team and they appear overdue for their annual big winning streak.

Make Margin Stick

The Buccos, who rose to the top on a 13-game winning streak, proved that wasn't just a prolonged flash in the pan when they won two games and tied one in a four-game series with the Giants. They made their margin, previously visible only in the percentage column, a half game yesterday by slugging out a 7-4 victory in two big innings.

Johnny Rizzo's homer with two aboard started the trouble in the sixth. Then after Harry Gumbert had been lifted for a pinch hitter, the Pirates fell on Dick Coffman for five hits and four more runs in the seventh. At that it took some smart relief pitching by Bill Swift to hold the lead as the Giants knocked Cy Blanton out in the three-run eighth.

The Cubs, meantime, pulled out a 7-6 decision over Boston Bees in the ninth inning after blowing a 63 lead in the same frame. Gabby Hartnett, the reliable, singled in the winning run after Tex Carleton had lost his stuff in the ninth, loaded the sacks with two singles and a pass and then served up a nice one which Tony Cuccinello belted for a three-run double.

St. Louis Cardinals knocked off the Phillies 5-3 in the day's only other game as Brooklyn Dodgers, with four straight victories, were checked by rain at Cincinnati. The American League had an open date.

Schoolgirl Out For Golf Honors

TORONTO, July 18. — (CP) — School is out and that means plenty of time for 16-year-old Mary Jane Fisher of Toronto to brush up on shot-making that already has stamped her as one of Ontario's best woman golfers although she has competed in only a handful of tournaments.

Mary Jane, a husky blond, created quite a stir last month by reaching the semi-finals in the Ontario women's golf championships in her first try. She lost to the eventual winner, Mrs. E. H. Gooderham of Toronto.

The Toronto girl, who celebrated her 16th birthday this month, took up the game five years ago and only entered her first tournament, a junior affair at Burlington, Ont., two years ago. But Mary Jane takes her golf seriously, and thinks it would be "just grand" to be Canadian champion some day.

Mary Jane says that such well-known women Toronto stars as Miss Ada Mackenzie, many-time Canadian titlist, Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen and Mrs. Gooderham have all encouraged her and advised more tournament play. She intends to follow the advice and will enter the Canadian tournament this year at Ottawa.

MILITARY UNIT

SAVANNA-LA-MAR, Jamaica — (CP). — A semi-military organization, to be known as the Westmorland Infantry Volunteers, has been organized here to suppress lawlessness in this district. The action followed widespread labor troubles that broke out in many district of Jamaica.

Walks Costly For Wingmen, Giants Win

TORONTO, July 19.— (CP). — Those Buffalo Bisons, although they have been pushed around at times, are a hard team to keep down. And if Newark's Bears, who haven't been travelling so fast in their runaway race for the past couple of weeks, falter a bit there may yet be a race for the International League pennant.

Buffalo has been kicking around second place most all season, occasionally dropping back to third or worse, but in the clutches they generally come through. They won their last four games now and six of their last seven from such dangerous rivals as Newark and Syracuse, and are more solidly set in second place than ever.

Coming through at the last minute, the Bisons downed Syracuse 6-5 last night for their fourth straight win. Newark, meanwhile, suffered its fifth shutout of the season and its third within two weeks at the hands of Rochester's southpaw rookie, Ken Raffensberger, 4-0. The result left the Bears 10½ games in front.

Beat Toronto 11-7.

Jersey City Giants won their first game for Manager Hank Deberry, rallying for five runs in the eighth to beat Toronto 11-7. And thus further complicated the standing. That put the Giants back in fifth place by a few percentage points over Montreal and dropped Toronto last, a shade behind Baltimore Orioles. Montreal and Baltimore were idle.

Eleven passes by Davis and Meola of Toronto practically gave Jersey City the game, but the Giants didn't clinch it until the eighth. Meola, going into that frame with a 6-4 lead walked the bases full, then gave a single and fired a wild pitch before Don Brennan could come to the rescue. Brennan was nicked for a triple that wound up the five-run rally.

Westclox Girls Beat Keene 2-1

Westclox girls returned to the softball wars in Keene last night and grabbed off a 2-1 decision over the Fletcher crew in a grand game. Bunching hits with errors in the fourth frame, the Clockmakers got two runs while Keene used three hits for their lone marker in the third heat. It was a pitching duel most of the route between Bea McDowell and H. Bradley. The latter gave up eight scattered hits, outside of the third, while walking none and fanning one. Bea McDowell also gave eight hits and two walks as she struck out seven. Westclox fielding was good but Keene slipped in one inning to lose the close contest. Many runners were left on base for each.

Some snappy fielding was turned in by the rivals in spots, with a third to first to catcher double play by Westclox featuring. M. Hawthorne, M. Allison, T. Mills and G. Nelson all pulled off good defensive plays. H. Nelson and R. Wood of Keene had two singles apiece; while M. Ferguson and M. Hawthorne led the winners at bat with two singles each. The loss gives Keene a poor chance of making the second-half playoffs. The teams:

Westclox: M. Snowden, 1b; M. Ferguson, ss; M. Allison, 2b; M. Hawthorne, 3b; A. Sturgeon, cf; D. Merrett, lf; B. Blade, c; H. Bradley, p; M. Selkirk, rf.

Weekend Rains Worth Million Across Ontario

TORONTO, July 19 (C.P.). — Rain worth millions of dollars to farmers and fruit growers fell during the week-end around Toronto, Hamilton, and throughout the Niagara Peninsula. P. W. Hodgetts, director of the Fruit Branch, said the rains would save Ontario's $800,000 raspberry crop, brighten late fruit crops generally, and save the spring grain crops which needed moisture to fill out.

Rains fell intermittently throughout yesterday at Niagara Falls, Beamsville, Vineland, and on through east of Hamilton. Galt reported good rains yesterday, aiding corn and root crops. Stocked wheat will not be damaged greatly, farmers at Galt said.

Kitchener farmers were optimistic after the rainfall and predicted all crops would be better-than-average now, instead of below average. Rain was needed badly there to fill out the grain which was heading out rapidly with little moisture to fill them out. More than a quarter of an inch of rain fell.

Hamilton agriculturists said the rain assured farmers of one of the best field produce crops in many years with tomatoes, raspberries and root crops all maturing rapidly and well in advance of other years.

Burlington and Aldershot districts, north-east of Hamilton, saw rains revive prospects for a good tomato crop. Continued dry weather would have injured these growers, who grow tomatoes for basket marketing, not processing.

Dry at Sault.

Dry weather continued at Sault Ste. Marie where haying was in full swing. The crop there is a large one after two unfavorable years. The raspberry crop promises well and did not need rain.

Cut worms continued as a menace to crops in some areas, but W. M. Cockburn, York County agricultural representative, said tiny eggs laid by the tachina fly soon would aid in destroying the cutworms. When the parasites hatch, they attack the cutworm.

Stratford reported the cutworms which attacked Elma Township cornfields were moving north and had attacked oats on Albert Hartman's farm in Wallace Township.

A. W. Sirett, agricultural representative, said the splendid rains which fell throughout the Kingston district and most of Frontenac County "was of untold value to the grain crops and pasture."

where my plane won't have to be dismantled."

He acknowledged that "folks here still are tremendously excited about my trip, but after all it wasn't much. They've been very kind to me in not having me summoned for landing without an air-worthiness certificate."

The Californian who was proclaimed on two continents as a foolhardy hero, slept late in the guest bed of the United States Legation. He wore pajamas borrowed from John Cudahy, United States' Minister.

"I want a nice long rest," he told Cudahy last night. "Don't wake me for a long time. I'll sleep through breakfast."

Some Settling Up.

He had the matter of the legality of his landing to settle with Irish officials, but men with names like Corrigan and Cudahy are not likely to have trouble here getting over a technical difficulty when it concerns a flight like Corrigan's to Dublin.

He won't have to worry about clothes. Admiring tailors already have sent the daring aviator two new outfits, free.

He had offers of contracts, too, although he had been here less than a day, but it was understood he turned them all down with the statement, "I prefer to be footloose while I am here and won't sign anything."

Footloose and fancy free, he is staying in Dublin a day or two without planning for the future.

The "crate" that took him the 3,150 miles from New York to Dublin's Baldonnel Airdrome between 5.17 a.m. (EDT) on Sunday and 3.30 p.m. (EDT) on Monday was locked up at Baldonnel to safeguard it from souvenir hunters.

Drive To The Left

VANCOUVER, July 19—(CP)—Every motorist in Vancouver was liable to arrest today but it took an inquiring reporter to find it out. A study of city by-laws showed one directing traffic to keep to the left had never been repealed. Vancouver has been "keeping to the right" for 18 years.

Moscow Polytechnical Museum displayed exhibits pertaining to this year's election in Russia.

The Examiner BULLETIN BOARD

A story from Toronto says that recognized charities, service clubs and other organizations are proposing that the Ontario Government establish a provincial commission to curb racketeering.

A general decrease in the amount of shipping handled by the port of Quebec during June and of passenger traffic arriving in the same month is reported.

A few hours after her three children had been burned to death in a fire which swept a fisherman's cottage on Scatarie Island, off the coast of Nova Scotia, Mrs. James Parsons died of burns.

Lorne Teeter of Markdale was killed when the truck he was driving collided with a motor car.

Dies of Injuries.

G. T. McNally, 62, of Toronto, who was involved in a head-on collision between two cars on Highway No. 11 on Saturday, died in hospital at Orillia yesterday.

Sixteen-year-old Billy Bridgeman, North Welsingham, died in hospital at Tillsonburg, of a broken neck sustained when he dived from a bridge into a creek.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has been asked by the Interntaional Broadcasters' Union to provide a world concert broadcast on October 23.

Principal Resigns.

David Whyte, principal of the Toronto Normal School, has resigned his post because of ill health. He has been a member of the staff for 29 years.

More than sixty men of the British navy and air force were taken to hospital at Valetta, Malta, suffering from food poisoning.

Roslyn King, a 13-year-old Biggar, Sask., girl, almost drowned in sight of a crowd of 1,300 people when she fainted while in bathing and sank to the bottom.

Every Ontario road sign on an eight-mile stretch of highway near Burlington Beach has been torn from the ground and smashed, and the police are hunting the culprits.

Halifax Man Drowns.

Michael Fugman, 58, who sent a bomb through the mails that killed three persons, was electrocuted in the electric chair at Rockview Penitentiary, Pa.

Two handkerchief-masked bandits held up Allen Lane, a 19-year-old clerk in a Toronto drug store as he opened the store and stole $2 from the cash register.

A study of Vancouver's bylaws has revealed a law directing traffic to keep to the left. The city's traffic has been keeping to the right for years.

OBITUARY

THOMAS GILLIS.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, July 19. — The death occurred on Thursday evening of one of the oldest residents of Cavan in the person of Thomas Gillis. Mr. Gillis, who was in his 89th year, had for many years farmed in Cavan Township, but on account of failing health had of late years made his home with his son. His wife, Grace Wilkinson, predeceased him, also two daughters, Mrs. Ferguson of Peterboorugh and Mrs. Ballantyne of Toronto.

He is survived by four sons, Norman, Ira and Harry of Cavan and George of Manvers, also four daughters, Mrs. John Smith and Mrs. Harry Smith of Cavan, Mrs. Calvin Reynolds of Manvers, and Mrs. Roy Leach of Peterborough.

The funeral, which was widely attended, was held from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John Smith, on Saturday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Holden, rector of Cavan Parish, officiating.

Pall-bearers were six grandsons—Wilfred, Ronald and Maurice Gillis, and Mervin, Gordon and Bruce Smith.

Interment was in the family plot at St. Mary's Cemetery, Lifford.

CHARLES TIGHE.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, July 19. — Warsaw Presbyterian Church was filled on Sunday afternoon, July 17, for the funeral service of the late Charles Tighe, who had practically lived all his life near Warsaw until he moved to Peterborough about two years ago. He died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ed. Moore, in Lakefield, after an illness of several years, during which he was devotedly attended by his wife.

Mr. Tighe was 75 years of age, and leaves to mourn the loss, his wife, four sons, Edward on the homestead, William, Arthur in Peterborough, and Hilliard in Lakefield; also four daughters, Mrs. Ed. Moore, in Lakefield, Mrs. Trude in Smith, Mrs. Finlay James in Smith, and Mrs. H. Tighe in the West.

Mr. Tighe was a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge 212 in Warsaw, was initiated on July 12, 1888, just fifty years ago. His father was an Orangeman belonging to Warsaw Lodge, and when he died he was buried in his full regalia. When physically able, Mr. Tighe always attended the walks. Mrs. Tighe also is a member of the Orange Order, and both were memebrs of the Presbyterian Church.

The cortege, including Lakefield L.O.L., arrived at the Orange Hall, Warsaw, where they were met by members of lodges from Warsaw, South Dummer, Belmont, Hastings, and an Orange service was held. They then proceeded to Warsaw Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Tighe had long been a member, and a service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Young of Lakefield and Omemee, assisted by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Warsaw.

The pall-bearers were his four sons and two sons-in-law, Mr. James and Mr. Trude.

ERNEST HILL

JANETVILLE, July 19.—The funeral of the late Ernest Hill, who passed away in Weston after a brief illnes, was held from his home here on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 p.m.

He was a son of Mr. William Hill of Jeanetville, and the late Mrs. Hill and was in his 37th year.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Miss Freda Jackett, and four small children, also his father, three sisters, Misses Susan, Ada and Evelyn Hill, all of Toronto, and one brother, Wesley, of Sarnia.

The service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. M. A. Beery, of the United church, assisted by Rev. W. H. V. Walker of the Presbyterian church and Rev. R. M. Patterson of Sunderland and a former pastor and friend of the family, all of whom spoke words of comfort in a most impressive service.

Interment was made at Riverside cemetery, Lindsay.

The Foresters and the Orange Order had charge of the burial, and the pall-bearers consisted of three members of each Order, namely, Messrs. R. J. Burn, Everett Stinson and Newton Armstrong for the former lodge, W. Jordan, J. Jordan and C. English for the latter.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Foreigners Evacuate Hankow As Japanese Advance

Entering the second year of warfare against China, Japanese aviators continue to drop a rain of deadly bombs on Canton and Hankow, temporary capital of China. This photograph, TOP, was snapped at the instant several aerial bombs exploded in the Wongsha railroad station, Canton. One hundred were killed and 200 injured by these bombs. Foreigners in Hankow are evacuating the city as Japanese naval forces advance up the Yangtse River. These nuns, BOTTOM, were pictured as they left the beleaguered capital to begin the journey to Hong Kong.

3 Fliers, And Farmer Injured In Smash

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, July 19.—Two persons sustained serious injuries and as a result were rushed to the Belleville General Hospital, along with two others, following a head-on motor car crash, that occurred three miles east of the village of Kaladar on Highway No. 7, shortly before midnight on Sunday.

The more seriously injured were Bruce Powers, R.C.A.F. and Donald Barrison, R. R. No. 5, Belleville. The others injured in the accident are Archie Sprange and J. Paul Desloges, both of the R.C.A.F.

The three members of the Royal Canadian Air Force were proceeding westerly on Highway No. 7 in an automobile driven by Desloges, when his car is alleged to have collided with a car driven in the opposite direction by Donald Garrison. The injured men were attended by Dr. George of Madoc at the scene of the crash and later removed to hospital.

X-RAY WAS CORRECT

Hint Czech Nazis Ready To Compromise

PRAHA, July 19—(AP).—A hint that Czechoslovakia's Sudeten Germans are in a mood to compromise on their demands for autonomy encouraged President Eduard Benes and members of his cabinet today as they began consideration of proposed administrative reforms.

The hint that the Sudeten Germans, over whom Chancellor Hitler has proclaimed Germany's right of "protection," were in a bargaining frame of mind came from Wilhelm Sebekowsky, political adviser to the leader, Konrad Henlein.

This comment from a Sudeten spokesman regarded until now as "radical," lent encouragement to the ministers who were conferring with Benes on the degree of autonomy which should be extended to Czechoslovakia's minorities.

Sebekowsky aid the Sudetens do not question the central, national direction of Hilitary policy, foreign affairs or "any function belonging to the central government."

But, he maintains, in a state so democratic that Communism is permitted to function politically and in theo pen there must be room for the ideology of National Socialism.

Czechoslovaks welcomed this Sudeten analysis of the issue which has been threatening the peace of Europe. They observed that both sides apparently were alive to the necessity for compromise.

MAKING PALMOLIVE 3000 YEARS AGO

Slaves made Palmolive 3,000 years ago. In precious metal urns they blended the natural oils of Olive and Palm. And 3,000 years ago, beautiful women used this costly, soothing mixture, crude though it was, to keep their skins smooth, clean . . . soft and youthful.

Since then, millions of dollars have been spent to develop countless beauty recipes. But none can equal in quality the gentle, beautifying effects of these two wonderful oriental oils.

In today's Palmolive, it is these same precious beauty aids, blended as carefully as science permits, that are responsible for Palmolive's wholesome purity; its gentle, healthful, soothing lather; its natural colouring.

Why not give your delicate complexion the benefits of this age-old, time-proven, beauty recipe. Let the new, modern Palmolive bring to all your skin a new, wholesome loveliness . . . a soft refreshing youthfulness.

"I've never found another soap at any price that's as good for my skin as the new improved Palmolive. It cleanses perfectly, without the slightest irritation." (Signed) PHYLLIS CARTER, 2159 Tupper Street, Montreal, Que.

"Palmolive is the only soap used in the daily baths of the Dionne quintuplets. Their skin is clear, normal and healthy." (Signed) ALLAN ROY DAFOE

Prison Break Fails

COLUMBUS, O.—Two convicts were shot, perhaps fatally, and an Ohio penitentiary guard was knifed today in an attempted prison break. Prison officials were busy summoning physicians and said they could not give any information over the telephone. It was the first organized, attempted break in nearly a year.

Bolt Kills Two In Barn

ST. CHARLES DE MANDEVILLE, Que. — Charred almost beyond recognition, the bodies of Arthur Gingras and Godfrey Prescot were removed yesterday from the ruins of a barn on Gingras' farm struck by lightning last Thursday. Gingras, 54-year-old farmer, and Prescot, a farmhand, were at work near the barn when a storm broke.

McDonald Lots Purchased By Sam Abbott

All the dreams and wishful planning of a bridge across the river between Burnham's Point and Point St. Charles have ended in Sam Abbott's purchase of nearly three acres of the former McDonald estate property including the extension of Crescent street north of Perry street.

The price is said to be $1,500 with some condition that if the city wishes to buy the link between the end of Crescent street and the end of Rink street east of George street for the $500 that was paid for it the offer will be extended for a reasonable time.

Offered to City

The Peterborough Lumber Company had tried for months to persuade the council the buy the several acres on Point St. Charles that were once the site of the McDonald lumber mills. Opinion was divided in discussion by the finance committee. Some of the aldermen were in favor of acquiring the land if for no other reason that as a provision for the future, a guarantee for western piers of a bridge in the event of the city's expansion requiring another highway across the river.

This was one of Rollie Denne's pet projects, growing out of his conviction that Peterborough is bound to grow in population and that some day the advantage of a bridge across the narrow span of the river at Burnham's Point will be generally recognized.

Extra Cost Only $1,000

'The council couldn't make much of a mistake at $1,000," Mr. Denne commented to the Examiner several weeks ago. "The McDonald people paid them $500 for the part of Crescent street that is not in use, so you don't need to add that to the $1,000 in considering the deal. But even at $1500 it was worth having as an investment for the future."

Mr. Denne probably expressed his opinion to some of the members of the council, but they went unheeded. Immediate financial problems were given the council so much concern that they were aroused by the offer of the Peterborough lumber Company. The relief costs this year are going to exceed the council's appropriation by a substantial amount, according to the present outlook, and with the possibility of winding up the year with an overdraft. Besides, they have too much land already, lots accumulated by the process of uncollected taxes, and the idea of spending $1500 for the Point property did not appeal to the council's distracted vision.

Rip-Rap Job Off

In the meantime, it is related, that an engineer of the federal Department of Public Works was in Peterborough some days ago with the intention of getting an estimate on the cost of extending the rip-rap job from the present end of Lake street around to the Point, probably costing a few thousand dollars and providing relief labor. Then when enquiry was made as to ownership of the water front it was learned that it had passed into the hands of Sam Abbott, so that job was off.

It may be that the only development on the property will be the extension of Crescent street north to Rink street some time or other, but there is no immediate demand or need of it.

CURBS SAVAGE HORSE

WINDSOR, England — (CP). — Parading before a race here a horse seized a stableman by the arm, tore his coat sleeve off and got him to the ground. The man hung on and avoiding the animal's attempts to kneel on him, finally mastered the horse.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

ONLY TWO FIELDS TANGLED.

The only fields of grain badly lodged by wind and rain along the whole route from Peterborough to Lindsay were several stands of oats west of Reaboro.

LIGHTNING HITS BARN.

Harry Folkner's barn on the second line of Emily was struck by lightning during Saturday night's storm, the only building in the district reported damaged.

BERRIES CHEAPER.

Red raspberries slumped again in price along the main street this morning at five cents the small box and ten cents for a large box. The fruit is not only plentiful but it is also of fine quality.

MONSTER DAISIES

Flowers are growing large this summer. Miss Mary Fitzner, 358 Dublin street who won first and second at the Horticultural show recently has Shasta daisies measuring five inches across, making a fine display in her garden.

ARMY WORM

A mild infestation of army worms has been reported on a farm near Bensfort Bridge, according to Frank Paterson, agricultural representative. The outbreak is not serious and the worms are already reaching their full growth.

CHARGE IS CHANGED.

When the Crown changed a charge of illegal possession to that of illegal consumption a local man defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., pleaded guilty to the offence and was fined $10 and $12 costs by Magistrate Campbell today.

IS FINED $100.

Samson Taylor of Curve Lake, who pleaded guilty in Barrie court to having liquor illegally was fined $100 and costs, amounting in all to $116.75 or three months in jail. He paid the fine. The charge arose out of a row on the 12th of July and three Rama Reserve Indians were also involved.

CHANGES PLEA.

Leslie Plunkett, whose case has been remanded several times, changed his plea to guilty on a charge of being in possession of liquor while on the interdicted list and was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Campbell to-day. A similar charge against Mrs. M. Chew was adjourned for a week.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

Pleading guilty to having obtained $14 from Thomas Hughes on false pretences Elwood Strong, farm laborer, was allowed to go on two years' suspended sentence by Magistrate Campbell this morning. Crown Attorney McElderry said that while the man technically came within the jurisdiction of the section under which the charge was laid, he believed it had been Strong's intention to meet his obligations and a suspended sentence would meet the requirements of the case.

WILL SEE THE DISTRICT

Rev. Dr. England of Bexhill-on-Sea, England, accompanied by his wife, arrived in Peterborough at noon. Dr. England is the speaker for the meeting in St. Andrew's church at 8.15 this evening. He was selected by the Metropolitan church in Toronto as the guest preacher for the summer and is regarded as one of England's finest speakers. Members of the Ministerial Association in Peterborough made the suggestion that Dr. England and his wife should arrive early in the day so it would be possible for them to see some of the district. This afternoon a drive has taken a party over the Floating Bridge and to Sandy Lake, Buckhorn, then over the Oregon Trail to Burleigh Falls where they will stop for dinner, returning to the city by No. 28 for the evening meeting.

WHERE TRAVEL IS CHEAP.

Donald Kennedy who left Peterborough about the end of April on a trip to England via the cattle boat route, and has since been in London, has sent word home that he has left London for Cologne, Germany. He writes: "I joined the World Youth Hostel Association for 15 shillings and intend to leave on Monday, (July 11) for Cologne. The return trip is £2 10s, but a night's lodging is but 12 cents, but before going I had to buy two sheets which I got for 1s 6d each. If you have a return ticket you can stop off as long as a week any place in between. That will allow me to see Ostend, Brussels, Ghent and Cologne, and I intend to spend a few days along the Rhine. Herr Hitler is particularly anxious for English tourists to see his good works and offers 60 per cent. reduction on all fares after six days. One does not need to spend much preparing for a trip to Germany, and all I spent was 2s 6d on a bag at Selfridges. I met one of the boys who was on the boat on the way over and he was broke so I smuggled him into my lodgings for a couple of nights and days. When the landlord found out there was something like an uprising in the land but it made little difference as I was leaving any way. It looks as though I would be home about the end of August."

Rotary's Kawartha Camp

It's a happy summer for more than half a hundred boys from Peterborough, Oshawa, Norwood and other nearby centres, who are holidaying at the Peterborough Rotary Club's Kawartha camp on Clear Lake. Every facility of a modern up-to-date camp is included and youngsters appear to be having a whale of a time. Boating forms one of their pleasures. At the extensive wharf shown at TOP LEFT are dozens of canoes. All sorts of games are played and in LOWER LEFT two youngsters are seen fencing. At RIGHT Mrs. Chris Graham, who visited the club with Rotarians and their wives on Monday evening, is shown holding the club's youngest member, Robert McClenaghan, aged one year and a few months, son of the camp's director, Jimmie McClenaghan. Charles Hardwicke Dies At Englehart

Charles Hardwicke, acting assistant superintendent of Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway operating department at Englehart, died in the hospita lthere Monday after two weeks' illness.

Mr. Hardwicke was 44 years old, born in Peterborough, son of the late John Hardwicke and Mrs. Hardwicke, who home is at 489 Cross street in Peterborough. As a boy he was a telegraph messenger for the C.P.R. and learned telegraphy while employed in the company's local uptown office. He went overseas with the 21st battalion, and on his return from Europe he was engaged by the T. and N.O. with whom he had been employed for the last twenty years, first as a despatcher at North Bay and later at Englehart. Mr. Hardwicke was for many years actively connected with the order of railway telegraphers, and was general chairman of the T. and N.O. group of that order. He resigned from its activities when appointed to an official capacity with the railway.

Mr. Hardwicke was a sergeant of the Signalling Corps during the war, and for a time was an instructor in signalling at the Seaforth reserve base.

Mr. Hardwicke is survived by his widow and son, Archibald, twelve years old, who have been in England for nearly the last two years; his mother in Peterborough; four sisters, Mrs. Robert Laing of Edmonton, Mrs. W. J. Welch of Douro street, Peterborough, Mrs. W. J. Embury and Miss Alice Hardwicke of this city; and by two brothers, John of Winipeg, and W. L. Hardwicke of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held in Peterborough, probably on Thursday. Definite announcement will be made later.

Prize List For "Ex" Flower Show Ready

The prize list for the flower show of the Peterborough Exhibition on August 17 to 20 inclusive is a reminder that summer is rapidly advancing toward its third month, and that Peterborough's own Exhibition is only thirty days away. W. H. Young is chairman of the horticultural section, and his associate directors are Dave Jordan, W. J. Kennedy, E. W. Watson, Fred Dummitt, S. T. Harris, and A. Kirkcaldy.

Entries for this department of the show must be placed between the hours of 1 p.m and 10 p.m. on the Tuesday of Exhibition Week, and judging will begin at 8 a.m. on Wednesday the first day. Entries for the show must be listed on a special sheet for that purpose. They will be received up to 6 p.m. on Saturday, August 13. The classes are generally the same as last year, with classes that are open to all horticulturalists, and another big class for amateurs. Special copies of the prize list for flowers have been printed and can be obtained from Mr. Young or other members of the committee.

New Barbed Wire Cut At Exhibition Park

The three strands of barbed wire that are being strung on top of the fence at the Exhibition Park were cut in two places soon after they were put up Tom Brown, president of the Exhibition, reported today. The wire entanglement is designed to discourage the flock of adults who climbed the fence last year. Even women went over the top, and of course a legion of small boys; and it was generally rumored that one of last year's car winners got in the same way. Directors point out that they cannot take the attitude of doing nothing about the fence climbers, especially by youths and men, when so many thousands of people from the city and district contribute to the maintenance of the Exhibition by going through the turnstiles.

One barn is being built for this year and all the buildings are being repainted. Mr. Brown said that public interest in the Exhibition was not indicated by the cutting of the wire, probably the act of one person, and a damage to property for which there could be prosecution in court.

50 Pints Of Beer a Day

SIMCOE, Ont. July 19 (CP).—Donat Van Steinburge, Waterford Belgian, sometimes drinks 50 pints of beer a day, he told crown attorney W. E. Kelly in court here recently. Van Steinburge was in court because police found 350 pints of home brewed beer at his home. The court was skeptical of the defendant's claim, but he was backed up by Basil Vandenburg, Belgian tobacco grower, who said he too could drink 50 pints a day, but "could not do it very often."

Bridge Swimmers Are Warned

C.N.R. Constable Ray Morden is gunning for local youths who have been making a practice of swimming from the C.N.R. bridge over the Otonabee and the city police are cooperating in the drive. The warning has been issued that if bathing at this point is not stopped the railway authorities will issue summonses to the offenders. There are two reasons for this course, the first being that the practice is dangerous and the second is that a number of signal lights have been interfered with by the same youths who used the swing bridge as a diving platform.

Drunk In Charge Police Assert

Charged with being drunk in charge of a car Roy Thompson of Campbellford pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell this morning and was remanded for a week, bail being fixed at $1,000. Thompson asked for an adjournment but the Crown would consent only to a remand in the case.

The man was arrested Monday afternoon near the corner of Lansdowne and George streets by Officers Piercy and Rogers.

Pastor Inducted Coe Hill Church

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COE HILL, July 19.—The Rev. A. C. McCallum, who was recently transferred from the Saskatchewan to the Bay of Quinte Conference, was duly inducted into the pastoral charge at Coe Hill United Church on Wednesday evening in the presence of a representative congregation.

The Rev. I. E. Kennedy of Madoc had charge of the service and inducted the new minister.

The Rev. W. G. Davies of Bancroft preached the sermon from the text, "Follow me," tracing the different periods in Christ's ministry where He sought to fulfill the mission of His Father.

Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth of Marmora gave the charge to minister and people, while the Rev. W. R. Toestram of West Huntington introduced the Rev. and Mrs. McCallum to the congregation. The Rev. George Adamson also took part.

The choir conducted the service of praise and rendered a suitable anthem, 'The Lord Is My Shepherd.'

Following the service a social hour was enjoyed, when the members and friends had an opportunity of greeting the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. McCallum. The ladies served a delicious lunch.

Much Damage Done To Runaway Car

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 19.—For the second time in less than six months a car left the road at the corner of Canrobert street and Grand road on Highway No. 30 to crash into the concrete walls of the Campbellford Cloth Company. It was late Monday morning when Charles Davidson, local garageman, pulled into a service station on the corner and while talking to the proprietor glanced out just in time to see his car crossing the road. The incline is at a nangle of 65 degrees over the shoulder of the road and although no one was hurt in the accident considerable damage was done to the car when it hit the wall twenty feet below the road level.

Campbellford Boy Is Slightly Hurt

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 19. — A five-year-old boy received slight injuries when he ran into the side of a car at Hoards Station, south of Campbellford, early Monday evening. It was just at dusk and the youngster, Leslie Parry, who had been playing on the roadside with a number of friends, darted across the road without looking and ran into the side of the car which was driven by Taylor Beal of Trenton.

Provincial Constable D. G. Campbell was called to investigate the accident, and following the doctor's report that injuries to the boy were not serious, the driver was not held nor was any charge laid.

Happy Reunion

The entire family of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Northey, whose home overlooks Chemong Lake on the 14th Concession of Smith, was reunited on Monday for the first time in many years when the elderly couple, shown here, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Thirty-seven members of the clan sat down to a banquet in the evening, and ate a huge four-storey wedding cake.

BY J. H. BURNHAM

On Sunday evening the Rev. Wm. Young of St. Andrew's preached at the united service in Trinity Church and after praising Catholics for their devotion and censuring the tendency amongst Protestants to neglect it he said: "There is no hell. The early saddle-riders preached a material hell and had great power over their hearers, but we no longer preach it. General Booth whom I heard many times did not preach hell."

A Bottle's Drift

HONOLULU, July 19 (A.P.). — A voyaging bottle which reached Hawaii from Chesapeake Bay after 13 years' buffeting may give students of ocean currents some new clues. The bottle was found on the windward side of this (Oahu) Island by Henry Dodd. It had been tossed into the sea near Chesapeake Bay by Mrs. Doris D. Major of Washington, D.C. To reach Hawaii it had to float either round Cape Horn and across the Pacific or through the North-West Passage under ice-floes to catch the Japanese current southward.

Woman Driver Faces Manslaughter

Mrs. Caroline Baker of Kingston was by consent bailed for trial by Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell in police court this morning after one Crown witness had been heard, on a charge of manslaughter arising out of a traffic accident at the intersections of Highways 30 and 7 at Havelock on July 4, when seventeen-year-old Elva Preston of Lakefield was fatally injured.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., represented Mrs. Baker at this preliminary hearing, while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry prosecuted.

The only witness called was Andrew Currie of Havelock, who said he was standing at the doorway of Wellman's store at the intersection of the two highways when the accident occurred. He testified that Mrs. Baker's car did not stop at the railway tracks south of the intersection or at the stop sign before entering the intersection and that it approached the scene of the accident at a speed of around 25 miles an hour.

Currie said that after watching the Baker car draw near he heard an auto horn, and looking in that direction saw the Coons car in which Elva Preston was a rumble-seat passenger coming from the west. Mrs. Baker's car was two-thirds over the intersection when the impact came and witness said the driver of the other car tried to swing to the left to avoid the crash.

Car Turned Over.

His car was struck at the rear right wheel and turned over some two and a half times, throwing the occupants of the rumble seat out. Miss Preston died in hospital a short time after.

Mr. Gordon cross-examined the witness at some length. Currie said that he had not known the Coons or Miss Preston before the accident, but admitted that he had been a pallbearer at the girl's funeral at the request of her relatives. He was examined in detail as to the nature of the intersection, the width of the road and other features by Mr. Gordon.

"How fast was the car in which Miss Preston was riding going when you saw it before the accident?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"I would say about 30 miles an hour," replied the witness.

"Would you put it faster than 30 miles?" asked the defence counsel.

"No," was the reply.

The intersection where the accident occurred was within the village limits of Havelock, the witness stated.

Mrs. Baker was bailed for trial after Currie's evidence was completed, bail being fixed at $5,000.

X-Rays By Wire

SEATTLE, July 19 (A.P.). — X-ray motion pictures transmitted by wire for quick consultation by distant diagnosticians were forecast today by Dr. Leo G. Rigler, Professor of Radiology at the University of Minnesota. He said that when the X-ray motion picture becomes a reality a specialist a thousand miles away could sit in his office and watch your heart beat.

Rotary Club Visits Camp On Clear Lake

An amazing record of surging revival in the Kawartha camp for boys on Clear Lake, was outlined on Monday evening to members of the Rotary club, sponsors of the club, who spent the evening visiting the holidaying youngsters.

Early this year the club was debating whether it should continue the camp as one of its activities and only the fact that it had reached a highly developed stage and had been identified with the club for the past 15 years, made its continuance this year possible, President James Dutton told the Rotarians and their wives when they dined in the camp's spacious hall. He paid tribute to the work of Dr. R. W. Frank, camp committee chairman, in building the camp once more into a highly efficient and worthwhile enterprise.

More than fifty boys are holidaying at the camp at the present time, Camp Director James McClenaghan told the visitors. He outlined some of the numerous activities the boys engage upon, and presented two of the group leaders, John Hooper of Peterborough, and Allan Brown of Milbrook. Allan Brown played two violin solos, accompanied by Hooper, that were outstanding.

Club members inspected the large and numerous camp buildings, and found them to be well furnished and in top condition. There was a large boathouse, an administration building, dining hall, kitchen and store rooms, cottage used as residence for the camp's director and his family, a long bunkhouse that was airy and comfortable. The extent of the camp was a decided surprise, even to some of the club members.

Not Underprivileged Camp

Rotary's camp is not to be labelled a camp for underprivileged children. Each boys pays a fee for one, two or three weeks' vacation there, and whether he or some organization pays the bill is not known to others at the camp. President Dutton said that Rotary hopes to send eleven boys from the Children's Shelter in Peterborough for a holiday there. Some of the boys there on Monday had been sent by Rotary, others were footing the bill themselves, and there was no indication which was which. In such fashion any imagined stigma attached to an underprivileged camp is removed.

The attendance to date this year is higher than it has been for some time past. Every bunk is being used, and two additional ones had to be erected over the week-end. There are now 29 boys from Peterborough, 20 from Oshawa, and the balance from New Jersey, Montreal, Kitchener, Hamilton, Norwood, and other centres. In the entire season last year there were 83 registrations, 43 from Peterborough. This year there have been 75 registrations already, with promise of many more to come, and the number of weeks to be spent at the camp by those present now totals more than the weeks of all registered last year, so many more are taking advantage of the entire term.

FIESTA

By OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER 42

"No. I am glad they have come, though. It is an excellent chance to tell Sid that I am going to stay here. To tell him no, once and for all."

IT IS ONE thing to have a party in the city and invite all "the crowd"; it is quite another to have a Spanish fiesta in the wild southwest.

Ellen Dale had no idea what the word "fiesta" really meant, just how much it connoted in the minds of people reared there. Literally it means "feast", and the eating part was duly cared for. But beyond the food was much more to be considered.

First were the invitations.

"Shall we send them by mail?" Ellen naively inquired of Buckshot and Bill.

"Nope," Bill grinned, knowingly. "The word'll get around. That'll be the least of your worries."

"But I want everybody," Ellen emphasized. "Everybody in the community that cares to come."

Bill put Pablo Rivera on a horse with grub and water and told him to spread the news. Bill found old Great Ears, a Papago Indian, and told him much feast would be ready next Friday at the DD ranch, for all the Red friends. He stopped a sheep herder and a prospector as he rode through the hills, and told them. He saw five other ranchers in Nogales, and told them.

"It's for two days and nights, gentlemen," Bill emphasized, in each instance. "A fiesta at the Dale-Durango. Miss Dale sent me to invite you all, and said for you to ask your friends and their friends."

It was good news, and it was taken literally. If you should ride an airplane or automobile over the southern half of Arizona, skipping the towns, you would hardly see a dozen homes. And yet the very wilderness holds a surprising number of people, people who will travel 100 miles to attend a funeral or a dance. By the subtle word-of-mouth telegraph which has long been in use, the invitation got around. A backwoodsman coming in for bacon would see a Mexican woman; she would pass it on to a ranch hand; he would tell a couple of hard-rock miners; they'd encounter another Indian who in turn would meet up with a hunter and a boy looking for strayed horses. The few party line telephones were kept busy. The news sifted down into Sonora, over into California, eastward into new Mexico. The olden Durango ranch was having open house again.

Ellen didn't know about all that, but she hoped she might have 75 or 100 guests before her party was over. On Wednesday of that week she began to worry because too few Arizonans might come, when she wanted to have a nice crowd to welcome her Hollywood friends.

But on Thursday morning she received a distinct surprise. She arose at seven o'clock and, as usual, went to her window to look out at her ranch. A new group on the immediate landscape—as picturesque as a Hollywood movie set—greeted her vision.

"Reynita!" she called to her companion. "Come and look!"

The darker girl left their bed, came and stood with Ellen, both in their silk pajamas.

"Wigwams!" murmured Reynita, impressed.

"You mean—? They must be, though. Six of them!"

Not 200 yards from her front door were indeed six wigwams which had mushroomed there during the night. Smoke came from the top flaps of one and near each of the others were campfires with costumed Indians moving about.

"They're Apaches!" Reynita stated. "They're the only ones who use wigwams here."

Reynita looked at her employer-friend, then laughed musically.

"Listen to me, Ellen—aren't you having a fiesta this week? They've come for the party!"

"But it doesn't start until Friday! Until tomorrow night!"

"That's what you think" and Reynita laughed again. "We'll initiate you into an old Spanish custom this week, my dear."

They hurried with their dressing and went out to see the guests. To give them an official and formal welcome, even if they had not been personally invited. Ellen was intensely interested.

An Apache mother saw them and promptly snatched up her naked two-year-old baby and darted inside a wigwam! The white girls stopped, confused.

"Good morning!" Ellen began, tentatively.

There was no answer; only stares. But a few seconds later a 'teen-age boy appeared and ventured "Hello". When it developed that he spoke English, although shyly, Ellen managed to get her welcomes across to them all. A grown man came then, and held out a beautiful woven basket to Ellen He said nothing and when she took it he went back to his place and sat down, ignoring her. She gave him belated thanks.

One family presented her with a pair of deerskin moccasins, each big enough for her two feet, each intricately beaded. Another woman gave Ellen a handful of animal teeth, evidently highly prized, and still another brought a tied bundle of eagle feathers. Ellen Dale had never felt so ill at ease in her life, nor so strangely honored.

Back at her own house she saw Bill, and showed him the gifts.

"You'd better hurry up with your own presents, or your name will be mud," he informed her indelicately.

"I—don't have anyth— I didn't get any I mean!" She whispered, in her confusion, to Reynita and Bill. "What shall I do?"

"They'll scalp you, I reckon," Bill drawled, winking at Reynita. "They're Apaches, you know. But look yonder—!"

He pointed down the road, and three more wagons, horse drawn, were seen approaching. Obviously they too were Indian folk.

"Bill, stop it!" she stamped her foot at her foreman. "And tell me what I must do, I want to make friends with all of them."

He arranged it, promptly.

He had a calf brought in for each family, had Ellen present the animal with due smiles and ceremony. She and Reynita and the girls from Hollywood stood watching with interest as one family prepared to butcher its gift calf at once.

A Red woman straddled the calf, forced it to kneel on the ground. Quickly she caught its muzzle, drew back its head, and slit its throat with a thick knife.

"Oh-h-h!" cried Ellen, shocked.

But her own and the other white girls' squeamishness went unnoticed. An old grandpappy Indian, scenting the blood hastened out chuckling and bearing a smoke-blackened pan. He held the pan under the calf's throat and caught perhaps two quarts of warm blood.

"Wamp qua-wah!" he called, or so it sounded to the whites.

Four other oldsters of the tribe came promptly, leaving their wigwams and blankets. Together they had a savage cocktail—five cronies re-living the good old days—while dainty white girls stared spellbound.

One of the Hollywood girls had to go and lie down because of it, but Geneva James wanted to write a scenario instantly. Ellen spent the morning with her Indian guests, at Bill's suggestion; sharing their veal which was cooked at once over an open fire; seeing and hearing things which she had never dreamed of before. By five o'clock she had lured two of the Indian girls, about her age, into her own house, and had made them promise to eat the white people's dinner.

At six o'clock she was called to her front porch to greet some other new arrivals.

"Felix!" she cried. "And Panola! Why I had no idea you were—I mean I am so glad to see you! We have been wondering when you would come!"

It was a white lie. She hadn't even thought of the Montoyas, she recalled, with shame. Evidently Bill had sent them invitations. Laughing gaily with them and introducing them to the others there, Ellen looked carefully at Panola Montoya whom she had not seen since her own Sonoran interlude.

With deep misgivings she noted that Panola, richly dressed, seemed somehow triumphant with youthful beauty and charm.

If You Would Keep a Contented Husband Let Him Think He Is the Boss and by a Little Tact You Can Go Right on Ruling Your Home to Your Own Satisfaction

THE second way that husbands want their wives to treat them is as little tin gods. Every man wants his wife to put him upon a pedestal and to burn incense before him. He wants her to regard him as an oracle whose words are pearls of wisdom that she gathers up and preserves.

In reality that is what every man marries for, little as he may himself realize it. When he picks out a girl for a wife it is not for her beauty, her intellect, her entertaining line, her amiability nor her domesticity, but for her ability to keep the joss sticks alight and make him feel that he is as wise as Solomon, as much of a fascinator as Clark Gable and as big and strong as a heavyweight champion.

If women told men as many home truths before marriage as they do after marriage weddings would be as rare as earthquakes. Why a man should crave his wife's praise above the plaudits of the world, why it should be necessary to him to shine in her eyes, no matter how he looks to other people; why he should be more sensitive to her criticism than any one else's blame, nobody knows. It is just one of the things that are. But whenever you see a man whose wife thinks that he hung the moon, and who begins every sentence with, "John says," as if that settled it, you will find a happy and contented husband.

And, conversely, whenever you find a man who is married to a woman who belittles him, who is always correcting his grammar and his pronunciation and throwing in his teeth how much better other men succeed than he does, you will find a bitter and disgruntled husband, who, more likely than not, is eating out of the hand of some other woman who feeds him angels' food instead of dosing him on gall and wormwood.

Men also have the head-of-the-house complex. With young husbands this is a positive mania. They are uneasy about their authority. Jealous over it. They want their wives to obey them. To ask their advice. To consult them about everything they do.

In reality they don't care a whoop about what their wives really do. They would be bored to death if they actually had to decide whether Mary should join the Current Events Club or whether the living-room should be papered in pink or blue. And nothing could induce them to risk their lives in department stores and specialty shops picking out Sally's and Janey's clothes. But, all the same, they want Mary and Sally and Janey to ask their permission to buy a new dress and what sort of wallpaper to put in a room. After the wife has made the gesture of recognizing her husband as her lord and master she can do as she pleases and all is well.

Men like their wives to treat them as a sort of beneficent Providence, the source from which all blessings flow. The real reason there is a continual conflict in most families over the money question is not because husbands are stingy, but because they like to dole the money out piece by piece so that Friend Wife has a living exhibition of hubby's generosity.

When a man complains about how extravagant his wife is and how much her hat and dress cost, it doesn't mean that he begrudges her a single garment or the price thereof. On the contrary, it is merely his way of boasting to the world how prosperous he is and how lucky she was to get a husband who could doll her up. If you will observe you will note that the best-dressed women among your acquaintances are always those who keep their glad rags hanging out in public, so to speak, and who are always calling attention, in husband's presence, to some new piece of jewelry, or a pretty frock, or an expensive coat that he has given them.

Nor is all of this so silly as it sounds. The average man gets virtually nothing out of his labor after he has supported his family but his board and clothes, and it is pretty discouraging to him to spend his life toiling for one that takes all that he can gve and makes no sign of appreciation in return. Hence the wife who makes a fuss over all that her husband does for her is just giving him a run for his money. It is no wonder men like it, and that they like to be jollied and looked up to and generally treated like human beings, even if they are husbands.

Poems Bring Sunshine Into Our Lives

What sunshine and beauty our favorite poems bring into our lives! Alone or discouraged? There's comfort and assurance in "My Garden" by Thomas Edward Brown: "Not God! in gardens! when the eve is cool?

Nay, but I have a sign!
'Tis very sure God walks in mine."

"Seren, I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time and fate
For lo! My own shall come to me."

Let Ella Wheeler Wilcox cheer you with "Solitude." It begins:

"Laugh, and the world laughs with you:
Weep, and you weep alone . . ."

Our 32-page booklet gives you the most popular verses of Eugene Field, James Whitcomb Riley, Longfellow, Poe, Tennyson, Burns, Scott other favorite poets. Let these poems of love, patriotism, religion, childhood, fill you with hope and courage.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of WORLD'S BEST-LOVED POEMS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDREss and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, July 20.

An extremely lively and enterprising day is read from the prevailing lunar transits, although it would be easy to bungle promising situations and sidetrack very expansive and propitious situations by indulgence in reckless, impulsive or tumultuous conduct. This might refer to personal indulgences or private complications that will jeopardize the financial status, credit or popularity. All pertainings to writings, publishing, advertising, or promotions should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of promising conditions, with much business stirring, finances on the increase, and a general state of progress and prosperity existing. But these might all be negatived by personal indulgences, indiscretions, waywardness, impetuosity, or strife.

A child born on this day may be talented, enterprising, and well equipped for success. However, a tendency to an impetuous, turbulent jealous and vindictive behavior may nullify its most promising opportunities.

Kentville Volunteers Play Bingo Or Fight No Fires

Kentville, N.S., July 19.

EITHER KENTVILLE has its bingo games or there will be no town fire department.

Threatening to fight no fires if prevented from continuing operation of a "Housie-Housie" game in a vacant lot, members of the volunteer brigade defied two officials over the week-end by staging another game.

Proceeds of the games were used to purchase fire fighting equipment, bring relief to sick and injured members of the department, and a donation was made to the new Kentville hospital.

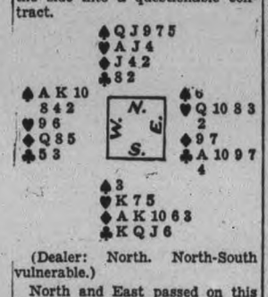
"The Authority on Authorities"

BIDDING BEGETS PLAY

MANY OF the most interesting plays are the sequel to bad bidding which results in the hand being played by the wrong side, the wrong member of the side or perhaps by the right player at the wrong declaration. A fair share of such developments grow out of the failure of some player to make a business double which would net a rich penalty score, preferring instead to make a bid which may put the side into a questionable contract.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North and East passed on this deal and South called 1-Diamond, which West overcalled with 1-Spade. North passed and East bid 2-Clubs, South 2-Diamonds, West 2-Spades and North 3-Diamonds. The bidding ended there. North should have doubled West's 2-Spade bid, but he preferred to assist his partner's diamonds.

The spade K was cashed and followed by the heart 9. The J was played from dummy, East covered with the Q and South took with the K. In order to gain two entries to dummy, South led a low diamond. West won and led a heart to the A. The spade Q was led, declarer intending to toss off his losing heart. Instead, East came in with a trump, so that his partner could hold the spade A. He read South for one more heart and wanted to prevent declarer getting the discard. As a result South lost one spade, one diamond, one heart and two clubs.

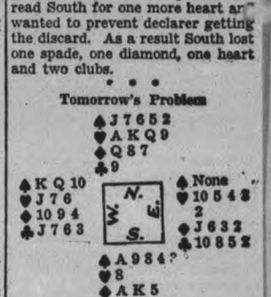
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South, Both sides vulnerable.)

If West doubles South's 6-Spade contract and then leads the diamond 10, how should South proceed to make the contract?

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"Yes," Mr. Punch went on, looking over at Knarf and Hanid, "I suppose it does look pretty strange for me to be sitting here shivering with the cold while everyone else in the house complains of the heat. But none of them has ever visited Pipinghot Island, as I did. Just let me tell you about it. The Island of Pipinghot is right in the middle of the Equator, which, as I explained to you yesterday, goes around the middle of the earth like a belt. The island is round, very much like a frying pan, except that it has no handle. But the strangest part of the island are the people who live on it."

"What are they called?"

"Called? They're called Pipinghottentots. They are very nice people. The sun shines down on them all day long and they're nice and sunburned. 'Don't you mind living on such a warm island?' I asked their chief, whose name was Cucumber."

Always So Cool.

The shadows wanted to know why he was called that.

"Because he was always so cool. He said to me, 'Mr. Punch — we don't mind the heat at all on our island. In fact, we enjoy it. You'll get used to it, too. Just come with me.' So I followed him to the middle of the island, and there we came to a bubbling spring. It looked like nice, cool water, but it wasn't cool at all. It was boiling. It was the most convenient island for cookin You didn't need stoves or anything If you wanted to broil a steak, a you did was to hang it from a twi You could make toast by simply lay ing bread on your front doorstep Oh, it was a wonderful island! Bu then the summer ended and th winter came along."

"Oh! And did everything freeze?

Mr. Punch shook his head. "Noth ing froze. In fact, the winter wa just like a summer's day here. Th birds sang. The flowers bloome But the bread wouldn't toast on th front steps any more, and the wate in the spring stopped boiling. An we all just sat and shivered. An I've been shivering ever since. On you live in a frying pan, my dear you can't ever get warm again ou side of it."

Brown—Brock

MILLBROOK, July 19.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's son, Oliver Brock, Zion Line, on Saturday at 10 a.m., when Mrs. Philippa Brock became the bride of Mr. J. Albert Brown, of Millbrook, the Rev. A. L. Siscoe officiating.

The bride, who looked very attractive in a dress of floral crepe, was attended by Miss L. Lonsdale, of Port Hope, and Mr. Richard Hard, of Zion, supported the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left later, by motor, for a trip to Muskoka and other points north, and on their return will reside on Tupper street, Millbrook.

Collison—Peacock

Knox United church was the scene of a quiet wedding Saturday afternoon at 3.30 when Muriel Aileen, daughter of Mrs. Edward Peacock and the late Mr. Peacock, 309 Reid street, became the bride of William Bramwell Collison, only son of Mrs. A. Collison and the late I. Collison of Everett, Ontario. Rev. W. E. R. Zufelt was the officiating clergyman.

The bride was charming in a gown of powder blue chiffon with matching picture hat, and carried a bridal bouquet of pink sweet peas and baby's breath.

Miss Marguerite White was bridesmaid, wearing a white suit with dusty pink blouse, and large white picture hat. She carried a bouquet of tea roses and baby's breath.

The groom was attended by Mr. B. Mowry.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a cameo bracelet, and to the best man a leather bill fold.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, who received the guests in a gown of navy chiffon, with corsage of roses. Later a wedding dinner was given at the Elite Grill, where the following guests were present:

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilson, Cobourg, Mr. and Mrs. R. McGee, Toronto, Miss Marguerite White, Lakefield, and Mrs. A. Peacock, Mrs. F. Hopkins, and Mr. R. B. Mowry, of Peterborough.

"Silk wool," a new staple fibre made from soya bean cake, is to be manufactured in Japan.

We Noticed

....Such a pretty girl in such a pretty frock...it was of wine crepe printed with twin daisies, and had a full-length coat of chiffon printed to match.

◇ ◇ ◇

....Rather unusual was the cool, gay print made bright with flowers which fashioned another dress. The short puffed sleeves were tightened with ties, and matching tiny flowers were scattered over gay little slippers.

◇ ◇ ◇

....Grand for travelling was the suit noticed this morning, and worn by an American tourist. The skirt was of natural homespun, the sweater shirt wooden-buttoned, and the finger-tip coat of blue tweed linen. The matching hat of coarse straw looked like an inverted flower pot.

◇ ◇ ◇

..Eyelet embroidered organdy was used for another crisp little daytime dress which buttoned coat-fashion down the front. It was in white, and the front opening and scallops were bound with navy. With it was worn an open-crowned navy straw.

Kearns-Wright Wedding Party

Mary M. Wynn Weds Roy Eric Prince

A lovely wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock Saturday morning in St. Peter's Cathedral, when Mary Magdalene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wynn, Downeyville, was united in marriage to Roy Eric Prince, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Prince of 116 Hilliard street, this city, Rev. E. Welch performed the ceremony, and sang the nuptial mass.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of Duchess white satin. Lace formed the pretty collar and yoke, and the long Queen Anne sleeves were pointed at the wrists. Her silk net veil fell gracefully into a long train at the back from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she wore white lace mittens and white sandals, and carried a bouquet of talisman roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Madeline Wynn, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in pink French lace over taffeta. The bolero jacket was trimmed with French blue, and she wore pink accessories, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The little flower girl was Miss John Phelan, niece of the bride, who looked very sweet in a frock of pink satin trimmed with mayfair green ribbon. A flat little pancacke hat of green shirred ribbon, worn on one side of her fair curls, was tied under the chin with a pink bow.

Mr. David Prince, brother of the groom, was best man.

The wedding music was played by Miss Veronica Scollard, and during the signing of the register Miss Alice Collins sang "Ave Maria."

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's sister, Miss Madeline Wynn, 493 Cross street, and was attended by intimate friends and relatives numbering about twenty-five. Rev. E. Welch was among the guests.

Later the bride and groom left for a brief honeymoon, the bride travelling in a green sheer with yellow accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Prince will live at 47 Conger street.

Facial Make-up for The Sports Girl

Your make-up for tennis must be one that will last, that won't get shiny or caked, that will protect your skin from too much sun, and will keep you looking cool and unruffled. Here are some do's and dont's:—

DO:

Start by dabbing your face all over with astringent lotion, to close the pores and tighten up the skin generally.

Use a light foundation lotion or vanishing cream; anything that is at all greasy will work out through the powder and start to shine as soon as you get hot.

Put on a good thick coat of powder—and see that it is evenly distributed over your neck and forehead, too.

Use a moderate-colored lip-stick nothing brilliant — and powder your mouth over after it's made up to keep the lipstick from smearing.

DON'T:

Use much rouge—none at all, if you can, because when you get hot and your natural color rises, it will make the rouge stand out and look artificial.

Put any mascara on your eyelashes. It won't look right anyway, and is bound to run and sting your eyes. Brush your lashes with a touch of vaseline instead.

Let your hair run wild over your face. Tie it back with a piece of petersham ribbon. If you are particularly anxious to keep your hair in curl, wear a fine invisible net, exactly the same color as your hair.

Wash your face in cold water when you come in hot; sudden change of temperature is bad for your skin. Wash it in tepid water, and take off the make-up with a soft cleansing lotion.

50th Anniversary Is Celebrated By Smith Couple

The large farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Northey, which overlooks Chemong Lake on the 14th Concession of Smith, presented a very festive appearance on Monday, July 18, when Mr. and Mrs. Northey celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day.

Enjoying this happy occasion with them were their three sons, Cephas, from Peace River, Alberta, who has been absent for six years, and who previous to that time was twenty years in the West; Wilbert, of Omemee, and James of Bath, Michigan; and their four daughters, Mrs. Albert Hughes (Laura) of Lakefield, Mrs. Josephine Crum, Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Arthur McIntyre (Myrtle) of Keene, and Greta at home.

Thirty-seven members of the clan sat down to the dinner table, which was decorated with cut flowers, and centered with a beautiful four-storey wedding cake, made by Mrs. Northey herself. The bride and groom of fifty years were presented with a Westminster chime clock in a finished walnut case, with Wilbert Northey reading the address, and the presentation on behalf of the family was made by Cephas Northey.

The farm on which Mr. and Mrs. Northey reside has been in the family for ninety years, and was cleared by Mr. Northey's father, the late James Northey, who came directly here from England, which necessitated a voyage of seven weeks. Mrs. Northey is also a lifelong resident of the community, and before her marriage was Phoebe Pearson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Pearson. Their wedding ceremony on July 18, 1888, was performed in Lakefield by the Rev. Francis Johnson, who still lives in Lindsay.

Mr. and Mrs. Northey have been lifelong members of Wesley United Church (formerly Methodist), and Mr. Northey is still assistant superintendent of the Sunday School and teacher of the Adult Bible Class, as well as a valued member of the Official Board. Mr. Northey was a licensed lay preacher in the former Methodist Church, and for several years supplied Curve Lake, Wesley, and Lakehurst Churches in ministerial capacities. Kenneth Stewart, present minister of Wesley Circuit, represented the congregation at the celebration on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Northey both enjoy fair health. Mrs. Northey is not able to be active outside her home, but Mr. Northey continues to work his 175-acre farm. The entire community joins in extending to these well-loved residents many more years of happy wedded life.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Hope is a lively, charming, blue-eye wench, and I am always glad of her company, but could dispense with the visitor she brings with her, her younger sister, Fear, a white-livered, lily-cheeked, bashful, palpitating, awkard hussy, that hangs like a green girl at her sister's apron strings, and will go with her whithersoever so goes."—Charles Lamb.

Dear Friends—That's telling Fear where she gets off at all right. I find that with most people, Fear keeps them back from so many things, that it is really a shame to give her house room. She does not work for her bed and board; all she does is take the heart right out of people.

And, you cannot ignore Fear, you must face her down, sit on her, squelch her utterly. So, when things go wrong, when she comes and whispers in your ear, "hat'll you do if you cannoot pay your bills, what'll you do when this falls due, or the other must be met?" just tell her you have some one much stronger than she ever was on your side, God, your Father in Heaven.

Speak to your Brother, our Lord. Tell Him how fear is getting you down, how necessary it is for you to be humilitated due to the lack of necessary money. You might say, "Oh, but Roberta, He must know all these things, so why should I have to tell Him?"

But, remember, God does not force His favors upon you. You know how to hate these gushy sort of people who fall over you, and want to do things for you, while you want no part of them? Do you think our Father would place Himself in such a position with us?

Just as you take a keen delight in having your children ask you for something they cannot get themselves, so I think He must feel when we go to him asking for the things we need. You, as a wise parents, will not give your child knives to play with, nor matches, nor anything that will hurt the child, then why kick when God does not always give you the things you ask for.

As your child grows older, if you shall retain that wiseness, you make him or her work for the allowance they get, or the favors you do for them You want the mto grow strong and sturdy, standing on their own two feet facing the world, so you do not let them get too dependent on you for everything, but make them use their brain and their hands to get their desires.

Sometimes God does that too with us. Yet, just as you stand ready to give helpful advice as to how they can use brain and hands better through your own experience, so also does He stand ready to help us by His advice and counsel.

God knows all about ingratitude from every last one of us, and also knows that if He makes things too easy for us, we shall lie back and do nothing to better the world. An deach of us must do our part or the world will not go on.

When we see our child attempting something away beyond his strength and ability, we reach out a hand to help him, or we do it for him. And be sure He will not leave you to struggle with something beyond your strength or ability, yet, at the same time He likes to see you make the effort.

And so, as you learn these things, you also learn to rout Fear, you hang on to the hand of Hope with all her courage which he will share with you. Running like a golden thread through all the talks our Lord had while on earth are the words, "Fear Not." And, if you nourish Hope with determiantion and effort, with industr yand patience, both she and you will soon be so strong that you will run Fear off the premises. Fear Not.

Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Canadian Corps Association Reunion Planned

TORONTO, July 19. — From two-score points in Canada and from several cities in the United States, women who once served with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces or the Imperial Forces are assembling to take part in the Canadian Corps Association Re-union being held here July 30 to August 1.

Nursing sisters, who are gathering under the auspices of the Nursing Sisters' Association of Canada, and members of the famous Waacs, or Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, form the two different groups who expect several hundred women to be present for the special program being arranged for their entertainment during the re-union.

Registrations have been received from nursing sisters in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Halifax, Montreal, Windsor, Minneapolis, and elsewhere, indicating that more than 200 nurses, at least, will be here. And the Waacs, at their registration office here, at which two women are on duty all day in smart blue and white uniforms, state that an equal number is expected. Re-union officials are co-operating in the plans, with one day at French Village being reserved for the women, reserved sections at the Drumhead and Civic Welcome, and a special reserved stand at the saluting base during the Corps march-past.

Middle-aged, alert and vigorous are the women who once were nursing sisters. Mrs. R. L. Parr, mother of a grown son and a daughter, widow of a physician who served with the Canadian Army Medical Corps, is convenor of the Entertainment Committee of the nursing sisters' group. She is devoting full time to arranging the re-union of nurses and has received correspondence which indicates that some women may come from as far as the British Isles and the West Indies.

BORN

DIED

HARDWICKE, Charles Ernest.—At Englehart, Ont., on Monday, July 18, Charles Ernest Hardwicke, son of Mrs. John Hardwicke, 489 Cross street. Funeral service will be held at the home of his mother on Thursday, July 21, at 2.30 p.m.; Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe officiating. Interment, Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

LINTICK.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. W. J. Lintick, who passed away seven years ago to-day, July 19, 1931.

I have only your memory, dear Mother,
To remember my whole life through,
But the sweetness will linger forever
As I treasure the image of you.

McKIM.—In loving memory of Mrs. G. W. McKim, who passed away July 19, 1938.

What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In Heaven, that happy life.

—Sadly missed by her Husband and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Hot Weather Precautions For Keeping Body Healthy

Body heat is affected by the external temperature and the heat generated internally by food. The latter can be controlled by the quality and quantity of food eaten in hot weather.

Food.

The avoidance of fat and heavy foods which have considerable energy value and their replacement by salads and leafy vegetables is recommended. Pre-cooked cereals and fruit for breakfast; salads, fruit and cool drinks for lunch and dinner are suggested.

Clothing.

Loose, light weight clothing will increase the body's ability to give off heat and have a pleasant cooling effect.

Baths.

Frequent tepid baths cleanse the skin by removing the perspiration and have a refreshing and sedative effect. Cold baths should be taken in moderation and care should be exercised in sudden plunges with cold water. The shock of sudden changes in temperature such as may be experienced by plunging into a cold bath may well have serious consequences. Elbert Hubbard used to say, "Take a bath whenever you think of it", and that is very good advice especially in hot weather.

Exercise.

Muscular activity generates heat, hence, avoid active exercise unless you are in good training. For the athlete who is prepared, violent exercise in the heat may have little effect but for the average individual increased activity in games, etc., may be unpleasant and even harmful.

Cool Drinks.

Perspiration results in loss of body fluids with the natural result that there is increased demand for liquids to replace the loss. Cool citrus drinks of orange lime or lemon juice are cooling and refreshing and should be taken liberally. Ice cold drinks are not recommended as the sudden shock of the cold liquid may cause digestive upsets which are harmful.

Salt In Drinks.

In the process of perspiration, considerable salt is lost from the body and this may be responsible for the feeling of weakness and lassitude so common during hot weather. Replacement of the salt is refreshing and stimulating and may be accomplished by adding salt to drinking water or beverages. For the average household, half a teaspoonful of salt in a jug of water is adequate.

In many industrial plants, especially when men are exposed to high temperatures and heat stroke is common, salt tablets are provided with drinking water. The salt replaces that lost in the perspiration and is instrumental in preventing collapse. One tablet dissolved in a glass of water has the desired effect. This practise is recommended to all employers of labor as a means of increasing the comfort and efficiency of employees. Tablets may be purchased in large quantities from drug houses and should be in use during the summer months.

Plans Long Voyage

Pictured at the tiller of his 18-foot sailboat is Guy C. Avery, Tampa, Florida, truck driver, all ready for an ocean voyage he hopes will take him to Genoa, Italy. A sail is the only motive power and a compass the only navigation instrument as he sets out on the 4,600-mile journey which he hopes to make in 90 days, although he has taken provisions for six months.

Touring Fur Buying Licenses Banned

TORONTO, July 19 (CP).—HoHn. Harry Nixon, Ontario Game and Fisheries Minister, announced today the travelling fur buyers license would be eliminated when the game and fisheries regulations are redrafted at the next session of the Legislature.

The fur buyers license permits to go any place in the province and buy furs. Another class of license is the store license. This license, which permits store owners to buy furs will be retained.

Keeping Cool Is Important Thing These Days

Boy Dies, 10 Recover Of Mystery Malady

QUEBEC, July 19—(CP). — While Coroner Dr. Paul V. Marceau prepared for an inquest into the death of a three-year-old boy, medical authorities hoped today an autopsy might solve the strange puzzle of a mysterious illness that killed the youngster after striking his entire family of 11 persons.

The child, Marc Lortie, son of a Stoneham, Que., farmer succumbed yesterday, only a few days after his father and nine brothers and sisters were released from the same institution.

Medical authorities admitted being baffled by the malady and officials ordered a check-up on food in the Lortie home on the theory the rural group was poisoned.

Japs, Chinese Resort To Long-Range Duels

SHANGHAI, July 18. — (AP). — Long-range artillery duels between Japanese warships and Chinese land batteries continued along the Yangtse River today, but war maps showed the Japanese had made little progress during the past two weeks in the Yangtse sector.

Main concentration of Japanese warships still was at the Matowchen boom, 175 miles downriver from Hankow, while land forces were held below Kiukiang, 135 miles below the provisional capital.

The warships reached Matowchen July 5 after three weeks of hard fighting to gain the 40 miles from Anking, capital of Anhwei province.

An attempt to advance overland from the north bank of the river in conjunction with the naval advance was meeting similar resistance.

Chinese reports said the invaders had suffered 10,000 casualties during the past two weeks below Kiukiang. They said several boatloads of bodies were seen proceeding down the river.

Meanwhile, floodwaters of the rising Yellow River continued to spread over Honan province to the north, slowly extending the area where it is impossible to carry on military operations.

The section around Chengyangkwan, 150 miles southwest of Kweith, Lunghai railway city, was turned into a vast lake, while many towns between there and the river were inundated.

A $2 Holdup

TORONTO, July 19—(CP).—Two masked gunmen held up a College street drug store as it opened for business today but got only a $2 bill for their trouble.

The two men entered the store as soon as Alan Lane, 19, drug clerk, unlocked the front door. The pair, faces covered by handkerchiefs, pointed what looked like black revolvers at Lane and ordered him to stand still while they opened the till.

Finding little there, they ordered Lane to open the safe. When he said he did not know the combination, they hesitated, then ran out, locking the front door behind them.

Cigar Box Bomber Dies "Innocent"

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 19 — (AP)—Proclaiming innocence to the last, 54-year-old Michael Fugman died early today in the electric chair which he preferred to life imprisonment for the Good Friday bomb murders of three persons in 1936.

The former German artilleryman was convicted of sending six bombs in cigar boxes disguised as Easter gifts to Luzerne county officials, mine union leaders and a neighbor.

One of the crudely-fashioned dynamite bombs killed Thomas Maloney, leader of a mine union and Fugmann's one-time friend; and Maloney's small son, Bobby. Another package killed Michael Gallagher, aged secton of St. Mary's cemetery near Fugmann's home. Others who received bombs escaped.

Sidley Autopsy Kept Secret

TORONTO, July 19—(CP).—The Rosedale district home of W. Perkins Bull, where wealthy Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley died 12 days ago, became a showplace for tourists over the week-end, but police remained silent today on progress made by investigators into the mysterious case.

Police and officials of the Ontario Attorney-General's department, preparing for the inquest July 26, repeated that reports of medical experts conducting an autopsy would probably not be made public before the inquest.

The Globe and Mail said today it learned from a reliable source that the post-mortem examination of Mrs. Sidley "shows shrinkage of her brain—reveals that the frontal lobes were shrivelled."

Dr. G. W. Lougheed, one of the doctors conducting the autopsy, said: The investigation wil be fairly well in hand within the next few days. It looks now like degeneration of the spinal cord up through the brain, and it must have gone on for some time."

Deposit Boxes Seized

Meanwhile the Globe and Mail said, inspectors of the Ontario Government succession duty branch investigated Mrs. Sidley's account in a Toronto bank and took over for examination her safety-deposit boxes. Whether the government will claim succession duties from the estate, valued at from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000, was not stated.

Traffic in the quiet Rosedale district where the Bull home stands became dense at times yesterday as curious motorists drove slowly past. There was no other activity there, the lawyer and historian remaining indoors. He inherited one-third of the residual Sidley estate.

The Evening Telegram said today a Chicago brain specialist, Dr. Peter Bassoe came to Toronto shortly before Mrs. Sidley's death at the instance of her relatives.

The newspaper said he left without examining Mrs. Sidley after being informed by attending physicians that her conditions was so serious it was thought wise not to disturb her.

Fascists Boo Dean

LONDON, July 19—(CP-Havas) Hundreds of young British Fascists, followers of Sir Oswald Mosley, hissed and booed the Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, when he entered St. Clement's church, Barnsbury, North London, Sunday night to conduct memorial services for victims of "fascist aggression" in Spain, China and Ethiopia.

The Fascists attempted to hold an outdoor meeting near the church but were dispersed by police.

Priest Runs 250-Mile Berin Strait In Walrus-Skin Canoe

Kotzebue, Alaska, July 19. FATHER BERNARD J. Hubbard, the Jesuit Explorer-scientist, and eight companions "dried out" here today after a perilous 250-mile voyage through treacherous Bering Strait in a Walrus-skin canoe.

The party's trip, which started from King Island, was the first such voyage in modern memory. It was the first leg of their projected cruise to the barren lands east of Point Barrow.

The "Glacier Priest" arrived just as rescue parties were forming to seek the fragile craft, overdue here after a week at sea.

Father Hubbard is accompanied by Ed Levin and Ken Chisholm, forma Santa Clara University football stars, Aolarana, chief of the King Island eskimos; Patunak, Mayae, Tatayuna, Alliak and Peter Mayac, native hunters.

Father Hubbard reported members of the party were constantly soaked by spray as the 36-foot skin canoe, powered with an outboard motor, sails and paddles, battled the swirling currents of Bering Strait. High winds slowed the progress of the Oomiak.

The Priest said he hoped the voyage would prove that prehistoric migrations from Siberia could have been made in skin boats similar to his craft.

Ask Ontario Chinese For 2 War Planes

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 19 (C. P.). — Emissaries of the Chinese Government of Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek visited Brantford over the week-end, it was disclosed to-day, and addressed the local branch of the Chinese Nationalist Society at its club rooms. The commissioners, Chin Hong Chong and Mark Sing Dong, described conditions in China and claimed there was a weakening of Japanese morale.

"Another ten months, we hope, will see the Japanese driven out of China." one of the speakers said. The Air Mission which has already been in the United States for several weeks, and in Canada for three weeks, is seeking to raise sufficient funds from Ontario Chinese to purchase two modern war planes.

Quake Rocks Ancient Greece Levelling Villages

20 Are Known Dead And Over 100 Hurt, Minor Tremors Spread Terror

ATHENS, July 20 (AP).—The strongest earthquake felt in this country in modern times scattered death and ruin today through ancient Greece.

A tentative casualty list based on fragmentary reports from the stricken areas showed 20 persons killed and at least 100 injured.

The Island of Euboea, north of Athens, suffered most heavily, as the 'quake centred there. In at least two villages nearly every house was shaken down. Reports said the shocks caused fisures into which small buildings fell.

The government hurried relief by trucks and railways to the stricken communities. Officials said it was impossible to estimate the material damage.

Further shocks were feared and a succession of minor tremors kept the population in fear.

Although the 'quake was so severe in Athens that it put seismographs out of commission, the city retained its reputation of being virtually earthquake-proof. The capital suffered no serious damage, although many frightened inhabitants passed the rest of the night in the streets after the first heavy tremblor.

Villagers at Oropos, where the shocks crumbled walls of the prison, were convinced that Divine justice was meted out to one man awaiting sentence for the slaying of his children. He died in a collapsing building.

The warden called for troops to prevent prisoners' escape.

Troops Halt Riots After Score Injured

NEWTON, Ia., July 20—(AP). — At least six persons suffered serious injuries and between 20 and 50 others were knocked down or beaten, or both, in street fights which broke out to-day in the vicinity of the closed Maytag washing machine factory. Participants were union strikers and sympathizers and back-to-work advocates.

The fighting broke out while 250 United States National Guardsmen, who were ordered to the scene early to-day to preserve order, were eating breakfast. Rushed into the strike zon, the Guardsmen restored order in about 20 minutes.

Meantime the Maytag factory, which had been operating with a skeleton crew of back-to-work advocates for two days, was closed down.

Details of the injuries suffered by victims of the street fighting were not available at once.

One man was reported stabbed and a special deputy sheriff was reported badly beaten and his gun taken away.

The outbreak was the most serious in the labor controversy that began May 9 when union employees of the Maytag company walked out in protest to a 10 per cent wage cut. The union is a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate.

Light Vote Seen As Brantford Goes To Polls

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 20—A light vote was expected to be cast to-day as Brantford electors went to the polls to choose a legislative representative, successor to Hon. M. M. MacBride, Ontario Minister of Labor and several times Mayor of the city, who died unexpectedly last June 5.

A total vote of 15,069 was polled in the constituency when Mr. MacBride was re-elected to his fourth term in the Legislature in the provincial general election October 6, 1937. Owing to the number of persons on vacation, it was not believed this figure would be reached to-day. Polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. E.S.T.

Four candidates were in the field. H. Louis Hagey was the Liberal nominee, while Reginald Welsh carried the Conservative party banner. The Labor-Progressive group was represented by Walter J. Dowden while Paul Debragh of Toronto was in the field under a Socialist-Labor designation.

The spirited by-election campaign ended last night, with a Labor-Progressive meeting in a West Brantford school and a Socialist-Labor rally in Victoria Park. The major parties' candidates confined their activities to local electioneering, apparently content to leave their election pleas with addresses made during the week-end by their respective party leaders.

Eire's New President Hails Corrigan

In new clothes, Corrigan drove from the United States Legation to the palace. There the 78-year-old President Douglas Hyde and the young Californian animatedly discussed the latter's amazing flight from New York to Dublin.

Earlier in the day Corrigan cut loose in a big Dublin clothing store. He bought two suits of sober hue and a bright sports coat and flannel trousers in preparation for his return—by steamship—to the United States.

Blast Kills 10 Men In Tunnel

8 Injured Survivors Claim Shot Went Prematurely

BALTIMORE, July 20 (AP).—A premature dynamite explosion killed 10 members of a crew of 18 workmen blasting a water tunnel through solid rock near the city pumping station today.

The explosion occurred shortly before the night shift was to have left the tunnel. Officials said the charge must have been set off by accident before the men, members of the mining crew, reached points of safety.

Seven were buried beneath the debris, rolled through the tunnel by the blast; of the 11 others brought to the surface alive, three died in hospitals. The other suffered varying injuries.

It was the task of the night mining crew to blast away the rock for the day crew to remove. Disaster came when the final charge of the night exploded prematurely. None of the injured men were able to explain what had happened.

Several of the bodies were mangled so that identification was difficult. The crew was composed of both whites and negroes.

Phillip Lesser, white, one of the first men brought out of the shaft, suffered painful burns about his face and was unable to tell how the tragedy occurred.

Girls' Silence Kills One Dooms Father

COCHRANE, Ont., July 20 (CP).—Louis Lee, 52, accused of murdering Harold Johnston, 28, today was held in Matheson jail awaiting a preliminary hearing on the capital charge next Tuesday.

As a result of a shooting Monday night at Hooker Creek, near here, Lee made a brief court appearance before Magistrate M. G. Gould at Timmins late yesterday and was remanded one week. Chief Coroner E. R. Tucker asked for the week's remand.

It was Coroner Tucker who persuaded Lee to surrender and then disarmed him Monday night after Hooker Creek settlers had been held at bay for three hours following the shooting down of Johnston. Lee and Johnston had quarreled over Johnston going around with Lee's recently married daughter.

Coroner Tucker, who is also district magistrate, arranged with Crown Attorney S. A. Caldbick at Timmins to waive his jurisdiction over the preliminary hearing, as he will be one of the main crown witnesses.

Year Long Dispute

The dispute between Lee and Johnston had gone on for a year and a half, it was learned today. Lee had objected to his daughter, Mrs. Wilfred McMayne, married five months ago, going out with Johnston, who was married and had three children.

Monday Johnston drove Lee's daughter to Matheson in his truck, despite Lee's objections. When they returned in early evening, another argument started. Not until Johnston was dead and he was in jail was Lee told that his daughter had gone to Matheson to see her husband in hospital there for the past three weeks.

Lee settled in Hooker Creek six years ago, coming from North York. On Monday his wife and six of their 10 children were visiting in South Porcupine.

Eyston Thunderbolt Tests "Perfect"

WENDOVER, Utah, July 20 — (AP).—Nine mechanical medicos, defty manipulating wrenches instead of forceps, went carefully over a giant racing machine here to-day despite the monster's healthy roars.

Captain George E. T. Eyston's "Thunderbolt," tested for the first time since being uncrated 10 days ago, performed perfectly as the British driver separately throttled his two 12-cylindered motors.

The test, made in a stuffy garage in this tank town on the edge of the Bonneville Salt Flats, pleased Eyston who hopes, within 10 days, to break his own land speed record of 311.42 m.p.h.

When the motors were tested, each separately, Eyston was in the enclosed cockpit wearing a gas mask that will prevent gas fumes from making him dizzy while hurtling over the track at better than five miles a minute.

Last year Thunderbolt had an open cockpit. Air tore at Eyston's goggles and he almost lost control of the giant, stream-lined racer.

Eyston's eight mechanics have found a new after-work diversion. They've gone "baffy" over softball. Yesterday the defeated a Wendover women's team, 14-8.

Happy Days From the point of view of swimming facilities at least, residents of Peterborough are in one of the most favored areas in the province. In the north end of the city is Inverlea Park; to the west is the newly erected pool at Jackson Park; to the east is the canal; and to the south is the Otonabee River. At Rye's wharf on Tuesday afternoon the Examiner found a happy group of youngsters numbering dozens, diving and swimming and lolling on shore. At TOP are some of the attractive girls who were there. From the far end of the picture coming toward the camera are Grace Barnes, Elma Taylor, Jean Loucks, Rose DeCarlo, Angeline DeCarlo, Zenda Tweedy, Doris Hanwell, Marie Jones, Regina DeCarlo, Connie Reeds. At LOWER LEFT the camera stopped Regina DeCarlo half way into the water in a clean-cut dive. At LOWER RIGHT isGrace Barnes, looking as though she was doing a cartwheel on the water. Hitler's Czech Ideas Start Anglo-French Huddle

Germany's Sudden Appeal To London Said Disappointing In Results

PARIS, July 20 (AP).—British and French statesmen took time out from the formal ceremonies of King George's State visit today for diplomatic discussions said to include a plan by Chancellor Hitler for solution of the Czechoslovak problem.

The statesmen, including Premier Edouard Daladier, French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, went into conference at the Foreign Office immediately after luncheon.

Chancellor Hitler's plan on the Czechoslovak minority problem was said by sources close to the government to have been brought to Paris by the British Foreign Secretary.

Lord Halifax presumably received Chancellor Hitler's formula for ending strife between the Czechoslovak government and its Sudeten German minority population a few hours before he sailed for France yesterday with the King.

London informants said the swift step toward improving English-German relations was by "personal message," carried to Viscount Halifax by Captain Fritz Wiedmann, who is the Fuehrer's confidential envoy.

The two met at Lord Halifax's London home for a 20-minute talk late Monday night. Captain Wiedemann was said to have declared there were no fundamental differences that need separate the two nations and that "everything is capable of arrangement."

Great Britain's Foreign Secretary was believed to have replied that peaceful settlement of the Czech

Two-Hour Addresses Fail To Get

LONDON, July 20 (C.P.).—Should Cabinet Ministers have the right to address both Houses of Parliament?

The House of Lords inculged in a discussion on this suggestion the other day without recording any opinion.

The Earl of Mansfield brought the matter up by moving that the Government investigate "the advantages" of such a proposal. He recalled that numerous attacks had been made in the Commons upon Viscount Swinton, former Air Secretary, to which the latter had been unable to reply. Walter Ormsby-Gore had resigned as Colonial Secretary when he became Lord Harlech and automatically was transferred from the Commons to the Lords.

Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, said the idea was "superficially very attractive." But it would place a great physical strain on ministers who had to meet the claims of both Houses.

"I do not believe the increased burden would add to efficiency," he said.

Lord Mansfield finally withdrew his motion.

Corrigan Longs To Fly Around Eiffel Tower

He probably won't, because he has to be getting home before long, and the United States Government has suspended his experimental license.

Here's how the situation shaped up to-day for the 31-year-old Californian, aviator extraordinary and master of understatement, who still insists a compass error took him across the Atlantic instead of to California:

He'd like to "go places," London first, and then Paris if it weren't for the feeling he should go home.

"I should like to fly around the Eiffel Tower. Then I would have something to talk about."

He won't accept any contracts until he returns to the United States.

Fun Without Money.

"Maybe a movie contract would interest him, but "I am not interested in money. I can get sufficient fun and satisfaction from life without it.

"At present Im unemployed, but I always seem to get along,—to Ireland or California, take a choice.

The Government of Eire released his $900 outmoded plane, which he landed here without the usual legal formalities, but he can't fly it to London because he had only the special licence to fly from Los Angeles to New York and back, and thats suspended.

"But I suppose I could fly, though, if I were ordered to take it (the plane) over to show the King, or something like that."

There was a great new batch of cables offering everything from movie contracts to matrimony piled up to-day in the United States Legation where Corrigan is staying.

Canada's Air Freight Jumps During 1937

OTTAWA, July 20 (CP).—A total of 26,205,766 pounds of freight and express were carried by air in Canada during 1937 compared with 25,387,719 in 1936, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today in a preliminary report on civil aviation. Amount of mail carried was 1,411,213 pounds against 1,161,069.

The number of paying passengers carried totalled 112,472 compared with 99,451 and non-paying passengers 48,045 against 19,209. Crews carried numbered 200,930 against 132,096.

There were 202,534 flights of aircraft compared with 160,014. Hours flown totalled 126,550 against 101,953 and miles flown 10,626,630 compared with 7,803,942.

King George Bows In Tribute Before Paris Tomb To 1,500,000 War Dead

Thousands Jam Banks Of River Seine As Monarchs And President Cruise In State To Great City Hall

PARIS, July 20 (CP).—King George laid a wreath of dark red roses at the tomb of France's unknown soldier today, then stood in salute for one minute of silent tribute to the nation's 1,500,000 Great War dead.

It was the first of the ceremonies on the second day of the State visit of the King and Queen of Great Britain.

Wearing the full dress uniform of an admiral of the fleet in which he arrived in Paris, the King was accompanied to the Arch of Triumph at the head of the Champss Elysees by the Duke of Beaufort, the Maritime Prefect of the Second Region, and his aides.

Escorted by mounted Republican guard officers, His Majesty later joined the Queen for a formal procession down the River Seine from the Quai D'Orsay to the City Hall on the Quai De Greaves.

Surrounded by ladies of her suite, the Queen sat amidship while the King and President Lebrun stood on the poop deck of the streamlined white and gold yacht Danubia, privately-owned vessel put at the disposal of the royal party.

Overcast skies and sultry weather robbed the event of much of its brilliance and detracted from the picturesqueness of one of the most beautiful stretches of the Seine. The sun came out, however, after the party reached City Hall.

Greetings From Paris.

Bareheaded, Le Provost de Launay and the City Councillors greeted the British Sovereigns on the square fronting the beflagged City Hall and conducted the visitors inside in a slow procession to the Festival Hall.

M. de Launay welcoming the Sovereigns, declared that Paris as "elder monies and State dinner, despite his France, speaks for them at this moment in offering their homage of affection and respect to Your Majesty, august personification of all the cities of the British Empire."

In reply the King said:

"It was with real emotion that I crossed the threshold of this Paris City Hall which evokes for me so many memories of our common past.

"My grandfather came here in 1903 and in a manner laid the foundations for the Entente between France and Great Britain.

"My father came here in April, 1914, to consecrate that Entente, which shortly afterward received its baptism of fire; to-day I come here in my turn, and I should note that it has lost none of its force or its vitality.

"I beg of you, gentlemen, to be so kind as to serve as our interpreters to the City of Paris and tell it how much the Queen and I have been affected by its welcome."

After remaining a half-hour, the party reboarded the yacht and returned to the Quai d'Orsay.

A huge crowd thronged St. Louis Island opposite the City Hall landing stage, shouting "Le Roi! Le Roi!" (The King! The King!) and waving flags.

York Gardener Burns $10,000 In Loco Weed

TORONTO, July 20 (C.P.).—Half an acre of marijuana weed, worth an estimated $10,000 in the illicit narcotic trade, was burned yesterday in York Township by William Glazie, market gardener.

The weed, grown thick over the area, was cut down, dried out in piles and then burned. Before the weed was burned one pile was noticeably smaller than it had been the previous night and two men were seen sneaking around his place, Glazier said. He added he wished vegetables would grow as quickly as marijuana.

Two Women Jailed In Assault Case

TORONTO, July 20—(CP)—Two women were under arrest on charges of vagrancy today while police investigated the possibility they were connected with a recent series of assault and robbery cases where men were lured by casual women acquaintances to lonely spots where they were assaulted and robbed.

Andree Noel and Muriel Rogers were arrested and brought to court today when bail was set at $5,000 each at the request of the crown.

"What's this charge, murder?" asked the girls' lawyer. Crown counsel A. Downey replied "there's plenty of reason for the bail set."

A man, who said he was the brother of one of the two girls, asked Detective Sergeant George Tuft for permission to see the girls in the cells. When Tuft told the man he would have to wait until the detectives in charge of the case arrived, the man suddenly smashed the policeman in the nose. Hospital authorities said his nose was "pulverized."

Among recent assaults by the gang, which consists of two women and two men, was the assault on John MacDonald, Alberta School teacher, who is in serious condition in hospital.

BULLETIN

MONTREAL. — Penniless and ill, Arthur Ellis, who claimed to have hanged "hundreds" of men and women as the Dominion's unofficial hangman, was rushed to hospital to-day by police, who investigated the case of a "dying" man in a rooming house here.

Indians Get Thunderbirds And Dakota Rains Triple

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Heavy rains have been falling frequently in North Dakota since two aged Indians, Foolish Bear and Drags Wolf, for $175 to the Heye Foundation bundle, the tribal weather talisman.

Visitors to the United States office of Indian affairs from the Fort Berthold agency said today the Indains—the Water Buster clan of the Gros Ventres—are planning a big thanksgiving celebration for everyone who helped get back the talisman in New York last January.

The weather bureau reports that rainfall has been three per cent. above normal in North Dakota this year, while a year ago it was only one-third of normal.

The average rainfall dropped about one-fourth after the loss of the sacred bundle in 1907, when Chief Wolf secretly sold the relics to a Presbyterian missionary, G. F. Wilson, for $30. Wilson resold them forf $175 to the Heye Foundation Museum, in New York.

The sacred bundle contains the skulls of two Thunderbird deities who, Indian legend says, lived as human beings with the clan 200 years ago.

Four years ago the elders advised the clan to get back the Thunderbird skulls. When the museum would not part with the relics, even at a good profit, the clan asked the Indian affairs office to arrange a deal, and it did.

The Indians gave in exchange the sacred buffalo horn, talisman for good hunting, and threw in the clan's ancient stone club.

Gold mined in the Philippines in May was valued at nearly $2,700,000.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 20.—(AP).—The steam powered railroad train, now over-shadowed by Diesel-driven streamliners, is coming back —in sleek dress, with tremendous power and drastic mechanical revisions.

A newly-developed steam turbine electric locomotive was described to-day to the opening session 68th annual convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers by C. P. Kahler of Omaha, electrical engineer for the Union Pacific Railroad.

Engineers also heard their president, Henry Earle Riggs of Ann Arbor, Mich., caution them against unionization—"the most annoying problem of the present day."

The locomotive, Kahler said in his address, is really a travelling steam electric generating power plant "with all the refinements of a modern central station. The cab and general appearance of each unit will be very similar to the latest stream-lined train."

Electric Brakes.

The newest "iron horse" will be air conditioned and have powerful electric brakes capable of stopping the train, travelling 100 m.p.h. at the same distance old steam locomotives could at 60 m.p.h.

In his address on the relation of the National Society to the engineering profession, Riggs said:

"The most annoying problem of the present day is that of unionization. With labor leaders active in the attempt to bring every employee group into some form of union organization, with political and official pressure being brought to bear to compel affiliation, many young engineers and employees in sub-engineering positions need some professional society or group to turn to for advice and support.

"The true answer is that engineering is a profession and not a trade. The labor union or trade union does not solve the engineer's problems."

3 Women Alpinists Climb Alberta Peak First Time

Jasper, Alta., July 20.

THREE WOMEN from the Alpine Club here yesterday made the first ascent of Mount Athabaska, 11,452 feet above sea level. They are E. Gale and Mrs. Edith Maurice, both of Victoria, and Eileen DesBrisay, Vancouver.

The peak was scaled with crampons in seven and a half hours.

Elephant Guards Hen

Philadelphia, July 20 — (AP) — Grumpy "Lizzie," a cantankerous old-maid elephant at the Philadelphia Zoo, has "adopted' a pea-hen. The bird is hatching her four eggs in a nest a few feet away from the elephant, which chases away all intruders.

Toronto, July 20.

THREE ARMED men robbed William Penman, cattle drover, of Clifford, Ont., of $550 yesterday afternoon in the Union Stockyards in full view of scores of farmers and buyers who thought the gunmen were acquaintances of the victim.

Penman, a driver for Ben Kerrin, had brought a load of hogs and cattle in to sell yesterday morning. He had received his cheque of $550 and after cashing it at the bank at Keele and St. Clair Avenue, returned to the truck to wait for his employer.

The three gunmen apparently followed the drover to the bank and closed in on him when he climbed into the cab of the truck. Penman said he valued his life more than the money and handed it over.

Italian Spies Nabbed

TUNIS, Tunisia, July 20 (AP).—Police today held three Italians, arrested yesterday when they were declared about to flee in an airplane with maps showing French fortifications on the border between the French colony of Tunisia and the Italian colony of Libya.

The men were identified by police as Ugo Nobile, Dr. Petrelli and a writer named Santangelo.

Troops Rule Iowa City To Nip Riots

Martial Law Ordered After Strike Enters 10th Week

NEWTON, Ia., July 20 (AP).—Iowa national guardsmen rolled into Newton today in troop trucks and armored cars to establish martial law at the scene of the 10-week-old Maytag Washing Machine plant strike.

Following a proclamation issued last night by Governor Nelson Kraschel, Adjutant-General Charles Grahl mobilized a battalion of 250 guardsmen at Des Moines, including a medical detachment, an armored car detachment and a headquarters troop, for duty here.

Halting of three trucks carrying washing machine parts on the outskirts of Newton yesterday precipitated the request for troops.

Between 400 and 500 men returned to work in the plant Monday, passing through union picket lines, after the company refused to accept the decision of a strike arbitration board appointed by the governor.

Plant Running Again

Work actually had started in the plant and completed washing machines were rolling off the production lines for the first time since May 9 when the truck-halting incident occurred.

The governor announced troops would take over law enforcement here and said the plant would be closed. The strikers walked out in protest to a 10 per cent wage cut 10 weeks ago and held the plant in a sitdown for 10 days.

The mayor and the sheriff, advising the governor of the need for troops, told him that a group of union men in automobiles had stopped the trucks and that telephone wires had been cut at the scene, about four miles east of here.

"Somebody is going to get killed down there, just as sure as we are sitting here," Mayor Campbell told the governor.

Bull Bank Deposits Said To Be Tied Up

TORONTO, July 20—(CP).—The Toronto Globe and Mail says today that before the end of the week K. Perkins Bull, K.C., is expected to appear at the Legislative Buildings at Queen's Park "and there submit to a detailed examination by succession duties branch investigators on various matters pertaining to the Sidley will.

Bull, at whose home Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley died July 6, was bequeathed one-third of the residuary estate and a further sum totalling in all an estimated $1,250,000 or more.

"Pending this hearing, which will be of a private nature in accordance with the provisions of the Succession Duties Act," the Globe and Mail says, "the investigators are reported to have tied up formally all known bank deposits of Mr. Bull."

The paper adds, "There is no official confirmation available of this reported situation," and that an effort to interview Mr. Bull, along with an offer to publish a statement by him, met with this reply from Richard Casson, Bull's secretary:

"I am very sorry, but I have talked with Mr. Bull and he is not prepared to give an interview or make a statement at this time. He is very, very busy."

Think Missing Flier Tried Atlantic Hop

BOSTON, July 20—(AP).—A sister of Davis E. Smith, Detroit flyer missing since he left Detroit in a rebuilt monoplane at dawn on June 29, suggested to-day he might have attempted a trans-atlantic hop.

Mrs. Glenn Hawes of Malden said Smith's plane was equipped with a rubber boat and carried 373 gallons of gasoline. The craft, similar to that in which Douglas Corrigan of Los Angeles completed a New York to Dublin hop yesterday, had been fitted with a new engine and a new type of wing, she said.

Smith was "the type to do anything," his sister said. She learned of his disappearance only when a sister, Mrs. Ethel Merton, of Lynnfield Centre, returned to Malden on Sunday after a visit to Detroit.

Mrs. Hawes described her brother as "an inventor" whose plane carried many of his developments.

Yesterday's Deaths

Vancouver—James Gothard, 64, former publisher of the Canadian Police Gazette and the magazine "Truth" who was once on the editorial staff of the old Vancouver World.

Closed For Years Elevators Opening In West

WINNIPEG, July 20 (CP).—Remodelling of hundreds of grain elevators in the West, closed during drought years, is now under way to handle the 1938 crop, grain men said today.

With the yield now unofficially estimated at better than the ten-year average of 311,000,000 bushels, more elevators will be licensed to open their doors this fall than in any year since 1933.

Hundreds which for five and six years have been idle in drought areas, will be taking in grain next month, it is expected. Plants are being equipped with new and larger scales, bigger platforms and new air-dump lifts.

The work will cost approximately $3,000,000 and give work to 7,000 men. Payrolls will average $650,000 a months.

There are 5,678 elevators in the Prairie Provinces, 701 in Manitoba, 3,221 in Saskatchewan and 1,756 in Alberta.

Driver Injures Cow Two Charges Laid

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, July 20. — A Holstein cow, the property of Everett Heath, of the 10th Concession of the Township of Rawdon, had its spine broken, necessitating its destruction, after being struck by a motor car driven by Delbert Brunson of Springbrook, early on Monday evening. Brunson was driving on the 10th Concession of the Township of Rawdon, three miles east of the village of Springbrook, when he suddenly ran into a herd of cattle grazing alongside the road. The animal was later killed by its owner. Charges were preferred against both Heath and Brunson by Provincial Constable A. A. Stark.

The constable alleged the brakes on Brunson's car were inadequate, and charged the driver with failing to produce his operator's licence, while Heath is charged with permitting cattle to wander at large, the constable being informed that the cattle were unattended at the time of the accident.

Week With Pay Given Deloro Employees

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, July 20.—Announcement was made on Monday by the board of directors of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, Limited, through S. B. Wright, general manager, that the company has decided that all employees on day pay qualifying with one year's regular employment shall receive one week's holiday with pay this year.

This voluntary gesture by the directors has been received with deep appreciation on the part of all concerned.

One Skunk Gone

CHICAGO, July 20 — (AP). — Policemen told Miss Rose Johnson they were without the usual clues in their search for her pet skunk, Willie, which escaped from her boarding kennel. They advised her the chances of capturing a deodorized skunk were virtually nil.

Faster Plane Production

LONDON, July 20—(CP-Havas)—Sir Kingsley Wood, Air Secretary, today announced new moves to step up warplane production. He announced a new airplane carburetor factory has been founded in Coventry and that the Bristol Airplane Company's plant will be developed through a Government grant.

Six new nesting places for migrating birds have been built on lighthouses in England.

Germany Rushes Fortresses Against France

BERLIN, July 20.—(AP)—Berlin's stock market began yesterday to recover from a drop which started July 1 and which continued despite good crop prospects and increased industrial activity through military preparedness.

Economists assured the public that stock fluctuations constituted no barometer of the nation's economic status, but were caused by two passing phenomena: liquidation sales by Jewish security holders and by industrial corporations seeking working capital.

Reichsbank shares continued to decline yesterday but the Boerse (stock market) generally closed firm, with mining and industrial shares higher than yesterday.

For the past month Germany has been devoting her economic energies almost exclusively to perfecting military preparedness. Official figures on this trend are not yet obtainable, but any trained observer can see it.

Preparedness is in the air. It dominates discussion wherever business men, industrialists or manufacturers meet.

Build Fortifications

Field Marshal Hermann Goering's decree of June 26, under which any one may be drafted for service considered necessary in the State's interest, assumed concrete meaning when it became known that thousands of skilled and unskilled workers have been sent to the French border, obviously for construction of fortifications.

Paris despatches said the number of workmen was 200,000 and that the fortifications were regarded there as intended to neutralize any French aid to her allies such as Czechoslovakia.

Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung admitted indirectly in an editorial that problem, without outside interference, obviously would lead to a clearer atmosphere for negotiations of wider scope.

The Refugee Problem

Reliable information indicated he also told the German Envoy that German desire for co-operation might be shown in sharing with other governments the work of finding haven for political and racial refugees.

Stephen Osusky, the Czechoslovak Minister to Paris, was believed to have been asked to be present as Lord Halifax unfolded the German suggestions at today's conference with his French colleagues.

King George, speaking at the dinner given him and Queen Elizabeth by President Lebrun last night, stressed that France and Britain jointly had great responsibilities in preserving democratic institutions.

Some saw this as foreshadowing settlement of the long tense situation in the Central European democracy, for it was strong French-British diplomatic action last May 21 which checked Nazi-Czech conflict on the minority question.

Far From Satisfactory

BERLIN, July 20 — (AP) — The visit of Captain Fritz Wiedemann, Chancellor Hitler's Adjutant, to London over the week-end was "not completely satisfactory," according to a source with excellent connections at the Chancellory.

In other words, this source said, Lord Halifax was prepared to urge the Czechoslovak Government to grant a large measure of autonamy to the Sudeten Germans, but not as much as the Nazis think the Sudeten Germans should have.

According to the Chancellory source, Lord Halifax balked at the idea of having anti-semitic legislation enforced throughout Sudeten territory as one of the manifestations autonomy.

The informant stated that Wiedemann informed Lord Halifax of Chancellor Hitler's adamant insistance that Czechoslovakia must sever her alliance with Soviet Russia. Lord Halifax apparently remained noncommital on this point.

Silver Finnettes Have Water Show

An enjoyable aquatic program was staged in the Y.W.C.A. pool Monday night with the Silver Finnettes, members of the Y.W., taking part in over a dozen water events under direction of their coach, Miss Caroline Littlefield. All members hold life-saving certificates and medallions of the Royal Life Saving Society. They gave an excellent demonstration in life saving methods and resuscitation of the apparently drowned, which was enjoyed by the spectators.

The program started with a diamond floating pyramid, followed by a trio breast stroke, and then a canoeing stunt. The school of porpoise and propeller acts proved quite entertaining. A difficult swimming breast stroke feet first followed, and then the submarines act. Sculling in serpent and wheel formation and a wheel float came next, and these were followed by the marching cadets in the water. A special trick swimming quartet demonstrated the smoke stack, star dolphin, planking and figure 8 with pin wheel. Swimming stunts included progress with two legs in the air, accordion, propelling, petal float, flower and pyramid, concluding with fancy diving to end an excellent show.

Wins 'Miss Toronto' Title

Returning to her home town after an absence of 16 years, Diane Perkins, 20, of Vancouver, was unanimously chosen "Miss Toronto" for 1938 at the annual Toronto police games. Diane was taken to Vancouver when she was four years old, but returned to Toronto five weeks ago, seeking a job as a model. Assistant Inspector of Detectives Moses Mulholland, president of the police games, RIGHT, is shown presenting a bouquet to Miss Toronto, while Mayor Ralph Day smilingly looks on. In addition to the flowers, Diane won a cup, a trip to Atlantic City and a cheque of $300.

Police Jail Promise Gets 2 Youths Freed

BRAMPTON, Ont., July 20 (CP). A lighter sentence was promised him by two policemen if he pleaded guilty to an automobile theft charge, William Crush, 19, swore before Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe here yesterday.

"I was getting nervous so I thought I had better take my chances in court," he told Crown Attorney A. G. Davis. He said Inspector William Segee of York Township police and Provincial Constable Batt had promised him a lighter sentence if he made a confession.

"I am not at all satisfied with the way this statement was obtained," said the magistrate, dismissing the charge. A similar charge against John Martin, 17, was also dismissed.

Lumberjack Giant Held For Murder

NELSON, B.C., July 20—(CP).—A towering 32-year-old lumberman was held by the British Columbia Police today, charged with the murder of 55-year-old Mrs. Laura Green, native of Truro, N.S.

The arrest of Seth Daniel Ostlund came as a surprise development in police investigations of the death of Mrs. Green, whose bruised and beaten body was found Friday in a railway cut at nearby Taghum by a section gang.

Investigations convinced police the woman had been "murdered," and an autopsy revealed she died from a fractured skull. Ostund's arrest came three days after her body was found.

During a cricket match in Ireland a swallow was killed by the ball.

Senator Found Shot In New York Office

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP).—State Senator Julius S. Berg, 43, was found dying from a bullet wound in his office today and succumbed before an ambulance arrived.

Police found a note addressed to the press, asking that he be dealt with gently, and saying "I have been very sick for the past two years."

They also found an autobiography of Berg, a veteran of the Great War and a New York State Senator since 1930.

Comment was withheld at the office of the district attorney, Thomas E. Dewey, on a report that senator Berg was under investigation in connection with Dewey's inquiry into fees paid by several large New York city taxicab companies, allegdely to influence legislation.

More Fishing Licenses

TORONTO, July 20—(CP).—More non-resident fishing licences have been issued so far this year than at this time last year, D. J. Taylor, Game and Fisheries Department Deputy Minister, announced today. Last year more than 85,000 angled under non-resident licences, a record number.

Britain, Australia Sign Trade Pact

LONDON, July 20 (C.P. Cable).—British and Australian Government representatives who since last May have been engaged in trade negotiations to-day signed a joint memorandum.

The representatives, while unable to conclude a new trade agreement, laid down general principles which are to serve as a guide for their trade relations in future.

The Ottawa Trade agreement between Australia and the United Kingdom remains in effect. The memorandum, which will be made public to-night, is understood to include a general reference to military defences.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 20—(CP).—July wheat was lone option to retain early gains on the Winnipeg Market to-day as late weakness at Chicago carried prices lower in the deferred months. July closed fractionally over the dollar mark for the first time in more than a week. Quotations at the final bell were ¼ higher to 1¼ lower, with July $1, October 76⅝ to ¾c, November 75⅞c and December 74 to 75c.

Light export business yesterday supplemented by a little to-day brought estimates to about 400,000 bushels almost entirely Red Springs.

Windsor Castle Protected From Enemy Aerial Attacks

King George Passes Precautionary Steps

LONON, July 20.—Windsor Castle, famed centuries old home of England's kings, situated just outside London, was to-day being protected against aerial attack by enemy bombers in the next war.

Five hundred people live and work within the castle and its precincts; treasures worth hundreds of millions of dollars are housed within its walls.

For the protection of those who live and work there, a survey has been made of suitable places in the basements and corridors which can quickly be converted into shelters.

Plans have been completed to make these wasand splinter proof with air locks at the entrances and exits. Volunteers for two squads for gas decontamination work and two squads for rescue work have been enrolled, and the members are being given lectures and practical instruction.

Lectures For Volunteers.

A course of lectures is also being given to any who volunteer for service. A room in the castle has been allocated as a first aid post.

The castle fire brigade has been augmented, and a fire inspector engaged. The fire appliances have been brought up to date in line with the special requirements. The castle has its own water supply, but an emergency supply from the adjacent Thames River has been arranged. A salvage corps has been formed, and a number of prominent residents within the castle have volunteered to act as air raid wardens to warn occupants of impending raids.

Complete plans have also been drawn for the protection of the priceless pictures, gold plate, jewels, furniture and other objects d'art contained within the castle, which for centuries has been a veritable treasure house.

Walls Unusually Thick.

The tremendously thick castle walls and roofs will afford adequate protection against almost anything but a direct hit, but as a precautionary measure, the more valuable paintings, etc., will be taken into specially strengthened rooms and corridars in the deep basements.

King George has examined and passed every detail of the precautionary measures taken and envisaged, and himself has taken a hand in devising measures for the protection of himself and his family should they be in residence at the time of any future raid.

Defence air squadrons, searchlight and anti-aircraft batteries recently carried out elaborate manoeuvres over the castle with a view to ascertaining the best means of defending it from the air and ground

MILLBROOK

Harry McLeod went to St. Catharines on Saturday to spend the weekend with his father, Mr. H. McLeod, Senior.

The heavy rain storm, accompanied with thunder and lightning, just after dinner on Thursday delayed the departure of the pupils and friends of St. Andrew's Sunday School for their annual picnic outing, at the Lakeshore Park, Cobourg. The attendance was also lessened by the storm; however, two trucks were engaged to convey the younger element to the picnic grounds, and a number of cars were in use for others going.

The usual races were run off following the supper hour, tables being laid for the picnic tea, and the attraction of a "dip" in the lake being a drawing-card, as in previous years, for those who were not afraid of the temperature of the water—too much on the cool side to be generally popular.

The fact that no band concert was held in the evening rather detracted from the enjoyment, and led to return home at an earlier hour than usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Hewitt, and daughter, Bernice, of Peterborough, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Edworthy on Sunday.

Claim Labor Spies Used Against Strikes

WASHINGTON, July 20—(AP)—United States Senate investigators traced today what they said was a system of labor espionage established by the Republic Steel Corporation to combat strikes.

Witness were summoned in an effort to show that methods used in a relatively small labor disturbance in 1935 were continued on a broader scale in the "Little Steel" strike last year.

From Joseph Gilroy, a company captain of police, the civil liberties committee heard yesterday that republic paid $4,130 for "expenses in connection with labor disturbances" in Canton, Ohio, from June to September, 1935.

Gilroy, police leader at the Berger Manufacturing Company, Canton subsidiary of republic, said some of the money was paid to Kenneth J. Sodders of Cleveland and Edward C. Ray of Warren, Ohio. He identified Ray as a former president of the Sheet Metal Workers Union of Canton, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Chairman Lafollette (Prog-Wisconsin) estimated for the record that republic had paid Sodders and Ray about $2,500 for undercover activities, during and after the six-day strike at the Berger plant in May, 1935. Sodders and Ray testified to receiving payments for the undercover work.

James L. Williams, superintendent of the company police in all republic plants, said he personally had paid "gratuities" to 200 or 300 persons for information on the activities of striking Berger plant workmen. Williams denied that any informers were employed regularly at Canton other than Sodders and Ray.

MR. PICOBAC'S CRONIES

INTRODUCING MR. OSCAR McVITTIE, POPULARLY KNOWN AS "OLLY", PROPRIETOR AND GENERAL MANAGER OF THE BIJOU THEATRE. ("Nothing but the best. Change of Programme every Saturday".)

"Business is a headache," says Olly

The lobby in the Bijou Theatre in Essex Centre was papered with posters in which pretty girls and red and pink colouring predominated.

"Picture business," declared Olly bitterly, "is a headache." He pointed to the display of posters which had engaged Mr. Picobac's attention. "Here I book a sure-fire picture which has lined them up all over the country, and all I get is a sprinkling in the cheap front seats."

"Olly," said Mr. Picobac, "the public was always fickle. Disappointment and frustration is the lot of man. But don't let business get you down."

"What would you do about it?" asked Olly.

"I'd fill up my pipe with Picobac," replied the philosopher, "and have a mild, cool, sweet smoke. When you light up a pipe of Picobac your troubles fade away. Picobac is a mellow tobacco, Olly—the Pick of Canada's Burley crop, matured for three years in the wood."

Making a Confession

Magistrate Woodliffe sitting in court at Brampton dismissed a charge of car theft against William Crush of York township after the accused man swore he had confessed because the police grilled him. He said he had been steadily questioned by police from 1.30 until 8.30, and then decided it would be better for him to confess and take a chance in court.

Just what explanation there was for the questioning or how it was conducted was not revealed in the report from Brampton, the only reference to it being a statement by an inspector that the man had not been questioned for longer than two hours.

Probably William Crush of York township did not understand that he had certain rights as a citizen of this country. If he did not wish to make a statement he need not have done so. His statement that the questioning continued so long that he considered it best to make a confession and take a chance in court is something which should never be necessary in this country.

In the first place he could have refused to make any statement, and if he were prepared to say anything he would have to be warned by the police that anything he might say would be used against him in court. Whether that warning is always given so that people thoroughly understand it is something we do not know. A person taken to the station might be so nervous that he would not know definitely what was being said to him. But it is a fact that there is no power in this land to cause a person to unwillingly make a statement or a confession under such circumstances.

Two Sufficient Reasons

Japan has done something which needed doing — given up the Olympic games for 1940. Under other conditions Japan would have been the logical and right place for the world premier athletic event. It would have been known and assured in advance that the games would have been properly staged, and there would have been a native appreciation of the event which might have been lacking in other lands for Japs are good athletes. Some of them have made records at world gatherings which have never been equalled and probably never will be.

But now all these conditions have changed. There would have been international trouble had the games been held in Japan. There is a marked degree to which national feeling is carried into sports events and that is something for which we know no remedy. Right now there are few nations which approve of the thing Japan has done in China; it is entirely out of touch and out of line with the goal for which this war-weary world is contending, and even if the Chinese affair is over before 1940 the memory of the attack would live.

A nation must start some years in advance making plans for such an event and it costs money, and world financiers do not believe Japan has money to spare for anything except war and Japan itself is probably more acutely aware of that condition than are the world financiers. So there are two good reasons for Japan dropping the Olympiad, (1) Japan cannot afford the expenditure, and (2) there are too many nations which would prefer not to have their athletes identify themselves with the games in Japan.

A Steady Job? Yes—No

Some years ago there was generally a story at Christmas time telling of the bonuses which were being paid to employees of the brokerage firms in New York. Wall Street was happy; business had been brisk and the Christmas bonus was large and comfortable.

This year it is different and a "replacement" committee of the New York Stock Exchange has been trying to see what could be done about it. Replies received from 472 member firms of the New York Stock Exchange reported that 3,979 workers were released in one six-month period, and on June 15 there were 3,579 who had not found employment elsewhere.

The number of people who can be engaged in that business is apparently definitely known, and it all depends on the amount of business which is being done. If the average daily turnover of shares runs to 2,000,000 they would be able to rehire 1,275 workers, but if the turnover lags to 500,000 shares daily they would have to dismiss an additional 1,818 employees.

In such an atmosphere it would be difficult to say whether an individual had a steady job or not. It would not seem such a thing existed for many of the workers. If business is good they work; if it falls off the workers do the same thing. And that is rather a miserable way to live

Not Much Happiness

Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania who died at the age of 62 was a person of beauty and ability. She had a strong mind and her influence in some ways was great, but it could hardly be claimed that in her life there was much of happiness. Her father was Alfred, Duke of Edinburgh, second son of Queen Victoria; her mother was Grand Duchess Marie of Russia. She was married to the Crown Prince Ferdinand of Rumania when she was but 17.

To Queen Marie goes the credit of having turned Rumania to the side of the Allies in the World War. The late King Ferdinand was inclined to be neutral but came under the pressure or influence of Germany, but it was undoubtedly the Queen who stepped in there and lined Rumania up with the Allies.

The eldest of her six children, Carol II., must have been a heartbreak because he renounced the throne shortly before his father's death and went into voluntary exile in Paris, where his method of living was nothing to bring joy to the heart of a mother. In 1930 he returned and was proclaimed king. One of her daughters became widowed when her husband, King Alexander of Jugoslavia, was assassinated in 1934. A woman of purpose she lived years in unhappy times, but was undoubtedly the most outstanding person in the nation.

There Was a Job To Be Done

Rev. A. J. Jackson is rector of St. Hilda's church at Fairbank in York county and has been there four years. Apparently he has ideas of his own about how things ought to be done. It cannot be said that the welcome he received in his new post was all that might be desired; the people were friendly and glad to see him but on the day of his arrival he was served with a writ for the salary-in-arreas of the organist. That writ gave a fair enough indication of the general financial condition of the church to which he had been named.

Mr. Jackson wanted to get his congregation out of debt, so he decided to cut house expenses by moving in and living in the church building. He did his own cooking in the basement; he had a camp cot for a bed and used the general wash rooms in the church premises. He is able to see results as the indebtedness has been reduced from $25,000 to $16,000, and the time will yet come when he will be working on the basis of receiving a stated salary.

Rev. A. J. Jackson has a philosophy of his own which he applies to his work. He believes people's interest in a church can be stimulated by example, and any community, however soured on religion it may appear to be, can be encouraged by another's faith to find new faith itself. He finds people in his congregation who now want to come and do things and it may be that is caused by the feeling that the rector is doing too much himself. Certainly the critic can not raise his voice to say that Mr. Jackson went into the ministry for what he could get out of it. And we dare say if the question were asked Mr. Jackson would readily and gladly admit he is finding wholesome pleasure and satisfaction in the work to which he has set his hand.

Johnny Gray Says It's Wrong

They have teachers for almost everything now, and we're not bent on arguing that it is entirely wrong. In Y.M.C.A. tanks they are teaching boys how to swim and that is right enough, and some of those who give instruction are also giving interviews to the press. And like as not that's right too.

We noticed where Johnny Gray, who is teaching 200 little chaps to swim at the West End Y.M.C.A. in Toronto has been saying things about throwing boys into deep water and telling them they must swim out or go down. He does not like the idea and probably Johnny is right about that. He says is destroys confidence and makes the boy afraid of the water.

But it used to be done that way. It was even so at the swimming hole at Mud Creek. Just why there was any water left there in summer no one ever seemed to know. Probably because there was a hole there and the water could not run out although on sanitary grounds alone it should have done so. Perhaps Johnny Gray never had experience in that kind of a swimming place. He would not know it was best before going in to stand on the bank and throw in a few stones to cause the turtles and crabs and blood suckers and other forms of life to move on a little bit. Perhaps he would not know that it was best to have a little fire on the bank to make the blood suckers leave go where they had fastened on the toe.

At Mud Creek they used to throw the little chaps off the high bank into the deep water. There was nothing in the township bylaws or the Ditches and Watercourses Act to say it should not be done, and there was the tradition of a good many years to say it should be done. Therefore it was done. The little chaps discovered that after they sank beneath the muddy waters for a distance they came to the surface again, and they also found that with a series of splashing and kicking they could make their way to shallow water. After a fellow had been thrown in he felt bigger; he had become a member in good standing of the Mud Creek swimming hole and he was even inclined to boast about it a little. But Johnny Gray says that method is wrong. Always ready to receive instruction from an expert we admit he is right, but also reserve the opinion that the pitching in method had its points.

And Now He Is Happy

One man is ready to make an honest admission. Truth is he has made it. He was for years rich but his money has gone. The business in which his wealth was invested and from which his income came has fallen into the hands of receivers. He no longer lives in the large home which was his, but is in a very modest sort of lodging. His experience as related to a New York paper is this:

"Yes, I admit I lost just about everything and I deserved to. I did not understand the business which I inherited from my father. I received a good education and graduated from university but I did not know the business. I was in the office but I found that everything there was in the hands of others who appeared to know what to do. It was all right and everything was satisfactory when I finally came into possession. Then when the crash came I found I did not know what to do. I did not have my hands right on the situation; I did not know where to curtail or how to strive to offset the wreck which we saw coming.

"When it was all over I had to begin life anew and I was 46 years old. It was then I found how little I knew. There was no demand for my services and I had actually no capital. If I had I would have been afraid to put it into business and when fear grips a man he is through. There was a small store on the corner near where we went to live and I used to talk to the man who ran it when making purchases there. His little place of business had not closed during the depression and he made the suggestion that I might get a start if I knew his business. I jumped at the idea. I forgot what a come-down it was from the place I used to occupy. He put me to work waiting on people and then I began to learn a business from the bottom up. I worked longer hours and I worked harder than I had ever done before. There were no row of buttons on a desk before me which I could press when I wanted something done. I was actually learning to do things myself and I was finding out how they should be done and there are lines of small business where this is above all necessary.

"By the time I was 52 years old the man who ran the corner store decided he would open another a few blocks away and he put me there to run it and that is what I am doing today. The trade is increasing, not rapidly, but surely. The amount of money I make is no greater than I used to pay one of my secretaries, but I am running the business. I am not taking assistance from any person. In our little home we count it a treat to step out now and go to the movies while there were years when he had a box at the opera for the season. When I look back on the months I spent after the crash and think of the way in which my pride was hurt, and how I was spending days licking my wounds and feeling sorry for myself—and compare it with my position now I can come to only one conclusion and that is that I am happy."

It is not every man who could or would solve his problem that way, but it is not difficult to understand why that New Yorker says today he is happy. He has in mid-life made another start; he has moved to a lower plane but he would have been on a still lower one had he not started at the bottom and in a humble way to do his rebuilding. It is better to forget the past and live in the present than to make the present miserable by thinking about the past.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Hamilton reports a cat which will eat ice cream cones only after the temperature reaches 90 in the shade, since which time the family has sold the thermometer.

Premier Hepburn has condemned the Dominion government's housing scheme as foolish and as something which exists only on borrowed money. If he were leader of the Conservative Opposition at Ottawa he could hardly have said more.

There was a picnic in one of our parks the other day with races and all manner of events, but the feature which appealed to us as about right for a warm weather picnic was the bean guessing contest.

Minister of Highways says the postmen are the best pedestrians for they are much on the streets and cross frequently but seldom are in an accident. Perhaps the average driver tipped his postman at Christmas and feels he has a few months of service coming to him that he does not wish to disrupt.

COUSIN EZRA

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra lost his hair, and up on top he's pretty bare, it sprouts up there no more; yet there were times long years ago, when Ezra's wool would grow and grow, he brushed it pompadour.

¶ He split it in the centre too, and followed each new style that grew, and he was always right; he had such crops upon his dome, he'd almost wreck the family comb, it reached enormous height.

¶ When Ezra started shedding hay, he tackled it without delay, he started there and then; he would not lose the gorgeous crop, that decorated well his top, and walk with baldish men.

¶ For years my cousin wouldn't cease, and he bought lotions, he bought grease, and ointment blue and red; he rubbed so hard I used to fear, he'd wear a hole above his ear, another in his head.

¶ And Ezra used the looking glass, to see if he was growing grass, or if a hair would sprout; he rubbed so hard before he'd done, that if a tiny hair had come, he would have rubbed it out.

¶ And when he rubbed his head some more, long hairs would drift toward the floor, then Ezra called cease fire; if he had all the ducats now, he spent for ointment for his brow — he says that he'd retir

"Mail-It-Away" Reaches India

IT IS INTERESTING to note the idea of the Trent Valley and Kawartha Lakes district which a resident in India received from looking at a copy of the Mail-it-Away edition of the Examiner. Mr. A. O. Phillips of 167 Antrim street, city, forwarded a copy to his brother, Capt. J. O. R. Phillip of the Army Education Corps at Meerut, U. P., India.

The letter acknowledging the receipt of the edition was mailed in India on July 3, and arrived on July 15, a matter of 15 days. It came via air mail from India to England.

Capt. Phillips writes:

My Dear Alf:

The Annual Vacation Number 1938 of the Peterborough Examiner has just arrived. Thanks very much. My first impression was, from a cursory examination, like that of the old lady who saw a Giraffe at the Zoo for the first time "I don't believe it." There cannot be so many fish, in one place. Then I began to wonder why Peterborough, Ont., was not known universally as "The Fishermen's Paradise."

The excellent reproductions of the camera studies and snaps made me long to visit such a magnificent area. I have caught fish in many parts of the Empire, and I shall now have a lasting regret that I cannot try my skill in your Trent Valley, Kawartha Lakes and the Haliburton Highlands.

After persuing the Examiner more carefully I now understand how Peterborough manages to find a place on the map. The mention of map reminds me of a criticism. The intriguing and unique picture map, starred on the back cover and its supplement on page 12, section III, like your winter, left me cold, and like your summer made me hot under the collar, because I still cannot tell from them the distances. Why not give a scale line or some pictorial indication of the areas? I was taught as a school boy that Canada is a land of vast spaces and huge distances. How far is it from Peterborough to Haliburton? On page 23 I see that the Trent's length is 237 miles, but have you any crows in Ontario?

My most forcible impression is that the folk of your district are exceedingly fortunate to have such wonderful fishing on the doorstep. Surely "The smiling waters and happy lands" must produce smiling faces and happy hearts.

The more I look at the splendid illustrations, the more I long to come to see if they are at all true. I am sure that no one within comfortable travelling distance could resist the appeal of the Examiner to spend a holiday in the area. When you show such fish, such scenery, such naiads and such boating and hotel facilities I shall be surprised to know, that when your proposed highway is completed, that you will even have enough camping sites for the influx of visitors, who, like myself have found for the first time that Peterborough has a good reason to find a place on the map.

I can see that I shall spend many happy hours, just re-examining the pictures and interpreting the context. I used the word interpreting because I only know English and not Canadian. I don't blame the Examiner for that, but what is a lunge, what is a muskie? I should like to add, in conclusion, if you won't consider it presumptuous, that I consider the 1938 issue absolutely splendid—line, hook and sinker.

As ever,
Your loving brother,
James.

A NATIVE TELLS IT.

(Toronto Star)

THE GOVERNMENT of the island of Papua is carried on by the commonwealth of Australia. Sir Hubert Murray has been the administrator for thirty years and his annual reports are full of interest. His latest report relays the story told by Mr. Cridland, resident magistrate of the northeastern division, of how his native interpreter, who heard the coronation proceedings at Westminster over the radio, described the ceremony to a native village councillor. The interpreter said:

"King George, he dead. Number one son, Edward, he no want him clothes. Number two son, he like.

"Bishop, he make plenty talk along new King. He say 'You savvy taravatu? (laws). You look out good along all the people?'

"King, he talk 'Yes.'

"Then bishop, and plenty government men, and storekeeper, and soldier, and bank manager, and policeman, all he stand up and sing and blow him trumpet.

"Finish."

If broadcasts should be concise and stated in understandable terms by the most simple minds the Papuan interpreter's effort was a triumph.

ACCIDENTAL MIRACLE

(Detroit Free Press)

AT LEAST TWO people in Ontario must believe that miracles still happen, as well as accidents.

Their car stalled on a grade crossing.

A train came along at 80 miles an hour and cut off the front quarter of the car as cleanly as if a giant knife had done it.

There's a man and his wife who have something to write home about.

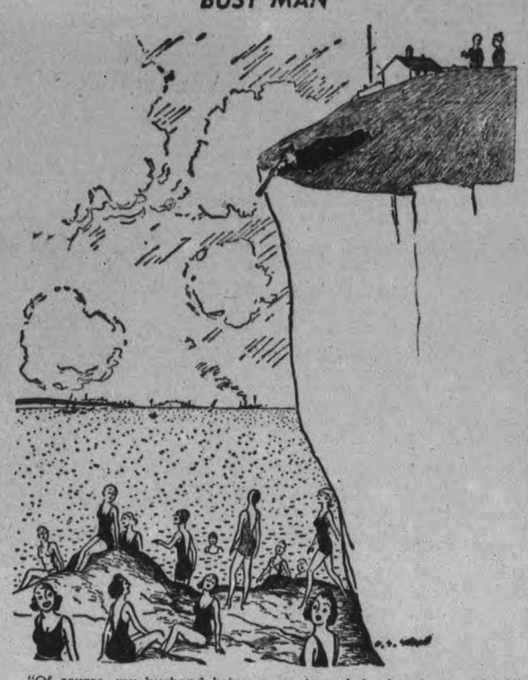
Unfortunately, for most people who drive onto grade crossing, when trains are approaching, there's nothing to write home about except funeral arrangements.

THE COME-BACK

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

St. Thomas Times-Journal: "Says the Stratford Beacon-Herald: Add to Premier Hepburn's great achievements giving away Ontario's million-dollar Chorley Park when nobody would buy it at any price. But in some cases it is an achievement to get rid of a 'white elephant,' and Chorley Park became such when it ceased to be government house." Yeah, but it didn't become a white elephant until Premier Hepburn made it one.

BUSY MAN



"Of course, my husband being a coastguard, he has to go out with his telescope every day." —London Opinion.

• Says Manion Pledge Was Weak

(Financial Post)

THE CONSERVATIVE convention and the party's new leader, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion got off to a most unpromising start when they rejected the opportunity to give national leadership on the railway problem. Neither the party nor its leader gave evidence that they approach the subject with an open mind or that they have clear convictions along what lines a solution must be found.

Dr. Manion was for five years Canada's Minister of Railways during which time he came to grips with the problem in its most ugly manifestations. He was instrumental in bringing to an end the Thornton regime of waste and extravagance and was responsible for important economies which he realized were so essential if the country were to avoid financial bankruptcy. Only two years ago he wrote in his book, "Life is an Adventure":

"Canada cannot go indefinitely paying $50 millions per annum for the Canadian National. . . .

"The national economic life is at stake today, and, if it is to be salvaged all must be ready to assist even at the cost of some real sacrifice."

These statements are equally true today. Yet in his nomination speech, Dr. Manion went out of his way to emphasize the things he would not do about this railway problem. He gave no indication of what he would do to work toward its solution.

The railway resolution which finaly emerged from the convention itself was essentially negative. It first declared "opposition to any plan of unification or amalgamation," then pledged the party to secure "co-operation . . . under a non-political board" provided the rights of labor were safeguarded by pensions for employees displaced and provide that liens which "contribute to and are essential to the national development of our country be preserved and continued."

More than three quarters of the resolution was devoted to what the Conservative party will not do. Its one positive suggestion gave little evidence of the party's willingness to go out of its way to achieve any permanent or effective solution.

There will be no solution of the railway or any other pressing national problem so long as political parties lack the courage to face issues squarely and with an open mind.

Dr. Manion may have very definite personal convictions on the matter of rail unification. But he should not, on the first day of his leadership, have permitted his hands to be tied on the country's biggest problem. His frank statement last week that "I am not the servant of any individual, class, group, section or interest, big or little" is already qualified. Dr. Manion—as was Mr. Bennett—is already the slave of an unnecessary and undesirable commitment.

The convention voted down, both privately and publicly, all attempts to meet the railway issue squarely. It rejected in bad grace the moderate but clean-cut amendment which urged:

"That the Conservative party pledges itself to find ways and means to solve the railway problem, also pledging that in its solution, temporary and permanent employees of both railways and their families will be adequately and fully protected."

There was nothing of national leadership in the negative, hesitant stand of the party and its new chief.

• The Average Car Trip Is 20 Miles

WHILE WIDESPREAD use of the motor car for travel is increasing lengthy trips, most highway traffic remains local in nature and cannot be channelled on a few trunk routes.

Eighty out of every 100 motorists on the main highways today are headed for destinations less than 20 miles from home, and only two out of 100 are going more than 100 miles.

This is shown in preliminary figures for 11 of the states now cooperating with the United States Bureau of Public Roads in making highway planning surveys.

These studies are under way in 43 states. From this survey work the Federal highway authorities expect to obtain sufficient factual data on the principal requirements of highway travel in all areas of the country to be able to project highway development for years to come along sound and economical lines.

Typical of the information being collected are the following results recently announced by the Bureau of Public Roads:

"The main highways and their extensions through cities carry 58.9 per cent. of the total motor vehicle traffic; 30.8 per cent is on the large mileage of other city streets, and scarcely more than 10 per cent. of the total occurs on all secondary and local rural roads which, in mileage, have eight times the extent of the main highways.

"Preliminary data from 17 States show traffic on the main highways and trans-city connections to be 58 per cent. urban in origin and 42 per cent rural. These are approximately the percentages of the urban and rural population in the States where the counts were made.

• But Our Debt Has Increased

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

IN THE BRANTFORD by-election emphasis has been laid by the Conservative candidate and supporting speakers upon a charge that the Hepburn government has "gouged" the city in a way which has caused an increase in municipal taxation from 42 to 46.5 mills, or something like that. The argument is that the amount assumed in respect of mothers' allowance and old age pensions, and the one-mill rebate, are together less by about $70,000 than the income tax revenue which the government took away. To arrive at this conclusion, however, it is estimated that income tax in Brantford would now be about $125,000, whereas it was only $55,000 in the depression years. Whether or not that is a fair assumption, Brantford citizens are in best position to judge. Woodstock's assessment for income tax purposes decreased, as it happened, about the time the government took over the levy. Statistics are not at hand, but income tax probably brought in about $8,000 here, whereas mothers' allowances and old age pensions ran to something like $9,000, and the one-mill rebate amounts to $7,457.

Some municipalities have gained by these transactions; others, mainly the large cities, have lost substantially. There may be ground for criticism at Brantford. But it does not sound like a very effective argument, and it seems a pity to waste a lot of time upon it when the government is so vulnerable at other points. The thing amounts only to a shift of taxation, in any event, and pretty much the same persons pay it. All that can be said is that insofar as the municipality has actually lost revenue, property taxpayers in that capacity are adversely affected.

A much bigger question is the incidence of provincial taxation. Premier Hepburn said at Brantford on Saturday evening his government had reduced the debt. Page 67 of his own budget address shows that the debt at beginning of his regime was $358,477,000, whereas at the end of March, 1937, it was $405,436,000. Provincial revenue has been increasing year by year and for the current fiscal year is estimated at $85,795,308, compared with about $50,000,000 at close of the former administration. Taxation in this province is on a scale well worthy of discussion in any by-election compaign.

• This Man Found An Opening

(Windsor Star)

EVERY NOW AND then we hear some young man lamenting that the days of opportunity have passed, that there is no longer a chance to start humbly and get somewhere.

Yesterday the Windsor Kiwanis heard an address from a leader whose own record proves that the pessimists are wrong.

The speaker was Ted Bauland, manager of the Walkerside Dairies at London. Eight years ago Mr. Bauland arrived in Canada from his native Holland. He had $36 in his pocket, he could not speak English and he had no job. He bought a ticket for London and secured employment on a farm. Eventually he secured an Arts degree at McMaster University and now occupies a responsible position.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND THE JEWS' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem, and found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting:

And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables; and said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise.

And his disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up. Then answered the Jews and said unto him, What sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things?

Jesus anwered and aid unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days? But he spake of the temple of his body.

When therefore he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this unto them; and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.— John ii, 13-22.

THEY STILL DO IT.

(Detroit Free Press)

THE HIT-AND-RUN driver is not a new menace to life and limb.

A half-century ago, according to the files of The Detroit Free Press for July 10, 1888, the police were looking for two women who "sneaked" after their buggy had knocked down and injured a seven-year-old boy on Junction Ave.

Which merely goes to show that human nature was much the same in horse-and-buggy days as it is in the automotive era.

And it will probably continue to be much the same until the law cracks down harder on the most despicable of all types of drivers, those who leave the scene of an accident, with out trying to give what aid they can to the victims of their recklessness.

SPEAKING OF SPIES.

(New York Times)

BRITISH newspaper owners have long been opposed to the tremendous powers of the government under the officials Secrets Act even though they have been seldom used, and an airing of the entire matter will be welcome to this group. In this connection there is one amusing Fleet Street story about a reporter who wrote an article giving certain details of a new British fighting plane. According to the story he was summoned by government officials and threatened with jail if he did not reveal the source of his data. Thereupon he produced a three-month-old issue of a German aviation magazine.

A Bit of Nonsense

NOT GUILTY

The inspector was examining the class.

"Who drove the Israelites out of Egypt? You," he said, pointing to a boy in the corner.

"Twasn't me, sir," replied the boy. "I only came back from the country last week."

All this was accomplished in eight years— and by a young man not familiar with our language. Some native Canadians, by contrast, have been sitting around for eight years, finding fault with conditions and lamenting their lot. While they were moaning, the Hollander was getting somewhere.

"I would rather starve to death in the city than work on a farm," a young man told us on one occasion a few years ago. Yet Mr. Bauland went on a farm and now he's back in the city — and very definitely not starving to death.

Yes, opportunities are still floating around for young men who have that certain something

U.S. Medicos Hit 850 Million Health Program

WASHINGTON, July 20—(AP)—Officials of the American Medical Association heaped criticism today on a recommendation for an $850,000,000 Government health program in the United States.

The far-reaching venture, proposed to the National Health Conference yesterday by a committee appointed by President Roosevelt, would have two general aims:

1. It would expand general public health facilities, try to eradicate tuberculosis, venereal disease, and malaria and to control pneumonia and cancer deaths, and develop maternal and child health centres.

2. It would use some State, Local and Federal funds to build hospitals, maintain free beds, and give grants-in-aid for research.

Presentation of the proposal by a committee on medical care appointed by the President started an immediate dispute.

Brand it Unworkable.

Dr. Irvin Abell of Louisville, Ky., President of the American Medical Association, termed the program unworkable. Dr. Hugh Cabot of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., a leader of the "Rebel" group in the Medical Association, replied:

"Maintenance of the standards of medical practice by the medical profession as it present organized has been grossly unsatisfactory."

In his first comment, Dr. Abell argued that further studies were needed because medical requirements varied widely in different localities. He added:

"Those people who think that they can devise a centrally controlled medical service plan which can be fitted to the varying conditions of the states, counties and cities of this country are discussing theories which no practical health administrator could possibly approve."

Dr. Cabot said he did not feel much confidence in the results of the A. M. A. survey of medical needs. He asserted thousands of persons lacked medical care while thousands of young physicians "are starving to death."

The entire community was grieved to hear of the passing of Mr. Ernest Hill at Weston early Friday morning in his 38th year. Sincere sympathy is extended to the sorrowing widow and four small children.

Still Fighting

Found in the hills of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, and interviewed for the first time since he flung down the gauntlet in defiance of the government of President Cardenas, General Saturnino Cedillo, former minister of agriculture in the Cardenans cabinet, declared: "I never felt better in my life, nor less like giving up a fight." The feudal lord of San Potosi laughed at Cardenas' charge that he (Cedillo) has received $90,000,000 from the foreign oil companies, whose properties were confiscated by the government. "If I had $90,000,000," said Cedillo, "Cardenas would be where I am now, and I should be occupying his place."

GEORGE R. POST.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, July 20. — Following an illness of some weeks' duration, one of the most respected and widely-known residents of the township passed away at his residence, West Huntingdon, in the person of George R. Post, on Monday evening.

Mr. Post, who was a son of the late Elisha and Mary Elizabeth Post, was born on the Fourth Concession of the Township of Huntingdon on September 10, 1860. He spent his entire life in this townhsip. His parents were descendants of United Empire Loyalists.

In religion, Mr. Post for many years was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon; and later a member of the United Church of that place, where he was made elder and held that position until the time of his death.

Fraternally, he was a member of the Orange Lodge at Beulah and later became a member of the L. O.L. No. 300 of West Huntingdon. He was honored by this lodge as an honorary member and senior Committee Man.

Left to mourn his loss are his widow, formerly Miss Sarah Rollins, four daughters, Mrs. Lorne Brough of Zion's Hill, Mrs. Harry Lee of 240 William Street, Belleville, Mrs. W. J. Tuft of Zion's Hill, Mrs. Sandy McCurdy of West Huntingdon; one son Elmer at home. Eleven grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Jane Madden of Lacombe, Alta., also survive.

WILLIAM NEALS.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

LIFFORD LINE, July 20.—One of the oldest and highly respected citizens of Manvers in the person of William Neals passed away early Thursday morning at the home of his son Harry Neals, with whom he has made his home for the past several years. The late Mr. Neals was in his eightieth year and came from Hope township where he was born, to reside in Manvers in his early teens. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Neals, well known pioneers of Manvers. His wife, who predeceased him thirty years ago, was Susan Staples, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Staples. Rev. Curtis, of Lifford circuit, performed the marriage ceremony. To their union was born four sons, Herbert, Harry and Walter of the Lifford community, and Perry of Peterborough. The late Mr. Neals was a life-long successful famer, being particularly interested in farm stock.

The funeral, which was held at two o'clock Sunday at his late residence, was very largely attended by a wide circle of friends and relatives. Rev. C. H. Ferguson was in charge and spoke a comforting message based on the words "Let not your heart be troubled. Ye believe in God, believe also in me." Robert Sisson presided at the piano for the singing of two favorite hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Abide With Me." Mr. Harry Preston sang touchingly "One Sweet Solemn Thought." Following the service at the home the funeral cortege, of unusual length, proceeded to Graham's cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest in the family plot.

Left behind besides four sons are a sister, Mrs. T. E. Staples of Lindsay, and a brother, Mr. John Neals, of Cobourg. Passed on are two sisters, Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Gallaher, also two brothers, George and James Neals.

Pallbearers were six nephews, Cephas Staples, Offa Staples, Archie Wilson, Clarence Neals, Percy Neals and Ted Neals.

Report Surplus For Australia

CANBERRA, July 20 — (CP). — Receipts of the consolidated revenue fund of the Commonwealth of Australia exceed expenditure by approximately £3,500,000 ($13,895,000) according to the interim statement by Commonwealth Treasurer R. G. Casey for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1938.

This surlus was mainly due to the receipts for customs and excise revenue having exceeded the estimate by approximately £3,880,000 ($15,403,600).

The cost of invalid and old age pensions was £1,800,000 ($7,146,000) in excess of the previous year's expenditures due in large measure to higher rates, normal increase in the number of pensioners receiving benefits and to the fact that there were 27 pay periods in 1937-38 as against 26 in the previous year.

The total amount provided during 1937-38 for sinking fund purposes was £10,280,000 ($39,811,600).

Maskinonge

TORONTO, July 20 (C.P.). — Newspaper proof-readers have a harder time with the spelling of maskinonge, a variety of fish, than almost any other fish. The variety of spellings range from 'lunge to muskie. Even the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries has plenty of trouble with spelling the word. In the Game Act the name is mis-spelled at least once as maskinonke.

Wait Ireland's Statement On Resignation

TORONTO, July 20 (C.P.). — A promised statement from W. H. Ireland, president of the Ontario Conservative Assaciation, was awaited to-day to set at rest recurring reports his resignation was imminent. Three candidates already were in the field for the position.

Also a subject of considerable discussion on the eve of the association's annual meeting was the position of Hon. Earl Rowe, leader of the Provincial Party, who controls its affairs from his Dufferin-Simcoe seat in the House of Commons. Mr. Rowe has said he would make a statement regarding the leadership before the meeting to-morrow.

The drawing up of a new constitution and election of officers were on the agenda of the meeting. But reports that some members, anticipating Mr. Rowe's withdrawal from the leadership, planned to make a move toward calling an early convention encouraged more than the usual interest in the gathering.

Among possible successors mentioned were Leopold Macaulay, House Leader in the Legislature, and Col. George Drew, prominent Toronto barrister and politician. It was expected the outcome of a provincial by-election in Brantford to-day, necessitated by the recent death of Labor Minister M. M. MacBride, would have some bearing on Mr. Rowe's declarations before the meeting.

Announced candidates for the presidency were Cecil Frost, provincial organizer; Joseph Sedgwick, formerly of the Attorney-General's staff, and Lyn Spencer, Welland lawyer. Mr. Ireland was reported to be retiring. He promised a statement to-day on his position.

Profitable Railway

HANKOW, July 19—(CP-Havas)—Despite constant Japanese bombings, the Canton-Hankow railway realized a profit of $4,000,000 for the financial year ending last June 30, it was announced today. Twenty-five per cent. of this figure is to be diverted to the Boxer Indemnity Fund, with the balance earmarked for railway construction.

Uncommon Disease In Sidley Case

TORONTO, July 20 (C.P.). —Ontario Government investigation into the death of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, heiress to the Horlick Malted Milk millions, continued to-day, but the extent of its progress remained undisclosed as authorities prepared for an inquest next Tuesday.

Pathologists conducting an autopsy were expected to be among major witnesses at the inquiry. Dr. W. L. Robinson, one of a group of eminent specialists examining the brain of the woman who died here on July 6, said yesterday indications were apparent she had suffered from an uncommon disease.

"We have enough to show indications of a rather uncommon disease, but one well known to the profession," Dr. Robinson said. "The actual details will be revealed at the inquest. That is all I can say at present."

Mrs. Sidley died at the home of W. Perkins Bull, prominent Toronto lawyer and historian, who was bequeathed $250,000 and one-third of the residuary estate variously estimated to value from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000. Mr. Bull has been subpoenaed for the inquest.

Bull Quizzed 2 Hours.

For two hours yesterday Mr. Bull and his lawyer, I. F. Hellmuth, conferred with J. B. Peck, solicitor to the Provincial Treasury, at Queen's Park. It was presumed Mr. Bull was questioned regarding Mrs. Sidley's estate. He said later: "While they know what they are doing, they did it in a nice, courteous way."

Bank deposit boxes held here under Mrs. Sidley's name have been sealed pending completion of the investigation. Bull's bank assets have been tied up to an extent that prevents him from making any financial transaction.

It was understood Treasury Department investigators are checking up assets of the estate of Mrs. Bull, who died intestate on October 24, 1934. It is believed to be valued at $130,000.

'Babes in Woods' Return Home

Once more safely in their mother's arms, Lawrence Stuffle, six, and his two-year-old sister, Isabel, are wondering what all the excitement is about after spending two days and nights in the dense bush and marshes surrounding Plevna, Ont. Three hundred searchers combed the countryside for 50 hours in search of the lost babes, who emerged from the woods by themselves, none the worse for their experience. The only food the children ate, during the two days, was some raspberries that Lawrence picked and fed to his sister.

Attendance at the 1938 Poznan Fair in Poland was nearly three times that of last year.

CLEVELAND TRIBE ENDS YANKS' WIN STREAK ON HOME LOT

Indians Clip Yanks' Lead To Half Game

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP).—Mel Harder, Cleveland Indians' veteran right-hander, beat the Yankees 5-3 with six hits Tuesday and cut the champions' lead over the Tribe to half a game.

The defeat broke a seven-game winning streak for the Yanks and was their first in the stadium since June 8. They had won sixteen straight on their home grounds.

Harder was in command all the way in the opening game of this crucial four-game series. He wavered only twice. In the second, George Selkirk, the Yanks' slugging Canadian, dropped a homer into the right-field stands, and in the ninth, with Tom Henrich on second, Bill Dickey poled his eighteenth of the season into the same stand.

The Indians started to work on Bump Hadley in the second, when Earl Averill pumped a homer into the right-field stands, but they scalped the rotund right-hander and won the game in the fourth.

Jeff Heath, formerly of Fort William, Ont., opened this frame with a hit through short. After Hadley walked Averill, Hal Trosky singled to right and Ken Keltner hit to left. Two runs came in and the Tribe got a third when Rolfe shot Harder's grounder to first and Gehrig's throw to the plate was too late to catch Trosky.

Detroit Beaten 4-3.

Rick Ferrell's double in the tenth inning with two mates on base broke a tie and gave Washington a 4-3 decision over Detroit.

The Tigers had evened the score in the ninth when White scored on a single by Pete Fox. The Senators nicked Vernon Kennedy for fourteen hits. The Tigers collected six off rookie Ken Chase and three off Hogsett, who relieved Chase in the ninth.

The defeat dropped Detroit into sixth place and moved the idle Chicago White Sox into fifth.

Napanee Gibbards Win By 7-2 Count

NAPANEE, July 20 (C.P.).—Napanee Gibbards strengthened their playoff chances with a 7-2 win over Kingston in a scheduled Bay of Quinte Intermediate O.B.A. game here last night.

Stan Spratt outpitched the veteran Yammy Jamieson, whose offerings were hit hard by the locals. Curry featuring with three out of four, including a triple, for as many runs. Spratt had five strikeouts and Jamieson two, and each walked a batter. Udell and Abber Joyce were best for Kingston with three and two hits, respectively, but Mickey Compeau, the league-leading batter, failed in five tries.

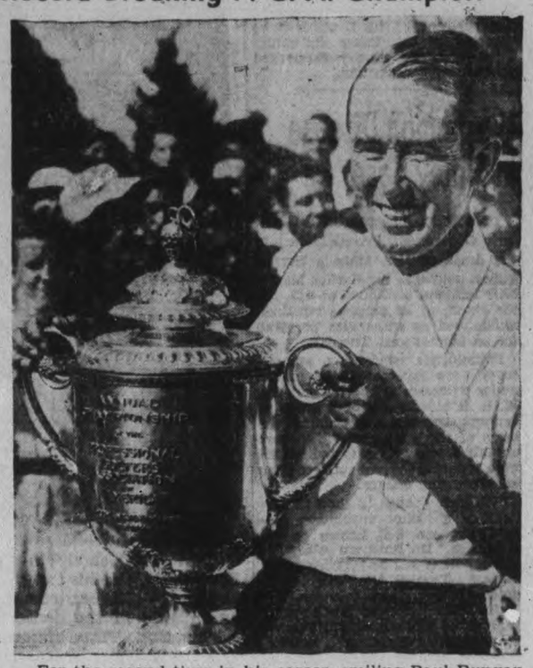
Record-Breaking P. G. A. Champion



For the second time in his career, smiling Paul Runyan holds the trophy awarded to the United States Professional Golfers' Association match play champion. Paul won the trophy for the first time in 1934, and did it again this year by turning back slammin' Sam Snead in the final by a record-breaking count of 8 and 7. The champ, in succeeding Denny Shute, who occupied the throne for the past two years, was eight under par for the 29 holes played.

American Clubs Ticketed For Playoffs?

TORONTO, July 20 (CP).—Unless Montreal Royals turn the trick, it begins to look like the four playoff berths in the International League are ticketed for Newark, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse.

There's still about two months of the campaign ahead but the four teams which now occupy the first division have just about spread-eagled the field. The Bears, all alone in first place, are 10½ games in front of the second place Bisons, while the Red Wings and Chiefs trail by a few games more.

But there's a gap of 8½ games between the fourth place Chiefs and the fifth place Royals, who have been moving along at a fast pace the past week.

Only excitement left in the campaign is being furnished by three runners-up to the Bears. The Bisons, who entrenched themselves in second place by taking four straight from Syracuse, had their streak broken last night when they split a doubleheader with the Chiefs, losing 11-3 and winning 6-3.

Norm Kies smashed out a ninth-inning double with two out and two on to give the Montrealers a 3-2 victory over Baltimore. It was the Royals sixth win in seven games—the other was a tie—and moved them past the Giants, who took a 7-4 drubbing from Toronto, into fifth place.

Heinie Manush, the former major leaguer, cracked out a double and four singles, to send the Jerseys down to defeat. Newark and Rochester were idle.

Golf Notes

PETERBOROUGH GOLF CLUB

C.L.G.U. Day saw the ladies out in full force to compete for the two spoons which were for best net 18 holes and best score on par 3 holes on the first 9. Best net 18 holes was won by Mrs. Chris Graham after a tie with Mrs. J. F. Strickland, Mrs. Graham winning by having a better score on the last nine than Mrs. Strickland. For second consecutive week Mrs. A. Howson won a spoon, her score on the par 3 holes being 3-3-3—9, which is perfect golf.

Crow Bay Girls Take 23-6 Win

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20.— A girls' softball team from Crow Bay defeated the Campbellford girls' team in an exhibition on the High school lot on Monday by a score of 23 to 6 before a fair-sized crowd. It was an easy victory for the visitors who found no trouble in hitting repeatedly the slow pitched ball of June Burgiss which they knocked al over the field and won an early lead.

The local lassies were completely outclassed in the field by the girls from the Bay, and Jeanne Ingram's pitching proved far too much for them. Josephine Locke played an excellent game for the visitors on first base and was only excelled in her catching by S. Atkinson, who stood behind the plate. The two teams will give a further exhibition on Monday next.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

UNLESS THE SKY starts to sprinkle, there will be a senior ball game here tomorrow night. At 6.15 in Riverside between Oshawa GM-men and the Petes. Likely their last clash before the playoffs in August. And it ought to be another humdinger as these squads ready up for the payoff series. To date they've had a little edge on our gang but the locals got a sizeable slice of sweet revenge in the last tilt in Peterborough when they rallied for three runs and the decision in the ninth. Stealing home with the tying run and working the time-honored squeeze play for the money marker. Lefty Biddle is due to hurl this one for the '37 champs, but we dunno who will get the home chore, three twirlers standing around and looking hopeful at Manager Eddie Murphy. Should draw another big twilight crowd of fans.

• • • • • • •

THIS BUFFALO SEMI-PRO team which comes here Saturday to take issue with the Petes has a good rep. The club is called the Fro-Joys,w hich is a nice lilting sort of monicker. Four or five of the players have had a lot of first-class pro experience with New Orleans, Indianapolis, Scranton, House of David, Buffalo Bisons, etc. The team travelled 20,000 miles last year through the east and middle west, winning 60 of 100 games against good clubs, which is a neat average for a road trip. The Fro-Joys this year have won 31 and lost seven games. The Petes will have to hump plenty to get a win over that crew in the Saturday exhibition fray here.

He Who Gets Slapped

SAYS BILL GAYNON of the Niagara Falls Review: "Had Mickey Paige realized beforehand that his importation of Sal Maglie for that all-star game would have created such an unpleasant feeling between himself and the district scribes and aircasters, he might have discarded the thought. The Falls manager enjoyed the last laugh through the victory of his team but his actions created a condition which may have a bad reaction on future diamond happenings in the peninsula. While the chance to look over such a splendid hurler was pleasing to home customers, it must be understood that those putting u pthe strongest objections to his presence worked hard to make the contest a success, and they have grounds for complaint. Likewise, any satisfaction which the home club might get over the victory takes quite a descent when Maglie's aid is considered." And so we gather Mr. Paige had better turn over a new leaf.

OVER AT THE BOWL last gloaming, Motorists made Westclox wish they were still on vacation by copping a neat 9-5 nod over the Clockmen. To climb up into practically a tie for the top rung. Fleming outpitched Parsons and his buddies came through with timely bingles in the late frames. Some good fielding on both sides and some as sloppy as a jittery gee balancing a tea cup on his knee. Cy Hopkins has signed with Shorty Barrett's bunch and turned in a nice chore at second last night as well as getting three hits to lead his team with the willow. Cy hails from Cleveland but originally shone with Benny McLean here quite a few years ago. Omemee men play Westclox at the East City saucer tomorrow evening. Playoffs must be just around the corner, what?

What Price Beef Imports?

LOU BROOKS WAS telling us yesterday of another applicant for a spot on our senior grid squad. A 21-year-old husky of 185 pounds, who is five feet 11 inches, and played against Balmy Beach and Sarnia last year. They keep rolling in. By the way, word is out that the Big Four is to run an intermediate football group this fall, including East Sides and West Sides of Toronto, Hamilton Cubs and Dundas. All but the Cubs have played against teams in our own grouping in the past two years. It will be a good setup at that.

LOTS OF LACROSSE activity in these parts nowadays. Our O. L. A. senior "B" schedule is at its heighth, while the local midgets are mixing it up like chipped ice in tall ones these warmer days. Mount Hamilton plays the Petes at about nine or so Friday eve at the local arena, preceded by a midget melee betwixt Lions and Y's Men's Club. Last night saw Y's Men's midgets pull out a 5-4 win over Kiwanis in another close contest. There will be a game tonight at seven between Y's Men's and Kinsmen. As some of the lads in the midget sector work for a living on Saturday mornings, games billed for Saturdays in future will be staged as a double-header on Monday nights. By the way, there will be a full dress (not white tie and tails, though) practise tonight at nine of the senior lacrossers and everyone of the Petes is requested to be on deck.

As a Pilot of Puckists

MERELY AS A SUGGESTION, we would submit to the local Hockey Club executive the name of Bill Jackson as a prospective coach of the Colts here in O. H. A. junior "B" company. Provided he had the time for such a job. There are several first-rate puck pilots for junior squads around this town, including those of the past few years. Mr. Jackson is another. He skippered the P. C. I. players last winter to the championship of the Junior City Hockey League and has had lots of puck experience. Was on the executive of the Petes back in '26 when they won the Ontario senior title. Is an active junior grid coach at P. C. I., too, and is popular with players. Seems to us he would be a g ood coach for the Colts.

LET US CLIMB THAT BIG OAK overlooking the Bowl and see what's doing in the Girls' Softball League. Westclox and C. G. E. tangle tonight in the Ashburnham amphitheatre, and both are battling for top place now in the standing. First-half playoffs between Westclox and Keene are due to start this Friday here. Sort of looks like the Armour Hill maidens and the improved Electrics for the second-half playoffs, but this schedule runs till August 9th. Since Ab Delahaye signed two ex-Lindsay players, the Westclox crew appear stronger than ever. The Scugog manager released these players, but just for this year—saying his team would be back in '39. A lot of good games between the gals' softball outfits are in prospect now.

HITHER AND YAWN: Danforth Aces and Keene have an Exhibition gals' softball struggle at the Bowl on Sat'day eve. . . . Toronto Webbers are in Oshawa this Sat'day for a ball game, while House of David next week plays in Oshawa Friday p.m. and Sat'day after lunch. . . . Smaller schools in Eastern Ontario this autumn will play six-man football, 'tis said. . . . P. C. I. and Pirates clash tonight at the Exhibition Grounds in a Junior City Ball Loop game. . . . It's Tigers and Greyhounds there Friday. . . . Lions have a midget lacrosse practise Thursday night at 6.30. . . . Sweat rolled off the Petes at Riverside last e'en as the ballsters worked out under a hot sun. . . . George: Guess ya don't like the guy very much, eh? . . . Ambitious plans to sponsor minor baseball in Kingston are going right ahead; a fine idea. . . . Smoky Joe Holtz, who will pitch for Buffalo here Sat'day, is a former Bisons' flinger. . . . At least three of our senior baseballers are slated for a double play, with organ music, in September. . . . Haven't heard any more dope on the boxing show in Lakefield this Friday. . . . While they might be heavy to tote around in a ring, still steel-plated shorts on local boxers would eliminate a lot of fouls; you're welcome!

West Seymour Ties Petherick's 7-All

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20.—West Seymour and Pethericks Corners played a six inning softball game which ended in a seven-all tie in the township league playdowns on Tuesday evening before one of the Barnum pitched his usual good game fanning five players and giving a biggest crowds of the season. Don total of 19 hits to the Seymour West team on which they scored seven times. Cliff Anderson on the mound for the Corners fanned two, walked two and was credited with twenty-one hits.

It was anybody's game from the start with Petherick's taking the lead in the first inning but were never able to stretch it out to more than two, Barnum, Watson and Ingram scored for Petherick's in the first and both Barnum and Watson added one more in the third while the second, four and fifth were scoreless. It was in the final inning that Reddick, who had previously fanned twice connected with the ball and sent it far into left field for the only home run of the game. The scoring for West Seymour was begun by S. McKenzie who counted in both the first and sixth. Neil Hooper also scored twice while Anderson, McCook, McCulloch each added one to place the final score at seven all.

Lineups:

West Seymour: S. McKenzie, 1b; N. Hooper, ss; D. Holmes, cf; C. Anderson, p; E. McCook, 2b; M. Atkinson, 3b; E. Wilkes, c; G. McCulloch, rf; A. MacKenzie, rf.

Petherick's: B. Reddick, ss; D. Barnum, p; L. Watson, c; E. Ingram, 3b; K. Oddie, 1b; J. Watson, cf; A. Tinney, rf; J. Barnum, rf; N. Hooper, 2b.

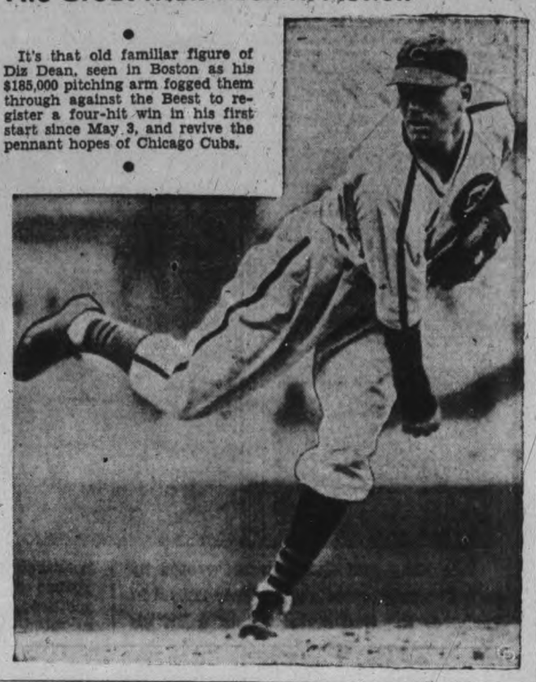
Pittsburgh Holds Top Place Grip

PITTSBURG, July 20 (AP). — Pittsburg Pirates maintained their slight grip on first place Tuesday in the heated National League race when they mowed down Philadelphia Phillies 8-0 behind the five-hit pitching of southpaw Ed Brandt.

Johnny Rizzo, the Pirates flashy rookie, who sparked them to a triumph Monday over the challenging New York Giants with a three-run homer, continued his stick work with four hits in four trips at bat. He scored four runs

The Great Man Back In Action

It's that old familiar figure of Diz Dean, seen in Boston as his $185,000 pitching arm fogged them through against the Beest to register a four-hit win in his first start since May 3, and revive the pennant hopes of Chicago Cubs.



Sandy Hailed To Win 7th Amateur Title

TORONTO, July 20 (CP).—Those faint snatches you hear of the 1938 pre-tournament theme song carry familiar lyrics—"Sandy Somerville to beat." And there is every indication there will be few in the full chorus singing from a different page when Canada's annual golf show for the amateur stars opens at London next week.

What lends more unanimity to the chorus this year is the fact that C. Ross Somerville, gunning for his seventh Dominion title, will be playing over his home course at the Hunt Club.

If you can discount those six crowns and familiarity with every form of fairways and greens, you have to consider Sandy's play this year. He went to the semi-finals in the British amateur, and on his return finished in front at Fort Erie and Buffalo tournaments. He followed this with a fling at the Ontario open, finished three strokes behind the leading amateur, Jim Boeckh of Toronto.

Defending Title.

Starting the grind next Tuesday, Somerville will be defending the title he won at Ottawa last year. He failed at Winnipeg in 1936 when Freddie Haas of New Orleans carried the title to the United States with a smashing victory over Manitoba's Bobby Reith in the final.

Until the official list of entries is released, the extent of the invasion from across the border, as well as the collective or individual strength of the invaders, is hard to gauge. Some who entered early, most of them newcomers, include John Foley, Jr., Detroit and George R. Raynor, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Ready to give all invaders, as well as the champion, a tough battle in the five day match play tournament is a collection of Canadian stars of known strength. This group of regular entrants includes Gordon B. Taylor of Montreal, who won the title in 1932 at Toronto and is always a threat.

Forgotten Tony

Well, maybe New York fans have not completely forgotten Tony Lazzeri, who guarded second base for the Yankees for so long, but Joe (Flash) Gordon, above, precludes any possibility of them wishing "poosh 'Em Up" was back. After bench-warming, Flash has come back to lead the team at bat, sparkle in the field, bat in innumerable runs and generally become about the most useful member of McCarthy's team.

A New Apple

GENEVA, N.Y., July 20 (AP).—A new apple, holding "great promise" as a winter variety, will be introduced to farmers at an "open house" of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, August 18, Prof. Richard Wellington, head of the division of pomology, described the new apple as being a second generation cross between a Ben Davis and a Jonathan. He stated its tree was strong, vigorous and productive and bears large, attractive, red and sprightly flavored fruit.

Hastings Beats Cobourg 13-4

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 20. — Hastings defeated Cobourg in an exhibition softball game 13 to 4 on Tuesday night. Hastings team was picked from the four teams in the local league, while Cobourg were represented by Certos from the Cobourg Town League.

Hahn pitched a nice game for the locals as he hurled shutout ball till the ninth innings. He allowed 11 well scattered hits. Cobourg's four runs were scored on bad errors. He had six strikeouts and passed three men. Pierson pitched for Cobourg and was the victim of an 18-hit assault by the locals. He fanned two, but had good control, walking none.

Jones was Hastings' best hitter with four hits in six trips to the plate. Erskine, Cobourg's first sacker, was their best with a double and three singles in four trips. Ibey played a nice game at third for the locals, while Leetham played a bang-up game at second. They easily made the outstanding fielding plays of the game. The teams:

Hastings — McKee, ss, rf, 1b; Jones, 2b; Hahn, p; Ibey, 3b; Clapper, 1b; McCoy, lf; Gillespie, c; Radford, cf; Kelley, rf; Stickler, lf; Richardson, ss; Bonds, rf.

Score by innings:

Cobourg	000 000 004—	4	11 5
Hastings	031 401 22x—13	18	5

Umpires — Wellman, plate; N. Scriver, bases.

Johnny Rizzo Is Big Part Bucs' Advance

PITTSBURGH, July 20 (AP).—Skipper Pie Traynor believes an infection of fever—pennant fever—changed his recently listless crew of Pirates on the Pittsburgh brig into the present hustling, ferocious gang of buccaneers.

"It broke out about the middle of our recent 13 game winning streak," explained the always courteous manager.

"During our streak we began pulling game after game out of the fire. I think you'll find we've won 22 by one run while dropping less than a dozen by that score. Suddenly the boys began to believe they could win the pennant.

"I notice the difference on the bench when we need two or three runs with only a couple of innings to go. Some of those who used to 'hope' we could catch up are cock sure of it now."

Traynor recalled the incident of the wild pitch Freddy Fitzsimmons of the Brooklyn Dodgers made last week, letting in two Pirate runs in the ninth to tie the score. The Pirates won in extra innings.

Fitz later said he had "tightened up" on the ball because of the look of determination he noticed on the face of the batter, rookie John Costa Rizzo.

"I felt sure he would have knocked any ordinary pitch out of the lot and I tried to put so much on the ball it got away," the one-time Giant pitcher explained.

Big Part of Advance

Rizzo is a big part of the answer to the rejuvenated Pirates, who now are riding at the top of the National League by ½ game. He has driven in 55 runs and jumped up his batting average during the past month from .254 to .318. It leaped 10 points yesterday with his four safeties in four trips to bat. Delivered after his three-run homer Thursday paced his mates to their second triumph in three games from the Giants.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE BAD BREATH
Millions Suffer Without Knowing!

You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.

Ordinary brushing can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.

Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities, Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of delighted users. Long-lasting can costs only 40¢ at any drug store.

HEINIE MANUSH PACES LEAFS TO 7-4 VICTORY OVER GIANTS

Former Major Leaguer Hits Five Safeties

TORONTO, July 20. — Aside to Larry McPhail: If you have any more "washed-up" veterans to release, please wire the Toronto Baseball Club collect.

The garrulous, red-headed General Manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, who handed Heinie Manush an outright release and claimed the outfielder, who hit National League pitching for a .333 batting average last season, was all washed up, would have had his eyes opened had he been a witness to Toronto Maple Leafs' 7 to 4 victory over Jersey City last night.

The discarded Dodger enjoyed a field day at the expense of three Little Giant moundsmen, as he collected a double and four clean singles in five trips to the plate. There was nothing scratchy about any of his drives. They were all hard smashes.

Joe Sullivan can thank Heinie's busy weapon for his ninth triumph of the season. While Lefty Joe turned in a neat hurling chose, it would have been wasted but for Manush's drives which drove home one Toronto market, and brought two more across the plate.

The Leafs won the game as early as the first inning. Bob Carpenter, youthful bespectacled right-hander, who impressed in relief roles in two earlier games of the series, was given the starting assignment, but he failed to survive an opening-inning blast which netted the local four runs, with only one away.

Sheerin started trouble by beating out a slow roller down third and he scored as Joe Gantenbein laced a triple to right. Burns's single to right cashed Gantenbein and the local pilot raced home as Manush slid a two-bagger to left. Heinie cantered home with the fourth run on Porter's three-base drive over Winsett's head, after Smith had grounded out. Porter's hit brought Glen Gabler to the mount for the visitors.

While the Leafs hit safely in all but one of the remaining frames, scoring developed in only the fifth when Manush, Porter and Sullivan bunched singles around a pass to Smith and a two-run error by Myatt.

The visitors were again lacking in pinch-punch. Sullivan held them to a single safety for four frames, which means ten safe blows and a pair of passes were packed into the final five innings. A single by Padden and Richardson's double spoiled his shutout hopes in the fifth and another one-bagger by Padden, infield safeties by Pinch-hitter Horne and Myatt, followed by an outfield fly added another run in the seventh.

With one away in the ninth, Myatt doubled and scored on Haslin's single. Blakely walked but Jake Winsett, who homered deep over the right-field fence in the eighth, grounded into a game-ending double play.

Here is a short, easy way to improve your tennis. It doesn't tell you how to do everything that's necessary to become a star at the game, but it illustrates some of the basic points, and the flaw that has been hindering improvement in your game may be shown. Miss Constance O'Donovan, Detroit champion, shows you the backhand grip, the position of the feet after a drive, the point of contact between ball and racquet for a service with spin on it, the follow-through on spin serve, and the finish, after which she hustles back to the ready position for the return. Take a look! Are you doing any of these things wrongly?

Oshawa Club Here Tomorrow

A senior baseball game is slated for here tomorrow (Thursday) evening in Riverside Park at 6.15 o'clock when Oshawa GM-men and the Petes tangle. It is likely to be the final meeting of these teams in Peterborough before the league playoffs commence in August, with the winner advancing into Ontario senior semi-finals. If it is anything like the last meeting of these well-matched clubs here, fans will have something to yell about, the Petes putting on a three-run rally in the ninth inning to nose out a nod. With the Petes beginning to hit their true form, and with Starr and Kearns back in the lineup, the locals hope to cop another decision and have a margin on the 1937 champions when the playoffs commence.

It should prove to be another exciting and tight ball game between two classy senior squads. Jake (Lefty) Biddle will probably pitch for the visitors, while Whitehill, Kitchen or McNally will get the call for the Petes—no announcement having been made yet. Bob Doll will be out of this game but eligible for future fixtures. If the Petes can get a few timely hits off Biddle's blazing delivery they ought to romp home in front, but it promises to be a real battle tomorrow evening and deserves a big crowd.

N.Y. Giants Shade Cardinals 7 to 6

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—(AP). — Hank Leiber drove in five runs yesterday with a homer, double and single as New York Giants came from behind to nose out the Cardinals 7-6 and keep within half a game of the National Baseball League leading Pirates.

The big centrefielder belted his two-bagger in the third to send in two of the tallies the Giants got in that inning; clouted his four-bagger in the eighth, and sent home the tying and winning marker in the ninth, when the Giants scored three off Ray Harrell.

The Terrymen used five pitchers. Bill Lohrman worked two innings to get credit for his fourth relief victory, and Carl Hubbell retired the last two men in the ninth after the Cards had put the tying run on base.

Y's Men's Club Beats Kiwanis

Y's Men's Club copped a 5-4 midget lacrosse win over Kiwanis at the George St. arena in a neat number. The winners got two in the first when Martin tallied twice, aided by Dunsford and B. Dundas, but Kiwanis evened it in the 2nd, Hallihan notching both on Doughty's passes. The victors went ahead again with two in the third, Land and Martin scoring, with the latter and B. Dundas drawing assists. Kiwanis once more evened it in the fourth on goals by Doughty and Caravaggie, Hallihan assisting in both. Y's Men's won out near the finish on Dunsford's solo effort. The teams:

Kiwanis: Goal, Lemon; defence, Murphy and Gillespie; centre, Caravaggie; wings, Berardi and Flynn; rover, Hallihan; alternates, Dyer, Stewart, Doughty and Carter.

Y's Men's: Goal, Willshaw; defence, B. Dundas and McMahon; centre, Dunsford; wings, Joiner and O'Connor rover, Martin; alternates, B. Dundas and Land.

Detroit After Olympic Games

DETROIT, July 20 (AP).—Combined forces of sportsmen, civic promotional groups and business interests got behind a move today to push Detroit in on the ground floor among bidders for Olympic games.

The motor capital formally entered its invitation to the 1944 Olympiad, or 1948 as second choice.

Already leaders of an "Olympics-for-Detroit" group are deep in plans for raising a nest egg of $2,500,000, the sum deemed necessary to finance the venture.

What with Michigan's lakes, a northern zone fit for winter games, and numerous staduims available, the enumeration of Detroit's attractions is virtually ready-made, backers said.

Cincinnati Sweeps Series At Boston

BOSTON, July 20.—Cincinnati swept a double-header with Boston, taking the first game 3-1 behind the two-hit hurling of young Whitey Moore, and the second 7-2 with the aid of a trio of fourth-inning homers and a single and a double, good for six runs.

The twin killing, coupled with Brooklyn's 8-3 victory over Chicago Cubs, returned the Reds to third place.

Home runs by Berger, Lombardi and Craft—the first two with men aboard—brought the Reds from behind in the fourth frame of the nightcap. A ladies' day crowd of 16,515 saw the games.

Motorists Win Over Westclox

Motorists climbed to within half a game of first place in the City Softball League last night with a 9-5 victory over Westclox at the Bowl before a good crowd of fans. Rallying toward the close of a keen contest, the Motorists earned the decision, though the fielding on both sides was slipshod at times. Fleming hurled steady ball to scatter 10 hits as he fanned five and walked three. Parsons was reached for 13 hits after pitching nice ball for six frames, giving two walks and fanning two.

Hopkins got three singles, while Dorrington hit a double and single, and Kearns, Montgomery and Walsh two singles each for the winners. Stanger knocked two doubles and a single for Westclox, with Parsons getting a double and single, and Carlson two singles. Some neat fielding was shown by Hopkins, Kearns, O'Leary and Carlson. A feature came in the third when Kearns knocked down a hot one and Dorrington threw the batter out. The victors got a double play, second to first. The teams:

Bucko Heads Scorers For Terriers

TORONTO, July 20.—(CP).— As Orillia's mighty lacrosse Terriers go about the business of winning another crack at the national championship they lost last year, "bashing Bucko" McDonald bids fair to become Eastern Canada's lacrosse "man of the year."

The burly Bucko, colorful hockey defence star with Detroit Red Wings of the National League, has his Terrier tied with St. Catharines Athletics for first place in the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association field. And as a good coach should, Bucko is leading the way to winning games.

Rapping in goals at an average of three a game, the Terrier playing coach is close to the top in the O.A.A. scoring lists with 53 points. Bucko is getting his points the hard way, having fired 40 goals in 14 games. Morton of St. Catharines and Bill Isaacs of Hamilton are the only two players ahead of the Orillia ace in the race for scoring honors.

As hard a charger on the lacrosse floor as he is on the ice, Bucko nevertheless has drawn only four minutes in penalties. He has scored 15 goals more than any other Terrier and has counted in 13 assists.

Bucko's success isn't so hard to understand when it is remembered he was a lacrosse star long before he made the big league hockey circuit. But his success is notable just the same, for Bucko had been away from lacrosse for several seasons until his recent re-instatement.

Bulloch Home Is the Scene Of W.I. Meet

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 20.—The home of Mrs. Howard Bulloch, Douro, was the scene last week of the regular monthly meeting of the Lakefield Branch of the Women's Institute.

Letters were read regarding an "Achievement Day" to be held by the Girls' Institute. Letters also were read from the Health League regarding subsciptions to "Health" Magazine and from Miss Wright regarding class report. Mrs. A. Montgomery and Mrs. H. Bulloch volunteered to see what names they could get for the Health Magazine.

It was moved by Miss Sanderson and Mrs. Moore that Mrs. Foster be tendered a hearty vote of thanks for her extra work in getting cars to take members out to Mrs. Bulloch's. Mrs. S. Higgins, the president read over the programs, as planned for next year by the Executive, and on motion of Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Murphy, they were accepted as presented to be printed as usual before the August meeting.

It was moved by Mrs. Foster and seconded by Mrs. Touchburn that Mrs. H. Bulloch look after the scrapbook for the Institute for the year 1938-39.

It was moved by Mrs. Bulloch and Mrs. Garbutt that the council be interviewed about having the Institute china left in the pantry, and shelves put in. It was moved by Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Murphy that a pie social to be held at Mr. Wannamaker's or in a convenient location. Mrs. J. H. Moore and Mrs. Reil moved that Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Kingdon be a committee to make arrangements and to set date.

Pleasing Program.

The president then asked Mrs. Bulloch to take the chair. She called on Miss Nancy Spring who favored the gathering with a violin solo. In a contest to guess the number of gooseberries in a jar, Mrs. A. Higgins carried off the honors. After a number of contests, members of the Junior Institute joined the Women's Branch and three of their girls, Misses Ethel Blakely, Minnie Charlton and Irene Frankish put on a demonstration of ways of preparing milk which knowledge they had gained from the "Milky Way" course. The demonstration was much enjoyed by the ladies present.

The Girls' Institute served refreshments and a social half hour brought the meeting to a close. A vote of thanks to Mrs. Bulloch and Muriel for their hospitality and to the girls for their demonstration, was moved by Mrs. Touchburn.

To Make North Atlantic Crossing

Scheduled to leave Foynes, Ireland, on July 20 for its first crossing of the North Atlantic, the "pick-a-back" airplane Mercury is pictured here during a test flight with its "mother ship" the Maia. The Mercury is carried on the back of the Maia until sufficient height is attained, then the Mercury is released to continue the flight alone. On the present Atlantic flight the Mercury will probably land at Botwood, Newfoundland, and then fly on to Montreal. The return flight will be made via the Azores, thus doing away with the necessity of the Maia for the flight back to England.

Drinking In Auto Draws Heavy Fines

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, July 20. — Provincial Constables Adair and Kennedy apprehended a resident of Emily Township named Curtin, and a Toronto man named G. Swanson, on the highway in that township on Monday with liquor in a car. Yesterday the Toronto man faced a charge of illegally having liquor in his possession, and was fined $100, and three months. The Emily man was fined $20.00, and costs, for illegally consuming liquor and with failure to have a driver's licence. The police officers found one full bottle of gin and one partly filled bottle in the car.

A resident of Victoria Road named A. Hicks was charged in court by Corporal T. J. Woods with illegally manufacturing liquor. A similar conviction against the accused was registered last May. A sentence of six months in prison, with a fine of $500, and an additional six months in default of payment was imposed.

Percy Snodden, who lives in the neighborhood of Bolsover, met with a serious accident on the week-end. Together with his twelve-year-old son James, he was hauling a load of hay to the barn and when he reached the barn floor, the draw bolt pulled out of the wagon tongue. The horses bolted, pulling Mr. Snodden over the front of the load. In falling to the floor he sustained painful injuries to his hands and a severe cut in his head, which required twenty stitches to close.

Responding to the call sent in by terrorized women, the local police last night combed the East Ward until 1.30 o'clock this morning for a man who was prowling that district as naked as a new-born babe. A description of the man was given the police and the streets and backyards in that section of the town were combed by two officers, who failed to locate the man.

It declared French Premier Daladier, in a letter to Prime Minister Chamberlain "complains about a German defence measure—namely construction of fortifications." Foreign diplomats were quick to note the absence of the world "alleged" before "construction."

Reliable reports indicate that young men in compulsory labor service in Northern Germany have been, in numerous cases, transferrd to the French frontier, obviously to assist in construction work there.

Crops Favorable

Men in a position to know say that vast Nazi building projects suddenly have been abandoned in various places because preparedness work is considered more important for the moment. When pressed for details they say they are under military oath and cannot disclose anything.

It was noticeable that in Berlin, for instance, Government construction undertakings have been postponed almost overnight.

The Government was understood to feel greatly encouraged by crop reports. The wheat harvest is likely to be the best since 1933. Rye, barley and oats are above average. Potatoes and sugar beets are more than satisfactory. The fruit crop alone, owing to sudden spring frosts, is poor.

Everywhere it is heard that if Germany should be forced into war despite an often-proclaimed desire for peace, she will try to prevent its outbreak at least until the harvest is in.

Robbed In Coma

CALGARY, July 20—(CP). — A sneak thief took $7 from the pocket of T. B. Hunter, 60, as he lay unconscious on the bank of the Elbow River yesterday. Hunter, recovering from a heart attack, said he had been unconscious for a short period. When he regained consciousness, he found his pockets had been turned inside out.

Nazis' Jew-Baiting Sends Stocks Down

BERLIN, July 20 (AP)—Increased anti-semitism of the past month and decrees by Germany's economic director, Field Marshall Goering, appeared today to have become a double-edged sword—hitting the Jews and resulting in a stock market tumble.

A lethargy of German stock exchanges appeared in July, a likely result of Goering's decree of April 24 whereby Jews were required to register their property. This was seen as a setep towards breaking the "Jewish hegemy of business life."

The so-called "arvanization process" presently is in full swing. Along with the barring of Jewish brokers from exchanges, it induced Jews to realize on their share holdings.

Cash-hungry industry, in an effort further to enlarge its plants, also offered a considerable part of the stock holdings.

The Bourse, which has been fluctuating since March, complains of an absence of buyers. Because of this inability to absorb high sales, July consequently has resulted in a rapid drop in prices varying from seven to 16 oints.

While the downward trend optimistically is described as temporary, owing to the Jewish desire to liquidate business holdings, newspapers emphasize that the full employ in German idustry and the nation's economic life are wholly unaffected by or a cause of the Bourse weakness.

Campaign On Against Goldenrod, Ragweed

TORONTO, July 19—(CP). — An educational campaign against goldenrod and ragweed, including methods of destroying them, is being carried on this year by the Ontario government.

Through the Departments of Health, Education and Agriculture, information as to the effects of those weeds on health and means of eradicating them have been distributed throughout the province, Dr. T. T. McGhie, Deputy Minister of Health, said today. The information has been distributed through the schools and to all municipal councils.

As a result, steps are being taken in many areas by the municipalities to spray the weeds with a prescribed poison which eventually will eliminate those weeds and reduce hay fever.

That mystery gasoline was the New Improved

These actual facts bring you a story of motor fuel superiority that ranks the New, Improved Blue Sunoco as an outstanding motor fuel. Do as these motorists did! Test it in your own car against any gasoline at any price, and be convinced.

HOW TESTS WERE MADE

More than a thousand motorists in Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and London were asked to test a motor fuel known to them only as "Canada's New Gasoline." Laboratory tests by J. T. Donald & Co. Limited, certify that this "mystery gasoline" was today's New, Improved Blue Sunoco with the blue color omitted. This was done to prevent identification. Color has no effect whatsoever upon performance.

All details of the test were conducted by an unprejudiced and authoritative research bureau—Might Directories, Ltd. Their reports conclusively prove that 86 out of every 100 motorists testing the New Blue Sunoco found it improved the performance of their cars.

Ban On Trolling By Motor Rumor Stirs Controversy In Peterborough And District

Motor-Makers, Resort Owners See Blow To Their Business In Idea, Conservationists Claim It Necessity

A rumor that the Department of Game and Fisheries plans to prohibit game fishing from motor boats next year, has caused intense controversy in this city.

Conducting a survey to determine what reception such a law would receive in this area, the Examiner found opinions to be heated and largely opposed to the measure.

Chief champion of such a law is Fred Marshall, former game warden in this district, and president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, who said the views expressed were his own and not necessarily those of the association which he heads. He favored such a law because he claimed that a fisherman in a motorboat is able to comb an entire lake in one afternoon's fishing, making almost certain that he catch his full quota.

While he admitted that the quota a restriction, he believed that should every fisherman fill that quota each time he went out for an afternoon's sport, there would be few game fish left in the waters in a short time. Another point he stressed was that if a tourist were forced to fish from a punt or rowboat or canoe, he would hire more guides than at present.

Hugh Campbell, general manager of the Outboard Marine company, makers of Johnson Motors, admitted such a change in current regulations would seriously affect his business, but doubted there is any importance to the rumor. Such rumors come up periodically and are always without foundation, he said.

He denied that fishing from a motor boat has any ill effect on the number of fish in the water. Admitting fish could be caught more readily by outboard motorboat, he said: "As long as there is a quota on the number to be caught what does it matter whether it takes a man two hours or five to reach that number?"

More From Canoe?

George Robertson and Ephraim Brown, prominent local fishermen, were opposed to any change in the law. Robertson maintained that a good fisherman could catch more fish from a canoe than he could from a motorboat and that the latter is used only because it is easier to handle. A canoe does not disturb the fish and can be kept at an even distance from weed beds and likely spots, while a motorboat glides past them before the fisherman has an opportunity to cast.

Eph Brown pointed out that such a move would seriously affect the tourist trade in this district. Every American either rents a motorboat or carries the motor from his home, adding rowboats wherever he stops. The majority of tourists who fish are not the wealthy Americans who can afford to hire guides, but the workingmen of the United States who can afford only to rent a cottage or pitch a tent. No such change in the law is going to bring more work for guides, both he and Robertson agreed.

Several prominent Peterborough fishermen, who preferred for varying reasons that their names not be used, believed the day is coming when trolling from motorboats will be prohibited because of the large number of fish that are being taken from the water.

Blow On Resort Owners

Such a move on the part of the government "will kill fishing," according to Tom Curvin of South Beach. The tourist resort owner and most guides would see their incomes from tourist trade dwindle to nothing if such a step were taken, he said.

As far as aiding guides, only a few Indians would receive any benefit because nearly all others use motorboats or launches and the majority of American tourists refuse to go on the water in canoes, he pointed out.

He scouted the idea that more fish are caught while trolling from motorboats than from canoes. While admitting a much large area can be covered in a day's fishing, he said that by canoe a fisherman can comb a section of a lake thoroughly, gliding in among weed beds, using a much shorter line. In any event the fact of trolling, whether from canoe or motorboat, is not of importance in regard to the depletion of fish in our waters, he maintained. "Ninety per cent. of lunge are caught by casting and what difference does it make whether a man casts from a canoe, a rowboat, or a motorboat?" he asked.

NAME IS CHANGED.

The Peterborough Flour and Feed Mill, owned and operated by G. W. Hanbridge, will now be known as Standard Farm Supplies Limited, Peterborough, and will continue to operate under the management of Mr. Hanbridge.

FELL 25 FEET.

While working on the roof of the Nashua Paper Company's building Monday, Ernest Henwood, Lansdowne Street, fell about twenty-five feet to the ground. It was reported that he was employed by Fred Doughty and was not seriously hurt by the fall.

GIVEN 20 DAYS.

Changing their plea to guilty, John Callaghan and Joe Fontaine were given 20 days in jail by Magistrate Gee on the charge of stealing a flashlight and a quantity of cigarettes from M. Wilson. The sentence will date from the arrest of the two eight days ago, the Magistrate remarking that he was giving them a break.

POPPIES WITH CROSSES.

Scarlet poppies make a cheerful blaze of colour in the garden of ex-Serviceman Ben Kerr, New Romaine street, and by a strange coincidence many of the flowers are centred by a white or black cross, symbolic of the wooden crosses among the Flanders poppies, marking the resting places of British and other war dead.

HER SHOES STOLEN.

A girl's afternoon at Inverlea Park beach yesterday was spoiled by the theft of her shoes, stockings and some money she had hidden in the toe of one shoe.

FIRST ENTRIES FOR "EX".

The first entries for the Peterborough Exhibition were received yesterday by Fred J. A. Hall, secretary. One was from Belleville and the other from Merrickville.

A "Y" PICNIC

The "Y" Outdoor club held a very jolly camp fire supper and swim splash party at the 2nd lock past Nassau yesterday evening. The good smell of coffee and hot dogs were appreciated by the hungry swimmers. After supper the club invited the "Y" boys of the Vocational School of the Y.M.C.A. and their leader Cameron Gorrie to join in the sing song around the big bonfire, wood supplied through the effort of the "Y" boys. Ghost stories and taps concluded a very merry evening. The girls gave three cheers for the Harold Scott Lumber Co. who supplied the truck to convey them to Nassau. Also thanks to the driver Clifford Sutton.

DEPOSIT OF HEMATITE IRON.

A deposit of hematite iron on the farm of John Seabrook at Preneveau in Belmont township is being tested by British mining interests, according to the Havelock Standard. The rock has been uncovered over an area of 1500 feet by 60 feet, and tests run to 78 per cent. hematite, regarded as a high grade of the mineral. Research in the district is being carried on by H. Borgford, mining engineer of Toronto, while the field work is under the direction of E. May and his associates. Any persons in the district having any ore in quantities which they think might be developed might find it to their advantage to communicate with Nelson Wellman of Havelock.

LONDON OLD BOYS.

Information coming from the headquarters of the London Old Boys in London, Ontario, indicates that very extensive arrangements have been completed for the celebrating of the Old Home Week which will be held in London the first week in August. Going over the agenda, it would appear that someone has completed a stupendous task in organizing the thing to the extent that the program indicates. So that Peterborough may not be lacking in enthusiasm in the necessary arrangements, all those London Old Boys intending to go to London for the celebration should telephone Gordon Blackwell of the Consolidated Optical Company, 3361, and list their names with him. The great parade to be held in London will be sectionalized by cities, and it is anticipated that the Peterborough

Church Climbing Upward Divine Declares

That the work of the church of England is definitely on the upgrade, the attendance at church services is better than for years and Sunday school work is better carried out than ever before was the report of Rev. Dr. F. E. England, noted minister of the Presbyterian church in England and lecturer in the University of London who addressed a large audience in St. Andrew's United Church Tuesday night under the auspices of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, on the subject of "The State of Religion in England."

Rev. Canon J. Douglas Paterson of All Saints' Church was chairman, the opening prayer was made by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church and Rev. Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's Church announced the offertory.

Dr. England, who began his address by referring to the thrill Britishers had experienced in August, 1914, when Canada had sent her offer to help to the Motherland and to the pleasure he himself had had in addressing Canadian soldiers at the Canadain Convalescent Camp at Epsom in the spring of 1917, described the warmth of the welcome he and Mrs. England had received in Canada and made special reference to the reception they had been tendered in Peterborough.

"A link has been forged between Peterborough, Ontario, and Bexhill-on-Sea, England," said the speaker.

Dr. England said that the religious life of England after the great war had followed a similar line of development to that of the trade. First there had been a strong upward curve, followed by a sharp decline and within recent years a definite rise again.

The Church Challenged

After the war when people were experiencing a sense of relief that the struggle was over the church had flourished but later when men were feeling thatthe bottom had dropped out of things, that there was no justice left in this troubled world, the church was not ready to meet that challenge and failed to give the right kind of leadership to the people of the world. As a result men turned away from the church and the biggest crisis it had to face then was to see people turning to other things, such as political and social activities. They wanted frank treatment of the problems that had arisen and the church was scarcely ready to offer a united and convincing pronouncement.

"The church was busy in those days," said Dr. England, "in trying to help out a program of social reconstruction. It did splendid work in that field and gave impetus to many forward movements but that's not the main business of the church and never will be."

The speaker passed on to discuss conditions in the established Church of England at that time divided between the two great branches of low church and Anglo-Catholics, climaxed by the movement to alter the prayer book that resulted in the decision of parliament that High Church practices were illegal from the state point of view.

"There is something in the English blood," said Dr. England, "that prevents England from being wrecked by crises like that."

Gives Leadership

Thus in spite of this split in the Anglican Church it had been most effective on three or four occasions in giving leadership when it was needed. One was the silver jubilee of King George V when the Archbishop of Canterbury and the bishops of the established church supplied a religiou satmosphere that made the occasion most noteworthy. Another was at the time of the constitutional crisis over the King's abdication which was discussed at some length by the speaker. Here again the attitude taken by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the speaker said, had the support of 95 per cent. of the people of England, despite the personal popularity of Edward VIII.

Discussing the state of the church in England, Dr. England said that eight million English people were members of Protestant churches and eight million more attended church occasionally so that more than half of the adult population of Britain was in touch with the church. Yet the fact remained there were thousands of men living splendid lives in every other respect who never darkened the door of a church.

However he was able to report the curve was on the upward trend. Church attendance was better, despite the fact that it was the general experience that only one service a Sunday was well attended. The church was doing a great work in the mission field and Sunday school work was carried out better than any other period. There was an excellent supply of material for the ministry and it was better material than it had been in the past.

As to the theology of the church, there was no great conflict nowadays between fundamentalists and modernists. Heresy hunts did not get very far in England and there was a very great freedom of thought and expression of opinion.

Discussing some of the factors entering into religious work in England today Dr. England referred appreciatively to that part played by the British Broadcasting Corporation in its religious broadcasts, the splendid work being done by the Salvation Army and to the success that had attended such movements as the Children's Special Service Mission.

"If you analyze the water of a stream running through an English village," said the speaker in conclusion, "you get to know something of the heart of the hills from which it comes. The lime and the chalk and the mineral salts all tell their tale. English life is just like that. It runs along gay and light-hearted but it carries evidences of the sprit that built the British Empire and that by God's grace will never be destroyed."

A Spare Drink The newest thing in a combined pressure pump and shower bath is seen here, being demonstrated by Joyce and June Astles at Inverlea Park on Tuesday afternoon. They found this way of getting a drink from the fountain a more exciting one than the customary method, but hardly as certain. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Astles, 610 Armour Road. A few hours after this picture was taken their father, a fireman, was injured when a ladder slipped at a fire. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Stirling Driver Is Bailed For Assize Trial

Although his counsel C. A. Payne of Belleville made a strenuous claim that the crown had not made out a prima facie case to justify committal for trail either for manslaughter or criminal negligence, Russell West, 17, of Stirling was bailed for trial, following a preliminary hearing in a manslaughter count, by Magistrate E. A. Gee today, the magistrate reducing the charge to criminal negligence.

West will be tried at the fall assizes and bail was fixed at $5,000.

The charge arose out of a highway accident in Havelock on the night of July 3 when Thomas Anderson, retired C. P. R. conductor was killed on the outskirts of the village.

D. F. Miller of Havelock was associated with Mr. Payne in defending West while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry K.C. prosecuted.

The evidence offered by the Crown followed closely that given at the inquest held in Havelock although there were several new witnesses. Dr. Holdcroft of Havelock told of Anderson's injuries which included compound fractures of both legs and head injuries.

Speed Moderate

Jean McNabb, 15, of St. Louis, Missouri in whose father's car West was driving when the accident happened testified to seeing Anderson on the road just before he was hit and of the man being struck by their car. She said that two other cars were approaching from the other direction and one was passing at the time of the accident, with its lights very bright. The car West was driving was being driven at a moderate speed, she said.

James Baskin of Norwood and G. W. Varty of Havelock, who were walking along the sidewalk near the scene of the accident testified to hearing the brakes go and of hurrying to the scene of the accident.

Baskin said the car driven by West was going at from 30 to 35 miles an hour and Varty stated that there could not have been anything reckless or unusual about the speed of the car or he would have noticed it.

Leo McGillen, newspaper reporter identified four photographs of the scene of the accident and evidence as to hearing the brakes applied just before Anderson was hit was given by Dean Kelly who lives near the place where the fatality occurred.

Tests Are Made

Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton told of investigating the accident and taking measurements. There were skid marks for 96 feet, he testified, and Anderson's body had rested on the side of the road 22 feet further on. Together with Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure he had tested the car driven by West and had found that going down grade at 50 miles an hour it could be stopped in 100 feet, while up grade it stopped in 67 feet at 50 miles. On another test nearer the scene of the accident the skid marks continued for 69 feet on one wheel and 79 on the other.

This concluded the Crown evidence and Mr. Payne argued that no case had been made out and West should be discharged.

Crown Attorney McElderry pointed out that a man had been killed on a village street and that there were evidences of negligence on the part of the driver.

Magistrate Gee said that while a prima facie case might not have been made out on a manslaughter charge, there was sufficient evidence to justify committal on a charge of criminal negligence.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Today we intend to take a little time out and see if we can do some missionary work regarding the Coronation Tournament to be held here on Civic Holiday, Monday Aug. 1. Knowing that the chairman, His Honor Judge Smoke is vacating at his summer cottage we decided to seek an interview with E. L. Sackville, secretary of the committee, so with that in mind we hunted up Mr. Sackville and after explaining to him our object we got together and the following interview took place:

"Is it true that the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club is sponsoring a men's open tournament on Civic Holiday, Monday Aug. 1?"

"Yes, it is."

"Who is behind this big idea?"

"It was fostered by Judge Smoke, indorsed by The Board of Directors, and now every member of the club is doing his or her bit to help make this a big success."

Our next question was:

"What is the idea behind such an elaborate tournament?"

"To try and establish in Eastern Ontario an annua ltournament such as the one that is sponsored by the Paris Lawn Bowling Club."

"Who is eligible to play in this contest?"

"It is wide, wide open to every Lawn Bowler."

"And are there any restrictions?"

"Absolutely and positively none."

"Up to date how is the response from outside clubs?"

"Our object is to have 72 rinks entered, so far over half of that number is promised, but we will be able to give you more information in a day or two."

"Just one more question, Mr. Sackville; we suppose that you have sent out notices with full details regarding the tournament?"

"That is correct. This committee has been working since away last Suring and every Lawn Bowling Club in the Province of Ontario has been advised of our tournament. We hope for a fine day and a big entry."

"Thank you very much, Mr. Sackville, and we wish you and the committee the very best of luck."

Local Tories Will Attend Rally

It is expected that a large number of Conservatives from the city and county will attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Conservative Association to-morrow (Thursday), at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, when the new Dominion Leader, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, will speak at the banquet which precedes the dance in the evening.

Some 500 notices have been sent out to Conservatives in this district and many have signified their intention of attending. The main business of the meeting which opens at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning will be the adoption of a new constitution and most of the day will be spent in discussing its terms and in electing officers. The policies of the Ontario Party will come in for much consideration.

For using city water to sprinkle their gardens, 89 were arrested in Watford, England.

Rheims Cathedral Consecrated

Soccer Notes

Manager William Downer of the Corinthians informed the local secretary that he was unable to get all his players for the game against Brinton F. C. on Thursday night, owing to a large percentage of the men being away on their vacation. There will be NO GAME THURSDAY.

The Brinton Athletic club have made arrangements to go to Deloro on Saturday to play the postponed game in the league. This will mean that there will be NO GAME HERE SATURDAY. The Canadian General representative informed the board that it was impossible to play owing to the players being away on holiday.

The schedule will now be C. C. F. versus Deloro here on Tuesday night July 26th, in the Injured Players' cup which should have been played this week. On Thursday night July 28th, Corinthians versus Brinton in Injured Players' cup. Kick off at 6.45 prompt. Referees to be appointed by the secretary.

Fireman Injured Fighting Gas Pump Blaze

Fireman Joseph Astles, electrican of the Peterborough Fire Department, was taken to Nicholls Hospital suffering from undetermined back injuries and hundreds of dollars worth of property damage was done as a result of a spectacular fire at George and McDonnel streets shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday night when a gasoline pump outside the Johnson Tire, Battery and Radio Service, was knocked over by a truck and the spilled gasoline ignited.

Charles Doherty, of the firm of Doherty Brothers, Beaverton, was driving the truck, en route from Bancroft to Beaverton with a load of lumber. He stopped at the Johnston place for gasoline and as he was driving away, the front of his truck struck the double gasoline pump, breaking it off and smashing the glass in the containers, spilling 20 gallons of gasoline. Almost instantaneously, as if from the exhaust of the truck, the gas took fire, the pump became a flaming torch in a split second and flames shot many feet in the air as the gasoline spilled along the curb ignited.

In a few seconds the awning along the south side of the building was burning and the flames leaped in through the open window of a bedroom in the Johnston apartment above the store setting fire to a telephone table. By this time the fire department was on the job, and with chemicals quickly extinguished the burning pump and the bedroom fire, but the firemen had a stubborn fight for some time with a blaze that broke out in the cornice of the building and threatened to penetrate under the roof and cause a bad fire.

Ladder Slipped.

It was in battling this outbreak in the cornice that Fireman Astles was injured. A ladder had been taken into the building and was being used to reach the attic through a trap door. Astles was standing on the ladder when it slipped on the waxed floor of the hall of the apartment and he fell heavily striking on the base of his spine. Dr. H. M. Yelland rendered first aid and the injured fireman was taken to Nicholls Hospital.

The gasoline fire lasted only a minute or two but it produced a spectacular blaze that attracted hundreds of people to the scene and nearly all the policemen on night duty had to be called to handle the crowd.

The truck that caused the trouble was driven down McDonnel street after hitting the tank and stopped some distance away. It did not take fire.

Says Tourist Wave Equals Last Year's

As reflected by the business reported by Stocks Bread Company in the area of the Kawartha summer resorts, the invasion of tourists is equal to or possibly greater than last year, Alderman Dutton told the Examiner to-day.

"The greatest surge of business we've had was the July 4th weekend," Mr. Dutton said. "Instead of work being concluded that Saturday morning, it continued all day and an extra batch was made on Sunday, and still we didn't have enough. Last week there seemed to be a slight falling off, but it has picked up again this week. From our observation, the tourist business justifies further intelligent enterprise in continued publicity and community effort to make the Kawartha district better known in the United States and Canada. And in that effort the community should be regarded as a unit, and not just as Peterborough, or Lindsay and the other towns considered separately."

Scouts Arrive

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 20.— Members of the 35th Boy Scout troops of Toronto have re-opened their summer camp here for the coming season. Mr. H. C. Petty, camp chief, is in charge of twenty boys at present. About forty-five boys will visit the camp, he said.

H. Cowan Wins At Chess From Noted Player

Big league checkers demonstrated by Newell W. Banks of Detroit, champion of the United States for twenty-four years and one of three claimants to the world's title, attracted a coterie of local players of both chess and checkers at the Y. M.C.A. last night.

Mr. Banks won all his games at checkers, added one game of chess, but bowed to H. B. Cowan, Sr., who is regarded as Peterborough's ace in capturing an opponent's king. And that isn't bridge phrasing. Following this series, played simultaneously, Mr. Banks gave an exhibition of blindfold checkers, engaging a group of four men, defeating three of them, and the fourth, Dr. M. B. Annis of Lindsay, resigned before completing his game about midnight when he had to leave for home.

The opponents of Mr. Banks at the chess tables were Mr. Cowan and John Dundas, and those who completed the broad circle of ponents, winding up with his one loss of the group to acknowledge defeat, Peter McArthur who was second last to be forced into an impossible position; Vern Russell, a thirteen-year-old school boy whose sound game carried him along to the third last of the victims; others were John Bowman of Toronto, John Buck, John McArthur, Cecil Johnston, Earl Kidd, William Merritt, Harold Griffen, and Walter Kidd.

Among the spectators were Dr. W. D. Scott and D. B. Falkner. It was a decidedly interesting evening, and will probably have a result of stimulating keener interest locally in both these fine games, especially after the holiday season passes.

Gradual Elimination.

Mr. Banks is quite a noted chess player, but his forte is checkers. In the opening series in which he took on the whole company, moving from table to table with progressive plays, and including his chess encounters with Mr. Dundas and particularly with Mr. Cowan, the visiting champion gradually eliminated his opponets, winding up with his one loss to Mr. Cowan, and a protracted game with Dr. Annis, who at one stage seemed to be in a strong position. But, as Mr. Banks said in an informal little talk about checkers, the objective is playing toward the ultimate ending on which the opening leads and the middle game are based.

The blindfold games were a spectacular exhibition of a graphically trained memory. Mr. Banks called out his plays to John Bowman, who acted as interlocutor, passing along the row of four boards, and half-way through one of these games he went over to the table, replaced the checkers and replayed the game from both sides exactly as all the moves had been made, and in their correct order. At Dr. Annis' table, Mr. Banks manoeuvred into a position for three jumps early in that game, and generally tossed off the concluding blindfold series with amazing ease and effectiveness. It is told of him that he has played as many as twenty opponets blindfolded and all at the same time.

Three Title Claimants.

Ranking with Mr. Banks as claimants for the world's checker championship are Levy of England and Long of Toledo, Ohio. Games are likely to be arranged between them within the next twelve months, and Mr. Banks will seek the title in a meeting with the winner.

The fine points of the game in method of leading and attack, and also of defence, could be observed watching Mr. Banks play around the circle of tables. His visit was the result of an invitation by Mr. Cowan and Walter Kidd. One impression last night was that Peterborough already has a fairly large group of capable checker players who are likely to be the nucleus of a club that may be organized for next fall and winter.

Thirty Summonses For Dog Owners

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20.—Local Constable George Hardy started on the trail of delinquent dog tax payers on Tuesday afternoon. Citizens received their final warning last week and Tuesday the constable was handed thirty-four summonses to present to the owners, who will have to pay an additional two dollars for their laxity.

WAS GUEST SPEAKER.

CHAPTER 43

IF ELLEN had been surprised when she awoke on Thursday morning, on Friday morning she was positively amazed.

She and Reynita stared from their upstairs window not at half a dozen Indian wigwams, but at what would have passed for a reservation encampment in 1875.

"There must be a hundred of them!" Ellen declared, incredulous.

Reynita could only stare. A dozen or more wigwams had appeared, but besides that there were other nondescript tents, also camps made simply in and under wagon beds, or with blankets and duffel spread on the open ground.

In another area were 26 khaki-colored army tents—Ellen counted them—with white people around them. She and Reynita had been busy inside their own home all during the afternoon and evening, making last-minute plans and entertaining their house guests from Hollywood. They simply had not found time to note what had happened outside.

"Is mucho de la whoopee!" Bill greeted Ellen. "Is just Friday morning, senorita, and already 160 people have come!"

With customary efficiency, Bill had rented the arm ytents and some cots from Fort Huachucha, which lay 15 miles or so eastward. They would be needed to shelter some of the guests, he explained, although most of them would come prepared to camp. The cowboys had vacated their bunkhouses for guests, in the name of hospitality.

"What is that odor?" Ellen demanded of him. "It is something cooking. I must go out and see everything."

"That's barbecue," Bill explained. "Uncle Buckshot is chef."

Buckshot Brown had caused a long open pit to be dug, and a big hardwood fire to be started in it at midnight. At dawn he had put wire net over the pit, and now above the glowing coals he was roasting four steers, six young rams, six lambs, six goats, and four half-grown pigs. From time to time guests themselves came up to add chunks of assorted beef, mutton, fowl, wild game.

At 10 o'clock about 40 Indians had locked elbows to form a circle in front of Ellen's house, and were chanting "EE-yah-yah-yah EE-yah-yah-yah" in a haunting rhythm. Tom-toms in the centre of the ring beat an accompaniment as blood-chilling as it was in the year that Columbus sailed.

Feasting was high at noon, and all afternoon merrymaking increased. Most of it was impromptu, spontaneous, all the more delightful therefor. Ellen and the Hollywood folk were enthralled. Ellen said she felt more like a guest than a hostess. Men stared at her not rudely but in open admiration. And she hardly got a word with Bill Baron all day.

Mr. McIntyre of the United States border patrol drove up from Nogales at about sundown, but said he had to go on to Tucson for the night. He was elated at the big doings, said it was a fine crowd.

Sid Bromberg, Elwood Loring and Mr. Conway, of the original party that had come from Hollywood, returned from their hunting trip in Mexico at seven o'clock. They had killed one jaguar, and exhibited the pelt with pride. Sid had done the actual shooting, and told about it in detail at least 20 times.

Sid, moreover, was instantly excited about the fiesta. He had thought, like the others, that it would be a typical rustic dance. Instead it was—as Geneva James wryly remarked—"an epic, colossal and magnificent."

Sid wandered around gazing at the wigwams, the other camps, the barbecue pits, the Mexicans, the cowboys, the horses. He did a solo dance——after hilarious invitation—to the music of a cowboy string orchestra beside a campfire. Then confessed he was having the time of his life.

Ellen had hired a 12-piece Mexican orchestra from the famous Dons Club in Phoenix, and it arrived ready to play at nine o'clock. By nine-thirty high jinks was roaring inside Ellen's beautiful ranch home. Dancing and hilarity was at a peak in her dining room, her living room, her two porches, her halls. Not more than a fifth of the guests could get in at once, but the others went on dancing, ad lib, outside.

"Goodness, Reynita, there must be 25 or 30 musicians here even!" Ellen said to her friend, when they chanced to meet for a moment beside one merry group. "Look at that old man with the accordion!"

A wrinkled old-timer was playing and swaying with contagious pleasure. Guitar and banjo players would walk by and chime in; violinists—"fiddlers"—would add their plaintive tones. One happy, rhythmical cowboy had borrowed a Hopi Indian tom-tom and converted it into an orchestra drum, doing amazingly well with it, too.

That outburst came from Sidney Bromberg, when he chanced by Ellen and Reynita.

They were all looking. To people who dealt with "spectacles" and general grandeur for the screen, this shouldn't have been impressive, possibly. But this was the real thing! Genuine! Here was "theatre" and showmanship as elemental as meat and bread; a part of the very souls of men and women. Here was illumination from stars and a thin moon and two dozen cracking campfires, and there to one side was a great ranch home glowing with light and hilarity, and all about were happy voices raised in conversation or song.

Ellen could hardly speak by 10 o'clock. A lump had tightened in her throat and stayed there. She wanted to cry, somehow, not in sorrow but in ecstasy. She moved all about the place, seeing this group and that, mingling with red folk and white, farm women, ranch girls, mountain men, prospectors, cattle herders, everybody. Mostly people she had never seen before, but for whom somehow she felt a fierce love. The hearty friendliness of them was overwhelming to her impressionable soul.

Her male guests from Hollywood demanded her presence inside at midnight. It was still crowded when she allowed Elwood Loring to escort her back in. All of a sudden she remembered that she had barely seen Bill Baron all day. Not once had he asked to dance with her. Only a time or two he had greeted her hurriedly in passing, once to say he had counted more than 600 guests on the scene. She began to long for a quiet word with him.

Beaming, booming Sid Bromberg at once saw her come in, and hastened to her side.

"Ellen, it is wonderful!" he shouted, above the music. "Never have I seen such a show! Listen—I want to produce a picture here. Geneva has the right idea all doped out—see? A border romance. A handsome man on a horse like a dashing cabalero —That'll be your friend, Baron. He must do it! But listen, Ellen— I want to do it here! Here, you understand? I want this ranch, your ranch, to be the setting. All right? It's perfect! Just look out there! Just look in here! Just—!"

She knew it wasn't just raving, either. That man's enthusiasms were worth millions. An idea like this meant instant fluctuation on Wall street. An enthusiasm such as this from Sidney Bromberg caused millionaire competitors to sit up nights.

He was a guest in her home. An old friend. A suitor. One cannot argue against such pressure.

"Surely, Sidney, if you want to," she smiled sweetly at him. "I myself think it's a grand show here. It would go big on the screen."

Felix Montoya came up to her then and begged for a dance. He was the most colorful man on the rancho that night, he and his golden-and-crimson Mexican costume. He was handsome, glowing.

Other men were asking for dances, too, and Ellen had to make up her mind despite the confusion. But suddenly it was made up for her. She caught a glimpse of Bill dancing with Panola Montoya. An old hurt crept through her. She bit her lip and waltzed away with Felix.

Ten minutes later an area on the floor had been cleared, and Ellen and Felix were doing "El Jarabe Tapatio", prettiest, flashiest and perhaps oldest of all the Spanish dances. Reynita had taught her some of the steps, and with her natural aptitude at dancing she followed Felix in it now, even in that part when he put his huge sombrero on the floor and she had to dance around the brim of it.

"YEA!" yelled Sid Bromberg. "GREAT! GREAT! We put that in the picture too, Ellen. You will do that same dance!"

She kept her face smiling—she had 400 or more guests—but Ellen Dale felt somehow that her heart was sinking. After having tasted quietude and genuineness on a ranch for several weeks, was she to be coerced back to Hollywood? And to see Bill, the only man she had ever loved, lured from this natural happiness, into a life she knew to be fraught with sham?

She wanted to flee and be alone, but she kept on dancing.

Do Your Bad Manners Fuss Your Escort?

Oh, Dorothy! Only one hand on the coffee cup, please. Can't you see how fussed Paul is—because people are watching your show of bad manners?

He'll invite Polly next time, you may be sure. She's no cup-cuddler or elbow-bracer. Nor does she wad her napkin! She lays it across her lap—folded double or triple—deftly touching only a corner to her lips. Leaving the table to dance, she drops the napkin on her chair. At the close of the meal, she tucks it —partly folded—under the edge of the plate as she rises.

Charming table manners certainly are an asset! Learn fine points of gracious dining from our 32-page booklet. Etiquette for luncheons, teas, dinners, buffet parties—at home or at restaurants, clubs, other public places.

Insull And Insulin

STRATFORD, Ont., July 20—(CP)—A local woman is just a little confused about personalities in the public eye. Listening to a radio broadcast telling of the rise and fall of Samuel Insull, former midwest untilities magnate who died July 16 in Paris, she complained that "in all that talk about Mr. Insull there wasn't anything said about him discovering insulin."

DOROTHY DIX

HUSBANDS like to be treated cheerfully, if you get what I mean. They want their wives to look upon them as jolly good companions instead of just bill-payers and meal tickets, and to act as if they enjoyed being married to them instead of assuming the martyr pose. So we will discuss this feature in this third and final article in the series on "How to Treat Your Husband."

If the average married man could put up one prayer more fervent than the rest it would be this: "Good Lord, send me a wife who laughs and a home that isn't an understudy to a funeral parlor."

But his prayer isn't often answered. There are not many homes that radiate sunshine instead of gloom, nor are there many wives who are gay and cheery pals, and that is why a very large number of husbands are driven away from their own firesides and to the society of others when they want to give themselves a good time.

When a man marries he wants a wife who will be a little playmate, one who will grab her hat and go when he wants to step out—one who laughs at his jokes and has a keen line of chatter of her own. He is simply sunk when he finds he has drawn a wet blanket in the matrimonial lottery, and that his wife can never leave the baby for fear something would happen to it if she went to a show; that her conversational repertoire consists of moans and groans and complaints; that she considers it her sacred duty to tell him they can't afford whatever they are doing and that she has a gift for taking fun out of every situation.

People often wonder why men who are penurious to their families and who never pay a household bill without grumbling are so lavish about spending money on their vices. The answer is easy. The man's home is dull and the money that his family costs him gives him no fillip of pleasure. His home has been made to mean to him nothing but hard work, ungilded by any joy. The opening of champagne for chorus girls is to the tune of gayety and laughter. Therefore, he is willing to pay for one and begrudges paying for the other.

Husbands want their wives to treat them like pals. They want their wives to enjoy the things they do; to like the people they like; to amuse themselves with the things that divert them. A man wants to hear his wife laugh, to see her eyes sparkle and for her to treat him generally as if they were on a par, as if they were joyous fellow sinners together, instead of her being a living reproof to him as a poor, low-browed creature with radio tastes that make her shudder, or as a subject for reformation.

A man would like his wife to be interested in his business and to be able to talk shop to her by the hour. If he is a golf fiend he would like her to play with him, or at least know enough about the game to listen to his post mortems intelligently. He would like her to be fond of his old cronies and make them welcome when they come to see him.

Think of how few married couples you know who have anything to say to each other when they are alone, and you weep for the man as well as the woman. He is just as lonesome as she is. Many men have wives who are saints, but there are precious few who are lucky enough to have a wife who is a confidential friend.

Husbands want their wives to treat them with understanding, but not one man in a thousand gets his heart's desire in this respect. For it is a curious thing that women's boasted intuition rarely gets in its fine work when it comes to dealing with a husband. That is what bewilders men about women more than anything else and makes them sorest.

A man would like his wife to understand that because he doesn't go about shouting from the housetops that she is the most wonderful creature in the world that he doesn't think she is; that because he doesn't assure her of his undying devotion every day is no indication that he has ceased to love her; that because he is immersed in his business is no reason for her thinking that he is neglecting her. It is just that he is saying it with beefsteaks instead of orchids and working himself to death to keep her soft and comfortable.

And, most of all, he would like her to understand that generally, even when he sidesteps a little, it is not because he is the least unfaithful to her in his heart, but just has the little boy instinct in him that makes him bound to play hooky now and then.

All of which sums up into saying to treat your husband as you do your littlest baby. Love him and play with him. Chuck him under the chin when he is good; spank him and forgive him and forget all about it when he is bad. And you will never lose him. He will always come back to Mother.

BOOMERANG DOUBLES

NOT ALL boomerangs are made of wood. Some of them are fashioned from wooden thinking at the bridge table. This is particularly true of penalty doubles which advertise to the declarer exactly what dangers beset him and hence steer him unerringly to the only line of play with a chance to succeed.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South's opening bid on this deal was 1-Spade. North jumped this to 3-Spades and South bid 4-Clubs. Next North bid 4-Hearts, South 5-No Trumps and North 6-Spades, which West doubled, and South redoubled.

West led the diamond 10, and when the dummy was exposed it was quite evident to South that West held for his double was the missing trump honors.

All that South had to do was guess West's probable distribution correctly, run that number of leads in each suit and then lead a trump to West. Played in that manner, he limited his losses to exactly one trick. Had West refrained from doubling, it is probable South would have played trumps at once and in that event could not have avoided the loss of two tricks.

Looking Back On This Date

JULY 20

Thirty years ago today (July 20, 1908), Quebec was en fete to welcome the heir apparent to the throne, the Prince of Wales, who had come to give empire significance to the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of Quebec by Samuel de Champlain. His royal highness arrived on H.M.S. Indomitable and was welcomed at the King's wharf by a number of distinguished folk, including Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. James P. Whitney, premier of Ontario, and Hon. Lomer Gouin, premier of Quebec (both of whom were soon to become knights bachelor. (The guard of honor was from the 43rd Duke of Cornwall's Rifles, Ottawa, (since extinct). There followed a brilliant procession through the streets, lined by militia, to the citadel, the French-Canadians joining with thousands of visitors from other sections of Canada and the United States in cheering their future king.

The next day the Prince invested the two provincial premiers and George Garneau, then mayor of Quebec, and Colonel John Hanbury Williams with their knighthoods, and this was followed by an elaborate civic welcome on Dufferin Terrace. July 24 saw the dedication of the Plains of Abraham as "a shrine of union and peace," and then there came a military review in which 12,422 officers and men of the Canadian militia (many from Ontario), 5,000 marines and tars from the British navy as well as detachments from French and American warships sent to honor the occasion and the Prince of Wales. Altogether nearly 18,000 men, 2,495 horses and 36 guns passed in review. A military and naval pageant in the afternoon was followed by a state ball at Parliament House.

The Saturday saw a naval review and another historical pageant on the Plains when the "armies" of both Wolfe and Montcalm marched to the joint monument and deposited wreaths to both the victor and vanquished. On the Sunday there was a state service in Holy Trinity cathedral; on Monday a drive there royal party through French villages to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre; and July 28 saw a gathering on the Plains of 15,00 children who sang and cheered for their future sovereign.

At daybreak on the 29th the Indomitable sailed for England, leaving behind a very delighted Quebec. There were two drawbacks to the week. The Princess of Wales was unable to make the journey and durin gthe military review Lord Robers of Kandahar, the great field marshal, was taken ill, and was for a time in danger. The next royal visit was that of another Prince of Wales in 1919, but that should be remembered by everybody.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, July 21.

A day in which some peculiar or long-concealed matter may be brought to a head is presaged from the predominant planetary configurations. This engaging condition seems to revolve around either the social or emotional life, and might have thrilling or dramatic culminations. Pleasures, social functions and enterprises in connection with women and their interests are predominant, although business also may have its intriguing elements.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which their social, emotional or affectional lives seem to crowd out other interests. In these there may be intriguing, romantic or peculiar aspects which may develop suddenly from obscure sources and have dramatic denouements. Social, cultural and domestic matters engage the paramount attention.

A child born on this day may be ardent, adventurous, and romantic. It may enjoy the thrilling phases of life, although it may be cultured, refined, kindly and have great personal popularity.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Knarf, the shadow boy, came running up to Hanid the other evening and said: "I've just invented a new game. It's played with pins!"

"Pins? I don't like pins. They stick you," she said, shaking her head.

Knarf didn't wait for her to finish.

"You don't have to play it if you don't want to," Knarf said. "You just watch me." With that he hurried to the sewing basket in which Mother kept all the pins. Then he called down to the pins, all standing in a shining row on a length of green paper: "I want 10 pins to come out. I'm going to play a game."

The next moment 10 bright little pins came marching out of the paper, like soldiers. They walked very stiffly, with their heads held up high.

"What kind of a game do you want to play with us?" they asked.

"It's a new game called Ten Pins. You're sure to have a lot of fun."

The shadow boy laid a piece of cloth on the sewing table. "March on this and stand there, please."

"Why do they have to do that?" Hanid asked him.

"You'll see."

Form a Triangle.

"Forward march!" cried the first pin in line. Then Knarf made them stand so they formed a triangle. Then he looked inside the sewing basket again, and took out a little round silver button, just like a little ball. "Don't move now. But if the ball comes rolling toward you, try to stop it. If you fall over you lose the game."

With that Knarf took a little run. Then he rolled the ball as swiftly as he could toward the 10 little pins. They tried to stop the ball as it came toward them....but, alas! none of them could. They went tumbling head over heels.

"I win! I win!" Knarf shouted gleefully when they were all knocked down. "Isn't this a wonderful game, Hanid? I'm going to play it all night long. Stand up again, please," he called to the pins. But they didn't stand up at all. They were gone. They had all marched back, hop, hop, hop to their length of paper in the sewing basket. They didn't like the game of Ten Pins at all. You wouldn't either, I think, if you were a pin.

Larmer—Beech

MILLBROOK, July 20.—A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday at 3.30 p.m., at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Austin Larmer, of Burketon, when Lily Mabel, second daughter of Mr. Arthur Beech and the late Mrs. Beech, of Hayden, became the bride of William Henry Larmer, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Larmer, of Millbrook.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the living-room, which was beautifully decorated with summer blossoms, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, and the wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Edgar Beech, the bride's brother.

Gowned in white triple sheer, and with white accessories, the bride looked charming, her bouquet being of American Beauty roses. She was attended by Miss Margaret Larmer, a sister of the groom, who was becomingly attired in old rose sheer, with navy accessories, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Mr. Gordon Beech, of Hayden, a brother of the bride, acted as groomsman.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Ross Richards and Miss Alice Ashton sang, "I Love You Truly." Later Mr. and Mrs. Larmer left by motor for their wedding trip to points east, and upon their return will reside on the groom's farm in South Monaghan.

ENO ENSURES HEALTHY HOLIDAYS

Every vacation it's the same old story—upset stomach, congested foodways, indigestion and miserable headaches. Of course, it's the change of food and water that does it, and what nature needs is the gentle help of Eno's "Fruit Salt". Simply take Eno first thing every morning.

Eno and nature together quickly overcome the disturbance, clear away congestion and keep you regular as clockwork. At the same time, Eno neutralizes the acid condition which often accompanies upset stomach.

Experienced vacationists never drink "strange" water without adding a dash of Eno to it. Eno prevents ill effects, and at the same time makes a pleasant, refreshing drink which quenches thirst marvellously, and cools you through and through. Yes, Eno's "Fruit Salt" will assure that you have a happy, healthy holiday from the moment it starts. Obtain a bottle today.

We Noticed

....That a bride at a recent wedding wore a Juliet cap style headdress with ivory satin gwon.

✧ ✧ ✧

....That a lovely blue sheer dress trimmed with a large, white flower had a matching pleated coat, and was worn with a navy straw hat and navy accessories.

✧ ✧ ✧

....That ribbed fabrics, both in woollens and silks, are very popular, and silk twills, silk serges and satins are much in evidence for fall.

✧ ✧ ✧

✧ ✧ ✧

....A preview of fall fashions indicates that dresses will have a new simplicity in sleeves, high necklines and slimmer skirts; and that in suits companion tweeds, rough, sometimes handwoven, in stripes and plaids with plains, are accented.

Sarah G. Knox Is Bride of Burton C. Roberts

Summer flowers decorated Fenella United church for the wedding at noon Wednesday of Miss Sarah Gertrude Knox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Knox, Fenella, to Mr. Burton Cleland Roberts, Toronto, son of Mrs. Roberts and the late William J. Roberts of Roseneath. Rev. L. W. Scott of Roseneath officiated, and was assisted by Rev. G. C. R. McQuade of Almonte. The wedding music was played by Miss Evelyn Mann, Baltimore, and a duet was sung by Miss Elinor Sykes and Miss Helen Knox of Bowmanville.

Wearing a floor-length gown of white marquisette, with white turban and shoulder-length veil, and carrying an old-fashioned nosegay, the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Ruth Knox, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Knox, also a sister, was bridesmaid. The former was frocked in orchid flowered chiffon with matching taffeta jacket; and the bridesmaid wore green organdie with jacket of the same shade. They wore white leghorn hats, and carried nosegays of flowers.

Mr. Lewis Roberts, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Alan Linton, Coldsprings, and Mr. Keith Harper, Cobourg.

At the reception following the ceremony, which was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Knox received in a gown of navy sheer over flowered taffeta, with matching hat and corsage of roses. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in black sheer with black hat and corsage of sweet peas.

Later the couple left for a trip to the Gaspe Peninsula, the bride travelling in a frock of navy sheer with white hat and accessories. On their return they will live in Toronto. The bride and bridegroom were presented with a Bible, as their wedding was the first to be held in Fenella United church, which was built by the bride's grandfather.

Book Bindings Add Splash of Color

Bookshelves are being fitted into the decorative scheme for esthetic as well as for practical reasons. Shelves are being placed so book bindings prvide attractive splashes of color. The vari-colored jackets relieve the plain wall surfaces of modern interiors.

One new living-room is entirely circled by a single-tier recessed bookcase. The colorful band of books provides pleasing contrast with the brightly polished paneling of mahogany which extends from bookshelf to ceiling.

The color values of book bindings are utilized to advantage in another bookcase which is built in half-moon shape. The gay jackets stand out conspicuously against the blond tones of the bleached walnut.

Green and Yellow Guest Room

For a top floor guest room with a homey atmosphere, jonquil yellow walls surround a deep brown floor. Pale green enamel is used for dressing table and beds, banded with a slightly deeper jade green. The inside surfaces of the built-in bookcase are Nile green.

VACATION CLOTHES GAY AND GRACIOUS IN PRINT AND SOLID

Cape Costume and Bolero Dress Illustrate Light-Hearted Air Pervading All Summer Apparel

By LISBETH

WOMEN LOOK lovelier in summer clothes than they do in winter ones. Of coure, I mean in everyday clothes, not evening ones. Evening clothes are just as lovely all year around—the most becoming raiment devised for the ladies.

There is something more gay, irresponsible and light-hearted about summer clothes, and there is a freer, brighter atmosphere even around city folk, and it seems as if practically everyone were away on vacation, getting ready to go, or just getting back, all brown, and with far spaces in their eyes.

Navy blue and white dotted rayon crepe frock with fingertip navy cape lined with dotted fabric; right, tailored floral print rayon crepe dress with bolero and harmonizing sash.

Summer is the time when you wear light colors and feel the impulse to be friendly to everyone you meet. You talk to total strangers whom you meet on the road and gain a suspicion that the world isn't such a bad place after all.

But to get back to clothes. We are showing two nice costumes, either of which would be becoming, not to say flattering, and fit into the wardrobe of the stay-at-home or the gadder.

White, rose and blue flowers are posed against a pearl gray background in the tailored print frock shown right. There is a high neckline to the dress and a chic little bolero. The flared skirt has stitched pleats all around, and a dashing tie-sash in red and blue crepe knots at the front. The rather wide hat, with its brim abruptly turned back from the face, seems to match this gay cavalier sash.

The dot motifs always are in great demand in the summer, and this season the polka dots are especially smart in white on dark or vividly colored backgrounds, and may be either large or small, close printed or widely spaced. Giving somewhat the same effect are the small allover patternings in monotone prints which use such interesting motifs as diamonds, jacks, tiny leaves, buds, stars and distinctive geometrical designs.

Newest House Dresses Are Fashion-right

The newest house dresses are as fashion-right in the living-room or on the porch as they are practical and comfortable in the kitchen. Except that they are inexpensive and just as easy to wash and iron, this summer's frocks for the busy housewife to wear at her work have no relation to the voluminous wrap-around and plain white cover-all effects that distinguish the house dresses of yesteryear.

Skirts Are Full.

For the young, slender woman, printed cotton dirndl-type house dresses take the spotlight. Cut with low neckline, short sleeves and very full skirts, these are especially suitable for one who is active. In the first place, she does not have to wear a slip or a girdle underneath such a full skirt. Secondly, a dirndl is so easy to get into that anyone can slip on a clean one while walking from the kitchen to the front door to answer the bell.

There are wrap-around frocks which can be opened out flat for ironing, of course. But they are much more subtly cut these days. Indeed, they mould the figure as flatteringly as does a dinner dress, and their skirts are flared to make legs look more graceful.

One especially attractive wrap-around house dress of this type is of a dimity print—white background with clusters of bright little blossoms, finished at neckline, sleeves and pocket with rows of self-fabric ruffles. The skirt which flares slightly at the hemline is amply cut so that it stays wrapped around once you get it on. It costs less than two dollars.

Canning Vegetables, Fruit When They Are In Season

Our Provident Creator intended us to lay by some of the surplus crop for the lean years.

Instead of calling the large canneries by that ugly word "monopoly" we should be grateful that they have made stored food safe for us to eat beyond all doubt and are a part of God's scheme.

Canned Beans.

Wash, nip off ends and cut up beans. Blanch in boiling water 10 minutes, skim out with sterilized skimmer into sterile jars, pack jars fairly tightly with beans, add 1 teaspoon salt at top of each quart (use ½ teaspoon if pint jars are used) pour over boiling hot water to slightly overflow jars, put on sterile rubbers, tops and seal — if rings are used only turn to within ¼ turn of tight—if clasps do not shove down sealing loop. Put in hot water bath having water come to within 1½ inches of tops of jars, cover hot water bath, bring to boiling point, start counting time, and boil 2½ hours. When done do not loosen seal, tighten it, and cool jars as quickly as possible without breaking them.

Canned New Beets.

Wash small beets (no more than 2 inches in diameter) and cut off tops 1 inch above top of root, do not cut off root. Parboil 15 minutes, then cold dip for an instant to loosen skins and drop into sterile jars either whole or cut in halves or cubes after they have been steamed 10 minutes (to kill bacteria on them from peeling and cutting), then fill jars to overflowing with boiling water—beets do well with 1 tablespoon of vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt to each quart—these are added after boiling water—tipping out just enough to leave room for salt and vinegar.

NOTE: Since only fresh beets should be used for canning the tops of them should be choice too—we have steamed the cleaned leaves from which the stems have been cut when the beets were steamed after peeling and put a few of the wilted leaves among the beets when placing them in the jars. In this way you have a nice mixture when they are opened in the winter.

Process beets in hot water bath same as for beans (above) but 2 hours is long enough to keep them at boiling point. Cool as rapidly as possible after tightening seal.

Canned Tomatoes.

Dip about 6 tomatoes at a time in boiling water, peel, and drop in sterile jars. When jar is full either fill crevices with boiling hot stewed tomatoes or juice and add ½ teaspoon salt to each quart. Put on sterile rubbers, tops and seal to within quarter turn of tight. Process in hot water bath, covered, counting time after water begins to boil, 45 minutes. Tighten seal, invert to cool.

Pickled or Spiced Cherries.

(We include this because it is so simple and cherries are so good this year.)

Leaving the stems on either sour but ripe cherries or ripe sweet cherries wash them very well by rinsing in at least 3 cold waters. Pack into small open necked bottles with good screw tops or ½ pint jars and pour over a syrup made of 1 cup sugar to each 2 cups vinegar in which 1 teaspoon cloves, 4 sticks of cinnamon bark, 4 blades of mace, and 1 teaspoon salt have been boiled 10 minutes. Put on lids, stand in boiling water coming to within 1 inch of tops of bottles, and boil for 20 minutes covered. Cool as quickly as possible after they are done and tops are tightened.

Method of canning raspberries is so simple and they are such delicious fruit in the winter it becomes almost your duty to do them.

Canned Raspberries.

Wash the berries if at all necessary—but some berries when picked in the morning and canned on the same day do not require washing. This is a matter for you to decide—if they are washed they must be well drained. Pack in sterile jars and pour over them a thin syrup (1 cup sugar to 3 cups water) boiling hot, put on sterile rubbers and tops and screw down rings to within quarter turn of tight and process at boiling point for 20 minutes in hot water bath, covered. Cool, inverted, as quickly as possible.

Gooseberries make good jam and pie, but have you ever tried them in catsup? Their tart intense flavor is most delicious.

Gooseberry Catsup.

Five pounds gooseberries, four pounds sugar, 2 cups good cider vinegar, 1½ tablespoons cinnamon, 1 tablespoon cloves, 1 tablespoon allspice. Pick over, wash, and drain gooseberries.

Put in kettle, and add sugar, vinegar and spices. Bring to boiling point and let simmer 2 hours. If gas flame is used an asbestos mat should beplaced under kettle. If desired this may be strained, but is very good if not. Pour into sterile jars or bottles and seal with screw tops or paraffin.

If gooseberry catsup is strained you may want to use whole spices when the color of the catsup is much lighter and prettier. Use ¼ lb. cinnamon bark, 4 tablespoons whole cloves, and 2 tablespoons allspice berries in place of the powdered spices mentioned above.

If you have a fruit or vegetable or combination of any that you think is choice we would be glad to receive it. If any of the readers desire recipes we do not mention we will be glad to print them if they will write mentioning what they want.

See recipes for canning peaches, pears, plums next month. Recipes for Pickling will appear in September.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Life has its crystal days, its rare hours of a stainless beauty, and a joy so pure that we may dare to call in the flowers to rejoice with us, and the language of the birds ceases to be an unknown tongue. Our real life as we look back, seems to have been lived in those days that we love so tenderly."

—Mary Cholmondeley.

Dear Friends:

Don't you remember days that were like that? When you had a feeling that you were akin to the gods, when you felt your Divinity stir your soul, and your spirits rise on the wings of the morning.

I remember clearly twice when I felt like that. I wanted something so badly, but first one Dr. and then another said it was impossible. It did not seem right somehow to be denied this, and so I kept the dream in my heart from year to year.

And then, after I came to Canada, 'way up in Regina, one Dr. held out some hope. If I did this and that, if I followed out instructions, then it would be possible.

And later, when this I desired seemed as if it would be fulfilled, I walked with angels. My heart was light, my spirit rose and triumphed over the weakness of my body.

And I felt as if I knew the song of the birds, and thought the flowers nodded to me in friendship as I passed. I was having my crystal days, and enjoying them to the fullest.

What was pain in comparison to this ecstacy? Less than nothing. What difference did hardships make? None at all. Don't YOU remember days like that? They do not last, but nothing lasts.

And so, I think that days like these, are the chief things in our lives, milestones which stand out like beacons and because of them we can say we have truly lived to the fullest.

So, if your crystal days are with you now, let nothing interfere with your enjoyment of them. There is nothing comparable, not one thing which can take their place, and they seldom if ever return.

You have them, and they are gone, but you have the memory to hug to your breast when the drab materialistic days come along, when you must consider the means to live, beyond most everything else, even if you do not care much about living.

So many want to save their special days, but it cannot be done. They want to have leisure, to have a set time to savor them, but you have no choice. They come, you enjoy them, or you lose them because you waited and let trivial things stop your pleasure in them.

Memories can be very sad things when we think of "the might have been." But it can be a joyful thing too, when we think of "the HAVE beens." The things we had from life which none can take from us, which we will carry with us all through life and beyond the grave.

And, if you have been too careless, or too taken up with lesser things so that you never had this high ecstacy, then you have missed the best in life. If, on the other hand, you have been looking for it and it has not come yet, do not give up hope, for it is yet to come.

Life would be insupportable if it were not for things like these, which lift us up for the time being, even although we must come down to earth. Even a bird must light sometimes you know. He cannot be always on the wing.

But, when you find your wings fluttering on your shoulders, don't let anything stop you from using them. Soar 'way up beyond the common round of everyday things. Feel the winds of heaven against your face, and your Divinity swell within you. Enjoy your crystal days to the fullest.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

"House-Warming" Shower Held

A surprise "house-warming" shower was held for Douglas Hammond recently when he opened his new cabin near the Mount Julian Hotel, Stoney Lake.

The guests, who contributed useful and amusing gifts, included: Miss E. Rountree and Miss N. Rountree of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. George Kirkendale and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDermett of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Havorka of Evanston, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. D. Lawrie, Peterborough; and the Rev. Mr. Hughes and Mrs. Hughes of Brighton, Ontario.

Mr. Hammond replied very appropriately to the speech made by Mr. McDermett and Miss Martha Rountree, who had the honor of christening the new cabin "Ham-in-Cottage."

BABY CONSTIPATED?

BABY'S daily movements are something of which absolutely accurate track must be kept. When he misses something must be done at once. Constipation is serious for baby.

Mrs. A. Reid of Hespeler, Ont., has this to say: "Having had seven children and having used Baby's Own Tablets for all seven, can say they are the best and gentlest regulator for children—safe and effective for the tiniest infant. I give them up to 10 years of age. During teething Baby's Own Tablets were a boon to me as they cleared up at once any digestive disturbance or fretfulness."

Equally effective for simple fever, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colic, simple croup and other minor ailments of babyhood.

Quick and sure in their action. Easy to take. Harmless, and safe for the most delicate child. Do not contain opiates or stupefying drugs. Each package contains analyst's certificate. Get a box today. Sickness so often strikes in the night. Your money back if not satisfied. 25 cents.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Suddards announce the engagement of their daughter, Elsie Louisa, to Norman, son of Mrs. R. Robbins and the late Herbert Sloan. The wedding to take place in August.

DIED

McMASTER, David Wesley. — On July 18, 1938, at Windsor, Ont. He is survived by his wife and family, also two brothers Hugh and Bruce of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Cuff, Warsaw, and Mrs. William Chaplin, Campbellford. Funeral to take place Wednesday at Windsor.

IN MEMORIAM

ASTA.—In loving memory of Peter J. Asta, who died July 20, 1929.
Just when your life was brightest,
Just when your years were best,
You were called from this world of sorrow.
To a home of eternal rest.

Loyalist Suicide Squads Cover Army's Retreat

HENDAYE, France, July 20—(AP)—Picked "suicide squads" fought a desperate delaying action through the Espina Mountains today to cover the retreat of the main body of the Spanish government army to new defence lines before Valencia.

Two insurgent armies, advancing down either side of the main highway from Teruel, were crushing the government's fortifications between them.

As a result of the rearguard action, however, the retreat to a new line of hasty fortifications before Viver, 34 miles northwest of Valencia, was being effected without serious losses.

The main threat to the government army of more than 150,000 came farther east, where two columns of General Garcia Valino's Navarrese troops menaced Segorbe, an ancient town about 20 miles from Sagunto where the Teruel-Mediterranean highway joins the main costal road leading to Valencia.

Insurgents were driving through the southern slopes of the Espadan mountains in a frontal attack against the old town which spans a valley between two castle-crowned hills.

The fall of Segorbe, with the main government army still to the northwest at Viver, virtually would trap the flower of General Jose Miaja's troops.

Both the highway and the railroad already were under the fire of insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's long-range artillery.

The only other way for the government troops' retreat to Valencia was by a network of narrow mountain paths and trails in the hills.

Smothers At Play

ATLANTA, July 20—(AP)—Thirteen-year-old Jasper Ray Love, Jr., at home alone through the day while his parents worked in a hat factory, often sought his own amusements. Neighbors said he enjoyed hiding in obscure places. Last night he was found smothered to death in a cedar chest. His Boy Scout knife lay nearby and he had removed two of five screws from the heavy chest lock, apparently in a vain attempt to free himself.

Airport Monopoly Peeves Toronto

TORONTO, July 19 — (CP). — A monopoly on flying business out of Toronto's new airports, at the island and at Malton, is being insisted upon by Trans-Canada Air Lines, Mayor Ralph Day said today.

The Mayor objected to such an arrangement, and said the matter would be considered by the Board of Control and the Harbor Commission within the next week.

If the ruling prevailed, he contended the Dominion Government should pay the cost of operating the airports. He saw no reason why Toronto taxpayers should pay for airport facilities to be used exclusively by the Trans-Canada Air Line.

"If the Government maintains this attitude, we will certainly protest vigorously," Mayor Day said, after conferring with E. L. Cousins, manager of the Harbor Board. Mr. Cousins told the Mayor the work at both airports would be within the $1,886,780 estimate, of which Dominion and Provincial Governments each contribute $450,000.

Insistence by the Government on a monopoly would mean exclusion of American air lines from Toronto air ports, although private airplanes would be allowed use of the ports on payment of a fee, it was stated. Trans-Canada, however, is said to plan operation of a service to border United States cities.

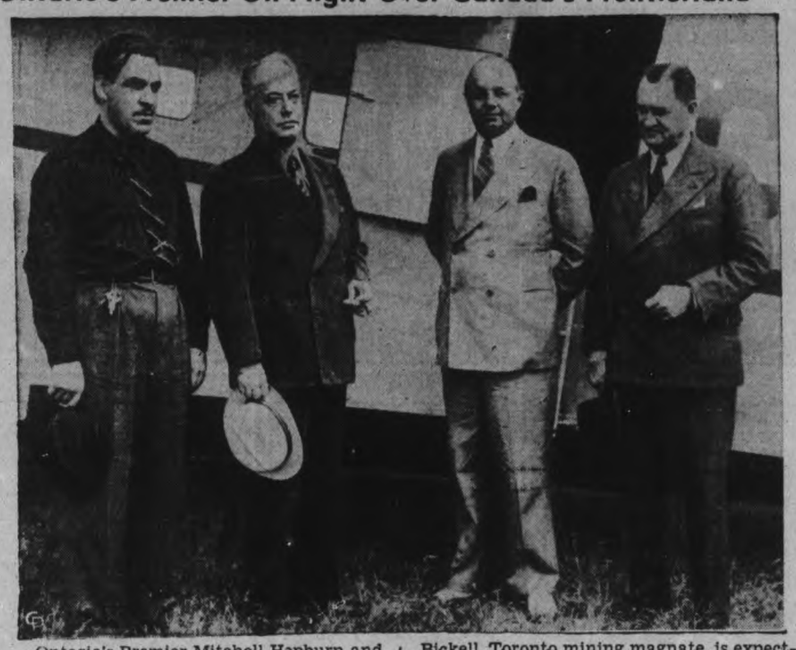
Ontario's Premier On Flight Over Canada's Frontierland



Ontario's Premier Mitchell Hepburn and three companions posed for this photograph prior to taking off from Toronto on a flight over Canada's far-flung northland. The flight, which is being made in an all-metal twin-motored amphibian owned by J. P. Bickell, Toronto mining magnate, is expected to cover 8,000 miles. The members of the flight are shown, LEFT to RIGHT, Pilot James Towne, J. P. Bickell, owner of the airplane; Premier Hepburn and Ben Smith, New York financier.

Heart Saves Him

CHICAGO, July 19 (A.P.). — Roman Nicinski, 47, is alive to-day because his heart isn't in a normal position. Neighbors found him suffering from a bullet wound which, Dr. Charles Meyers said, would have been in his heart if the organ wasn't about an inch to the left of a normal position. The foreman at the factory where he was employed told police Nicinski had been despondent recently.

Baby Loses Fight In Backwoods Epic

VAL D'OR, Que., July 20—(CP).—The last epic chapter of a three-pound baby girl's fight against the odds of prematurity ended today in this northern mining town as doctors and nurses recovered after their futile attempts to save the life of the caesarian-born baby who succumbed yesterday 11 days after birth in a backwoods cabin.

"Baby Jean," as she was known to hospital authorities, began to lose ground yesterday morning, doctors said, and within a couple of hours died in the glass-panel incubator where she lay since physicians performed an operation on her mother, the 26-year-old wife of a husky miner, Joseph Jean.

Even after being rushed across 37 miles of country roads to this Abitibi district centre, the child was given "possibly an even chance against death." But the strain of premature birth, forced by the mother's sudden illness, proved more than the tiny frame could bear.

The mother, a five-foot woman weighing about 100 pounds, was brought to hospital a few hours after the baby. Yesterday, however, when death shattered her ever-increasing hope in the child's chances, she returned to the quiet life of the northern country around her little home.

World's Fair Strike Ends In Settlement

NEW YORK, July 20—(CP).—A three weeks' tie-up in construction at the New York World's Fair site ended to-day with settlement of a strike affecting 6,000 electrical and building trade workers.

The electrical workers struck June 29 in a jurisdictional dispute over whether they or employees of the New York Telephone Company should draw wires through electric cables laid under the World's Fair streets. The construction workers walked out in sympathy.

22 Firemen Injured Using Steam On Blaze

WELLSVILLE, N.Y., July 19. — (AP) — Twenty-two firemen were injured slightly here today as they made a desperate and nearly successful effort to blow out the disastrous Sinclair Oil Refinery fire with steam.

The new injuries, most of which were minor burns or scalds, swelled the casualty toll of the three day fire to three dead and approximately 100 injured. Company officials estimated the loss at $1,000,000.

Only a smouldering, stubborn blaze remained in the ruins of the dewaxing plant today after engineers finally succeeded in putting the power plant of the $15,000,000 refinery back in commission. With steam in the boilers for the first time since Sunday, fire fighters turned roaring steam jets against blazing buildings and tanks.

Royalty Visits Paris, Experts Talk Defence

PARIS, July 20—(AP).—France and Great Britain emphasized their diplomatic and defence ties today as the state visit by King George and Queen Elizabeth began.

Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, is accompanying the Royal party. Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, also will be here.

They will talk with Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, their attention upon central Europe which once, again is considered the danger spot of the continent.

This feeling centres about Czechoslovakia's proposed Nationality Statue. Its publication is expected this week, containing the concessions the Szech Government is willing to make to its Sudeten German Minority of 3,500,000.

The Spanish Civil War, with efforts for a settlement with Italy in most equal importance in the talks.

It was understood an exchange of letters between Premier Daladier and Prime Minister Chamberlain last week emphasized the general line of the conversations, including an agreement upon strong action to prevent a conflict between Germany and the Czechs in the event the Sudeten Germans declare the Minority Statute unsatisfactory.

British Freighter Fired At Valencia

VALENCIA, July 20—(AP).—A 1,000-pound bomb hit the British freighter Merchantman Standland in Valencia harbor today, setting her afire, but her crew and two non-intervention observers escaped injury.

The fire, confined to the vessel's decks, was soon extinguished.

It was the first bombing of a British ship in recent weeks, a lull in such attacks in Spanish waters having followed vigorous British protests to General Franco, leader of insurgent Spain.

The observers aboard the vessel were an Italian and a Netherlander.

Five planes made the raid, and eight Spanish workers were killed as their heavy bombs plunged into the dock area.

The Strandland is not listed in Lloyd's register of shipping, but she is one of a number of ships whose names were changed when they entered the Spanish trade.

She is owned by the Stanhope Shipping Company of London, all of whose vessels have names beginning with "Stan."

OBITUARY

COL. J. R. ORR.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, July 20. — The funeral of the late Col. J. R. Orr took place on Saturday from Ivanhoe Station on the arrival of the Toronto train to Trinity United Church, and interment was made at Lakeview Cemetery.

Col. J. R. Orr, at one time well known and highly respected in Madoc, died after a brief illness in Toronto last Sunday. He left his home in Hollywood, California, a few weeks ago to spend the summer months with friends in Toronto. He had not been in good health for some years.

The late Col. John R. Orr was born in Milton about 80 years ago. He moved to Madoc as a young man and established the North Hastings Review, a weekly newspaper. After 35 years in newspaper life he sold the business to the late A. H. Watson, first principal of Madoc High School, and the business is now carried on by James Watson, son of A. H. Watson. Col. Orr then went to Edmonton and lived there until he retired from business life, later moving to California.

Col. Orr was prominent in business, social, faternal and church life. He was active in military life and commanded the 49th Battalion for six years, and held the Long Service Medal. He organized the first lacrosse team of Madoc in 1878 and he retired from business life, later He was a member of the Methodist Church and a prominent member of the Masonic and I.O.O.F. orders.

Col. Orr was married twice. His first wife was Miss Sadie Dale, daughter of the late John Dale of Madoc. Their daughter Alice (Mrs. William Lees of Hollywood, California) survives him. His second wife, Miss Rose Dale of Thorold, died in Edmonton some years ago.

Mrs. F. E. O. Flynn of Belleville is a sister-in-law, her sister having been his first wife.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Teller's $100,000 Grab Amazes Officials

PATERSON, N.J., July 20—(AP)—Police and bank officials expressed amazement to-day at the story of a $36 a week bank teller who assured them he was not "crazy" when he told of stealing $100,000 during the past seven years.

"Have you been feeling all right?" James Smith, detective captain, said he asked Angelo B. Oliva, 31, after the teller entered headquarters yesterday to confess to the alleged thefts.

"I'm not crazy," Smith said Oliva protested. "But this thing has been praying on my mind."

Captain Smith notified officials of the Columbus branch of the Second National Bank of Paterson. They, too, were startled at the story for Oliva was known as "one of our most trusted employees."

Brantford Remains Liberal By Margin Of 3,146 With Louis Hagey's Victory

31-Year-Old Lawyer Succeeds MacBride Defeating 3 Other Candidates To Become Assembly's "Baby" Member

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 21 (CP).—Liberal representatives in the Ontario Legislature was at full strength today with election of youthful H. Louis Hagey as Brantford's representative and successor to the late Hon. Morrison M. MacBride, Provincial Minister of Labor.

The 31-year-old barrister was elected yesterday over three other candidates in a by-election necessitated by Mr. MacBride's death June 5. In retaining the seat for the Liberals, Mr. Hagey polled 6,284 of the 13,824 votes cast, a plurality of 3,146 over his nearest opponent. Reginald Welsh, Conservative, polled 3,138; Paul Debragh, Socialist-Labor, 58, and Walter J. Dowden, Labor-Progressive, 2,344.

His election brought the Liberal party standing in the Legislature to 65, the number of seats the government obtained when it was returned to office in last October's general election. Standing of other parties: Conservatives, 22; Independent, 1; United Farmers of Ontario, 1. One seat, Toronto Parkdale, is vacant.

In electing Mr. Hagey to the seat Mr. MacBride held in the Legislature through four terms, Brantford voters send to Queen's Park the youngest member ever to represent them.

Mr. Hagey celebrated his 31st birthday Tuesday. He also will be the youngest member in the Assembly when the next session opens. In this respect he supplants Charles O. Fairbank, 34-year-old Liberal from Lambton East.

Triumph Says Hepburn.

In a statement made shortly after the election result was known—little more than an hour after the polls closed at 7 p.m., E.S.T.— Mr. Hagey thanked the voters for the "gratifying expression of confidence" in the government. Premier Hepburn in Edmonton, where he stopped during an airplane tour of the west, said the election of the Liberal candidate was "a great triumph for the government in an industrial centre."

The defeated Conservative candidate said he and his party were encouraged rather than downcast at the result. He said the voting indicated a loss of government strength in the riding as Mr. Hagey had polled 2,205 fewer votes than had the government candidate in the general election of October 6, 1937.

The by-election was the third since last October's general election. In each the government was victorious. John Newlands was elected in Hamilton Centre March 2 to succeed W. F. Schwenger, Liberal, appointed to the bench of Wentworth county. Mr. Fairbank was elected last March in Lambton East. Another must be held to fill the Toronto vacancy created by the death July 2 of F. G. McBrien, Conservative.

Ontario Tories Vote Name Be Unchanged

TORONTO, July 21.—(CP). — Name of the Ontario Conservative Association will remain unchanged, the annual meeting of the Association decided to-day by adopting a report of the Constitution committee.

The committee had considered changing the name in view of the fact that the Federal party two weeks ago decided to call itself the National Conservative party, instead of Liberal-Conservative party.

William Duckworth, M.P.P. for Toronto Dovercourt, alone challenged the recommendation of the Constitution committee; but he was assured the intention was to differentiate the Provincial from the Dominion organization.

(The printed program of the meeting itself was headed "National Conservative Association of Ontario.")

A brief flare-up occurred as Fred Gardiner, Toronto, proceeded to read the draft constitution proposed, clause by clause.

Mr. Gardiner said the proposed constitution was "thoroughly democratic," giving fair representation to all parts of the province.

The Fun Starts.

Three clauses had been adopted when Wilfred Haney, former member for Lambton, asked for clarification of the procedure. The meeting was not called to "set up a small clique" to run the party, he declared.

A recommendation to empower "delegate members" alone to vote on resolutions aroused a storm of controversy.

A. A. McKenzie, Toronto, protested against making the organization a "closed corporation." The rank and file should be represented and the meeting should not "hedge in the constitution with a lot of fences."

Herman Rogers of Lincoln declared there would be no democracy if representation was not by delegation. If all active members who paid their dollar were able to vote,

Mercury Flies Atlantic In 20 Hours

Pick-a-Back Plane Brings Half Ton Mail To Montreal

BOUCHERVILLE, Que., July 21.—(CP).—The Pick-a-back plane Mercury glided to a smooth landing in the air harbor 12 miles east of Montreal at 11.20 a.m. to-day, spanning the Atlantic ocean non-stop in little more than 20 hours.

Completing the first of eight flights to Canada this year, the silver craft cut her engines and coasted into a landing place marked off by special buoys. A flag-bedecked yacht steamed out into the river to greet Captain Don Bennett and Wireless Operator Albert Coster.

The Mercury took off from Foynes, Ireland, yesterday at 3 p.m. E.D.T. Here, she will unload that part of the 1,000 pound cargo destined for Montreal and then take off for New York around 1 p.m. after replenishing her fuel tanks.

Throughout the night and early to-day the Mercury, which took the air at Foynes from the back of the heavier Maia, reported her progress by wireless to officials at St. Hubert airport, 14 miles south-east of Montreal.

Four Hours in Rain.

Only once, at nine o'clock last night as they approached mid-ocean, did Coster report unfavorable weather conditions. At that time, he said, the plane, thundering with the full power of her four engines, was flying through "continuous rains" and was over "a turbulent sea."

But nearly four hours later they were flying into clear weather, averaging a speed of 145 miles an hour.

After reaching Canada early to-day Coster reported they "might alight" at Quebec city, presumably to refuel, but Capt. Bennett later decided to proceed non-stop to Montreal.

Corrigan Wanted To Come.

DUBLIN, July 21 (AP).—Douglas G. Corrigan, who flew "to California" and landed in Ireland, was sorry today he had not flown back across the Atlantic aboard the seaplane Mercury.

Told the pick-a-back plane had alighted at Montreal after a flight from Foynes, Corrigan said:

"I sure wish I could have been on her. At least they knew where they were going."

And, wistfully:

"Perhaps it's better that way."

350,000 To Pass Bier Of Queen Marie

BUCHAREST, July 21.—The body old Russian lace and holy pictures was placed today in the Royal Palace to lie in state until the funeral Sunday.

It was brought to Bucharest by train from Sinaia, the royal summer residence, where the Queen died Monday in her 63rd year after a long illness.

Just before the train left Sinaia, her daughter, Princess Elizabeth, former Queen of Greece, fainted. She was taken to the royal waiting room but quickly recovered.

In Bucharest, the Queen's favorite possessions were exhibited near her coffin. Among them were a portrait of herself by Philip de Lazlo, some of Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania Long lines of people formed to pass by and view her body. Authorities expected more than 350,000 would see it today.

King Carol and Crown Prince Michael her son and grandson, appeared in public at Sinaia for the first time since her death. They were accompanied by other members of the royal family.

Safe-Cracking Trio Caught In Act

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., July 21 —(CP)—Three men who gave their address as Toronto were captured early today attempting to open the safe of Heuther's creamery here. It was the fourth attempted robbery of this company during the past year. In the other three attempts thieves procured less than one dollar.

Following one of the most sensational captures in the history of Orangeville in which six youths and two policemen surrounded the building and forced the thieves to surrender, Albert Storm, 23; Harold Rosen, 25 and Steve Jackson, 21, were placed in the Dufferin county jail.

Night Watchman Henry Hanna making his nightly rounds observed a light in the creamery. Summoning the aid of six youths from nearby and informing Provincial Constable H. T. Hammer, the building was surrounded. The thieves, attempting to open the company's safe, surrendered without resistance. Their only implements were pinchbars, a crowbar and hacksaws.

A charge of breaking and entering with an intent to commit an indictable offense was laid against the three.

A French Welcome

On a State visit considered a diplomatic warning of caution to the rest of Europe, King George and Queen Elizabeth of England are pictured (arrows) as they arrived at Boulogne, France, after a voyage from Dover, on the Admiralty yacht Enchantress. This is the first visit of a reigning British ruler to France since 1914. Photo was telephoned to London, then radioed to New York.

France Parades Her Might For Britain's Monarch

Thousands Of Crack Cavalry, Gay Colonials Thundering Tanks And Guns Wheel Past

VERSAILLES, July 21 (CP).—King George, wearing a field marshal's uniform with a scarlet jacket, today reviewed crack troops of the French army, on the third day of his State visit to France with Queen Elizabeth.

Enormous crowds which flocked to Versailles for the occasion cheered alternately for the King and the army as the smartly uniformed columns of marching men, and motorized units including hundreds of tanks, swung by.

With the King on the reviewing stand were high French government and military officials.

The cavalry opened the parade at a trot and in the heaviest battle formation a cavalry troop can take. Ten yards from the reviewing stand all heads turned left towards the royal guest while the section commanders saluted with their sabres and the regimental standards dipped.

Immediately behind were three regiments of "modern" cavalry in khaki uniforms, rifles slung and carrying machine guns behind them.

Colonials Gay Spectacle.

Then followed the most brilliant colors of the entire parade. A brigade of Northern African Spahis before the stand in their resplendent costumes. First came a mounted regiment of Moroccan Spahis wearing red tarbooshes, stamped with the gold crescent of Islam, and white bournooses, and flowing pantaloons which fell on soft buff-colored boots.

The colonial troops, who proved their valor during the Great War, received a tremendous ovation from the crowd.

Dressed For Business.

Suddenly the bands grouped around the Tribune stopped playing and the light infantry appeared on the scene, at quick time, to the roll of drums. The chasseurs were in campaign kit and had exchanged their handsome black berets for black steel helmets. Pale yellow facings lightened their dark blue uniforms.

At the end of the infantry section came another splash of color—a regiment of Algerian sharpshooters in Royal blue boleros, set off with pale yellow frogs, and bright red tarbooshes.

First came the motorcycle detachments, their drivers in steel and leather helmets; then followed six squadrons of dragoons riding in armored trucks instead of on horses, two automatic rifle squadrons, and behind them the powerful tanks, camouflaged in brown and green.

Because of bad weather conditions, a mass flight of 600 warplanes was not held on schedule. Some squadrons of planes took to the skies, however.

King's 45 Minutes For 3-Hour Feast "Burns Up" 10 Aces Of French Chefdom

VERSAILLES, France, July 21 (AP).—The 10 best French chefs combined their culinary skill today to fete King George and Queen Elizabeth.

The result was something to marvel at — Perles fraiches de sterlet, delices du Lac d'Annecy, mignonettes d'agneau. The gastronomic highlight of the three-day royal visit of State, served in the brilliant Hall of Mirrors of Louis XIV., made every French restaurateur and gourmet sigh with envy.

The experts burned with shame, too. The royal program allowed only 45 minutes for the supermeal, and to do it justice, they said, would take at least three hours.

The menu included:

Les perles fraiches de sterlet (caviar flown specially from Moscow).

Les delices du Lac d'Annecy a la nantua (delights of the Lake of Annecy in nantua fashion — in other words, salmon trout with crayfish accompanied with la Chevalier Montrachet 1926 white burgundy).

La timbale de cailles farcies a la talleyrand (quail stuffed with fois gras). The wine: Hospice de Beaune Cuvee Charlotte Dumay 1915, a red burgundy so rare that it is always sold only by auction.

Les Aiguillettes De Caneton Rouennais a la Montmorency avec Salade Gaulcise (sliced breast of Rouen Duck with green peas and mixed salad). With this course were three wines—Le Corton Grancey 1919, a Red Bergundy; a Magnum of Chateau Mouton Rothschild 1918, a Red Bordeaux called the "King of Wines"; Le Granite au Lanson 1921, which is iced champagne.

Champagnes: Magnum of Pol Roger 1911, Magnum of G. H. Mumm 1911, Louis Roederer 1904, Veuve Cliquot 1900 (the year in which Queen Elizabeth was born) and Pommery 1895 (year of King George's birth). These wines are so rare they are to be found seldom outside private cellars.

The vegetables were grown specially out of season at Limoges and flown to Versailles this morning in two planes.

Table baskets containing cakes were made of woven straws of sugar tied with sugar ribbons in the French and British colors.

Each guest had 12 crystal glasses for wines, some of which may never be drunk again except by private owners who opened their cellars for the occasion at President Albert Lebrun's request.

Family Ordered Into Street; Father A Red

QUEBEC, July 21 (C.P.).—While curious hundreds lined the streets, jolly, bespectacled Mrs. F. X. Lessard sat in the kitchen of her downtown home to-day surrounded by her two children and friends and defiantly awaited efforts of police to evict her under the Duplessis Padlock Law.

"Let them come — we certainly won't leave of our own accord," she told reporters between nervous puffs of a cigarette. "They showed up yesterday and gave us 24 hours to get out. Sure we'll get out all right —if Duplessis (Premier Maurice Duplessis) pays the rent for the balance of the lease we will!"

When Provincial Police arrived yesterday to advise her the house would be "padlocked" within 24 hours because of her husband's Communistic activities she was alone with her children,' Mrs. Lessard said.

Husband Away

"Where's your husband now?" she was asked.

"He's at work where he was yesterday," the 40-year-old blue-eyed woman answered. "But don't ask me where that is; I wouldn't know."

Mrs. Lessard said she had another child beside the two in the house.

"Eduardine here is seven," she said. "Adrien, our eldest, is 12 now and he's away in the country."

Meanwhile, provincial police maintained strict silence on their action, first application of the padlock law in Quebec City since an enabling act was passed by the Quebec Legislature at its last session.

Once a uniformed policeman drove past the Lessard dwelling. A tall brick structure flanked on either side by tiny wooden houses, but the 10 a.m. deadline hour set yesterday for the family's departure came and went without any move by officers.

"They have their instructions," one official said. "We don't know when the house will be padlocked."

Fumes Down Cistern Kill Father, Son

WASKADA, Man., July 21.—(CP) —Gas fumes claimed two victims in this southwestern Manitoba district yesterday. Joseph Doerfler and his 15-year-old step-son were asphyxiated by deadly gas which accumulated in a cistern on the Deorfler farm.

Descending 10 feet into the cistern to remove a pile of straw which had accumulated in a few inches of water, Bill was overcome before he could shout for aid.

Seeing the prostrate form of his step-son Doerfler descended and was floored instantly by the fumes. Neighbors later removed the bodies.

Rowe, W. H. Ireland Resign As Leader, President Of Ontario Conservatives

Heart Of The Party Still Remains Sound Says Retiring Chief As 600 Association Members Rally

TORONTO, July 21 (CP).—Hon. W. Earl Rowe, leader of the Ontario Conservative party since 1936, today placed his resignation before the annual meeting here of the Ontario Conservative Association, to take effect as soon as a successor could be elected.

Before the 600 association members had time to discuss the question of leadership, a major topic since the party's defeat at the polls in last October general election, Mr. Rowe announced from the platform his desire to retire from the position.

Since he was elected party leader at a convention in Toronto in 1936 Mr. Rowe has been without a seat in the Legislature. Prior to the October general election he resigned his Dufferin-Simcoe seat in the House of Commons and ran in Simcoe East, but was defeated by Dr. L. J. Simpson, Liberal Minister of Education.

Immediately after the election Mr. Rowe went back to the House of Commons, obtaining an acclamation in the Dufferin-Simcoe by-election. Leopold Macaulay, M.P.P. for York South, led the Conservatives in the Legislature at the last session.

Ireland Leads Way

Mr. Rowe announced his resignation shortly after William H. Ireland of Trenton told the meeting he would not be a candidate for re-election as president of the provincial association.

The sudden development left the meeting with the necessity of electing a new president and considering the question of an early convention to name a leader.

A half-dozen or more names were heard at the meeting as leadership possibilities. Among these were Mr. Macaulay and Col. George A. Drew, noted soldier, author and speaker who formerly was provincial organizer.

Joseph Harris of Toronto, an unsuccessful candidate for the federal leadership two weeks ago, also was being mentioned and in other groups the name of William Morrison, Mayor of Hamilton and former member of the Legislature, was mentioned.

Heart of Party Still Sound

Addressing the meeting, Mr. Rowe reviewed the party's present position in Ontario compared to two years ago when he became leader. Though the party had been defeated in an election it had received a total vote larger than ever before.

He said he did not intend to review "deep-laid schemes to end the Conservative Party in Ontario."

"The heart of the old conservative party is still sound in Ontario," he declared. This was true despite a prevailing tendency of people in all parties to place the attainment of civil service jobs and personal popularity above political principles and party and public welfare.

Sudbury Holdup Solved In 10 Minutes

SUDBURY, Ont., July 21 (C.P.). —Police arrested James Reeves of Wahnapitae to-day and charged he was the lone gunman who 10 minutes earlier held up the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia and escaped with $1,200 loot. Warnapitae is 10 miles east of here.

Police said they recovered the loot and found a revolver hidden under a loose floorboard in the apartment house where they arrested Reeves. Police said Reeves had a fresh wound in his leg. A bank employee fired a shot at the fleeing bandit.

Bank employees said a man entered the bak at 12.40 p.m. while there was a light noon-hour staff on duty. He herded employees into a vault and then picked up a big package of $10 bills and fled.

Allison Dixon, assistant accountant, grabbed the bank gun and followed the bandit, shooting just as the thief turned to round the corner.

The thief ran to an apartment block 50 yards away.. Police later trapped a man on the second floor near a former exit to the apartment, where a fire escape was located until recently.

Bulgarian Accused Of Murdering Girl

SAINT JOHN, N.B., July 21—(CP) —Police Chief E. M. Slader today charged John Netcoff, 43, with the murder of Bessie Curtis, 21. Chief Slader swore out the information before Magistrate S. W. Palmer and Netcoff was remanded until next Monday.

Laying of the information followed an inquest last night. The coroners jury found that Miss Curtis died Tuesday of multiple skull fractures caused by hammer blows Sunday, and recommended that a charge of murder be laid against Netcoff.

The 43-year-old Bulgarian was arrested at the scene of the alleged assault. A witness at the inquest declared Netcoff had asked Bessie if she was "through" with him and swung the hammer after she replied "yes."

Corrigan Downs Movie Offer Goes Shopping In Dublin

DUBLIN, July 21 —(AP)— The "Pride of the Corrigans", as the Irish call the young Trans-Atlantic flying hero, booked passage today on the liner Manhattan to go home next week.

That done, Douglas Corrigan went shopping as any tourist. For his uncle he bought a shillelagh (typical cudgel) and for the rest of the family, postcards.

He planned a two-day visit to London before sailing from Cobh, July 30.

"I am still battling with the task of answering hundreds of cablegrams people keep sending me," the aviator said.

"I am still holding off on offers of contracts from Hollywood until I get home, but it's nix on night club appearances. I'm no crooner."

Asked about the possibility of a flight across the United States for the Golden Gate Exposition, he said, "my uncle must have fixed that up —it depends on United States authorities whether they release my plane. I am very doubtful if they will."

Corrigan is worried about what the home folk may do to him.

He has been getting along nicely in Ireland, chatting informally with the highest of the land, but the thought of a big welcome in the United States is something else again.

"I certainly hope they have stopped being Corrigan-mad when I get back to America," is how he puts it.

"A hero by mistake"—that "compass error" that took him to Ireland instead of California, you know —Corrigan apparently is willing to call off the rest of the show.

Today he turned down a five-year film contract with a guarantee of three pictures yearly—although yesterday he thought he might be interested in the movies—and refused a $20,000 vaudeville contract.

Councillor Proposes Tuberculin Test For Students

Mimico, July 21.

COUNCILLOR Reg. Barclay has announced his intention of pressing for a tuberculin test for pupils of all local schools.

"It is particularly desirable in the case of those entering high school as that is the age when contact is most dangerous," he declared.

Some time ago the matter was brought before the Town Council, which demurred at making any move. The matter at that time was referred to the School Board.

"That body has apparently made no move either, and it is now up to the Council," he stated.

Savings Gone In Stolen Bike Carrier Boy Trudges In Rain

Perhaps it does not mean much to you when you read about a bicycle being stolen. There's always something about such a thing in the paper. Perhaps you console yourself with the idea that the police will get it back. We hope they will.

When a bicycle theft is scrutinized at times we dare say it means as much as a man having his car stolen.

Here's the case:

One of the Examiner carrier boys has a long route which runs part way out of the city on No. 28 Highway, and he has to cover in all about five miles each week day.

He needed a bicycle and he bought a new one, blue in color and a Samson.

He did not have the money to pay for it at once because he has to earn what money he gets carrying papers.

He could not very well ask his father to help him as the father is out of work.

He had made three payments on that new wheel and—

Well it was stolen last night.

As this is being written it is raining and there are those five miles to be covered this afternoon.

And there are the rest of the payments to be made on the wheel which is now in some other person's possession.

If the person now in possession of that bicycle reads this and comes to know what the loss of that wheel means, we do not believe he will care to keep it.

Dynamite In Well Gives Aurora Fears Of 'Quake

Aurora, July 21.

RESIDENTS OF SOME sections of Aurora experienced a real scare yesterday and were almost convinced an earthquake had visited the county town. Owing to some trouble in the artesian well near the local power house where the flow was rapidly decreasing, it was decided to dynamite it. To William Morning was entrusted the work of lowering a 100-pound dynamite torpedo and firing it. When it discharged at the bottom of the well, there was a loud explosion and the resulting underground vibration was such as to shake many homes in the neighborhood. The operation was a perfect success, and the normal flow of water was immediately restored. It will avoid the necessity of sinking a new well at considerable cost to the town.

Baba Wants Isle Down In South Seas So Wrestler Hubby Can Be Rajah

Palo Alto, Calif., July 21.

BOUND FOR Hollywood and an uncertain future, Princess Baba, daughter of the White Rajah of Sarawak, and Bob Gregory, her wrestler-husband, will leave Palo Alto today.

"It's not movies," said blonde, 23 year-old Baba, "we just want to gain our independence and show mama and papa what we can do."

Gregory is going to fulfill wrestling engagements in Hollywood. Then, he said, they expect to sail to the South Seas in a few weeks aboard a friend's yacht.

He and Baba want to buy an Island in the Dutch East Indies, where he can be Rajah.

Urge Marriage Certificates By Judge Only

Licenses Too Easily Obtained Says Montreal Justice

MONTREAL, July 21.— (CP).— Mr. Justice Alfred Forest, who more than once has condemned clergymen for performing marriage ceremonies without the respective parties having identification or birth certificates, believes the civil code should be amended to provide for issuance of marriage certificates by Judges of the Superior Court.

Bringing down a judgment late yesterday, the Judge blamed suit for a dissolution of marriage on "too great facility in obtaining marriage licenses," and declaring null the six-year-old marriage of Juliette McKenzie, Roman Catholic, and Harold Alec Bell, Protestant, minor at time of wedding.

The court also ordered that a copy of the judgment be placed in the register of the church where Rev. A. W. Drysdale was minister when he performed the McKenzie-Bell ceremony in a downtown office building with a florist and hotel clerk as witnesses.

Opinions expresed in court by some Protestant clergymen were outlined by the Judge to show some believed they were not expected to question or obtain identity of those about to be married. These clergymen, said the judgment, claimed they were justified in marrying parties who had obtained proper permits from a Minister of the Crown.

But, said the Judge, the marriage contract was not like an ordinary contract and could not be fulfilled offhand just because a license had been obtained. Not only was it a civil act, he said, but a "sacrament."

Report Heiress Gave Bull One Million

TORONTO, July 21.—The Sidley will case took a new turn yesterday as inspectors from the Succession Duties Branch began a systematic check-up of all bank accounts in the name of W. Perkins Bull, and are reported to have learned that over a period of years preceding her death, the heiress to the malted milk millions gave Mr. Bull sums of money totalling in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

No confirmation of this alleged state of affairs was available at Queen's Park, but it was learned elsewhere that instructions were issued from the Treasury to the inspectors to complete their work with all possible speed and to invoke what authority they may have under Ontario law to determine the extent of reported other Bull bank deposits in Havana, Cuba and London, England.

Estates Lawyer Examined

Pending completion of this bank check, the special Treasury investigators of both the Mrs. Sidley and the Mrs. Bull estates have quietly adjourned their examination of scheduled witnesses. J. Fred Holliss, K.C., solicitor to the two estates, testified yesterday at Queen's Park, on matters particularly relating to the domicile of the late Mrs. Sidley and to gifts which from time to time she may have made while in this Province. He was the only person examined all day.

William Sidley, Chicago barrister, and brother-in-law of the dead woman, and G. M. Huycke, K.C., Toronto, solicitor for the Sidley interests, conferred for an hour at noon with W. B. Common, K.C.,

Two Destroyers Wait To Aid Fire Fighters

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C., July 21 — (CP) — Forest Branch officials here today reported a 40,000 acre timber fire was "much quieter," but added it would be impossible to tell for some time whether the blaze was at last under control.

They said a weather forecast of fresh westerly winds for later in the day indicated a renewed threat to several Vancouver Island settlements on the fringes of the temporarily-halted mire.

A thousand fire fighters were taking advantage of the respite in the fire's advance to build breaks around Campbellton on its west flank and camp three of Comox Logging Company at its southern extremity. From 30,000,000 to 60,000,000 feet of cut lumber would be endangered if the flames reached the camp.

The Canadian destropers St. Laurent and Fraser were lying in nearby Duncan Bay, prepared to rush to any coastal spot in the fire area and assist residents and fire fighters in escaping from threatened districts.

Fire fighters who had been stationed at Elk's Falls were forced to abandon their camp yesterday and retreat inland to escape advancing flames.

Only hope of dousing the fire completely, however, was in rain.

Presentation Made At Young's Point

(Examiner Correspondence.)

YOUNG'S POINT, July 21.—On Thursday evening the friends and relatives of Mrs. Wm. Maynard (nee Jean McNaughton) of Peterborough presented her with a delightful miscellaneous shower of pretty and useful articles. Mrs. Merrill made the presentation. The shower took place in St. Aidan's parish hall. This shower was followed by another presentation on behalf of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Aidan's church when Mrs. Andrew Wilson, on behalf of the W.A., presented Jean with a cheville bedspread, a pair of pillow slips and a dresser scarf, with best wishes for their future happiness.

Games were then played by all present, followed by a delightful lunch served by the ladies in charge, every one having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Mrs. J. Y Brown and daughters, Joyce and Beth, spent Sunday at Lakehurst the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shearer.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Latourhia and children of Niagara Falls, N.Y., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Young.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Merrill on Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Merrill, all of Oshawa, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Northey of Orillia.

Miss Marie Tate, also Mr. Warren Tate of Hamilton are the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Scollard.

Miss Mary Hatton will be the teacher at Sandy Lake school near Buckhorn.

Mr. Bradshaw of Peterborough will be the principal in the local school here when school opens in September and Miss Lynch will again be in charge of the junior room.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Yale and daughter, Lois, of Lakefield are now occupying their new summer cottage at Young's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Darling and sons of Lakefield were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Darling on Sunday.

Activity By Italy Alarms Swiss

Italian activity in the Alps has gravely alarmed Switzerland. A cable car line up to Theodul Pass, beside the Matterhorn (shown near the centre of the map), is being constructed by the Italians. While it is ostensibly for tourist purposes, Switzerland fears it may be useful in pouring troops through to the railway from Gornergrat, which leads into the Rhone valley, as a means of invading France. As the French are fortifying their Italian frontier, this route would be the most serviceable for Italian troops, which could join with German forces at Lausanne or Geneva.

$200,000 Damage Done By Hail In Tobacco Area

SIMCOE, Ont., July 21.—(CP). — Norfolk tobacco growers to-day looked over a swath cut through their fields by hail and estimated their damage at more than $200,000. The total loss, however, will not be borne by the farmers themselves, as many were protected by crop insurance.

The hailstorm which swept Ontario's big tobacco-growing district yesterday, was the fourth this season. Crops on more than 100 farms were damaged as the freak storm streaked across a three miles wide area from the north-west border of the county through the heavy area surrounding Windham Centre.

Walter Clark, manager of Windham Plantations placed the company's loss on its 15 farms at $100,000. McIvor Brothers, a mile north of Windham Centre, reported complete loss. Another grower had 54 acres wiped out. Between 1,500 and 1,800 acres in all were hit.

While in most cases growth of the plants was ruined, some of the hail-riddled tobacco may be salvaged for poor grade. Growing tobacco at the present stage is valued up to $400 an acre.

Yesterday's storm lasted less than three-quarters of an hour, but hail fell in such quantities that farmers scooper it up in bucketfuls.

A tragic-comic touch was provided by the story of an insurance salesman who was visiting a farm in the affected area, trying to sell the grower a hail policy. The storm broke while he was pushing his sales talk. The grower suffered a complete loss on his crop.

Two Days' Hail Ruins Wheat

CALGARY, July 21—(CP).—For the second time in three days hailstorms spread crop destruction across a wide area in Central Alberta, it was reported yesterday.

Striking Thursday evening, the storm stretched from Olds, 60 miles north of Calgary, to 18 miles east of Chestermere, a few miles northwest of here.

Lashed by high winds, the storms brought disaster to the farmers in some of the finest crop districts in the province.

Rolling in from the northwest the storm clouds passed directly over the town of Olds. The stones were not large, but, lashed by the high winds, they caused damage up to 100 per cent. and in some places covered a strip ten miles wide. The territory missed by the Sunday night blast was badly damaged.

Didsbury suffered the same fate as its northerly neighbor. The heavy hail and rain touched only a part of the town, then jumped eight miles east, where fields were mowed down. Farmers estimated damage from 25 to 100 per cent.

Airdrie reported 50 to 90 per cent. of the standing crop cut down by hail, which covered a strip three miles wide to the east of the town.

Frank Fulton of Fulton Farms, in the Chestermere district, saw his 4,000 acres of fine wheat crop wiped out. "And I figured on taking 100,000 bushels of wheat off this year," he said.

Oshawa Cadi Rules Girl Was Abducted

OSHAWA, July 21.—Found guilty of taking a 15-year-old girl from her home on July 11 without her parents' consent, Tony White, 23, Brantford, was found guilty and was remanded in custody until Friday for sentence by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs.

White was arrested in Brantford after a police chase in which a shot was fired. Evidence for the defense showed the couple were supposed to be accompanied on the trip by the girl's sister, who was to meet them in Toronto.

The young girl, whom White is charged with abducting, stated that she had stayed with the accused's sister and he had stayed with his parents. She could give no reason why they had tried to escape police.

Ten thousand telephones were cut off during the recent gales in England.

Rowe, W. H. Ireland

"I know we lost an election, but we saved a party," he said.

The National Convention at Ottawa resulted in new and able leadership and the adoption of sound and stable policies, policies designed to promote a strong central government in Canada and closer co-operation in the British Empire, Mr. Rowe said.

"I may perhaps be justified in saying I am holding too much responsibility," he added. "I have somewhat of a dual position, membership in the National Parliament and leadership in the Provincial arena.

"It is time for me to make a statement as to which field I feel I am best fitted to serve."

New Provincial Policy?

He was aware the time had arrived when in the interests of Canada provincial policies should be so fashioned as not to run counter to national interests.

Mr. Rowe said he also had domestic responsibilities. In his many years spent in public life he had been able to give too little attention to his home and his growing family.

"I have decided to give to your Association my resignation as leader of the Conservative party in Ontario, to take effect at such time as the party may be convened to select my successor."

He promised continued loyal service to the party, both federally and provincially, under whatever leaders might be selected. He was confident a man could be selected who "would not betray the principles of this party in Ontario."

"We stand as the only united party in Canada," he asserted. "We stand as the only part that is not ashamed to say we are for the unity and co-operation of the British Empire."

Speaking after the retiring leader, Mr. Ireland said: "Earl Rowe stood for everything good in Conservatism. He didn't take the short cut to power and sell the party down the river."

Mr. Ireland said he was sure only one person at the meeting would welcome Mr. Rowe's retirement and that was Mrs. Rowe."

No Steamroller

George O'Meara, Kirkland Lake, member of the constitution committee, declared his opposition to "any steamroller from Toronto or elsewhere."

Beverley Matthews, Toronto, said the change to restrict voting to delegates was intended to end permanently all charges that Toronto was trying to run the show.

Edra Saunders, St. Thomas, predicted Toronto people would probably oppose the suggestion because it deprived them of their traditional control.

"Mr. Matthews, a lawyer who can see the situation..." she began.

"To many lawyers!" shouted a member, amid laughter. Miss Saunders admitted she too was a lawyer.

Karl Homuth, Kitchener, said he was not afraid of domination by Toronto. If those outside Toronto could not all attend a convention here, the convention should be taken to them by holding it in other cities in rotation."

R. C. Wood, Toronto was booed when he said the leader "who has just sung his swan song was put into office by a packed convention."

Shouts of "shame" broke out and continued until Mr. Wood could not continue. "Throw him out," was the cry from one section of the room. Mr. Wood withdrew his remark.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 21 (CP).—July A short-lived spectacular flurry saved the Winnipeg Market to-day from a repetition of the drab sessions that have marked the past three weeks. The close found prices 1⅛ to 1¼ higher, with July at $1.01½, October77⅝, November 77¼c and December 76 to 76½c.

Attributed to private bullish reports of lack of moisture and rust development in Western Canada, the mid-session spurt shot July up three cents at high points, and helped the deferred months post two cent gains.

Cash wheat was again featured by fair demand for durums, with No. 1 up a cent and Nos. 2 and 3 spreads generally unchanged.

Hurt In Fall Off Car

BELLE EWART, Ont., July 21 (C.P.). — Thrown into a ditch from the running board of a motor car, Marion Stein, Toronto, suffered a depressed fracture of the skull yesterday.

Police said the girl los ther shoe, then her grip, and was catapulted to the ditch.

Every Day Is Somebody's Birthday

HAVE you goods in your store that would make appropriate birthday gifts? Then take space in your daily newspaper from time to time to tell the public about them. Get people to think of your store as the place to come to for birthday suggestions and gifts. Husbands, wives, fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters are generally willing to pay a little extra for birthday presents—and, this market is well worth cultivating with warm, bright, "human" advertisements.

This advertisement was prepared for the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association by the James Fisher Company, Limited.

Englishmen Buy Jugoslav Wives

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, July 21.—Three adventurous young Englishmen, said to be the sons of wealthy citizens of Chelmsford, county seat of Essex, have caused a sensation in Jugoslavia by purchasing brides at the marriage market of Ostruga, in Macedonia, in the southern part of the country, marrying them and taking them back to England. The newspapers, which have given much space to the incident, have not revealed the names of the bridegrooms.

Buying a wife at Ostruga is nothing extraordinary in itself, and they can be had for $100 or less at the traditional brides' market, held at regular intervals. The girls are content if they find a husband with a little money, and the parents see no harm in demanding a "fair" price for supplying good wives, whose raising and trousseaux have cost them so many Jugoslav dinars. Professional matchmakers see to it that the transactions are carried out on a reasonable basis.

Appear As Suitors.

But this was the first time that English tourists in a private automobile had appeared on the scene as suitors. Sosta Stankovich, who has a reputation to lose, was their matchmaker, and when the assembled parents saw that the foreigners were serious, prices went up considerably. The most beautiful girl on the market, Miliza Radoslavcevich, brought a price of 15,000 dinars (almost $400).

The weddings took place in the local Orthodox church, a few hours after the market was over. Then followed the usual festivities, with plenty of strong liquor.

The next morning the three Englishmen, who had much difficulty making themselves understood by anybody but the matchmaker, took their brides to Zagreb, whence they plan to motor home.

As Eire Took Over the Defences Of Cork

Eamon de Valera, Prime Minister of Eire, is shown passing the guard of honor, BOTTOM, after landing on Spike Island to hoist the flag of Eire over the harbor defences of Cork, which Eire now garrisons under an agreement negotiated with England last April. The occasion of the Irish troops taking over the island marked the first time in history that British and Eireann soldiers were together. Soldiers of the two forces are shown, RIGHT, chatting outside the gate of the old fortress of Spike Island. Prime Minister de Valera hoists the green-white-and-gold flag of Eire over the fortress, LEFT, as British soldiers evacuated the island garrison.

Ontario's Potato Crop To Grade Higher

TORONTO, July 21—(CP).—Due to a concerted campaign by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, the quality of Ontario's potato crop this year will be substantially higher than in recent years and much better than last year's poor crop, W. R. Reek, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, said to-day.

Potato growers throughout the province have co-operated wholeheartedly with the Department in steps to bring up the grade of their crops, he said. Potatoes equal to the standard of those brought in from the Maritime provinces will be available in carload lots.

One reason in the past for the superiority of Maritime potatoes over the average Ontario potatoes—but not over all Ontario potatoes—was that 60 per cent of the seed used in the Maritimes was certified while less than one per cent in Ontario was certified, Mr. Reek explained.

Another was that enforcement of grading regulataions was easier in the Maritimes, with practically all shipments out of the area being made by train. With such a percentage of Ontario's crop moved to market by truck, enforcement of grade standards was difficult, if not often impossible.

Low prices on last year's comparatitvely poor Ontario crop were due to its lateness, which resulted in frost bite in many cases, leaving the potatoes dark when cooked. A disease not detectable on the surface of the potato also developed and reduced the crop's marketable value, Mr. Reek said.

Meeting of potato growers were held in the winter and early spring and the greater use of certified seed resulted. Frequent and proper spraying as a protection against several plant diseases was urged. Earlier maturing varieties were recommended to avoid danger of frostbite. Proper fertilizing was also suggested as a nessential factor by the Department.

Pilots At Cent-a-Pound Seek New Ship To Give Corrigan

Oklahoma City, July 21.

ALMOST A TON of pilots contributed a penny a pound today toward purchase of a new airplane for Douglas G. "Nonstop" Corrigan, James Brazell, the nation's oldest pilot, stepped on the scales and contributed $1.95, which other pilots increased to $19.97. Commented Clyde Nuckols, airport manager, "there are a lot of big fellows in this flying game—if it keeps going tomorrow as it has today, perhaps we can mail him a plane to come home in."

Kennys Plan Tour Selling Cut-Outs

TORONTO, July 21—(CP).—The Martin Kennys, most celebrated of stork derby families in spite of the fact they lost, announced plans today for a cross-country tour by motor car on which they will sell cut-out caricatures of Charles Vance Millar, Mr. Justice J. A. Middleton and other noted figures.

The Kennys won a consolation prize of $12,500, put up by the four Toronto mothers who shared the $500,000 estate left by Millar to the mother registering the largest number of births in the 10 years following his death.

"We'll all go along, the whole family," Kenny said. "The children will be educated as they travel. We'll travel in a car with all the stuff and Charlie Millar will always be with us."

By "the whole family" Kenny was taken to mean himself, Mrs. Kenny and about 10 children. He wasn't quite certain on that point. In addition to cut-outs of Millar and Ontario Supreme Court Justice who decided the stork winners, home-made models of the old Toronto city hall, Millar's birthplace and a regiment of cut-out soldiers called the "Charlie Millar Band" will be sold.

It seems two promoters convinced the Kennys such a tour would be a "colossal" success. Mrs. Kenny said they intended crossing the country to Vancouver, then cutting down into United States and finally reaching New York in time for the 1939 world fair.

Curing Hernia By Injection Method

When the injection method for treating hernia—rupture—was first put forward it so happened that the solution used to harden the tissues was not always safe and reliable and the results in some cases were so poor that most surgeons decided not to use this method. During the past few years the various solutions used have been found to be trustworthy and many thousands of cases have been treated successfully by the injection method.

There are some surgeons who still refuse to use any method but surgery because they still feel uncertain about the results of this method. This may seem unfair because a surgeon knowing and working so often on the structures involved in a rupture should be more expert than the family physician in using the injection method.

The injection method is now recognized and endorsed by pension and compensation boards because the results obtained in most cases 'suitable' for this method are very satisfactory. It is unfortunate, however, that only about fifteen per cent.—one case in every six or seven—is considered suitable for the injections; the great majority of hernias still require the surgical operation, for satisfactory results.

What should be remembered by those who dislike or fear operation but whose case is not suitable for injection is that, although an operation does mean cutting, they go into hospital in good physical condition, at their own choice of time, no pus condition present or emergency of any kind, and so far as operation is concerned, it is practically free from danger.

When we think of the many advantages of the injection method, patients cannot be blamed for preferring it to operation. Dr. Paul T. Butler, Orlando, Florida, in the American Journal of Surgery, states that the injection method is practically free from danger, and not at all confining, the patient being able to walk about; the individual is not required to stop work. The first need in the injection treatment is comfortable, well-fitting truss that will keep the hernia in place under all conditions—walking, resting, working — while the treatment is in progress, that is between treatments.

The patient remains on the table for fifteen minutes after the injection, and then reapplies his truss. Treatments are given two or three days apart.

He Made a Mistake

NEW YORK, July 21—(AP). — Carmello Malaspina, 33, mistakenly thought he would need a passport to go to Cuba. He walked into police headquarters and asked that his finger-prints be taken for his passport application. Police, suspicious because his finger-tips had been burned with acid, checked his prints and found he was wanted in the fatal beating of Hans Bloom in front of a Brooklyn bar in 1935.

Malaspina went to jail, instead of to Cuba.

$6,000,000 Fire

Here is a view of the roaring fire at the $15,000,000 Sinclair Oil Co. refinery at Wellsville, N.Y., where at least three persons were killed and 50 others slightly injured when one of 13 storage tanks blew up and arched 200 feet across the Genesee river and fell into a group of spectators. Damage was estimated at $6,000,000.

Libby's DEEP-BROWNED BEANS

TRY Libby's Deep-Browned Beans Cooked the NEW Way

You don't have to force children to eat Libby's Deep-Browned Beans. They go for them in a big way without any prompting from anyone, and ask for them again and again. They may not know why they like them so much, but the reason is—Libby's New Cooking Method!

By this new method of cooking—patented by Libby—every bean is browned through to the very centre to perfection—not overdone, not underdone, but just right, no rush, no hurry, every bean must be "just so".

Here comes your plate! Sniff that aroma—tantalizing! Look at the colour—a richer, deeper, warmer brown that plays tag with your appetite. Now taste them! Notice the firmer, yet tender texture—that baked-potato mealiness. And the flavour! That's real down-home baked bean goodness, isn't it? Well—if you don't say it is Libby will pay you double the purchase price.

Serve Libby's Deep-Browned Beans often. It's good nourishing food for children and grown-ups alike. Easy to serve and economical, too.

Where The Trouble Began

Since the conclusion of the Conservative convention at Ottawa there has been plenty written regarding the stand taken by Hon. Dr. Manion on the railway situation. He was plainly against amalgamation of our two roads, and yet when he wrote his belief a few years ago he stated it was not possible to continue as we were doing then, which is about the same as we are doing now—facing deficits.

There has also been criticism of the Senate investigation. Plenty of it. The belief seems to be that the Senate should have made a report, but if the Senate had made a report would that report have settled the question? The answer to that is in one word—no.

It does seem that all the critics either with or without intention to do so miss the one point in the whole business on which everything else swings—and that is the bad investment which previous governments made when they were bringing the present C.N.R. into existence as a government-owned road.

In years past our government, under the stress of world war conditions and under the belief that transportation had to be maintained acted as a veritable Santa Claus to holders of bonds which should have been worth next to nothing at all because the properties represented by those bonds was in exactly that class. The bonds for the most part represented defunct railways, some of them railways which had been built to secure the government assistance then offered. They were not railways which represented the work and skill of trained men, built on the sound basis of tapping and serving revenue-producing territory.

When those roads were taken over by the government because they could not longer operate themselves the people of this country were handed a bad bargain and it is this bad bargain which is at the bottom of what we call our railway problem today. We guaranteed bonds in which there was little of actual railroad value.

We can discuss plans for amalgamation, for close co-operation in management or any other system of control, but not one such plan closes in on the plain fact that we are living with and paying for a bad bargain.

The Farmer Starts It

If one has any doubt regarding the value of agriculture in this country it is well to consider just a few of the things which are taking place in Western Canada today. There are people working today who have had nothing to do since the drought year, and they are not farmers. They are working in anticipation of the crops which it is expected the farmers are going to have although the farmers themselves have as yet received nothing.

There are 5,678 elevators in the Prairie provinces, 701 in Manitoba, 3,221 in Saskatchewan and 1,756 in Alberta, and hundreds of these have been closed for years because there is no call for elevator service when there are no crops.

Today there are men working on the elevators getting them in condition; There is a great deal of repair and replacement effort required. It is reported there will be $3,000,000 spent in this way and 7,000 men are being put to work with a payroll worth about $650,000 a month. So that seems to be proof enough that when things start to look a little better for the farmer he brings a number of people into activity which they would not otherwise experience.

The Word "Aryan"

A reader of the Examiner forwarded this note: "I notice many times in reports from Germany particularly the word Aryan and it is often used in reports of activities which are directed against the Jewish people who are referred to as non-Aryan. The process of ridding Germany of Jews is referred to as one of Aryanization. Could you tell me what the word actually means and how broad is its application."

The origin of the word Aryan does not appear to be distinct, although it has been in use for a long time but has been brought more to the front since the campaign of Hitler against the Jewish folk in Germany. It may have come from the Sanskrit ayra, meaning noble.

One delineation of the word which seems reliable gives this:

Aryan: (1) One of the Asiatic or Eastern divisions of the Indo-European family, inhabiting Persia and India, between the Bay of Bengal and Mesopotamia.

(2) In a more modern sense a member of the European section of the human family called Indo-European which embraces as its eastern section the Persians and Hindus.

(3) One of that primitive people of Central Asia whose emigrants formed the stock of the Hindus, Persians, Greeks, Latins, Teutons, Celts, Slavonians, etc., or the races of the Indo-European family. Both the blonde and brunette divisions are included and the language of these people shows unmistakably their origin in a common tongue.

The practical application of the word as used today from Berlin in seeking to "Aryanize" the nation means the driving out of the Jewish portion of the population and they are often referred to as non-Aryan. It denotes a people who centuries ago spread from the east toward Europe, the forefathers of the Teuton race. The Teutons were one of the ancient German tribes conquered by the Romans under Marius in B.C. 100, and the designation was ultimately applied to the Germanic people of Europe generally. The word Aryan is much older than Teuton.

An Obstacle In The Way

The International Labor Conference at Geneva is likely to bring forth nothing at all. The one question on which it appeared there might be concerted action was the 40-hour week. Geneva may seem to be a long way off from a good many nations, but what is done there has a close bearing on what can or cannot be done the world over.

United States for instance is basing its plans on a 40-hour week with government-adjusted wages. But United States must have consumers at home and consumers elsewhere to purchase all the things it can make, and for that reason it has to be able to manufacture at a price where it stands a fair chance of competing with other nations in world markets.

Germany is a nation of skilled people and the people there are working from 60 to 72 hours a week, and production would be much greater and cheaper in such a week than it would be in a 40-hour week in United States where higher wages are paid.

Japan is a nation which has lived on exports and hours of labor and ages of workers have not been regulated there, nor will they be.

That means trouble for the serious task of regulating hours of work because it produces a situation where millions of people in the long-hour countries are making goods to compete with the millions of people working in the short-hour countries, and unfortunately it is a fact that the price at which goods are sold is too often the deciding factor in determining a sale.

He Gave The Answer

A judge or magistrate will in the course of years hear many plausible excuses advanced as to why certain things were done, and a case which came before Magistrate Makins at Goderich was no exception. The officers had raided a hotel in the district where it was found that beer was being sold on Sunday. The result was a fine of $25 and the authority to sell was revoked.

Arguing for the defendant in the case the lawyer submitted that the owner of the place had gone away to London over the weekend but had left instructions with his staff that nothing was to be sold out of hours. So it appeared that the offence was committed during the owner's absence and without his knowledge and against his orders.

What was the answer to all that? Simply this remark from the magistrate: "You should have locked the door and taken the key with you."

Seized Gambling Devices

Police in London, Ont., made a clean-up of the slot machine business and 17 persons appeared in magistrate's court charged with running "common gaming houses" and the fines totalled close to $1,000. In addition the police are in possession of 22 machines of all sorts worth between $5,000 and $10,000; they are of the slug and pin ball variety and at the end of one month they are to be destroyed. That means policemen with sledge hammers will operate on them.

The owners of the machines have one month in which to launch an appeal to save their equipment, but it is not considered likely this will be done. The magistrate gave it as his opinion that they were not coming in contact with the real owners of the machines but rather with those who had been operating them for the owners.

The strange part of this situation is that London should take such action under the authority of the Criminal Code while other municipalities do nothing about the same thing. These other places seem to regard the dollars which they can secure in license fees as being of greater importance than complying with the law. If a municipal by-law permitting such machines to operate and naming the fees to be charged were put to the test of a court trial it would not stand up.

The Hangman Is Sick

A report from Montreal says Arthur Ellis was taken to a hospital in that city, penniless and ill. He was found in a rooming house where police were informed a dying man needed attention.

Probably few people knew Arthur Ellis who was for years the unofficial hangman of the Dominion. A good many of the old-time newspaper men knew him in the days when reporters used to attend executions. Ellis was generally down in the assignment book of the office for an interview, and it was not much of a task to get a fair enough story from Ellis. He is a small man, slight and wiry, nervous and alert and on occasions had a good deal to say. He refused to look upon the position of hangman as one which an individual should hesitate about accepting. His theory always was that the hangman was merely a servant of the court and that he was actually doing a noble work by being able to carry out the execution as quickly and expeditiously as possible. We doubt whether he was ever able to convince any of the reporters that his view was correct even if it is difficult to show exactly where he was wrong.

To Arthur Ellis the hanging of a man was just part of a day's work. If he had any feeling of remorse for the condemned person he never allowed the feeling to come to the surface nor did it ever receive oral or facial expression.

Back To The Farm

The Earl of Egmont is returning to take up residence on his 437-acre farm near Calgary. He inherited an estate in England and the Earl and Countess of Egmont went to live in the ancestral home of 75 rooms, Avon Castle.

The Earl of Egmont explained there are 1,321 acres of land attached to the estate in Hampshire and it costs $10,000 per year to run the place. It is not over 100 miles from London so he believes he should be able to sell it. The farm out in Western Canada is sufficient for him.

There are people undoubtedly who have a sort of longing that they would be pleased enough to inherit a castle with the broad acres which generally go with such places, but as a rule the change would work no benefit nor would it bring satisfaction. People who had been living on a large farm in the Canadian West would be busy; they might have people to help them, but a great deal of the work they would do themselves on the farm or in the house.

Take a couple like that and give them titles and then place them in a castle of 75 rooms and what have you? The answer is easy—you have people unfamiliar with the surroundings, out of their element, unaccustomed to their new method of existence. Instead of being able to readily adjust themselves to new conditions they would keep on being miserable and longing for the home they had before. Just how the folk will get along with their title on their Western farm we do not know, but settling down there will be the best thing for them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mr. Hepburn's name does not appear on the prospectus of the new Dominion housing legislation.

If folk ever learn to drive cars sensibly courts, lawyers and police will have more leisure time.

Unfortunately for Mr. Hepburn, a gentleman named Corrigan has managed to steal most of the thunder so far as flying stunts are concerned.

When Toronto papers start publishing ghost stories from rural Ontario it is a reasonable conclusion that the dog days are here.

Canada's rancher-earl finds a 75-roomed castle a trifle costly to maintain. No wonder he prefers his little grey home in the west.

A Toronto rector makes his home in the church. In some cases of course it is the congregation that does the sleeping in the church.

One institution that does not find business too bad these days is the tax collecting department of the city. The first instalment of this year's taxes is better than last year.

John Rogers of Vancouver was supposed to have been buried in France and it took six years for him to correct the error. And he is but one of quite a number who had similar experience.

A horse which draws a bread wagon in Peterborough gets a drink of pop from a bottle held by a young lady, and will accept it from no person else. That's what they mean by using that phrase about horse sense.

HE STARTED IT

(By A. R. K.)

¶ John Henry paid his tailor bill, ten dollars in the tailor's till, he'd done a goodly deed; the ten spot was not there to stay, nor was it soaked in brine away, nor did it go to seed.

¶ The tailor ambled down the street, and there the butcher man he'd meet, it was a scant two blocks; some weeks he'd owed the butcher man, who trusted him for steak and ham, for liver and for hocks.

¶ The butcher man had bills to pay, his horse was needing oats and hay, his wagon needed grease; the feed store man then got the ten, he walked with other happy men, and felt a touch of peace.

¶ The feed store man alike arose, he bought his son a suit of clothes, and paid it on the spot; the ten-spot helped to pay his clerk, a cheerful chap and good to work, who owned a house and lot.

¶ The next day on he bought some paint, in color schemes subdued and quaint, he caused his place to glow; folk heard of it and by they came, decided that they'd do the same, six houses in a row.

¶ John Henry, though, he never knew, what paying up his bill would do, what happened and just how; he knew not where his ten-spot went, of all the trips where it was sent—and so we tell him now.

Problem of The Wealthy Child

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

COUNT HAUGWITZ-REVENTLOW made what seemed a curious point against his wife, formerly Barbara Hutton, having full possession and control of their little son, claiming that the environment of the luxurious home of the countess was not suitable to the boy's upbringing. There seemed to be a sinister implication in that statement as if it imputed wild parties and moral laxity, but he later made it clear that what he meant was that the boy would be surrounded with too much wealth. The count appears to have his head screwed on better than his wife has hers in showing his appreciation of the fact that too much money with no control over the outpouring of it on a boy during his formative years is likely to be injurious to his character. However, the countess made the child a ward in Chancery, not for that reason, however, but so that the count can not get him into his own hands.

The Lord Chancellor is "Iolanthe" found it an agreeable duty to give away young and pretty wards in marriage. Young Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow is similarly to become a ward. The Chancery Court will see to it that his education and training in being a gentleman are cared for without useless extravagance, and if before he is 21, when he will emerge from the shackles of being a ward, some gold-digging vamp tries to coax him into marriage the Lord Chancellor and his colleagues will shoo the huzzy off. If it is thought that too much money is being allowed him to spend or is being spent upon him in various ways the court will put a reasonable limit on it.

The position of a ward in chancery may seem to impose restrictions on a free citizen, but it is a very valuable provision in the case of minors who might have too much money lavished upon them, or who might run into debt on the strength of their expectations. A great many young people who have had their lives spoiled in that way would have been happier and more useful citizens if they had been put in Chancery in their early days—the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow for one.

The British Chancery Court is a very ancient institution which grew around the person of the Lord Chancellor himself. It developed many legal complications until the law was clarified about sixty years ago and now consists of a group of judges over which the Master of the Rolls and not the Lord Chancellor presides. Ontario has its equivalent in the legislation which made the Dionne quintuplets wards of the Government—theoretically wards of the King—until they are 18 years of age. In view of the events which have cropped up it will be generally agreed that the enactment is a very wise one.

MISSING THE BRIDGE.

(W. L. Clark in Windsor Star)

DOWN AT Niagara Falls the people are hoping that work will soon be started on the new bridge. They are feeling the loss of the "Honeymoon Bridge" which was carried out by the ice this spring.

Evidently a lot of Americans have the ieda that there is no bridge across the Niagara River at the Falls. And, as they always wish to visit Canada when they make a trip to the spectacular cataract, they are waiting until they hear of the new bridge being ready for traffic.

These persons forget, or never knew, that there is a traffic bridge at Niagara Falls, although it is a little downstream from the actual Falls. There is also the Peace Bridge at Buffalo and another bridge at Queenston.

There are plenty of bridges, so that need not keep anyone away.

INTERVIEWED HUGHES.

(H. I. Phillips, in New York Sun)

Q.—What impressed you most on the trip around the world?

A.—The way those continents look when they're spinning.

Q.—It is true that when you fly the Atlantic at such speed it seems like a canal?

A.—Let's not exaggerate. The World's Fair publicity department will take care of that end.

Q.—What was the attitude of people in the various countries over which you passed?

A.—They seemed quite surprised that such a big plane could be flying over peaceful cities in such great haste with no desire to bomb noncombatants.

Q.—Were you at any time nervous?

A.—Yes. Several times I was afraid we were going so slow we could be seen by the naked eye.

Q. — One more question, Mr. Hughes. Do you think the airplane has come to stay?

A.—Yes, but not to STAY too long on any spot.

Q.—Thank you, Mr. Hughes, and remember your promise.

A.—What promise?

Q.—To let us know when you get ready for that trip twice around the world, upside down, non-stop.

GREAT ON FIGURES.

(New York Sun)

IN JANUARY President Roosevelt in his budget message estimated the deficit for the fiscal year 1939 at $949,000,000, the smallest since 1931. Yesterday he estimated the deficit at $3,984,000,000. In six months the master of economics and finance was "off" a little more than three billion dollars. Anybody guessing within a billion of the deficit figures of next January may claim a prize of one set of wax fireside equipment, autographed but not insured.

IT IS A CRIME

(Washington Post)

Oklahoma barber has been jailed for cutting hair for 25 cents, which rate is below the minimum prescribed by State law. Many claim the State is overstepping its jurisdiction, but some of us know that the way many a barber cuts hair for 25 cents can be classified as a crime.

• Gave An Erroneous Impression

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir: I wish to correct the erroneous impression conveyed by an advertisement in Tuesday's paper under the name J. H. Burnham.

On the surface there are several inaccuracies, my name is wrongly given, I did not use the words "saddle-riders"; they have no meaning for me. One of the sentences runs thus "After praising Catholics for their devotion" . . . . he said. This was the concluding note of my sermon, nothing followed it. The entire address was a defence of Protestantism against some popular criticisms. Mr. Burnham does not mention this, and gives the reader the idea that it was quite the opposite.

It is hardly fair for a man to take a few sentences in a sermon, quote them incorrectly strip them of their context, and give them to the public.

In his statement Mr. Burnham says that I denied the existence of hell, and said that General Booth did not preach it. I referred to the late General Wm. Booth not the present officer; this also escaped him.

I was replying here to the popular criticism that Potestants "change their faith evey day" and contending that it was exaggerated, and therefore not true. I used as an allustration the doctrine of a future life, and said that though we did not emphasise a material hell as our fathers did, yet we believed in the terrible reality of a lost soul.

I heard General Booth preach on the subject once; his entire sermon showed that people may be lost. He did not preach a material hell, he spoke of something far more awful, the agony of remorse over wasted opportunities and a misspent life.

There is little use in newspaper controversy, especially if it is colored by any element of bitterness. I assure Mr. Burnham there is none on my side. Thanking you Mr. Editor for the amount of space you allow to the cause of religion.

I am Yours Sincerely,
E. W. YOUNG.

• When Spain Was Not A Madhouse

(New York World-Telegram)

LONG BEFORE ANYONE thought of the mysterious catchwords, "isms" cryptic symbols and salutes that now order the lives and deaths of so many anonymous Spanish millions, Spain was Spain.

And to those nameless millions Spain meant not some bloody proving ground.

It meant, perhaps, a peasant plodding behind a tasseled mule through the dazzling sun, and singing old, wonderful songs, and grapes, jade colored, sweetening in the bright daylight; and dry, shuffled road dust, cool and restful under-foot in the shade of a lemon tree, but stretch-hot and shimmering, in a path over the red baked hills, perhaps over the border to towered, fabled Carcassonne.

It meant rich, fragile music on heirloom guitars, and glorious buildings made so long ago that the eyes of many generations were used to them; and streets paved with stones that the very makers of those old buildings had helped wear smooth.

The other day it was reported that many rebel Spaniards had suddenly revolted against the strategy of the visiting war experts from Germany and Italy, which is to bomb loyalist held towns until those towns are flat.

Maybe they remembered when Spain was Spain, and not a mad place; remembered the day they wandered through the Alhambra with a friend now fighting on the other side, and later sat with him, and joked, and had a glass of wine, and listened to the shrill wooden horns of the street musicians.

Maybe they saw that if the visitors' strategy persists there will be no beauty left; no place to go, some day, to rest one's eyes from the welts of war.

Or maybe they dreamed of the inevitable time when (as heavy creditors) the visiting war experts will roar away in their planes and tanks, and exhausted, patched-up Spanish warriors will stumble wonderingly through their own land that they wricked with their own hands . . . Maybe those revolting Spaniards saw suddenly that Spain and all the world should be a place to live and not a place to die.

• So They Took the Case to Court

GODERICH, — THERE WAS no wager, and the stake hoder, Davey McConnell, of Dublin, was ordered to pay to Danny Shanahan, Seaforth, the $5 the latter had bet four years ago with a fellow Irishman as to whether former Premier Drury paid his Cabinet ministers more than does Premier Hepburn, or vice versa, Judge Costello, also an Irishman, ruled in a division court judgment handed down.

Some time after the wager was made in 1934, it was decided to call it off, the question on Cabinet ministers' salaries never being satisfactorily answered, but when it came time for McConnell to pay Shanahan back his $5, he remembered that Shanahan owed him $5 for a wagon tongue made 30 years ago, so he retained the money to satisfy the debt. Shanahan entered suit.

Deciding there was no wager, because it was never determined, Judge Costello took the case out of the provisions of the Gaming Act. He held that Shanahan's debt, if it was debt, was outlawed.

And besides, Shanahan testified, McConnell's wagon tongue was never any good, it being possible to use it only on level roads, and not on hills, there being no universal socket joint where it entered the front axle.

"Going up hill the tongue point dug into the ground, and going down hill it almost lifted the horses off their feet, and that's why I never pa id for it," Shanahan explained.

A WHITE ELEPHANT.

(London cor. Ottawa Journal)

THIS FOOD PROBLEM explains the mystery of Madrid. There is little doubt Franco could, if he desired have taken Madrid long ago. Equally there is every reason to believe the Republicans would quite cheerfully see him do so.

Madrid is the white elephant of the civil war, involving whoever holds it in the embarrassing necessity of feeding about two million useless civilians. The merchant vessels employed in blockade running resemble the old horses used in Spanish bull fights. They are mostly scrap-iron tonnage, bought dirt cheap, tinkered up, and run under our flag by profiteers who are usually Levantine gamblers. Crews receive treble wages whilst inside Spanish waters, but only the skippers and perhaps a mate are British in most cases. Two successful trips will more than recoup the total cost of the vessel.

Air frightfulness has not at all demoralized the population, and our authorities could learn a lot by studying the expedients adopted in Spain.

DID WHAT HE COULD.

(Editor and Publisher)

STAFF MOVIE critic, radio editor and columnist Will Baltin of the New Brunswick (N. J.) Daily Home News greeted a local barrister, Louis A. Mezey, near his office at 4:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon June 29.

"Any items for the column?" Baltin asked the lawyer.

"No, things are pretty quiet today," Mezey replied.

"That's the trouble," the scribe returned. "Things are too darn quiet. What we need is a murder case to create some excitement."

Mezey chuckled. "I'll see what I can do for you," he joked as he walked away.

Less than three-quarters-of-an hour later Albert Goldstein shot and killed his wife, Lee Diamond Goldstein, as she sat discussing a divorce in the office of Attorney Mezey.

SALT CURBS HEAT.

(Brandon Sun)

IN BRITAIN where the heat is not so intense but the climate is more humid salt preparations are often taken by manual workers to prevent summer fatigue. It has been years since U. S. steel mills and other industries learned to avert heat-stroke among their workmen by putting salt capsules within reach so they should eat salt and get thirsty and drink plenty of water. Now the same trick is being adopted at Bellevue hospital, New York, by Dr. Karl A. Bowman, director of the division of psychiatry, who believes that all markedly disturbed patients including alcoholic are suffering from dehydration, so he forces them to take salt capsules and orange juice.

(Detroit Free Press)

A CORRESPONDENT takes sharp issue with a silly statement by swastika-worshiping Fritz Kuhn that "it wasn't Jews who built up this Country; they came later when there was something to grab."

Everybody knows that no one nationality, no one race built up America, but that many nationalities and races contributed to the making of what today is the United States.

And everybody with even a cursory knowledge of American history knows that Jews did their share along with other people.

On the other hand it is perfectly evident that fascism as represented by the Nazi contingent is today contributing nothing to the effort of the people of the United States to preserve and enlarge what has been handed down by their fathers. Rather they represent what in the eyes of the Founders was hostile and detestable.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

(From the Authorized Version)

Now when he was in Jerusalem at the passover, in the feast day, many believed in his name, when they saw the miracles which he did. . . .

After these things came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judaea; and there he tarried with them, and baptized. . . .

Then there arose a question between some of John's disciples and the Jews about purifying. And they came unto John, and said unto him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou barest witness, behold, the same baptizeth, and all men come to him.

John answered and said, A man can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven. . . .

He that cometh from above is above all: he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth: he that cometh from heaven is above all. . . . He that hath received his testimony hath set to his seal that God is true.—John ii, 23; iii, 22, 25-27, 31, 33.

A Bit of Nonsense

BETWEEN THE SHRIEKS

Spivvings was attending his first opera, and was puzzled.

"Is she singing in English?" he whispered to his neighbor.

"How do you expect me to tell?" demanded the old-timer. "She's a soprano."

POINT OF VIEW

Husband—I've told you before that it is economically unsound to spend your money before you get it.

Wife—I don't know.—If you don't get it—at least you've got something for your money.

Couple Killed, Five Hurt As Cars Meet

KINGSTON, Ont., July 21 (CP)—The five persons injured in last night's highway collision at the Barrifield cut in which Mr. and Mrs. Allan Reid were killed were all expected to recover, authorities at the General Hospital said today.

J. Elmer Burns of Brockville, Ont., who suffered a compound fracture of the right leg, was reported progressing satisfactorily. Miss Vera Bigford, Brockville, a nurse at the Ontario Hospital, was similarly reported. The other three, who suffered only minor injuries, were well on the way to recovery.

Coroner Dr. P. A. McLeod said today the date of the inquest would not be set until the injured had recovered sufficiently to attend.

Police were at a loss to determine cause of the accident which occurred on the Barriefield cut, a mile east of here. Although the grade is steep at the point, visibility is good.

The Reid car was practically demolished in the crash and Reid died instantly. Mrs. Reid died within a few minutes.

Quints' Guardians Plan Dream House

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 21. — (CP) Guardians of the Dionne Quintuplets went into conference here today with Ontario Government officials, presumably to discuss plans for the projected "Dream House" of the Dionne family and to deal with education of the Quints.

Percy D. Wilson, official guardian, met with Attorney-General Gordon Conant, Public Works Minister Colin A. Campbell, Dr. Duncan McArthur, Deputy Minister of Education, and the guardians, Oliva Dionne, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe and Judge J. A. Valin.

The conferees declined to say what they planned to talk about but it was understood the subject of a house for the entire Dionne family, including the quints, would come up. The guardians announced several weeks ago they hoped to go ahead with plans for the house.

Labor For Defence

LONDON, July 21—(CP Cable). —The Labor Party to-day issued a statement announcing its decision not to vote against the government's defence estimates when they come up for consideration next week.

The statement said Opposition had already been expressed to the expansion program and "it has been decided no useful purpose could be served by voting against the estimates as a whole when they are put through without debate."

Chinese Give Japs Shell For Shell

SHANGHAI, July 21 — (AP). — Chinese resistance stiffened along a narrow fighting zone bordering the Yangtse River today as temperatures soared beyond 100 degrees.

Sweating Japanese troops tried hard but vainly to keep going their big push up the stream toward Hankow and to blast their way into Kiukiang, 135 miles below the temporary capital, but the defenders returned shell for shell despite the terrific heat.

Chinese newspapers reported the organization of a new fourth route army under the leadership of Hsiang Ying, one-time communist chieftain, was almost completed.

The new army was said to be designed for large-scale guerrilla activities in the Shanghai area, particularly against railroads and Japanese communication lines.

Chinese papers also reported the Japanese ordered the Japanese-dominated government of Shanghai to recruit 100,000 men for a "peace maintenance corps" following repeated terrorist acts against Japanese.

As a result a situation was created wherein Chinese were afraid to leave their settlement for fear of being impressed into military duty or a labor corps.

Famed English Bones To Be Moved Again

LONDON, July 21 — (CP). — Remains of Highwayman Jack Sheppard, Courtesan Nell Gwynn and many other persons famous or notorious in English history will be buried soon in a common grave near Bisley.

A great pile of bones from five vaults below St. Martin-in-the-Fields playground will be moved to Brookwood Cemetery and the vaults will be demolished.

Since they were buried in the 17th and 18th centuries the remains of many noted figures have been disturbed more than once. Originally some were buried in the churchyard, some in the church itself. Those in the church were moved at intervals to make room for others and were placed secretly into pits in the churchyard.

Later Duncannon street was built across the old churchyard. The bones were swept into a pile and stored in the vaults. In recent years development of the playground has necessitated demolition of some of the vaults. The bones were stuffed into the remaining vaults. During their wanderings they lost their identity.

However, the pile that will be taken to Brookwood is known to contain bones of other characters besides Sheppard and Charles II's mistress.

Miner Is Rescued Then Dies Of Shock

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., July 21 (CP).—Miner friends of John Greczac, and workers who participated in his rescue, today ascribed the death of the 35-year-old Polish mine rto shock from the ordeal of being sealed in an underground chamber far below the earth surface for more than seven hours.

Greczac died in hospital late yesterday, shortly after he was rescued from a chamber 2,000 feet down in the Lake Shore gold mine, where he had been trapped with another miner in a cave-in. Louis Zager, 33, was rescued an hour after a rock-fall blocked the mine shaft.

Zager was not injured when the rock fall occurred in No. 3 shaft, between the 2,200 and 2,300-foot level. Two miners working with Zager and Greczac escaped being shut off by the cave-in and sounded the alarm.

Greczac was able to converse with fellow miners, who worked feverishly to remove the huge pile of rock. But several hours after rescue operations had started he ceased talking and his rescuers believed it was either because he had collapsed or was seeking to conserve oxygen.

Greczac did not seem to be in serious condition when he was released. He was taken to hospital immediately. Born in Wronkow, Poland, he came to Canada 10 years ago and is survived by his widow, a bride of less than a year.

Don't Let Constipation Drag On!

Do you often have days when you wake up tired—when you feel dull, sunk, "all bogged down"? It's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble!

If you eat what most people do—just bread, meat, potatoes—chances are that just this fact is responsible: you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines that helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, what you need is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains "bulk" plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and see if your old sparkle doesn't come back! Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Beauty Is Found Study Hindrance

BERKELEY, Calif. —A test of 600 co-eds at the University of California has demonstrated that there is a tendency toward lesser intelligence when pulchritude is outstanding.

That is the finding of Dr. Samuel J. Holmes, outstanding authority in the realm of racial behaviour, and C. E. Hatch, his associate.

The two scientists refuse to admit that the result of their tests justifies the expression of "beautiful but dumb," but find rather that too much pulchritude has a tendency to draw the beautitful coed into too many other lines of distractions to enable her to make the most of her academic career.

The report shows that more beautiful co-eds fail to finish college than do their plainer sisters, with matrimony and social distractions luring them to other fields.

However, the two investigators were liberal minded enough to admit in their report that university degrees and grade points are not everything to be desired in life.

HOW TO MAKE ICED TEA

Infuse six heaping teaspoons of Salada Black Tea in a pint of fresh, boiling water. After six minutes strain liquid into two-quart container. While hot, add 1 to 1½ cups of granulated sugar and juice of 2 lemons, strained. Stir well until sugar is dissolved, fill container with cold water. Do not allow tea to cool before adding the cold water; otherwise liquid will become cloudy. Serve with chipped ice.

MR. JUSTICE KRUSCHEN IN THE HYGIENE COURT OF JUSTICE

"You have no right to be ill!"

All preventable illness is a crime—

a crime against yourself, your family and your race. Listen. There would be far, far less illness and pain in this world if people troubled to keep themselves clean and regular inside. Colds, headaches and rheumatic pain would get the battle of their lives. Good health and abundant energy would be more the order of the day.

Here is one reliable step to internal cleanliness—the little daily dose of Kruschen Salts, less than one cent's worth a day—and in a civilized age it's everyone's duty to take that step.

KRUSCHEN SALTS

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

New Home For First Offenders Outside Vancouver

The new home for first offenders between the ages of 18 and 25 just outside Vancouver's city limit is shown, LEFT. Here the boys, who are known as "students," work and play unguarded. The youth in the CENTRE is the egg expert and is in charge of the school's flock of chickens. Milking time at British Columbia's Borstal home is depicted RIGHT.

Borstal Plan Is Proving Highly Successful For First Offenders In B.C.

Inmates On Honor System Work and Play Without Armed Supervision

By JOHN B. TOMPKINS
Central Press Canadian Writer

VANCOUVER, July 19. — A jail without guards; a prison without walls. Such is British Columbia's newest institution for first offenders, opened recently by Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer. It is a scheme born in the fertile mind of a hardy Scot prison guard: a plan for correction whose daily successes are writing a new chapter in the history of Canadian juvenile detention.

Patterned after England's far-famed Borstal Institutions, the operation of the new "home" and its subsequent impression on the minds of its young inmates is proving so successful that already the provincial government, through the attorney-general's department, plans to establish additional "homes" immediately. As an advisory committee of representative Vancouver citizens find jobs and give "after care" to graduates, authorities look forward to the day when a string of unprisonlike prisons will stretch across Canada.

Though British Columbia's new training plan for young lawbreakers is not a definite copy of England's, its advantages have been borrowed and adapted to the temperaments of young Canadians, say authorities. Or, in the words of Angus McLeod, ex-prison guard, superintendent at the home, "The English Borstal system depends upon a sort of military discipline for its success. We depend upon honor and decency... building up courage and self-respect to cure crime."

No Attempt To Escape

No better proof of his statement can be found than the home's record from the time of its inception to this date. Not one of the present twenty-five young inmates have attempted to escape beyond its unwatched borders. On no occasion has it been necessary for authorities to enforce rigid discipline. And still more satisfying to the leaders of the movement, several discharged youths have returned voluntarily to the "home" to acquaint Superintendent "Mac" with the advantages of their new positions, obtained through the advisory committee, and their renewed good standing in the community.

One bleak morning last December the Honorable G. S. Wismer addressed twenty boys in the chapel of Oakalla Prison. All were first-offenders; youths ranging from sixteen years and up who through circumstances or the lack of proper training, had violated the laws of their country.

They were being placed on their honor, they were informed. Outside trucks waited to transfer them to their new quarters...a large dilapidated home facing the Fraser River on Vancouver's Marine Drive.

Two days before Christmas twenty boys entered the home. From a dismal weed covered plot, surrounding grounds have now become terraced lawns. A time-worn house has been painted and repaired. Guided but not goaded or guarded, the boys are up at 6.30 each morning. At seven sharp they gather on the wide verandah for their "morning set-up" followed at 7.30 by a hearty breakfast.

At eight the day's work begins... but not before a member of the group leads them in prayers. This morning service was instituted at the request of the youth, it is claimed, and is a point upon which supporters of the new plan gain recognition for their claim that basically all such youths are good citizens if given the proper chance.

Eight hours each day the boys work with working instructors, with an afternoon off each week for various sports. Evenings are devoted to instructions in manual training, metal work, mechanics or reading.

Morale Being Built

"The morale of these young fellows is being built up," says Attorney-General Wismer. "They have hours for recreation, are given educational facilities and in every way they are being trained to be good citizens and go straight when their terms are finished."

Records indicate that of the sixteen boys released since its opening, eight today have jobs; their progress being followed by Vancouver businessmen pledged to guide and counsel them when assistance is needed. A contact man is continually establishing connections with reputable employers and only in rare cases, it is claimed, do firms hesitate or dispute the good character of the reformed "first offenders."

Though only time can prove that British Columbia's first offenders who pass through the capable hand of Angus McLeod will not return to a life of crime, sponsors point out that according to Alex Paterson of the English Prison Commission, under whose jurisdiction are the overseas Borstal Institutes, seventy-five per cent. of all Borstal home inmates make good. In direct contrast, it is estimated that hitherto at least seventy-five per cent. of the first offenders in British Columbia return to prison on charges almost identical to their first conviction.

Segregated from Habitual Criminals

The fact is attributed not to their suspected inborn disrespect for authority, but rather to the lack of proper training and association. In B.C., as is the case throughout Canada and the United States, young men over sixteen must invariably be housed with habitual criminals.

Oakalla-guard Angus McLeod witnessed young minds gradually being poisoned by the callous view of regular visitors to the prison cells. Quickly they learned the workings of the "grapevine" communication system prevalent in all prisons; of methods of smuggling food, cigarettes and the like and in general participating in the working of underhanded methods that made up the everyday existence of those who live by their wits and the underworld.

McLeod approached Mrs. Paul Smith, M.L.A., with the suggestion that a home patterned after England's Borstal Institutes be established. Together they laid their plans before the attorney-general. Despite adverse criticism from some quarters—the wasting of funds, the pampering of criminals—the attorney-general decided to "take a long chance."

Plan To Enlarge Facilities

As this is written plans are being completed to enlarge the Vancouver home to accommodate fifty boys. Authorities anticipate the construction of individual cottages on the grounds for further expansion of both the home facilities and the assumption that young law breakers, expertly handled, need no prison guards.

Will the plan as instituted in British Columbia spread throughout Canada and make for the successes it has wrought on the first offenders of England?

"The chief difficulty is the lack of federal jurisdiction of Canadian short-term prisons," declares an authority. "Federal control of all first offenders between juvenile and twenty-three years of age would be sufficient to start the ball rolling for a national scheme. Failing that, the provinces can run their own separate institutions as British Columbia is now doing hers."

Farmer Nabbed For 2 Murders

EDMONTON, July 21—(CP). — Charged with the murder of two persons, Harry Shire, a farmer of the Two Hills district 70 miles east of here, was in custody to-day after he had been the object of police search since Friday.

Inspector P. H. Tucker of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said Shire was being taken to Vegreville and may be arraigned before a Magistrate to-day.

Shire had been sought since Friday when his seven-month-old son, Raymond, was found dead and four others seriously injured in his farm near Two Hills. The four injured were his wife, a niece, Florance Wasalasko, seven, a nephew, James Wasalasko, 10, and Peter Antoniuk, 18, brother of Mrs. Shire.

Florence Wasalasko died Monday from her injuries. Mrs. Shire's condition was still critical, but it was expected the two boys would recover.

Inspector Tucker said Shire had eaten a meal yesterday in a restaurant at Killam, 80 miles southeast of Edmonton and about 65 miles from Two Hills. The lady who runs the restaurant, a Mrs. Moreen, recognized Shire from police descriptions of him, the Inspector said, and telephoned to the R.C.M.P. detachment at Vegreville.

Brothers Go On Hiding Rather Than Separate

NEW YORK, July 21 — (AP). — Somewhere among Manhattan's towering canyons, two small brothers hid to-day—content to lead a hunted life together rather than a comfortable existence apart.

The fatherless boys, John Walinch, 15, and Richard, 11, went to live with their uncle, Vincent Minshevitch, after their mother was sent to a state hospital. When Minshevitch a few days ago advised he was unable to support them, their transfer to orphan asylums was arranged.

They appeared happy over the prospect of a new home until they learned yesterday they would be sent to separate institutions. They entered the Welfare Department's bus docilely, but at the first stop broke from it and ran.

Police still were seeking them today in a city-wide search.

Edmonton Next Stop For Hepburn Party

CALGARY, July 21—(CP).—The third leg of his holiday trip through western and northwestern Canada completed, Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario prepared today to set off for Edmonton, next port of call on his 8,000-mile flight.

With pilot Jimmie Towne at the controls of the big twin-motored Amphibian, and with J. P. Bickell, Toronto financier, and Bernard Smith, New York, as passengers, the party landed here last night after a three-hour trip from Regina.

After the stop at Edmonton, the party will strike up into the northern district toward Aklavik and Dawson City, into the gold rush district of '98 that Premier Hepburn says he wants to explore.

Setting out from Winnipeg yesterday morning, the party acted as a mercy flight as far as Regina, carrying with them 400 pounds of serum with which to fight the brain disease of horses, encephamlomyelitis, which had already claimed the lives of hundreds of farm animals in the district.

After having lunch with Premier W. J. Patterson of Saskatchewan and Hon J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, the party set out again for Calgary, which was reached after a trip which Premier Hepburn described as "uneventful."

Princess Helen, ex-wife of King Carol of Rumania, and her sister, Princess Irene of Greece, have adopted toeless shoes.

LOOK FOR THE GRADE MARK when you buy...

When ordering your beef, eggs, poultry, canned fruits and vegetables, and creamery butter, ask for the quality you want, by grade—then look for the grade mark on your purchase. When you buy by grade you buy with confidence.

BEEF

The Government grades of Beef are RED BRAND - BLUE BRAND

EGGS

The Government grades of Eggs are
(GRADE "A1") - GRADE "A" - GRADE "B" - GRADE "C"

GRADE A (three sizes: Large, Medium, Pullet), best quality, suitable for poaching, boiling, frying; GRADE B, good quality, slightly inferior to Grade A for poaching, boiling, frying, but entirely suitable for cooking purposes; GRADE C, lowest graded quality. (Grade A1, Large, Medium, Pullet, finest quality fresh eggs from Government inspected flocks, are available in limited quantities in certain localities.) Grade names are marked clearly on egg containers.

POULTRY

The Government grades of Poultry are
GRADE "A" - GRADE "B" - GRADE "C"

GRADE A, superb birds, well-fleshed, especially fattened for tenderness and flavour; GRADE B, good birds but not as well-fleshed, fattened or flavoured as Grade A; GRADE C, lowest graded quality. Graded poultry may be identified readily by a coloured tag on the wing or breast of the bird — Red for Grade A — Blue for B — Yellow for C.

CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

The Government grades of Canned Fruits and Vegetables are FANCY QUALITY - CHOICE QUALITY - STANDARD QUALITY

FANCY QUALITY, packed from a selection of the best fruit and vegetables available; practically uniform in maturity and free from blemishes; uniform in size and colour, canned at the proper time, so that excellence of flavour and appearance may be preserved. CHOICE QUALITY, packed from fruit and vegetables selected for tenderness and flavour. Not as uniform as "Fancy Quality;" allows slight variation in size, colour and maturity. STANDARD QUALITY, packed from fruit and vegetables of good quality but not necessarily meeting the higher grade requirements as to size, colour and maturity.

CREAMERY BUTTER

Rail Conditions Bar Russian Thrust Against The Japs

Soviet In No Position To Successful War

WARSAW, July 21—Any plans Joseph Stalin and his War Commissar Voroshiloff may have to start a war against Japan in the Far East while the Nipponese are engaged to the very limit of their military strength in China seem to be doomed by chaotic conditions prevailing on the only two railroads available for military supplies via Siberia.

The Soviet Far Eastern army under Marshal Bluecher, considerably reinforced recently, could only be sure of a victory over combined Japanese and Manchurian forces, informed quarters point out here, if a regular supply of men and war materials including fuels could be maintained.

In view of disastrous conditions prevailing on the Trans-Siberian and the Turksib-Railroads, however, Marshal Bluecher and the Moscow war commissariat are virtually slaves of the transport problem, so that the possbility of a Russo-Japanese war in the Far East may be ruled out for the near future.

Special Military Railroad

Of the two railroads connecting western Russia with her Far Eastern parts, the Trans-Siberian railroad has been exclusively reserved for military transports since the beginning of the China-Japanese conflict. According to reliable information reaching here from Moscow, passenger service has been stopped except for one train a week.

For foreign passengers two special coaches are attached to military trains in order to maintain schedules as far as possible. Those two coaches are strictly guarded by GPU agents throughout the whole journey and care is being taken that their passengers are isolated from red officers travelling in the other parts of the train.

Although the Soviet authorities have done everything possible during recent years to bring track facilities between Moscow and Habarovsk up to requirements of a strategical line of major importance, the railroad is still far below the necesary standards. Heavily loaded military transports running over the line day and night in both directions have subjected rails and beddings to super-normal wear with the result that repairs have to be carried out all the time.

During March this year Trans-Siberian railroad traffic had to be stopped no less than 137 times on account of defective rails, etc. Of these 43 breakdowns caused interruptions of more than 12 hours each between Osmk and Irkutsk.

Travelling Speed Reduced

In order to cut down accidents of transport trains, the travelling speed had to be reduced to about 12 miles per hour for the whole distance from Moscow to Vladivostock. By far the greatest handicap for regular supplies to the Far East, however, is a serious shortage of cars and locomotives.

According to reliable information the rolling stock for the Far Eastern service is no less than 70 per cent. behind requirements. Moreover, the quality of Russian-made locomotives is so poor that of 50 engines of the DW type delivered brand new at the end of March, 32 were returned to factories after one week of service for more or less serious repairs.

The fact that the traffic commissariat assigned all available locomotives and freight cars from other lines of the Trans-Siberian Railroad has not improved conditions very much and, in fact, has partly disrupted service on the other lines.

Responsible for Purge

The recent resignation of Traffic Commissar Bakulin and the arrest on charges of sabotage of his two assistants Kucharkin and Kartjeney was mostly the result of deplorable conditions prevailing on the Trans-Siberian road, Soviet Russia sources declare.

Conditions on the "Turksib" line connecting Baku, the centre of the Soviet oil industry, with Vladivostok are even more complicated, observers assert. The tracks of the Turkestan-Siberian railroad, finished only in 1928, are frequently drowned in sand of the Turkestan prairie. Until recently the railroad administration had only about 500 tank cars which is just about 20 per cent. of the total requirement available for supplying the Far Eastern army and naval forces with fuel and oil.

Numerous tank cars of the Murmansk railroad have recently been added to the Turksib rolling stock, however, without any noticeable improvements in increasing oil supplies. In addition to these technical shortcomings sources here assert a large force of picked GPU detachments has to be on constant guard against deliberate acts of sabotage on tracks and trains committed by the Mohammedan population hostile to the Moscow regime.

Yesterday's Deaths

New York.—Julius S. Berg, 43, a veteran of the Great War and a New York Democratic Senator since 1930.

Ottawa.—Mrs. Edward Heward, 79, widow of Col. Edward H. T. Heward and daughter of the late Sir Willaim Meredith, former chief justice of the Quebec Superior Court.

Quebec.—Rev. Sister Mary of the Purification, 69, a member of the Ursulines Order for 48 years.

Montreal.—Andrew Kilgour, 83, a retired printer and a native of Kirkcaldy, Scotland, who was at one time an elder in Pathhead United Church where the father of Lord Tweedsmuir was pastor.

Mrs. M. Horn has died in Sydney, Australia, at the age of 105, leaving 75 descendants, including 34 grandchildren.

War-Weary Loyalists Honor Their Dead

The Plaza de Cataluna in Barcelona was jammed with war-weary persons as a monument was dedicated to government soldiers slain in the bloody fratricidal conflict. Note the building to the LEFT. It is the headquarters of the Moscow government representatives who are helping guide the uncertain destinies of the shattered republic. The giant portrait is that of Joseph Stalin.

Lakefield M.S. Enjoys Outing

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 21.—The July meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Lakefield United Church took the form of a picnic when the members gathered at the church and drove by motor to the new cottage of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Yale at Young's Point, where a delightful afternoon was spent.

After making a tour of the grounds and inspecting the new cottage, the meeting was brought to order. The first item on the program was a presentation to the president, Mrs. W. W. Yale, of several useful utensils for her new cottage. Mrs. J. A. Porter made the presentation and Mrs. Yale, although completely taken by surprise, replied most suitably, thanking the ladies for their gifts. Mrs. J. Reid then presented Mrs. Kelly, on behalf of the W.M.S. ladies, with a woollen afghan, which the ladies had made. Mrs. Kelly thanked the ladies and said she would use the afghan for the chesterfield in the new parsonage.

Mrs. Yale then read a very interesting letter from her cousin, Mr. Stewart Forbes of China, in which Mr. Forbes painted a vivid picture of the difficulties encountered by missionaries and natives in the war-stricken zones in China.

The business was then attended to. It was decided that each member should endeavor to give one cent per week in addition to her regular givings, in order that the difference in allocation be made up by the end of the year.

Delicious refreshments, served by the ladies on the screened verandah overlooking the picturesque Otonabee, were thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Miss M. Sanderson extended a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Yale on behalf of those present.

OMEMEE

Mr. Jamie Mackey is holidaying with friends at Killarney.

Miss Ella J. Campbell, Reg. N. is visiting her sister, Mrs. Mackey at Omemee.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Magee of Saskatchewan are guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Ed. Jamieson.

Miss Irene Faulkner spent the past week with friends in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halligan and family of Bewdley were recent guests of the latter's father, Mr. S. H. Faulkner.

The many friends of Mr. H. Lamb will regret to hear of his illness. Mr. Lamb underwent an operation in Nicholl's Hospital Thursday. His many friends join in wishing him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCrea and son of Toronto are holidaying at "Cap's Place".

Miss Edith Curry has returned from visiting friends in Toronto.

Omemee was visited by one of the most severe thunderstorms this year, Thursday about noon. Hail stones fell as large as small plums. The thunder was very heavy, but no damage was done in the village.

The W.M.S. of Trinity United Church held a very successful quilting in the basement of the church Thursday p.m. when three quilts were quilted. Dainty lunch was served by members of group three and a special treat of ice cream was sent by Mrs. William Earle.

Miss Jessie Lamb was called home from Toronto owing to the illness of her father, Mr. H. Lamb in Nicholl's Hospital.

Rev. and Mrs. F. G. MacTavish and family are holidaying for the month of July.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Rich and small daughter of Brockville are guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Werry.

Misses Audrey Weir, Helen Moyer, Jessie Lamb, and L. M. Curtis, summer school students of Toronto, spent the week-end at their respective homes in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Corneil of Oshawa called on the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Ivory, and also visited H. Lamb in Nicholls Hospital Peterborough, on Sunday.

J. J. Laing of Toronto is visiting Charles Ivory.

Gordon Hayes of Toronto was the week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hayes.

Summer Complaint

Few people, especially children, escape an attack of summer complaint, but let it go for a day or two only and see how weak and prostrate it will leave you.

The quickest and safest way to get rid of it is to go immediately to your drug or general store and get a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

This bowel complaint remedy has been on the market for the past 92 years. You do not experiment when you use it. Be sure and get "Dr. Fowler's" and feel safe.

Looking Back
On This Date

JULY 21.

Nowadays the churches are complaining about the failure of parents to send their children to the Sunday School, or, perhaps, at the refusal of the children to do as they are told. A century ago it was far different. This date in 1838 was the second anniversary of the founding of the first Sunday School Union in Canada, at Toronto. And, despite the poor means of communication and the lack of day schools in many sections, the officials were able to report that in practically every Protestant church in Upper Canada the children were assembled, even in their twos and threes, to be taught the Catechism and the Scriptures.

Fred Williams

The first Sunday School in Canada was at St. Paul's Church, Halifax, in 1783; the first in Lower Canada at Quebec in 1793, founded by Prince Edward (afterward the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria). More followed at St. John, N.B., 1812, and in Upper Canada simultaneously with the foundation of St. George's Church.

These are Anglican dates. Those for the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches will be found to be coincident with the foundation of the first missions, for the circuit riders saw to it that parents were taught that, even though in the backwoods, they must transmit to their children the same religious training they themselves had had in Scotland or Ireland. School on Sunday was for a long time combined with the services of the early Kildonan settlers on the Red River, and westward also as the pioneers moved West. The foundations of the Canada of today were laid by men and women who had their first religious instruction in these early Sabbath Schools.

Calcutta Arrival

Warren Pershing, son of General John Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary forces during the World war, is shown with his bride, the former Muriel Richards of New York, disembarking from an Imperial Airways flying boat on their arrival at Calcutta, India. They are traveling around the world on their honeymoon, using aircraft wherever possible.

Havelock Board Hires New Teacher

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 21. — The Havelock High School Board have engaged Miss Grace B. Thomson of Toronto to fill the vacancy on the staff caused by the resignation of Miss J. K. Whitton. Miss Thomson's salary will be $1,000 per year. She is a graduate of Humberside Collegiate, Toronto; an honor graduate in French and Latin; an honor B.A. in English and History, and has an elementary Art certificate. Miss Thompson is interested in basketball, badminton, tennis and softball, and was for two years on the staff of the University of Toronto magazine, "The Varsity."

No Change Made In Road Bylaw

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 21. — Cavan Council met in regular session on July 15, with all members present, and Reeve Arthur Wood presiding.

Communications: From the District Municipal Engineer advising Council that the Department would not make any change in the reduced by-law governing the road expenditures.

From the Counties Engineer with a bill for work done by the County maintainer. As this bill had been paid in September, 1937, no action was taken.

From the Municipal Roads' Auditor, setting the date for the audit of road accounts.

From the Counties' Treasurer, with the 1938 accounts to be raised by the township for County purposes.

From the Mayor of Oshawa, inviting the Reeve to attend a Civic Community Day program, to be held at Lakeview Park, August first.

From the Department of Health, re amendments to Sanataria for Consumptives' Act.

Messrs. L. H. Winslow and I. W. Larmer waited on Council asking grant for the Plowman's Association.

Smith-Brown: That a grant of $15.00 be given the Plowmen: Carried.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AT RIVERSIDE PARK tonight, weather being right, the Oshawa GM-men meet the Petes at 6.15 o'clock. The Messrs. Foley, Hurst, Rowden, Jubenville and Co. will probably be playing behind the pitching of Jake Biddle, the flashy forkside flinger who hails originally from Stratford. Incidentally, a few of the fans at the last game in Oshawa cracked wise about the Petes having several imports this year—and we wonder if they have forgotten already that Foley, Jubenville, Bennett, Turner and Biddle are all imports! Wouldn't be surprised to see Kitchen or Whitehill take the slab for the locals this eve. It ought to be another humdinger of a ball game between two smart well-matched outfits. Should pack in a crowd, too.

* * * * *

BUFFALO SEMI-PROS are here Saturday aft to play the Petes an exhibition game in Riverside. Yesterday we mentioned several of the Buffalo players and spoke of their reps. Here are a few more: Lamendola on first hails from LosAngeles and is a noted hitter; Ted Hurda on second was voted the best high school player in Buffalo and turned down pro offers to finish his college; Ed Smithy on short was with Lincoln in the Nebraska League and Worcester in the New England circuit; Joe Mangan on third is a kid who is reported going places, covering acres, throwing like a bullet and able to hit. Only the centre fielder o fthe gardeners is an amateur, the left and right fielders having a lot of moneyed experience in baseball. They'll give the Petes a real game, so don't plan on an out-of-town picnic that day.

* * * * * *

Ah, The Gutted-Stick Gees

THE SENIOR LACROSSE offering tomorrow in the gloaming at the George St. arena is a game between Mount Hamilton and the Petes at nine bells. Should be a dandy, too, as these teams dished up a rousing setto on July 12th in the Ambitious City. We know we've been boosting these gutted-stick games here Fridays with regularity, but the fans who attend must agree that they've been practically all nifty fixtures. The one last Friday, before a record crowd for this season, was a sweet scrap in the last half with the Petes having to hustle and draw heavily on their first-half lead to pull out the verdict. The game this Friday should be a good one, too, and ought to get a big crowd.

* * * * * *

AFTER LICKING THEIR wounds or deflating their chests, as the case may be, the Riverview A. C. boxers here—who fought on Monday—are set for an eight-bout mitt card in Lakefield this Friday standard time, or nine bells our time. Buses leave the Empress Hotel e'en. For the Canadian Legion branch there. Show starts at eight, at eight and 8.40, D.S.T., with return fare being half a buck. Lineup for the show is: Nick Orlando vs. Len Minicola, Jack O'Neill vs. Dutch McIlmoyle, Joe Taman vs. Bill somebody-or-other (we can't make out the writing), Bill Joiner vs. Mal Packenham, R. Brady vs. O. Pumpkin, Gord Rell vs. Dan McGregor, Ray Smith vs. Buddy Redmond, Frank Vasey vs. Bill Hayes. Sounds like a good card and will no doubt draw quite a few ring fans from here. It'll be in the rink.

Enough Boots For An Army

MANY FOLKS ANKLED around to the East City Bowl last p.m. and saw Westclox girls cop a 15-11 softball win over C. G. E. to keep intact their victory string. Pitching was nothing to wire home about and the fielding was as messy as a kid in a jam jar, but it was an interesting tilt at that with hits galore and the issue pretty much a tossup till late in the fray. The scorer got big-hearted and held the errors down to 17, pretty well divided, so you can see that the fair ones were kicking the apple around the orchard like a flock of soccer players. First-half playoffs start Friday eve at the Bowl between Keene and Westclox, a three-game serial.

* * * * * *

IT HAS BEEN DECIDED that the exhibition girls' softball game here Saturday e'en between Danforth Aces of Toronto and Keene will be held at 6.30 in Riverside Park, admission being a dime. Manager Ivan Fletcher asked us to point out to the fans that he had to give the Aces a financial guarantee to get 'em here and a silver collection at the Bowl wouldn't cover this guarantee. He hopes a good crowd, at a dime a throw, in the enclosed park will get him out of the red. It should be a sweat scrap as these teams in Toronto a week ago Wednesday battled it out at a 1-1 tie till Keene got two runs in the ninth to win. Bea McDowell and Marilyn McCarthy will hurl for the Keenesters again this time. The Danforth damsels are reported as smart ballsters.

Trouble, Trouble, Trouble

* * * * * *

AGAIN THE O. B. A. has bared its teeth and Kingston again seems to be suffering. After throwing the Ponies out of baseball, the O. B. A. asked the softball union to bar them, too, till they were re-instated to the baseball body. But the O. S. A. said nothing doing, that it was strictly a matter between the O. B. A. and the Ponies. However, latest word is that the Kingston softball loop has received word from the O. S. A. not to use any suspended player until an O. S. A. meeting is held Saturday to discuss the matter. Meantime, the O. B. A. has advised the Kingston baseball convenor not to permit any intermediate or junior baseballer to play softball, if there are any of the Ponies playing softball. Quite a time they're having down in the Limestone City these days, eh?

* * * * * *

TORONTO MAPLE LEAFS plan another series of baseball schools this summer through the Province, with two-day stops made in St. Catharines, London, Kitchener, Owen Sound, Barrie and Peterborough. Clyde Engle, Dan Howley and Bert Perry of the Toronto Club will be in this city on August 26th and 27th to give instructions on the proper way to play the game. We are asked to inform all city and district—from any distance at all— players, of any age, to keep these dates in mind and to be in Riverside Park the 26th and 27th of next month for free instructions. Engle was here last year and made a real impression, showing the boys a flock of new angles in a short time. The Petes' officials and players will be tickled to hear he is returning.

Y's Men Defeat Kinsmen 8 to 4

Y's Men's Club of the local Midget Tennis League last night took an 8-4 triumph over Kinsmen in an open squabble in the George St. lacrosse arena. B. Dundas, Willshaw and O'Connor looked best for the winners, with Bloom, Mattucci and Miller outstanding for the Kinsmen. Martin, Land and B. Dundas were in on goals in the first inning, while Mattucci notched one for Kinsmen in the second. O'Toole, Bloom and Mattucci figured in on neat counters durin gthe third heat, with Curtis also getting one and O'Connor rifling home a pair. In the fourth quarter, Martin, Land, O'Connor, B. Dundas and McMahon scored or assisted in a lively setto. Play was rugged in spots with a few penalties drawn by the rivals. The teams:

Y's Men's: Goal, Willshaw; defence, B. Dundas and McMahon; centre, D. Dundas; wings, Easton and Joiner; rover, Martin; subs, O'Connor, Land and Dunford.

Kinsmen: Goal, Miller; defence, Cournyea and Bloom; centre, Fallen; wings, Mattucci and O'Toole; rover, Menzies; subs, Curtis and Welch.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 21 — (AP) — Maybe Tony Galento can't box but he certainly can be funny . . . Latest about the Pride of Orange, N.J., concerns his interior decorating depot . . . Tony couldn't figure out why the place didn't pay so he went into conference with the proprietor of a successful place in Newark . . . "Well, suppose I look at your books," said his friend . . . "What books," asked Tony . . . "Don't you keep books for your place," asked the other. "Listen, partner," replied the great man, "people come to my place to drink beer, not read."

Maybe it's the pitching that has made the Indians a pennant-bound outfit but this agent thinks it's the old hustle . . . Lyn Lary is making plays he never even tried for a year ago . . . Tuesday at the stadium he raced clear into centre field, batted Bill Dickey's looper with one hand and caught it with the other . . . Then, just to make it stick, he did it again later in the game.

Swell news from Montreal . . . Couple of weeks ago the fans up there were after Rabbit Maranville's scalp . . . now they're packing the park (10,000 of them last night) to cheer him and the Royals . . . The team has been unbeaten in nine games.

That situation at Chicago is finally ironed out . . . Wonder what will happen to Signor Tony Lazzeri, who is one of the really smart baseball men, now that Gabby Hartnett has taken over the job of managing the Cubs . . . Wouldn't it be fun if the Cubs started to click in the National right now . . . And with Mr. Dizzy Dean apparently ready for something besides oral manslaughter they might do just that . . . Dean made a poor manager out of Grimm and it wouldn't surprise if he made a great one out of old Chas. Leo Hartnett.

Cricket Notes

Whitaker's are scheduled to play Lindsay at Nicholl's Oval on Saturday, July 23.

The Peterborough Club will play Toc H in Toronto on the University of Toronto lawn. The following are asked to meet at the Paragon at 12 o'clock noon: F. Dyer, S. Lorne, Rev. J. F. Kelly, J. Chambers, A. Stewart, R. N. Stuart, J. Barry, F. Bell, A. B. Burrows, L. Gould, G. Caird. The above will please turn up at the Oval for practice tomorrow evening (Friday) and arrange final details. After this week practice will be on Thursday instead of Friday evenings, the Tuesday practice to continue as before.

Mink Goes Killing

KITCHENER, Ont., July 21 — (CP)—A single mink is keeping Kitchener's Parks attendants busy. The mink is the surviving partner of a murderous combine that accounted for 40 young ducks and four cygnets in recent weeks. His mate was shot a week ago, and there were no more raids on the park birds for a while, but now officials have new evidences of the mink's activities, and they can't find the culprit's den.

Bucs Increase National Lead Over Giantmen

NEW YORK, July 21 (C.P.). — Chicago Cubs' set of three brain trusters, which couldn't do a thing about hitting slumps and pitching failures, and which didn't particularly impress the rest of the National League, gave way to-day to a two-man board of strategy headed by the county fair guy, Gabby Hartnett.

The unveiling of the large figure of garrulous Gabby as head man of the Cubs, succeeding Cholly Grimm, overshadowed the rest of a busy baseball picture, which included the Yankees—Indians double-header for the American League lead in Col. Jake Ruppert's big ballyard, and the game-and-a-half grip the Pirates held in the senior circuit chase.

The Cubs, famous for years for changing hosses in midstream, did it again in loading Grimm's woes on the 220-pound frame of the big fighting Irishman. You can rest assured there'll be no changes in policy in the move, for in giving the heav-o to one fighter, Grimm, Phil Wrigley is leading off with another in Hartnett.

But in the background; somehow, you see the quiet figure by the other half of the board of strategy, "Talkless" Tony Lazzeri, and you wonder how he fits into the picture. There's the angle that Gabby is getting the chance because he deserved it, but think back to last October when Tony signed with the Cubs, and recall that tongues were wagging all over the place then about old Poosh 'Em Op's chances of climbing into the driver's seat.

75,000 See Game.

While Gabby and his new job took the play from the National League pennant race for the moment, it was somewhat less important to the junior circuit fans, and particularly those in the neighborhood of the Bronx, N.Y. Some 75,000 were all set to pack their way into the house that Ruth built there to take in the "crooshal" bargain bill between the Tribe and the Yanks.

Gehrig and company went into the pair of tilts boasting a half-game edge on the Tribe. Both clubs led with their aces, the Yanks relying on the southpaw slants of Lefty Gomez and the right-hand shots of Rufus the Red Ruffing, while Oscar Vitt called on Johnny Allen and Bobby Feller.

Bucs Increase Lead.

Meantime, Pittsburgh and St. Louis continued to be the chief battlegrounds in the National League race. The Pirates, by splitting a twin bill with the Phillies yesterday, increased their lead by a full game over the Giants, who took two beatings at the hands of the Cardinals' southpaw pitching.

The Phils featured a 10-run fifth inning to wallop the Bucs 11-0 in their first game, but Russ Bauer's turned in a five-hitter for a 4-1 Pirates' win in the nightcap.

Clyde Shoun stopped the Giants with four hits to give the Cards a 7-2 victory over the Giants in their opener. Lefty Bob Weiland fanned 10 and Johnny Mize hit three homers and the Cards clicked 7-2 in the afterpiece.

The Reds dropped back to fourth place, behind the Cubs, by losing a 4-3 decision to Boston Bees in a Cincinnati night game. Max West's ninth-inning homer turned the trick for the Bees.

Only one other game got by Old Man Weather. In that one, the Senators socked Detroit Tigers 7-2 behind Wes Ferrell's effective elbowing.

Prettying Liberty

NEW YORK, July 21—(AP)—The Statue of Liberty is getting prettied up—at a cost of $1,700,000. Workmen today were removing the seven huge spikes from her crown, part of a general reconditioning of the 51-year-old lady who has stood patiently at the entrance to New York Harbor since Oct. 28, 1886. The statue a gift from the people of France, cost $700,000.

Havelock Rink In Top Place

CAMPBELLFORD, July 21.—Twenty-two rinks from this district took part in one of the largest bowling tournaments ever staged in Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon when teams from Madoc, Belleville, Hastings, Norwood, Peterborough, Brighton, Havelock, Warkworth, Cobourg, Stirling and Campbellford matched their skill playing three 14-end games.

Following is a list of the skips of the various rinks: H. Maybee, Brighton; S. L. Sackville, Peterborough; F. Harper, Belleville; James Dingman, Warkworth; E. Wall, Peterborough; A. M. Small, Warkworth; J. Sedgewick, Peterborough; S. A. Lowe, Marmora; H. Freeman, Peterborough; A. E. Hopper, Cobourg; R. Williams, Havelock; H. Tompkins, Stirling; L. B. Grover, Campbellford; F. Mallory, Stirling; J. Poulton, Campbellford; P. M. Locke, Campbellford; J. P. Archer, Campbellford; W. Wellman, Hastings; D. B. Sutcliffe, Norwood; Jas. Watson, Madoc; D. Greenson, Norwood.

The first prize for three wins went to the rink skipped by R. Williams of Havelock who got a total of forty-eight points, while forty-five points won the second prize for three wins, which went to the Belleville rink skipped by F. Harper. Third was H. Tompkins' rink from Stirling with 44 points, and the prize for two wins was awarded to Joseph Poulton of Campbellford with 48 points and for one win the rink skipped by A. M. Small of Warkworth was high with 40 points. The prizes consisted of woollen blankets, electric razors, water bottles, cigar stands, and men's apparel.

Lynch Fined $1,000 By British Board

LONDON, July 21 (AP).—The British Board of Boxing Control today ordered Benny Lynch to pay £200 ($1,000) and declared his British, European and world flyweight titles vacant because he failed to make the weight limit for his bout with Jackie Jurich of California on June 29.

Lynch was 6½ pounds over the flyweight limit for the bout, and the B.B.B.C. immediately took his world flyweight title away. The fight went on, however, with Lynch stopping Jurich, who weighed 110½ to his 118½, in the twelfth round.

Lawn Bowling

We have just received word that the open twilight tournament scheduled for next Monday, July 25 has been cancelled. So instead we will hold a mixed tournament, the draw from the board at 7.30. The men's tournament will start at 7.30 p.m. Friday.

Tournament Results

At Peterborough: 16 men's pairs in Twilight Doubles. First — Dr. Long and H. Taylor—thermos jug. Second — W. Moorehead and N. Killingbeck—pyrex pie plate. Third —J. T. Braund and L. Dyer—zipper kit bag.

At Port Hope: 18 rinks in mixed tournament, 5 from here—no luck.

At Campbellford: Peterborough —No 'soap'.

Canuck Cuppers Show Good Form

MONTREAL, July 21 (CP).—Canada's Davis Cup team Wednesday attended a three-hour class period at Mount Royal Tennis Club and, under the tutorship of Fred Perry and E. Henri LaFramboise, brushed up the technique they hope will carry them to victory against Japan July 28-30.

With Perry coaching on the court and Captain LaFramboise pointing out errors from the sidelines, pupils Bob Murray, Laird Watt, Ross Wilson and Doug. Cameron absorbed plenty of knowledge.

Murray's main weakness, his service, appeared much improved. His delivery bothered him last week at the Maryland State tourney, when he committed sixteen double-faults to drop a 6-4, 6-4 verdict to Frank Kovacs, but today Bob had everything under control.

After playing with Cameron for nearly an hour, Perry teamed with Lewis Duff and battled through three sets against Wilson and Watt. Today the latter pair will engage Perry in singles matches, with possibly a doubles match to follow.

Spectators Brave Cold Drizzle On Gore's Landing Shores For Annual Water Sports

William Taylor Is Outstanding Star In Men's Events

A drizzling rain greeted the season's first regatta in this district, held on Wednesday afternoon at Gore's Landing on Rice Lake. With the skies clouding early in the afternoon, the regatta had scarcely got under way at three o'clock when heavy showers began to fall, lasting until well through the meet, held under auspices of St. George's Church.

It was a hardy crowd of several hundred people that witnessed the canoeing, boating, swimming, water skiing, and diving competitions. Many left the wharf at the outset of the rain and sought shelter beneath boathouses, under trees, in stores. But hundreds remained throughout the entire meet, huddled beneath the few canopies and roofs in the vicinity. A boys' band from Little Britain played during the proceedings.

Chief winner among women competitors was Mrs. Salleby from Hiawatha, member of a famed canoeing family. She won the ladies' singles, was joint winner with Doreen Deyell of Wallace Point, in the ladies' tandem race. Among the men William Taylor of Peterborough and Herb. Cardwell of Wallace Point were outstanding. Taylor won the men's singles in the canoe event, with Cardwell placing second, the two of them combined to take first honors in the men's doubles, Cardwell won the men's crab race, with Taylor finishing second, Taylor and Tatty Perrin won the mixed tandem race, with Cardwell and Doreen Deyell finishing second, and the same teams finished in the reverse order in the mixed gunwale race.

Competition throughout the entire meet was keen and the crowd was enthusiastic despite the downpour. A feature of the meet was an exhibition of water skiing by a double team of speedsters behind a powerful cruiser.

Results of the comeptition were as follows:

Ladies' single canoe—1 Mrs. Salleby, 2 Tatty Perrin.

Ladies' tandem race—1 Mrs. Salleby and Doreen Deyell, 2 Grace Barnes and Thelma Reynolds.

Boys' skiff race—1 George Thorne, 2 Pete Baker.

Mixed tandem—1 William Taylor and Tatty Perrin, 2 Doreen Deyell and Herb. Cardwell.

Boys' swim—1 Kenneth Perrin, 2 John Brooks.

Mixed gunwale—1 Herb. Cardwell and Doreen Deyell, 2 William Taylor and Tatty Perrin.

Ladies' swim—1 Mary Radford, 2 Betty Radford.

Dinghy sailing—1 Allan Mahaffy, 2 Phillip Clegg.

Men's single canoe—1 William Taylor, 2 Herb. Cardwell.

Boys' tandem race—1 Victor and Kenneth Harris, 2 D. Wilson and Pete Baker.

Men's swim—1 Thomas Dunlop, 2 V. Boulger.

Girls' diving—1 Bernice Warwick, 2 Audrey Sephton.

Target diving—1 Thomas Dunlop, 2 V. Boulger.

Outboard motor race—1 Earl Christie, 2 Billie Greer.

Judges were: Wallace Pratt of Gore's Landing, and P. D. McGaw of Toronto.

HARTNETT REPLACES CHARLEY GRIMM AS PILOT OF THE CUBS

Veteran Catcher In Immediate Charge Of Club

CHICAGO, July 21. — (AP) — Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett was named manager of the Chicago Cubs replacing Charlie Grimm, owner Phil K. Wrigley announced late yesterday. Hartnett will take charge of the club today.

Wrigley, who indicated last week that a change in the field leadership of the Cubs might be made, but "not until I can find a better man than Grimm," made the announcement at a meeting with sports writers.

"Well, we've changed managers," he said simply. "Starting with tomorrow, Hartnett will be in charge."

A change had been rumored on and off for two years, when the Cubs, on paper a championship club, staged late season blowups. Each time, however, Wrigley had adhered to his determination to stick to Grimm.

Wrigley announced that Grimm, manager since mid-season of 1932, when he replaced Rogers Hornsby, had been released outright. He will draw salary, however, on a contract which expires December 31. Wrigley said he had not yet made a new contract arrangement with Hartnett.

"The decision to change was not a sudden one," the Cub owner said. "I have been thinking about it for some time. In fact, I have thought about it so much that I have lost sleep, and have almost lost my appetite.

"Charlie Grimm has done a swell job, but I decided that a change would be best for the organization. Grimm gave us everything he had, but the club has not done as well as we felt it should.

Hartnett, who never has played with any major league club but the Cubs, joined the club in 1922. He became the No. 1 catcher in 1924, and since then the big Irishman, a horse for work, has made records.

Last season he caught 103 games to tie Ray Schalk of Chicago White Sox in catching 100 or more contests for twelve seasons, a major league record. Apparently getting better with age, he led National League catchers in fielding in 1934-35-36-37, and previously headed the circuit in 1925, 1928 and 1930.

Hartnett had a lifetime major league batting average of .300 at the end of last season. His best season at bat was 1937, a .354 percentage.

Grimm, a brilliant first baseman during his playing days, came to the Cubs in 1925 in a trade with Pittsburg. He played under Managers Joe McCarthy and Hornsby, and was hailed as a "Miracle Man" when, after he succeeded the latter in August of the 1932 campaign, the Cubs surged on to the National League title, but bowed to New York Yankees in the World Series, in four straight games.

The club failed to repeat in 1933 and was outfinished by St. Louis Cardinals in 1934, but bounded back in 1935 for Grimm's second pennant winner. Again, however, they were disappointed in their quest for the world championship, losing to Detroit Tigers, four victories to two.

Clyde Shoun, Bob Weiland and Johnny Mize, Cardinals — Shoun pitched four-hitter to win doubleheader opener from Giants 7-2; Weiland allowed nine hits and fanned 10 and Mize hit three homers in 7-1 nightcap win.

Wes Ferrell, Senators—Trounced Tigers 7-2 with nine hits.

Al Hollingsworth Phillies, and Russ Bauers, Pirates — Former blanked Pirates 11-0 with six hits in double bill opener; Bauers pitched five-hitter for 4-1 nightcap decision.

Royals Down Bears In Duo

MONTREAL, July 21.—These are pleasant days for Rabbit Maranville. Just a couple of weeks ago the fans and newspapermen in Montreal were yelling for his head. Today they're cheering him and the team for the Royals have won eight and tied one in their last nine starts.

Maranville's merry men gave a crowd of 10,000 a treat last night by knocking off the Newark Bears twice, 6-4, 2-1, for one of their most impressive performances of the season.

The Bear's double defeat helped Buffalo Bisons. They downed Jersey City 8-3 and picked up a game and a half on the Bears.

The Royals got top flight hurling against the Bears. Bobby Porter chalked up his sixth victory in the nightcap although he allowed 11 hits. Thirteen Bears were left stranded on bases. Harvin Duke turned in a beautiful relief job in the opener, relieving Ed Chapman in the third and shutting out the Bears for the last four innings. The first game was seven innings.

Mount Hamilton To Play Petes

Mount Hamilton comes here Friday (tomorrow) evening for an O. L. A. senior "B" game with the Petes at nine o'clock in the George St. Lacrosse arena. It is a scheduled fixture and will give fans an opportunity of seeing another classy crew in action against the locals and another fine game, in all probability. It should attract a big crowd of city and district fans again as the lacrossers turn it on all the time and dish up heaps of lively action. The Petes, after losing to Owen Sound in Durham a few nights ago, will be battling to stay on top of their grouping, while Mount Hamilton are fighting now for a playoff berth as the schedule advances. The elements of a real scrap are in the making.

Co-Managers Frank Randle and George Scott are working hard on the Peterborough squad recently, making changes in players or positions from time to time in order to have the squad keep up its victory streak in the tough going. The Petes are playing grand lacrosse but, even so, have lost twice and been tied twice through the schedule to date—showing it is a tough grouping. All the Petes are expected to see action tomorrow night. The Petes pulled out a close win in Hamilton on July 12th, and hope to do a repeat Friday night here.

Buffalo Pros Here Saturday

Buffalo Fro-Joys play the Petes here this Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in an exhibition baseball game. The Buffalo squad is a semi-pro team, and permission was granted Peterborough by the O.B.A. for this contest. The locals will be at top strength and will battle hard in an effort to take their classy opponents, or to at least make it close. Such a game should draw a big crowd of fans, who want to see a good ball game and will be curious to knew how the Petes stack up against a semi-professional club. The semi-pros have four or five moneyed players and the rest are good amateurs around the Buffalo district. Starting pitchers are unknown as yet.

Smoky Joe Holtz, fireball flinger with the Fro-Joys, may be seen in action. He was formerly on the mound for the Buffalo Bisons in the International League. Rex McDonald is another hurler who saw pro service with Terre Haute of the Three-I League, Scranton-Elmira of the Eastern League, New Orleans of the S. A. League and last year with Indianapolis of the American Association. Kenny, the catcher, was with the Bisons for three years. The whole visiting lineup looks impressive on paper, and a real game of smart baseball may be expected.

More than one-third of the 304,789 who attended the Leipsiz Spring Fair in Germany were from foreign countries.

Westclox won another last night at the Bowl with a 15-11 nod over C.G.E. in a wide-open and loose contest before a big crowd. There were plenty of errors on both sides and some hard hitting shown. Marg Snowden, on the winners' mound, allowed 14 hits and one walk while fanning three. Marilyn McCarthy for C.G.E. fanned six but walked four and gave up six hits in four frames. A. Clarke relieved her and allowed 11 hits and three walks while striking out four. Their support was poor most of the way.

M. Hawthorn for Westclox hit a homer and two singles, while D. Merrett got a triple and two singles, and M. Ferguson a triple and single, and M. Allison a homer. For C.G.E., E. Craig belted out two triples and a single, M. McCarthy got a double and single, with P. Bigelow and I. McCrank two singles each. Nice fielding was shown by G. Mortimer, A. Sturgeon, G. Mann and M. McCarthy. Each side pulled off an infield double play. The teams:

Westclox: G. Mortimer, 1b; M. Ferguson, ss; M. Allison, 2b; M. Hawthorne, 3b; A. Sturgeon, cf; D. Merrett, lf; D. Botting, c; J. Corley, rf; M. Snowden, p.

Campbellford Net Team Beats Tweed

CAMPBELLFORD, July 21.—The sixth scheduled game in the Quinte Tennis League game in the Quinte terday afternoon when the Campbellford Club took four of the six events from Tweed. Heavy showers delayed the games, which concluded at 7.30 o'clock. Results were as follows:

Men's singles—Ken Kingston of Campbellford defeated J. Courneya of Tweed, 6-0, 7-5. First men's doubles—Cliff Weston and Harry Free of Campbellford defeated M. Cotton and G. Wagar of Tweed, 6-1, 6-2. Second men's doubles—F. Tummon and S. Lafontaine of Tweed defeated Bob Linton and Paul O'Sullivan of Campbellford 6-3, 8-6. First mixed doubles—Wilbert Kingston and Eleanor Ferris of Campbellford defeated W. Arder and G. Gordon of Tweed, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2. Second mixed doubles—Don Meyers and Vera Weston of Campbellford defeated T. C. Moffat and B. Gordon of Tweed, 6-3, 6-3.

Ladies' doubles—Mrs. T. E. Moffat and Connie Morrison of Tweed defeated Jessie Weston and Grace Cairns of Campbellford 6-3, 7-5.

Bobby Feller Had An Easy Time In His Debut, Says Oscar Vitt

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP). — Oscar Vitt, who has been teaching Cleveland Indians how to tame the brewer's big horses at Yankee Stadium, won't make any pennant predictions right now, but he will admit that he, and baseball, are getting more whacky every year.

The Indians are in town for what was to have been a "crooshal" four-game series with the Yankees. Rain washed out yesterday's doubleheader and left the clubs a double bill today and a slight lessening of tension all around—that is for all except Mr. Vitt.

"This pennant thing has everyone up in the air. You know we have a pretty good ball club. We went to Washington for a series and what happens. Don't tell me. I know. We lost two out of three to the Senators and then played bad ball in Philadelphia."

In other years this would have washed the warpaint off the Indians but this year the Tribe is "staying in there" come good days or bad.

Vitt has little to say about Bob Feller, who has won himself 10 games so far but who has not yet lived up to the tremendous tub-thumping that accompanied his debut. The impression is that Oscar thinks the schoolboy wonder had it a little too easy when he first came up.

Leafians Take Double Win Over Orioles

TORONTO, July 21. (CP).—It took a long time to sink home, but it seems that the Maple Leafs have suddenly found that it is punch in the pinches that pays dividends.

They frittered away game after game in a costly study of that baseball angle, but last night they won their third straight game, their fifth in six starts and vaulted into a sixth-place tie by handing Baltimore Orioles a double setback, 6-2 and 5-1.

On the night, the home team outhit the visitors by a slim 21 to 19 margin, but the Burnsmen used their recently-gained knowledge to the best advantage. They packed exactly sixteen of their evening's hit collection into four scoring frames, and behind some effective hurling by John Berly in the opener, and Earl Caldwell, Joe Mulligan and Don Brennan in the nightcap, that proved enough.

A crowd of 3,500 enthusiastic home fans cheered every Leafian move in a hectic second game eighth-inning in which the Leafs pelted a trio of visiting moundsmen for five runs, born of seven hard drives, after Johnny Wittig had held them to four safe hits during the first seven frames.

The young Baltimore right-hander had been travelling along smoothly ever since the first inning when his mates staked him to a one-run lead at the expense of Earl Caldwell, who was forced to leave the game in the third inning when he ducked into a high curve ball while at bat in the third.

Although not seriously injured, the veteran side-armer was taken out, after two batters had been retired. Charley Sheerin came through with a double to right, the first hit off Witting, but Lanfranconi, who ran for Caldwell, was out at the plate on a fast relay.

Mayo Smith and Harsang packed singles into the fifth frame, but Clifton and Mulligan went down via the strikeout route. Heinie Manush led off the seventh with a single, but Whitting tightened after Smith had walked, to retire three straight batters.

Frankie Reiber started trouble in the eighth, when he looped a double to right, in a pinch-hitting role. Joe Sullivan, who ran for the little backstop, moved to third on Sheerin's sacrifice and scored when Joe Gantenbein laced a double down the right-field foul line.

When Burns and Manush followed with singles, sending Gantenbein home, Harry Matuzak took over mound duties. He was a poor relief selection, however, and departed in a hurry after Smith. Porter and Harshany clicked for successive one-baggers. Reninger came in then and extinguished the rally in short order. Joe Mulligan, who replaced Caldwell after the third inning, was credited with the victory, pitching five runless innings. He was tagged for four safeties, no two of which came in one innings. Don Brennan worked the final frame, and after getting the first two men, walked Crouse and Richardson, following Dwyer's single, to fill the bases. Gene Corbett, who had compiled six straight hits earlier in the evening failed in the emergency.

Millbrook Mission Circle Holds Picnic

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 21. — The July meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Brackenridge, Second Line, Cavan, on Tuesday at 4 p.m., the gathering taking the form of a picnic outing. The hostess, who was formerly of Millbrook and for some time the efficient president of the Circle, welcomed her guests and looked after their entertainment until the supper hour, the abundant meal being served on the verandah, and pictures being taken of the group before the afternoon was too far advanced.

Following the picnic tea, the meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Phyllis Kidd, community singing opening the program. Dorothy Sisco and Leitha Edworthy were appointed to write this month to Margaret Luxon, an absent member whose health is poorly, and the report of the treasurer, which was given from the chair in the absence of that officer, showed that $28.00 had been remitted to the Presbyterial officer in June. This is more than half the allocation of $50.00 for the entire year.

The president also reported that a letter had been received from a mother in Northern Ontario, where the bale sent in June had been shipped, expressing sincere appreciation of some of the layette articles which had been her portion of the contents. Work for the next bale will be begun in September, a layette being each year the Circle's obligation.

A reading, "Her Tenth Box," was given by Leitha Edworthy, and this was followed by the call to worship, "For the loveliness of the summertime we give Thee thanks."

Dorothy Sisco read the lesson, telling of Isaiah's vision of God in the temple, and his response to the call of service, after which the leader told the story, which emphasized God's hand in the beauty of nature, and the individual responsibility of each member in answering His appeal for a lifetime of consecration to His will and work.

After the prayer, Ethel Hatherly read the poem, "What Christ Said," and the meeting was dismissed with the blessing. The August gathering will be a union meeting with the Auxiliary and the Mission Band.

The Examiner BOARD BULLETIN

In a violent storm Wednesday hail destroyed the tobacco crop on more than 100 farms in Norfolk County, doing damage estimated at many thousands of dollars.

At Malone, N.Y., Oscar J. Richards, 31, of Montreal, who pleaded guilty to entering the United States illegally, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. It was his fourth conviction.

W. R. Reek, Ontario's Deputy Minister of Agriculture, states that due to a concerted campaign by the department, the quality of Ontario's potato crop this year will be substantially higher than in recent years.

Two men were arrested in Toronto Wednesday and charged with conducting a lottery after they had been found in possession of tickets on the Irish sweepstakes.

Safer Cycling.

A Safety Week for the education of bicycle riders to follow safer riding practises on the streets and highways will be proposed by Controller Fred Hamilton of Toronto.

Joseph Dimson of Toronto collapsed on the excursion steamer Cayuga and died while the boat was in the middle of Lake Ontario, en route from Niagara to Toronto.

Three persons were killed near Carlyle, Sask., when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway gas-electric train.

Convicted of operating pin-ball games as gambling devices, 18 restaurant proprietors in Montreal, including three women were fined $25 and court costs each.

Is Badly Burned

Jack Burns of Toronto was badly burned about the legs and lower part of his body when the truck he was driving caught fire after colliding with a car near Cardinal

It was announced Wednesday that the members of the C.C.F. will hold their fifth annual convention in Edmonton on July 26 to 29.

A search party has discovered that two Montreal boys, Francis and George Jones, 11 and 13 respectively, were drowned in Lake Maskinonge where they had been camping.

Found lying on the street in Toronto on Monday night, William Attwood has succumbed to his injuries. How he was injured is so far a mystery to the authorities.

Brantford Gets Plant.

The plant of Frost and Donald, glove manufacturers, Dundas, has been purchased by the Kitchener Overall and Shirt Company, and will be moved to Brantford.

According to Welfare Commissioner Laver, Toronto had to provide $118,489 for the care of indigent patients during the month of May.

The long distance record for attendance at the Canadian Corps Reunion will probably go to an Anzac machine gun officer, who lives at Christchurch, New Zealand.

In London a drive against slot machines brought 17 persons into police court and resulted in fines amounting almost to $1,000.

500 Battle Police In Strike

Police are shown here fighting a belligerent picket as 200 deputies routed 500 C.I.O. pickets with clubs and tear gas at the plant of the Chicago Hardware Foundry. The pickets fled from the riot scene shortly after the police unleased a barrage of tear gas. Scores were injured in the rioting but no fatalities were reported.

Worms In Nipissing

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 21 (C.P.). — Army worms threatened destruction of 75 per cent. of the crops in the Nipissing area, farmer said to-day as reports came in of newly infested areas throughout the Nipissing section.

A farmer south of Sturgeon Falls reported army worms had ruined two 10-acre fields and were working on a third. F. C. McRae, agricultural representative, said losses on the record crop could be kept to 25 per cent. by prompt efforts.

Millbrook W.M.S. Starts Three Quilts

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 21. — The Senior W.M.S. of Grace Presbyterian Church had as their guests on Tuesday, at a quilting held in the church parlors, the members of the Junior Missionary Society — three crib quilts, in bow tie, Dutch girl, and block outline patterns, being set up for work.

Work on the quilts began at 1 p.m. and after two hours at this task, the president of the Senior Auxiliary, Mrs. S. E. Eakins, took the chair, expressing the pleasure of the older women in having the juniors as their guests on this annual occasion, which combined work and a happy social hour, and led to a better mutual interest and understanding.

The program was then given over to the juniors, their president, Miss Murial Ball, taking charge, with Mary Eakins at the piano, and Betty Smith reading the lesson from Psalm 23. Prayer was offered by the leader, Miss Agnes Johnston, and the president explained that through the year the girls had been studying missions in India; for the ensuing year the study will be Formosa, and Laureen Handley gave an interesting outline of this island.

The roll-call was answered with a number giving facts about mission stations and missionaries in Formosa, and Colleen Blair followed with a paper on "Sowing Seeds in Formosa." A solo, "Just Over There" by Ruth Thorndyke, was much enjoyed; and Mary Eakins gave a story covering "A Visit to Happy Mount Leprosy Colony."

Ada Peers gracefully thanked the ladies of the senior society for their help given freely throughout the year, and Miss Johnston, treasurer, that only $44.12 has so far been raised on their year's allocation, urging more effort in order that the objective might be fully reached.

Small tables were daintily laid for the tea hour which followed the benediction, the girls serving the guests, and an offering being received towards the society's funds.

The contents of the two bales were on display, and proved most interesting, that of the seniors being specially for a sixteen-year-old girl, and the juniors including a dainty layette with their supplies.

APSLEY

Mrs. B. Coons holds a very unique position in her family. She has three daughters and one son married and in two of her daughters families and in the son's family there is the fourth generation. This is rather an outstanding occurrence in a family.

The W. A. of the United church was held at Mrs. Buchanan's on Thursday evening. Although the attendance was small the business re the picnic was settled. The August meeting wil be held at Mrs. John Tucker's.

Mrs. N. H. Wilson and children, Teddy and Mary Jean, accompanied by Miss M. Whitmore, have gone on a motor trip to visit friends in Owen Sound for three weeks.

Mrs. W. Parkins and Miss Muriel of Lindsay, are holidaying in the village.

Among those who attended the Anglican picnic at Owen Brook were Rev. T. McMulkin, Mr. and Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Tanner, Miss Elsie, Mrs. Robertshaw, Mrs. George Kilborn and family, Mrs. Wellington Lean, Mrs. Harry Everets, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Everetts and family, Mr. and Mrs Alex McColl.

Messrs. Bertie Smith, Ken Tanner, Greig McMullen, Jim Scott, Austin Reid, Keith Brow, Lionel Brown, Rodney Kilborn, Rodger Tucker, Jack Tucker, have gone to the boys camp on Loon Lake for a two weeks' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spence of Toronto, are at their cottage on Loon Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilson visited in the village on Sunday.

On Thursday a number of the W. I. members met at the home of Mrs. W. Lean to quilt a quilt. The quilt was set up on the lawn but when the rain came down it was moved to a vacant house to be completed. Pot luck dinner was served on the screened verandah.

senior solicitor to the Attorney-General, and chief liaison link between the Treasury and police ends of the present investigation. Mr. Common would not discuss the talk at all, and his two visitors shied from newspapermen as if the latter were plague-ridden. It is rumored, however, that their visit may primarily have concerned the preparation of certain affidavits which are alleged to have been obtained since Mrs. Sidley died, from one-time members of the Bull household staff.

Another matter said to have been under discussion is the anonymous letters with which the Government has reportedly been flooded since the case developed. These letters, while mostly, it is believed, the work of cranks, are said to be so deadly in their implications, with some so threatening in tone, that police, of necessity, must endeavor to run them down.

Developed Over Period, Belief.

While acute degeneration of the brain resulted in a matter of days, medical authorities now examining the brain of Mrs. Sidley, feel sure the main cause for this condition had been developing over a much longer period of time.

The autopsy, which has been conducted by Dr. W. L. Robinson, Professor of Pathology; Dr. G. W. Lougheed, and Dr. E. A. Linell, Professor of Neuropathology, at the University of Toronto, has shown an almost complete atrophy of the brain.

William Sidley Jr., son and only child of the late Mrs. Sidley, and Mrs. Sidley's two brothers, William Horlick and Alex. J. Horlick, have been asked to attend the inquest to be held on July 26. As they are residents of the United States, they cannot be served with subpoenas, but invitations have been issued.

Insurgents Renew Shelling of Madrid

HENDAYE, France, July 21. — (AP)—Insurgents unleashed a general offensive in eastern, central and southern Spain today against government lines weakened by General Franco's steady drive toward Valencia.

The scream of shells over long-besieged Madrid signalled the renewal of large-scale warfare in all sections of Spain.

Government reports said Insurgents batteries poured 500 shells on the capital's battered buildings in a few hours.

Government General Jose Miaja's veteran troops, drawn from central and southern fronts, were concentrated in eastern Spain for the defence of Valencia, where they were being beaten back slowly along the Teruel-Mediterranean highway by mechanized Italian units in desperate battles which took heavy tolls. Insurgent dispatches reported gains up to six miles in the first day's fighting along the Tagus River south of Madrid and in Estremadura Province in southwestern Spain.

Military observers were astonished by the extraordinary array of planes, tanks and heavy artillery Franco was able to dispatch to those two fronts while apparently devoting his full powers to the Valencia campaign.

twice divorced and whose husbands are still living.

"Considering that this eminent ecclesiastical authority fully understood that marriage, even for Protestants, is clothed in a sacred character and cannot be assimilated into a commercial transaction whose characteristics are totally different. . . .

"Considering that the solution to this intricate problem would not be obtained if the legislators were to confide the celebration of marriage to a commissioner or to a purely laic institution, because Christian marriage, performed under appropriate circumstances, is still the best warwanty of safety and social peace for married people."

His Lordship reserved the plaintiff all legal recourse before the courts against the two bondsmen, "who made false and lying declarations as to the civil status of the defendant before the commissioner who issued the licence, and condemns the defendant to the costs."

Too Many Fish

FORT ERIE, Ont., July 21 (CP). —Canadian immigration officers at the Peace Bridge here are still gasping a bit as they relate the latest complaint by a returning United States tourist. Several Buffalo, N. Y., anglers were returning from a fishing trip at Port Maitland near here. They complained to immigration officers: "Too many fish in Lake Erie where we were. We fished for an hour and caught all we wanted. I'd sooner see them less plentiful. It is more fun."

Warships Rush Troops To Stalled Japanese

SHANGHAI, July 21 — (AP) — Japanese warships began today the transport of heavy reinforcements into the upper Yangtse battle area, where the Japanese army is stalled in its drive toward Hankow.

From their precarious positions along the south bank of the Yangtse, the Japanese today tried another bombing attack in the Kiukiang sector, 135 miles down river from Hankow.

Chinese accounts said more than 300 bombs were dropped in the vicinity of Kiukiang, and that 30 persons were killed and a number injured at Siaokiapo, which was wrecked.

The troop concentrations apparently were in preparation for a push into Lake Poyang, to which the Yangtse is linked south of Kiukiang.

Mzkatu, a native woman, has died near Oudtshoorn, South Africa, aged 120.

Snow On Pikes Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—Snow and nail ranging up to 10 inches in depth blanketed the upper slopes of Pikes Peak today as a reminder of the worst summer storm in years to whip the 14,110-foot high granite mountain. At one time more than 150 automobiles, many of the occupants in summer clothes, were marooned between Glen Cove, at the 11,000-foot level, and the summit.

The Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, CANADA, THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1938

Caught With The Goods

TORONTO.—Police held three Toronto youths today on charges of theft while they sorted over $600 worth of loot. Much of the goods, consisting of jewelery, doctor's instruments and razors, was found hidden in a bookcase. One boy was a juvenile, 15; the others were Allan Brown, 17, and Ivan Jackson, 16.

Impressive Ceremonies Mark The Restoration At Rheims

RHEIMS, France, July 21.—Sixteen years of work has just been completed on the great Rheims cathedral and the magnificent edifice formally reopened with impressive ceremonies after the long and arduous task of restoration.

At the close of the world war it seemed impossible that this architectural gem and historic landmark could ever be restored to its former splendor. For four years it had been under almost constant shell-fire. Great gaps had been torn in its sculptured lacework exterior, scores of the 2,300 statues had been wholly or partially destroyed, and the interior was a mass of debris and ruins.

It was in September of 1914 that the cathedral was first bombarded, causing a fire which took a terrific toll of damage. But even worse was yet to come. Month after month the cathedral was the target of German guns. Nearly 300 direct hits were scored.

As early as the fall of 1914 all the removable treasures of Rheims were taken away to places of safety, sandbag barricades were erected to afford as much protection as possible, and many of the delicately wrought statues stored. But such precautions could not save the structure from the constant hammering of big guns or prevent it from being gutted by fires which frequently followed the explosions.

Cost Of Restoration Enormous

Much of the roof was carried away, tons of masonry dumped into the interior, great holes torn in the floor, columns and buttresses shattered. Despite protests of the French, the Germans maintained that the 260-foot towers of the cathedral were being used as observation posts and made this their justification for a ceaseless and deliberate bombardment.

Such was the state of this classic of Gothic architecture in 1918. Few believed that it would be possible to restore this monument to the skill and religious devotion of the legion of workmen who had built it. The first church on the site had been built in 401 A.D.; a second and larger, built in 822, was destroyed by fire, and the third, the one which is now restored to much of its original splendor, was started in 1212.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent in the work of restoration, vitually completed last October but only recently commemorated by a formal opening. One of the principal contributors was John D. Rockfeller, Jr., and philantropists from many other countries helped swell the fund.

It was a staggering task. Not only did the fundamental structure and supports of the huge edifice have to be strengthened and restored, but much of the ornament and decoration had to be pieced together from fragments. Photographs and drawings which recorded the details of design were closely followed in salvaging the interior.

Today the cathedral once more rears its lacy spires and proud facade in imposing fashion. The scars are still there, many of the statues and gargoyles still bear marks of the terrific destruction wrought, but Rheims has been saved for future generations and another chapter added to its long and glorious history.

Drover Admits $550 Lost In Card Game

TORONTO, July 21.—The cattle drover who told police he had been held up by three men and robbed of $550 in the Union Stockyards Monday is now reported to have admitted losing the money to the men in a "three-card monte" game.

This new aspect of the "holdup" was made known shortly after it was learned one of the three cardplayers had been arrested on a charge of robbery. The suspect's name was not divulged, pending the arrest of his accomplices.

The three-card-monte game is stated to be a variation of the well-known fairground pastime in which they players bet they can name under which walnut shell rests the pea. The modified game is played with three cards, two black, one red, the object being to declare where the red is after the operator shuffles them.

The victim, William Penman, was employed by Ben Kerrin, Clifford, Ont., farmer. He first told detectives he was accosted by three armed men who ordered him to hand over his money.

While there was considerable difference in the original story and the recent explanation, the police still said the drover was robbed of his money.

Seventeen public works projects are to be started in the Philippines.

Spinal Cord Disease

TORONTO, July 21—(CP).—Immediate cause of the death of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley was given today as an acute condition of the spinal cord which probably developed a short time before her death July 6 at the home here of W. Perkins Bull.

Dr. W. L. Robinson, University of Toronto Pathologist in charge of the autopsy requested by William Sidley, son of the Malted Milk Heiress, said blood tests and chemical analyses were generally negative.

River Is Dragged For Body Of Missing Man

The Otonabee River is being dragged today in a search for Philip Brown, 50, member of the inspection staff of the Canadian General Electric Company, who disappeared from his boarding-house, 103 Auburn street during the night, clad only in pyjamas and is believed to have been drowned.

Brown, who has been a resident of Peterborough for eighteen years and has long been in the employ of the C.G.E. retired Wednesday night apparently in good spirits after working as usual yesterday. He was sleeping with Harry Lang, with whom he boarded and the latter awakened at 4 o'clock this morning to find Brown gone. An investigation showed that the back door of the house was unlatched and that none of the man's street attire was missing.

The police were notified and Sergeant Wigg searched the neighborhood without finding any trace of the missing man. This morning Fire Chief George Gimblett and Inspector J. F. Reid made a preliminary search along the bank of the river and later two boats were pressed into service and dragging operations began.

The house is only some 30 feet away from the river and the investigators found some footprints near the bank that led them to believe that Brown had been drowned.

The only relative the missing man had in Canada is a sister who is living in Vancouver.

It is stated that last month Brown was nearly drowned in the Lachine canal near Montreal when he was rescued just in the nick of time.

LAKEFIELD

Visiting Pastor Guest Of Honor

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 1.—A banquet in honor of Rev. Dr. F. E. England, noted minister of the Presbyterian church in England and lecturer in the University of London, was held on Tuesday evening, at the Park Hotel Burleigh Falls by members of the Ministerial Association of Peterborough, prior to Dr. England's address in St. Andrew's United church, Peterborough, when he spoke on "The State of Religion in England." Dr. England is accompanied by his wife.

This prominent English clergyman and his wife were conducted by members of the ministerial association during the afternoon, on a trip over the Oregon Trail, one of the country's natural beauty spots. After this picturesque drive, the party gathered at Park Hotel, Burleigh Falls, where pictues of the gathering were taken after which the party split up, the ladies spending a delightful time making a tour of inspection of the ground at beautiful Park Hotel, while the men in the party chatted with Dr. England, discussing with him conditions in England.

At 5.30 p.m. the party sat down to a delicious banquet served in the Blue Room at Park Hotel. Mrs. Dr. Barr, of Peterborough delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the ladies and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Peterborough offered welcome on the gentlemen's behalf. Adjutant Warrander of the Salvation Army spoke briefly. Rev. E. W. Young of Peterborough was master of ceremonies.

Among those present were: Rev. E. W. Young and Mrs. Young, Peterborough; Dr. Percy M. Young, Arthur and Alec Young; Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Walker, Lakefield; Rev. and Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt; Mrs. A. T. Barr; Frances Dawson! Adj. and Mrs. Warrander; M. Grace Tucker; H. Wilkinson; Miss Elizabeh Walker; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clark, Pluto, Pa.; Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Sutcliffe, Peterborough; Canon and Mrs. J. Douglas Paterson, All Saints', Peterborough; and Rev. Dr. and Mrs. F. E. England of Bexhill-on-Sea, England.

45 Jail Guards Held

Roy Hudson Is Acquitted Reckless Driving

Roy Hudson, student, was acquitted in Traffic Court on Wednesday afternoon before Magistrate E. A. Gee of reckless driving, the charge originating out of an intersection accident in which cars driven by Hudson and by Thomas H. Brooks were involved. The crash took place on June 30 at the corner of George and Dalhousie Streets.

Hudson was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., while Brooks, against whom a similar charge was laid, was represented by W. B. Gordon. The Brooks case was adjourned.

Brooks was the first witness in the case against Hudson, and testified that he had been driving north on George Street and went to turn left to park near the corner of Dalhousie Street. As he was about to make his turn he said he saw Hudson's car 225 feet north and coming in his direction. He had just made the turn when Hudson's car struck the front of his machine. He estimated the speed of Hudson's car at 45 miles an hour. He had thought that he had ample time to make the turn safely.

Oliver Taylor told of seeing skidmarks from where Hudson's car was after the accident and running 40 feet northward.

Ruth B. Chambers, stenographer at Ackerman's, said that she heard Hudson's brakes applied as his car was directly opposite the entrance to Ackerman's. She placed the point of impact as south and west of the centre of the intersection. Her estimate of the speed of Hudson's car was 30 to 35 miles an hour.

For the defence, Jack Hodson, truck driver for the C.P.R., told of driving down George Street behind Hudson's car. He was travelling at 15 or 20 miles an hour, and the Hudson car did not gain on him. As he drew near to the Dalhousie Street intersection he saw Brooks' car, but thought the driver was going to stop to allow the two southbound vehicles to pass. Instead, he turned and was struck by Hudson's car.

Mr. McElderry questioned accused about another accident he had, and the question was allowed despite a protest from Mr. Carley. Witness said that accident had taken place a year before.

Magistrate Gee, declaring that the balance of the evidence was in favor of the accused, dismissed the case.

A reckless driving case against Michael J. Murray, Jr., was adjourned until next month.

Traffic Cases.

A large number of traffic cases was disposed of on pleas of guilty. It cost Don. Vincent, Brighton, and J. Kitney of Otonabee $5.00 each, and costs, for failing to stop on entering a highway. William Moull, city, paid $2.00, and 75 cents costs, for riding a bicycle that had no reflector, and J. E. Gallagher, Warsaw, was assessed $5.00, and costs, for failure to obey a stop sign. M. Sine, who failed to produce a driver's licence, was fined $5.00, and costs, and Charles A. Bruce, of the R.C.F.A., Rockcliffe, paid $10.00, and $3.60 costs, when he pleaded guilty to reckless driving.

A Burst of Speed.

H. Bruan of Oshawa drove over a railway crossing faster than 20 miles an hour, and that burst of speed accomplished in view of Traffic Officer McClure cost him $5.00, and costs. For permitting his car to be driven by a person without a licence, Lawrence Heath was fined $10.00, and costs.

Robert Leel and Earl Bannon had no windshield wipers, and the omission cost them $2.00, and costs, while Andrew Rightly paid five times that sum for having no licence. Lloyd Calvert failed to produce a licence, and was fined $1.00, and $5.85 costs. For speeding, Walter Brett, Madoc, contributed $5.00, and costs.

New Health Program Pressed On Congress

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP)—Miss Josephine Roche, chairman of President Roosevelt's committee on medical care, said today the 1939 United States congress would be asked to authorize a broad national health program.

She decined to discuss its scope, but indicated it would be patterned after the $850,000,000-a-year plan submitted to the Natoinal Health Conference earlier this week.

The big question was the probable attitude of the American Medical Association toward such legislation. Officials of the Society criticized the committee's program as not answering the problem of obtaining adequate medical care for all.

It was apparent, however, that the legislation would have the backing of a sizable group of doctors. The Committee of Physicians, composed of rebel leaders in the association, individually endorsed the proposals of the president's committee for federal subsidization of medical care, the building of hospitals with government funds, and efforts to control major diseases.

The $850,000,000 program was not put to a vote in the conference, which closed yesterday, but delegates representing labor and farm organizations expressed individual approval.

FINE TRAINING RECORD

A mechanical engineering institute in Moscow, Russia, claims that all its students are engaged before they graduate, some preparing their theses at the plants employing them.

Regatta Time Again

Spectators braved a cold drizzle of rain at Gore's Landing on Wednesday afternoon to witness the season's first regatta in this district. Several hundred people remained huddled under canvas at the wharf's edge and outstayed the rain. At BOTTOM, is the men's crab race, won by Herb Cardwell of Wallace's Point and William Taylor of Peterborough, top competitors at the meet. An exhibition of water skiing was given by Taylor and thrilled the crowd. He is seen at TOP shooting at high speed past the grandstand. (Examiner Staff Photos.)

Duncan Walker Dies Suddenly In 75th Year

A highly respected citizen of Peterborough and one of the province's most widely known educationalists, Duncan Walker, died at his home at 597 Weller street this morning. He was 74 years of age, and had been ill for less than a week.

The first principal of the Peterborough Normal school, he held that post for a number of years. Earlier he had been Inspector of Public schools in this area, and after heading the Normal School staff since the school was erected, he left nine years ago to take over the post of Director of Professional Education in Ontario. He retired two years ago.

Mr. Walker was born in Dewart, Ontario, son of the late Archibald Walker and Isobel McIntyre. He was a graduate of University College, University of Toronto. He resided in Brockville until he came to Peterborough in 1897.

In this city he was active in many phases of civic life and was widely known. He was a member of the Corinthian Lodge and the Royal Arthur Lodge, A.F. & A.M., and of the Scottish Rite. A Lieutenant-Colonel in the old 57th Battalion, he recruited a regiment during the war. He was a member of Trinity United church and a former president of the Men's Association there.

He was the last surviving member of his family. His wife, formerly Miss M. I. Morrow, survives.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon from the late residence at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United Church officiating. Entombment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Real Estate Agent Dubious Of Action

One of the group of Peterborough men who attended a meeting of real estate agents here a few nights ago said today he did not expect the conference dinner would lead to organization.

"We had several men down from Toronto who spoke about the advantages of forming an association in order that the rights of the real estate business could be placed before the government or any other body when necessary," this agent remarked. "After putting up with relief rent since the depression set in, I think real estate men are quite content to stand for anything. They have proved they can take it. The merchants get full pay for the provisions and clothing that are supplied people on relief. There was some deal between the doctors and the council, but the real estate people are taking relief rent and liking it. So what's the use? We don't seem to think that keeping a roof over the heads of people on relief is as important as providing them with bread and butter, so there's not much likelihood of an organization growing out of the other night's meeting. I guess we'll keep on the way we have been going, every man for himself, and the devil taking the hindmost."

A Park Mystery

GALT, ONT., July 21—(CP)—Galt Parks Officials have a mystery on their hands. Flowers in a triangular bed at a park entrance have been stripped of leaves and petals overnight. Gardeners are advancing theories naming worms, rabbits and cats as culprits, but no satisfactory solution of the puzzle has come to light.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

A LIGHT DOCKET

There was no magistrate available this morning and only one case to be disposed of, Gordon Puffer, J.P., remanding the accused until tomorrow. As a contrast Wednesday's police court took all day to clear the list.

CAR RECOVERED

An automobile belonging to W. R. L. Blackwell, stolen from Water street Wednesday morning has been recovered in Oshawa, according to a message received by local police. The front bumper was damaged but otherwise the car was reported to be in good shape.

AN ASSAULT CHARGE

Charles and Lester Perry, charged with assaulting Charles Swanston occasioning actual bodily harm, were remanded by Magistrate Gee yesterday until Monday, bail being fixed at $200. The charge is said to have arisen out of a road camp fight in Harvey township.

BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY.

A police officer from an Ohio city who has been holidaying at Rice Lake dropped into the Peterborough police station Wednesday to see how law enforcement works in this part of the world. This is his third summer at Rice Lake and he never fails to make a call upon the local police.

ALWAYS A DRAWBACK

"These showers are simply wonderful" a market gardener remarked to The Examiner this morning. The reported waited for something and it came. "Of course," added the gardener, "there is always the danger that so much moisture will cause blight."

"EX" BOARD MEETING.

The last regular meeting of the board prior to the Peterborough Exhibition will be held Thursday evening, July 28. Probably a special meeting or two will be required subsequently, but the series of monthly sessions of planning for the "Ex" reach the end of their string next week.

DEATH OF SISTER.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Louise Rodaway, whose death occurred in her 79th year at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas P. Corbet, Madison, Wis., on July 15, was held on July 18 from Wesley Willis United Church, Clinton, Ont. Mrs. Rodaway, prior to the death of her husband in 1932, had been a resident of Clinton district. Among the surviving relatives is a sister, Mrs. C. B. Adair, of Homewood Avenue, Peterborough.

HAGERMAN REUNION.

The Hagerman family held its tenth annual reunion in Simcoe yesterday. More than eighty family members attended from Toronto, Hamilton, Peterborough, St. Thomas, Lynedoch, Scotland, Delhi, Michigan, British Columbia and California. The following were eelcted officers: William Elliott, LaSalle, President; Archie Hagerman, Hamilton, vice-president; Mrs. Emma Hill, Teeterville, secretary-Treasurer; and Harold Pond, Simcoe, sports chairman.

OBITUARY

MISS ELLA JOHNSTON.

BAILIEBORO, July 21. — The death of Miss Elal Johnston, lifelong resident of Bailieboro, occurred at Nicholls Hospital on Sunday morning after a lingering illness. She was 58 years of age.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnston, of Bailieboro, she is survived by one brother, James H. Johnston, of Bailieboro. The funeral was held at Bailieboro cemetery, the se rvice conducted by Rev. W. E. Russell, long a friend of the family. Five nephews and one cousin, E. Westlake, of Toronto, were pallbearers.

Tribute Paid Marian Coon

High tribute to the memory of Miss Marian Coon, who died at her home at 589 Aylmer street on Friday, at her funeral service from George Street United Church on Monday.

A delegation of nearly 300 women from the Women's Presbyterial attended the service in a body and executive committee of that organization and of the auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society, were a guard of honor, preceding the casket as it left the church and carrying the large number of floral tributes.

The service at George Street United Church at 2 o'clock followed a private service at the home, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church conducting both services in the absence of Rev. M. C. Parr, the deceased's pastor.

Mrs. Hugh Taylor, foreign missions executive secretary of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, brought expressions of sympathy from her board and the church. A former missionary in West China, she knew the late Miss Coon intimately and told the story of the deceased's life from her school days through her work in the mission field.

Rev. R. A. Whattam, secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation and former minister at Mark Street United Church here, a cousin of the deceased, related the more personal phases of the deceased's life and career. Prayer was offered by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United Church, acting chairman of the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church. Rev. H. C. Wolfraim of Queen Street United Church, Lindsay, read the scripture. Queen Street Church was the last charge of the deceased's father, the late Rev. C. H. Coon. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe also spoke. Interment was made at Lindsay.

Surplus Chicken Crop Wanted In Britain

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—The 1938 indications are that the surplus of the Canadian chicken crop will go to Great Britain, the Department of Agriculture said today. "Dressed chickens between three and five pounds weight sell most readily in Great Britain and to maintain a satisfactory export movement from Canada to that country a reasonable quantity of chickens of that weight is necessary," it said.

"Unfortunately, it is not the normal practice of Canadian producers to market chickens of that weight, but this year there are special reasons for doing so. The stocks of chickens in Canada are low, the prices for live chickens in the United States are not so attractive as a year ago and the signs in Great Britain are that there is an outlet for all the dressed poultry Canadian producers can offer."

Indian Arrested By Mounties

Joseph Taylor, a member of the Curve Lake Reserve, was arraigned before Gordon Puffer, J.P., in police court today, charged with a violation of the Indian Act in having liquor on the reserve, and was remanded until tomorow. Taylor was arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police at the Rama Reserve Wednesday, during a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the taking over of the reserve by the band. He was brought here today by Corp. Jack Woods of the R.C.M.P.

Highways Minister Makes New Appeal To Pedestrians

Coincident with the appearance of the 1938-39 edition of the Ontario Motorist's Handbook edited and published by Lillian D. Millar, Toronto, comes an appeal from Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario minister of Highways for greater co-operation on the part of pedestrians in avoiding street accidents.

"Highway accident tolls will be sharply reduced when pedestrians learn to think of themselves as a distinct group in the highway traffic stream," Mr. McQuesten states in his appeal." Pedestrians have remained strongly individualistic through all the year of rapid growth in vehicular traffic, while motorists are increasingly conscious of themselves, as a class, and are being trained to keep their minds on the job of driving, while they have a wheel in their hands. Too many pedestrians have their minds anywhere except on the job of walking on the streets and highways in a manner that will prevent an accident involving themselves and possibly other travelers on the highway. The best pedestrians are the postmen. They use the streets more than anyone else but very rarely are they involved in an accident, and you don't see a postman's name in the casualty list. The postman uses the cross walks, is careful and accurate in his judgment of traffic movements and speeds, and he never tries to compete with passing traffic."

While Mr. McQuesten appeals to the pedestrian for greater care in using the highways, the Ontario Motorist's Handbook offers some useful information and good advice to motor vehicle drivers generally. The book deals with the legal liability of a motorist as owner-driver, employer, to passengers and onus in case of accidents. Other chapters explain the coverage of automobile insurance, automobile financing, care and repair of car, first aid on the highway, traffic rules and regulations, what to do when accidents occur, laws outside of Ontario when on vacation trips. The chapters are well illustrated. One excellent bit of advice is offered motorists in event of an accident occurring. It is "Don't talk too much—Silence is golden."

Included in the publication are several pages, prepared in ledger form, for the keeping of automobile operating accounts. Two pages have ruled spaces for gasoline consumption and costs, oil consumption and cost and speedometer readings for a year while other pages provide for a recording of general upkeep expenses, safety check-up records, insurance and automobile records. In all, it is a very handy little book, offering much valuable information, in concise, easily-found form.

Bright Prospects For Tobacco Crop

According to the first of a series of reports in 1938 on the tobacco crop of Canada, the total area planted shows a considerable increase over the 1937 acreage, and is the largest in the history of the Canadian industry. At present the area is estimated at nearly 80,000 acres, as compared with 65,350 acres in 1937 and 55,000 acres in 1936. The increased acreage is largely planted to flue-cured tobacco in Ontario.

The report which covers crop conditions up to the end of June, 1938, and crop prospects at that date states that the general outlook for the tobacco crop was promising. Weather conditions on the whole have been favorable, with temperatures about normal and moisture supplies ample, except in the Yamaska Valley, Quebec, where growth of seedlings and transplanting was delayed by adverse weather early in the season and heavy replantings necessitated by lack of rainfall in mid-June.

Growth in Ontario has been particularly rapid, and some flue-cured tobacco has almost reached the topping stage. The crop in British Columbia is generally well established, being somewhat early and practically free from insect pests and disease. Very little damage from insects and disease is reported from Quebec. Wireworms have been active in the Ontario crop. Root rot is prevalent, but the damage to date is somewhat less than in 1937.

The report is based on information received from the Experimental Stations, Dominion Department of Agriculture at Harrow, Ontario; L'Assomption and Farnham, P.Q., and Summerland, British Columbia, where experimental and research work in conection with tobacco production is a feature, together with the reports of the crop correspondents of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which issues the series. The Flue-Cured Marketing Association of Ontario, the Burley Marketing Association of Ontario, and other association, also co-operate in this service.

There has been a very substantial increase in the production of tobacco in Canada in recent year, particularly in flue-cured. The principal development has been in S.W. Ontario with Norfolk County as the centre of the activity. The value of the Canadian tobacco crop in 1937 is estimated at over $17,000,000.

Attorney Stays In Jail

SEATTLE, July 21.—(AP).—Attorney Milton Heiman went to jail to consult a client and not even another attorney and a bail bondsman could get him out. The lock stuck. An hour later, when county jail officials had decided to use an acetylene torch, the key was tried a final time. It worked.

Three Die In Plane

FORT PLAIN, N.Y., July 21. — (AP)—Two women and a man were killed today in the crash of a biplane in a field near Fort Plain.

The victims were: Everett Sanders, 34, owner of the plane; Mrs. Theresa Hendershott and Mrs. Allen Shelley.

The plane crashed during a heavy fog.

The bodies were imprisoned in the plane, which struck with tremendous force, burying its nose six feet into the ground.

Kiddies Enjoy Annual Picnic S.A. Auspices

The Salvation Army Sunday School and Corps picnic was held at Nicholls Oval on Wednesday afternoon and evening and was attended by a large gathering. All manner of races, games, ball games, and sports were enjoyed by young and old.

An annual affair, the picnic was a success from every point of view. Adjutant and Mrs. Neil Warrander were host and hostess and convenors were D. Smith, R. C. Braund, J. J. Cunnigham, R. G. Routly, A. B. Smith, Miss Thomlinson, T. H. Brooks, and S. J. Richardson. The picnic commenced at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon, supper was served on the grounds, and activities continued until nine in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. A. Barnes, members of St. John Ambulance Brigade and Auxiliary, were present as a safety measure.

FIESTA

BY OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER 44

SOME PEOPLE, it has been proven, can dance steadily right on through an afternoon and night and still be going strong next morning. Bill Baron couldn't say just how many of Ellen's guests had done that, but shortly after dawn on Saturday he noted that the fiesta was still under way. He himself had slept for five hours.

"People kept coming all night, Doc," one of the cowboys informed him. "Much viva la musica, ain't it?"

"You said it," Bill yawned. "Ought to be sure 'nough fun tonight."

Many others were sleeping, however, and breakfasts were being eaten at all hours, even to past noon. Men who were up during the morning engaged in impromptu rodeo stunts, mostly bucking horse riding. Ellen came out and spent an hour with them to the mens delight. When she stayed on a bucker herself for the allotted 10 seconds, the men waved their hats and cheered so loudly that everybody came out of the house to see what caused the excitement.

Three or four fellows became obnoxiously intoxicated and Bill escorted them off the premises. A couple of lads took to fists over a girl, and the others present made them scrap it out in a makeshift boxing ring. That totaled all the trouble for the first 24 hours.

Ellen sought out Bill at about four that afternoon.

"I'm worried about food," she admitted. "Do you suppose there'll be enough for everybody? For tonight and maybe breakfast, too?"

Bill pushed back his huge cowboy hat, and surveyed the various groups of carefree people.

"I think so," he drawled. "But I'll check up and be sure, Ellen."

He went to the main storehouse of the rancho, a flat abode structure which had been built 50 yards or so back of Ellen's home. It was a catch-all, to house all manner of things such as an extra barrel of flour, barrel of sugar, cans of coffee, slabs of cured bacon and hams, rolls of barbed wire for fencing, tools all the assorted and valuable things needed in running a ranch except the saddles and harness which were kept near the corals. Bill noted an abundance of kitchen supplies; then while probing around made another discovery.

"Be doggoned!" he murmured, to himself, curious.

More than 20 rifles had been placed on the floor back in a dark corner behind some stacks of boxes and covered with empty bags.

He examined the guns. All were loaded. He concluded that some of the guests had put them there for safe keeping, not wishing to appear at a party with such arms, but expecting to go on a hunting trip later. He re-covered them and dismissed the matter from his mind.

This storage room was a long one and in the other end Bill had put some sacks of especially prepared calf feed used in his feeding tests. The sacks were stacked ceiling high. Because a window behind them afforded light, and because a little nook of privacy was made there by the sacks he sat down to rest and think a bit. He wanted this moment, alone, to check over all fiesta details in his mind and on his pocket notebook. Privacy was impossible outside.

He had sat there 10 minutes when his thoughts drifted to personal things. Sid Bromberg wanted him to go to Hollywood. The money offer had been a big one. Even if he didn't make good, the one six months' contract would set him up in life, he knew. But he'd feel like a fool in Hollywood, money or no; his life was on the open range. He had been born and reared there, and except for college in Houston, Tex., he had stayed there.

A man had best stick with what he knows. And loves. But Bill wanted money. He needed it so he could court the girl he loved. He had forced himself to play hands-off with Ellen Dale because he lacked money. He had kidded her some but he had not proposed to her seriously ever. He wanted to, but he couldn't tie her down. She had remained free to take her own choice anywhere, even though Sid Bromberg would give him a chance.

His thoughts ran in this vein when voices interrupted him. Two men had come in the door. Automatically he peered between two of the sacks —then restrained his impulse to greet them.

Both men apparently were fiesta guests. But recognition of one caused Bill instant alarm.

"Why that's—that's the man who smuggled me out of Mexico!" he told himself, incredulous.

He kept still, listening. The men went to the concealed pile of rifles. They spoke in guarded tones.

"They are here," one man told the other, in Spanish. "And in this can labeled kerosene is the cocaine."

"Good!" approved the other. 'But watch your tongue. Now how many men are here?"

"Forty-three so far. There will be others. A few we can trust to have rifles. But here are enough rifles for ourselves, anyway. All are loaded. We must not stay long now. There are many empty feed sacks around. Tonight we can take rifles rolled in a sack to each car. No one will suspect."

"Right. But let's get out of here."

They left the building, and Bill Baron sat trying to digest what he had overheard. The dialogue had amazed him, as had discovery of the smuggler. He found his pulse beating fast so excited was he now.

He left his seat, though, and came cautionsly around the stacks of feed bags. He thought it best to stay inside for several minutes. He peered through a corner of a window. It commanded a view of Ellen's kitchen and back yard, an unfenced area where Mexican cooks and other servants were at work. People were milling around everywhere. Bill studied faces intently at long range.

Presently he slipped out, moving casually, and began to circulate among the guests. He had a smile and greeting for everyone. He found the smuggler with one group and stayed clear of him. Although Bill had been in careful disguise down in Mexico, the smuggler just might recognize him again, he feared.

He went all over the place. Some couples were playing cards on the ground. Some swapping yarns. Women and girls were being courted by bashful swains. At this late an afternoon hour, all seemed to be taking life a bit easier, resting for the dancing they knew would be resumed at sundown and continue until another dawn. Indians were playing games, eating, loafing. Bill noted that a considerable number of the guests spoke only Spanish and kept as inconspicuous as possible. "Be damned!" he growled to himself. 'This taking place right here under my nose!"

He understood the situation thoroughly, but he could not make up his mind what to do. He hoped above all to avoid spoiling Ellen's fiesta. He had to figure out something.

He realized the smugglers had put their rifles and cocaine in Ellen's own storehouse as being the safest possible place. Nobody would normally suspect anything contraband there, not even any snooping federal officer who might chance along. Neither aliens nor smugglers would dare go right into the ranch houses with such dangerous things, people would say, wherefore it became the ideal place. Often the "impossible" place is the best spot for concealment; often audacity and daring will accomplish more than meticulous hiding or force.

Bill's anger mounted as he walked about, thinking. He kept his face smiling, his greeting casual and hearty. But a keen observer might have read much in his eyes.

After a bit he went to his own room. When he was sure nobody could see him, he strapped on a belt of cartridges and two six guns.

"No," he said then, to himself, and removed the weapons.

Instead, he put one loaded revolver inside his shirt bosom, stuck under his belt. He put on a beaded rawhide jacket that he had bought the day before from an Indian woman and made sure that it concealed the pistol's bulge.

Then he ambled back outside, heading finally for Ellen's house. He wanted to use her telephone.

DOROTHY DIX

Too Much Mother in the Living-Room When John Comes to Call on Ann Decreases the Chances of Daughter Finding a Husband—Young Folks Don't Care For Spectators at Their Courtship

DEAR MISS DIX—I am in a terrible predicament. My mother is queering all of my dates and cutting me out of having good times, and, unless something can be done about it, will eventually keep me from marrying by always being Sally-on-the-spot whenever a boy comes to see me. Time and time again she has driven away boys who showed they were interested in me by taking her seat in the room when they called and monopolizing all the conversation, telling all about her rheumatism and what a cute baby I was and family jokes until the poor things were so bored they never came back again. I have spoken to my mother about this, but it only made her furious. She says we shouldn't say anything we are not willing for her to hear. We don't. But it just embarrasses a boy to have a girl's mother listening in. Just now I have a boy friends whom I like very much, but after coming two or three times and spending the evening listening to mother he is cooling off. She is breaking us up. What can I do?

MABEL.

ANSWER:

Belling the cat is nothing as a feat of skill to gagging a garrulous woman. The task is particularly difficult when a daughter tries to do it, for mother always thinks that she knows best and that it is impertinence for a child to tell her of her faults. As a matter of fact, no woman should need to be told that when young men come to the house they come to see her daughter and not to see her. Nor should she need to be reminded that no youth's idea of spending a pleasant evening consists in listening to mother's reminiscences.

It would also seem that even the most forgetful woman would remember how murderous she felt when she was a girl and her mother eavesdropped on her and her beaux and regaled the breakfast table the next morning by repeating the inapities of their conversation. Furthermore, it would seem that even a moronic mother would recall that when the boys found that mother was a fixture in the parlor when they said good night it was, indeed, GOOD NIGHT forever.

But there are thousands of well-meaning mothers who never think back to their own girlhood days at all, or else they are under the impression that the technique of courtship has been changed, or perhaps they don't think at all about handicapping their daughters' game. They are sociable and love the sound of their own voices. They enjoy young company, so when Percival comes to call on Sadie they simply plop themselves down in the most comfortable chair and have a perfectly grand time entertaining themselves.

Percival writhes and tries ta be polite and says to himself "never again." Sadie also writhes and prays for mother to be struck down, for she knows that mother is killing her chances with an eligible youth. And mother is the only one who is happy, and she wouldn't be if she knew what she was doing.

She doesn't realize that she is cramping their style and that neither the girl nor the boy can act naturally when a third party is around—especially when that party is a girl's mother. The boy can't do the artless boasting that he would do, and for which the girl would give him the glad hand if nobody was around listening in. And the girl can't try any of the pretty little tricks that would make such a hit with the boy if mother's eye is upon her. They can't even giggle over silly little young jokes because they sound idiotic when censored by a grown-up.

It isn't that the girl and boy want to say anything or do anything that the whole world mightn't know that makes them resent mother's presence. It is just that they can't be themselves when she is about. And that is why, so far as keeping boys away, a mother had as well flaunt a small-pox sign in front of her house as to always be hanging around when her daughters have dates.

The reason that many an attractive girl never has any attention from men is because she has too much mother. She clutters up the scene with her presence. She never remembers that two is company and three is a crowd. She never gives the girls a chance to strut their stuff or the men an opportunity to propose.

* * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—You say that for the sake of the future of the children estranged parents ought to remain together and keep a peaceful and happy home. I am married to a man who has turned out to be insanely jealous, a drunkard and a wife-beater. He has broken my heart. He made my life a hell a few days after the birth of my baby while I was still sick in bed. He has beaten me and reviled me. He has threatened to drag me as low as it is possible for one to get. He has wrecked my nerves and my life. He has even threatened my baby's life. There is no doubt that in years to come, when our daughter is grown, he will lay hands on her without a scruple. Don't you think that I am doing her a favor instead of an injustice by divorcing him and taking him out of her life as much as possible, not to mention mine?

MOTHER.

ANSWER:

It is no woman's duty to live with a brute or a fiend for the sake of her children. Indeed, qutte the contrary is true, and when she is married to such a man she owes it to the children to take them away from him and out of the sphere of his influence and ill-treatment.

When I urge a married couple who are disgruntled with each other to keep together for the sake of their children and give them the benefit of a settled home and the care of both a mother and father I am presuming that they are decent people; people with good morals and good habits. Very often a man and woman of the highest character marry and find themselves totally uncongenial and unable to get along together in peace. They quarrel over silly trifles and make each other perfectly miserable.

I recall one case of a woman who wanted to get a divorce from her husband because she liked artistic dark rooms and every time he came into the house he snapped up all the window shades or turned on all the electric lights. And I recall a man who was bent on divorcing his wife because she interfered in his flower garden and wouldn't let his dog sleep in the house.

DOROTHY DIX.

Can Dream Signs Warn You of Trouble?

Do you worry about a vivid dream of misfortune, fear it's a sign of trouble for you?

But laugh when you dream foolishly in an ink-spot, see no meaning in it.

Forget your sensible dream; dream events rarely repeat themselves in life. A truer sign's in your silly dream. That ink-spot is one of the symbols your unconscious mind uses to warn you when all's not well. To dream of it means you're suffering from a fear of embarrassment. Your unconscious says: Face the facts, solve your problem.

Understand the symbols in your dreams, as modern psychologists interpret them. Dream music hints a threat to your pride; a snake, that you're not happy in your affections; a glaring sun, a worry bout your father.

Our 32-page booklet by a famous psychologist tells how to read dream symbols, to understand yourself, get clues to problems.

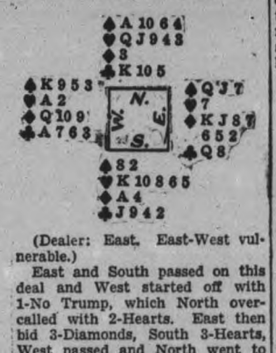
CLEARING THE DECKS

PRELIMINARY preparation is an essential adjunct of most of the truly fancy plays. It usually consists of eliminating certain entire suits from your own hand or the dummy, or both, or from the hands of one or both defenders. After that, the options from which the opponents may choose are limited to those things which you would like to have them do. That is so with nearly all kinds of lead-throwing maneuvers, squeezes, coups, "smother" plays and other brilliant finishing flourishes.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East and South passed on this deal and West started off with 1-No Trump, which North overcalled with 2-Hearts. East then bid 3-Diamonds, South 3-Hearts, West passed and North went to 4-Hearts.

When the diamond 7 was led, North looked the situation over and discovered he had one spade loser, one heart and two possible clubs. His problem then was to avoid the loss of one of them.

He won the first trick with the diamond A and played the Spade A. Next he gave up a spade to East's J. The diamond return was ruffed and followed by a spade ruff. The heart K was then won by West, who led another heart. This was won with the Q and a spade ruffed. The club 2 came next, and when West played low, North put up the K, as West was marked with the A. The club 5 was then offered and East had to win with the Q. He had nothing but diamonds left, so that the ruff of that suit provided for a discard of a losing club.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Coming into the playroom the other evening after the children had gone to bed, Knarf and Hanid—the shadows with the turned-about names—were surprised to see the Tin Soldier looking very worried. Usually the Tin Soldier had a very brave expression on his face. They wondered what was wrong.

"Good evening, General Tin," the two shadows greeted him. "Is something the matter?"

"Lots," answered the Tin Soldier without changing the expression on his face.

"Can we help you in some way?" Hanid wanted to know.

"No," he said.

"But you look very worried."

"I can look any way I please."

There didn't see mto be much use trying to make the Tin Soldier say any more, so they walked over to the other side of the room where Jack-in-the-Box was leaning over the edge of his box. "Hello, Jack," Knarf said. "Something has happened to the Tin Soldier. He's very angry."

He Knows About It.

"Yes, I know all about it," Jack said.

"You do! What is it then?"

Jack winked. "Better go and ask Miss China Doll. There she is now, slotting in the doorway of her house."

So the two shadows hurried to the corner of the room just under the window where Miss China Doll lived in her own beautiful private house. "Hello, Miss Doll," Knarf said. "Can you tell us why the Tin Soldier is so worried this evening?"

"It's because I've asked him to do me a favor and he's afraid he can't do it," Miss China Doll replied.

"What kind of a favor do you want him to do?"

"I want him to get me a polar bear rug to lay down in front of my fireplace. I've asked him to go out and catch a polar bear and get the skin. It isn't much of a favor. He really oughtn't to be worried."

"But where will he be able to find a polar bear?" Hanid asked in surprise.

"Oh, there are plenty of them about. I think most of them live near the North Pole. All he has to do is go to the North Pole."

"My goodness!" said Hanid. "No wonder he's worried!"

A Reception Committee which includes Senator Iva Fallis, Mrs. Arthur Van Koughnet, Miss Edna Sanders, Mrs. George Cockshutt, and Mrs. George Gooch, with a corps of Toronto women, will be at the convention hall and floor to welcome members who are attending the National Conservative Association of Ontario meeting which is being held today in Toronto at the Royal York Hotel.

Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion will be the guest of honor at the banquet, which will be followed by an informal reception where guests will have an opportunity of being presented to the new Dominion Leader and the new president of the Ontario Association.

Over three thousand are expected to attend the banquet and dance following the meeting.

English Women Wearing Green for Eire Pact

LONDON, July 21. (CP).—Even the fashions are impressed with improved relations between London and Dublin and the British Color Council has given its blessing to a special line of green called "Eire" to mark this cordial development.

In truly Irish manner, the new color differs not a fraction of a shade from that previously known as "Paddy Green" but small samples of material dyed the new tint, and attached to imposing folders have been sent out by the authoritative body which has the say on styles in colors.

The cover of the folder bears merely the seal of the council and the word Eire in capital letters and of course in green ink. Inside is the following explanation facing the sample: "This color is sponsored by the British Color Council to commemorate the consolidation of good relations between Great Britain and Eire."

Under such pressure it can be taken for granted that by the end of the summer "Eire" dresses, hats, coats and thousands of yards of material worn by thousands of Englishwomen will be proclaiming the removal of wigs from the green.

Speeds Training

Aside from such impulsive gestures, the most popular colors with British women seem to be khaki and military Horizon Blue—and even these are not being donned with sufficient haste to please officialdom. To speed up matters, Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare broadcast an appeal for 600,000 women to join for the Air Raid Precautions Service. "Bring to this difficult job your fresh mind, your keen imagination, your untiring devotion, which already have made women's work a priceless treasure in our national life," he said.

By posters and in the press the government has asked for 1,000,000 volunteers. In two months 400,000 have joined, now there is a drive to interest the other 600,000. For the first time during peace in British history women have been asked to take active service in defence of the country.

So that the public may be assured the aviation section of the Women's Legion is no fly-by-night affair lead by young hotheads, official recognition has been given this organization by the air ministry and Lady Loch is taking charge, co-operating with Lady Londonderry and her Women's Legion officers.

Honor Woman Glider

Older women who have watched the advance of aviation from its infancy have suddenly come to the fore, among them Miss Agnes Baden-Powell, sister of Lord Baden-Powell and the late Major B. F. S. Baden-Powell, the aviation pioneer. She has just been elected an honorary Companion of the Royal Aeronautical Society, the second woman to receive that distinction.

Miss Baden-Powell's flying experiences were in the gliders of 1903-1904 and she was a close friend of the Wright brothers, Marconi and Bleriot. She has never flown in an airliner. "I have only flown in gliders and balloons. I don't think airplanes are safe yet," she told interviewers in all seriousness, and as one reason why she is not an Honorary Colonel of the Women's Air Force.

Project Clubs Hold Annual Achievement Day

A bright and enthusiastic group of girls gathered Wednesday morning in the County Court Room at the Court House here for their annual Achievement Day program. These girls, 55 in all, are Peterborough County members of rural Project Clubs, promoted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture under the supervision of their Home Economic Coach, Miss Greta Pollard, Bowmanville.

Miss Florence Eadie of Toronto, who superintends the junior work of these clubs throughout the province, was also present to assist in the judging, and to instruct the girls further in the various phases of their work.

The contestants, ranging in age from 12 to 26, are usually girls who have finished their schooling and are assisting in the work of their community and at home. The training obtained through these clubs is a splendid one, creating a new interest in Home Economics; and calling for originality, and an organizing ability which was clearly demonstrated in the general summing up of the work yesterday.

Leader-Training Courses.

A group leader, usually chosen by the Women's Institute, of which the Home Economic Department is a branch, is appointed to attend two-day classes conducted by Miss Pollard. These courses are held spring and fall in the office of the Agricultural Representative, Frank Paterson. From the training thus gained the leader is able to organize a Project Club in her own community. The clubs, held each week, are conducted in a business-like way; the courses of study recorded in achievement record books by each girl, and the year's work criticized on Achievement Day.

Work of Clubs Exhibited.

During the morning exhibits were set up by each club representing the work of the two projects undertaken this year, "Cotton Accessories for the Club Girl's Bedroom," displaying sewing done by the girls at their meetings, and appetizing and attractive dishes demonstrating the many ways in which milk can be used as a food, which represented the work of their second project, "The Milky Way." Essays on these subjects, and neat, illustrated achievement record books were also judged. A "Sleeping Garment" project is planned for the coming year, and a leader-training school will be held in the fall as usual.

A brief sketch on the extension program was outlined by Mr. Paterson, certificates were given out to the clubs for achievements, and badges presented to the leader of each group. An interesting feature of the morning also was the presentation of diplomas to Miss Alma Robinson and Miss Alice Burns of R. R. No. 6, Peterborough, who have successfully completed six projects.

County Judging Team.

A County judging team to represent Peterborough County at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto was chosen as follows: Irene Kidd and Mary Barrie of Birdsall, and Marion Beatty and Alice Burns of R. R. No. 6, Peterborough.

The Lakefield Club is to be the demonstration team at the Peterborough Exhibition this year, and will be represented by Irene Frankish, Ethel Blakely and Mildred Garbutt.

In the afternoon interesting playlets demonstrating their club work, and planned by the girls themselves, were presented by each of the eight groups. A frank, comprehensive and constructive criticism on the year's work by Miss Pollard and Miss Eadie completed the day's activities.

Project Clubs have been formed in Havelock, Apsley, Buckborn, Lakefield, Warsaw, Zion, Springville and North Monaghan, and members from each were represented on Wednesday.

From Peterborough Miss Pollard goes to Lindsay, where she will conduct an Achievement Day for Victoria County Project Club members on Saturday, July 23.

Careful Washing Adds Glove Life

Washable fabric gloves may be kept meticulously clean and still hold shape and color with careful laundering. Use only a mild soap thoroughly dissolved in warm water. Avoid rubbing soap directly on the gloves or rubbing on a board. Try rather to soak the soil from the gloves by gently squeezing the suds through the fabric. If the soil is stubborn, brush the soiled spots gently with a flexible brush. Rinse thorough in tepid water, squeeze dry and stretch on glove form or stuff with tissue paper to preserve shape and prevent color running. Hang in a shady, airy spot to dry.

Cavan Personals

The Misses Mary and Dorothy Armstrong spent a few days of this week visiting Miss Margaret Fisher, Ashburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Toronto, were week-end guests of Mrs. Keegan.

Mrs. J. White and daughter Dorothy, Peterborough, are guests of Mrs. A. B. Kennedy.

Mrs. G. Neal, Toronto, is visiting Mrs. Keegan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clegg and Murray motored from Guelph on Sunday and visited friends over the week-end, Mrs. Clegg and Murray remaining with her sister, Mrs. R. Bonner for a further visit.

To Save Table From Scratches

Fasten a piece of felt to the underside of the tray you use for serving on the dining table. This will save those disfiguring scratches that will appear from time to time, however careful you are. The idea also makes serving much quieter. The best way to fasten the felt is either with brass headed carpet tacks or brass drawing pins.

Enquiry Column

Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you give me a recipe for pickled onions? I read your page every week and get a lot out of it. Thanking you—Mrs. C. W. B.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Pickled Onions

Peel small white onions, cover with a brine consisting of 1½ cups salt to 2 quarts boiling water, and let stand 2 days. Drain and cover with more brine in the same proportions of salt and water; let stand 2 days and again drain. Make more brine and heat to boiling point, put in onions and boil 3 minutes. Put in clean jars, interspersing with blades of mace, whole cloves, bits of bay leaf, slices of red pepper, and white peppercorns. Fill jars to overflowing with white wine vinegar scalded with sugar, allowing 1 cup sugar to 1 gallon vinegar. Cover while hot.

QUESTION: Could you please tell me of a sure way to get rid of bedbugs? We have them in a twin bed studio couch. I read in your page some time ago of a woman that used turpentine so I tried it using the sprayer from the electrolux. A lot of them came out and we killed them but since we have found them back again. Does the turpentine send them away to die or are they all right afterwards? Will they get into the mattress and upholstery? Please answer as soon as possible as I am afraid we will be swamped with them if I don't do something soon.

When pickling time comes will you please print a small recipe for extra sweet mustard pickles using a little more cauliflower than usual? Thanks for your help, good luck to you and yours.—D. P.

ANSWER: Thanks you for your letter.

To completely exterminate bedbugs, fullgrown, newly hatched, and eggs, the room must be closed off by stuffing windows and floors with crumpled newspapers and fumigated. This can be done by an exterminating company who will quote you a price for fumigating the room, or you may do it yourself with a sulphur candle manufactured for the purpose. Sulphur candle is stood on tin or enamel plate, and lit when room is completely closed, and materials that will fade should be removed, for sulphur is a bleach. It will bleach wall paper that is not sun proof. Exterminating companies know what will fade and you do not have any expensive after alterations to make if they do the job. If you decide on the sulphur candle, light it and leave the room, shut the door, stuff the door cracks from the outside and leave 24 hours tight shut and locked. Then open and air out for 24 hours. All bedbugs and moths will be dead.

Turpentine will kill the bugs it touches, but it is almost impossible for it to do the whole job, unless you ferret out every last bug and drown it in turpentine.

A more pleasant subject is the Mustard pickle recipe you wanted and here it is (however good luck in getting rid of your pests).

Sweet Mustard Pickles

(Plenty of cauliflower).

Six medium sized heads pure white cauliflower, (if they are spotted with black it means they are old), 1 medium sized head celery, ½ dozen small red peppers, 50 3-inch cucumbers, 1 quart small white onions. Slice all together after they are washed and trimmed or peeled as the case may be. Separate cauliflower into flowerets, leave small cucumbers whole, peel onion, wash and cut celery into 1-inch pieces, seed and slice peppers. Soak overnight in 1 gallon of brine made of 1 gallon water, 1 cup salt. Drain in the morning and cook in fresh salt water until tender or nearly so. Mix ½ cup flour and 1 teaspoon turmeric with 1 cup cold water to make a paste. Add 2 quarts not too strong vinegar, 2 lbs. brown sugar, 2 tablespoons musard seed, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon cinnamon (or cinnamon bark may be used if you like the color to be bright), 3 tablespoons ground mustard. Heat stirring until it thickens, then add vegetables, mix, heat, boil 5 minutes and bottle in sterile jars and seal.

QUESTION: This is the first time I have ever written to you but I read the cookery page every week hoping you will some time publish the way to cook a pot roast. My husband likes them very much—he says his mother could cook them so that they were always tender. I put mine on to cook in water to cover and boil rapidly for 2 hours, then I lift out the meat and thicken the gravy, add salt and pepper. But they are always tough, and I keep crying every time I try to slice one. I always hope each one will turn out better than the last. Please tell me if it is posible to cook tough cuts of beef on top of the stove and make then tender and tell me exactly what cuts to buy. I do pretty good on the cakes you give us and loved fixing the gelatine salads the way you said—but meats get me down. Thanks for the help I know you will give me.—Nan O'D.

ANSWER: You are not giving yourself a chance to have tender pot roasts. It's that high temperature and large amount of water—they would toughen even a tender cut.

Pot Roasting

Select a four-pound cut from the square side of the rump. (Order this from your butcher ahead of time as there is quite a demand for it.) Wipe it clean with a dampened wet cloth. Sear it in heavy frying pan (or Dutch oven is excellent for your purpose) having about 1-3 lb. suet or fat trimmings from the meat, melted in the pan, and constantly turn it until all sides are browned from the high heat—this will take about 10 minutes. The pan or pot should be deep enough that the sides are higher than the roast—if not change roast from iron frying pan to deep pot and add 1 cup boiling water, cover, reduce heat so that water will be just below boiling point and let cook for from 4 to 6 hours. Do not let water ever entirely cook away, but add only enough to keep the meat from burning. Have a closely fitted cover to keep in the steam. Add seasonings such as black pepper, salt and paprika just before it is finished—or these may be added before the searing is done—they give a nice deep brown coating to the meat throughout the whole cooking period. Cook down well to let the juice brown at last

If liked finely diced carrots, sliced onion, ½ cup stewed tomato may be added, to the gravy after meat is done. Most cooks add these to the gravy raw and let them cook while the meat is finishing, but they tend to burn if little enough water is kept on the meat and I do not recommend this. Cook the finely chopped vegetables separately, and add them to the gravy just before they are ready to be served. The water they are cooked in makes more gravy. To make gravy stir 2 tablespoons flour into ½ cup water until no lumps are left, then stir this into the liquid into bottom of roasting pot after meat is removed and stir until it thickens, strain over roast on hot platter. Garnish all with sliced tomatoes (or halves of broiled tomatoes) or whole glazed carrots. Pot roast done this way is tender—and especially nice when served cold.

We have made this very detailed because we think you asked a good question and that it will be welcomed by other brides. Write whenever we can help.

QUESTION: I am writing you again—you have kept me supplied with recipes for unusual cakes for the past few years—and now I am ripe for another. Your Hickory Nut cake has become a treasure with me, I always make it for birthdays.

Do you have an unusual cake in your files—I have a good white cake, a nut cake and a chocolate cake. How about a spice cake for a change? You are so good natured with my suggestions I hope you don't mind this letter. Keep up the good work.—M. C. S.

ANSWER: I love your spirit. It is certainly a good way to become a good cook. Write whenever you need help.

Spanish Whipped Cream Cake

One-half cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1¾ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon cocoa, 1 teaspoon cinamon, ¾ cup milk. Cream shortening and add sugar and yolks of eggs which have been beaten well; sift together the flour, baking powder, cocoa and cinnamon and sift them into the butter mixture alternately with the milk; then fold in the beaten whites. Bake in 2 buttered layer tins in oven of 375 deg. Fahr. for from 35 to 40 minutes. Put together and cover top with:

Two Economical Summer Specials

Mock Pate De Fois Gras (for sandwiches or slicing)—One lb. liver, calves or beef, 1 lb. fat salt pork, 1 cup very dry fine bread crumbs, 2 eggs 1 medium onion, parsley, 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, ½ cup good meat stock or strained canned soup, salt, pepper and cayenne. Grind the liver and pork through the mincer. Stir all ingredients well, adding the eggs last. Steam packed tightly in greased small bread pan 4 hours. Cool and slice for sandwiches.

This may be mashed with a fork and mixed with mayonnaise or relishes or chopped pickles for sandwich variations. Dill pickles chopped go well with it. Of course it can be used sliced on a coal meat plate.

Potato and Frankfurter Salad—Nine frankfurters, French dressing, 8 medium sized cold cooked potatoes diced, 1 small onion peeled and minced, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, ½ cup diced celery, 6 medium sized tomatoes. Prick the frankfurters and dip them in boiling water for 5 minutes. Then drain and cut in thirds crosswise. Chill and add ¼ cup French dressing and let stand in ice box ½ hour. Combine the potatoes, onion, parsley and celery. Add about 1-3 cup French dressing to moisten, then chill. Heap salad in mound in centre of platter. Arrange frankfurter around the base of the salad. Group the overlapping slices of tomato at each end of the platter. Pass French dressing at table.

Fashions Are Set By King and Queen

PARIS, July 21—(CP)—An English Queen and French King are having a hand in shaping to-day's fashions.

Queen Elizabeth's well - known fondness for red roses is putting those flowers on frocks and toques and promoting their glowing color in several other departments of chic dress. Because of the 300th anniversary of the birth of Louis XIV, the "Grand Monarch" of France, these season's fashions also are being influenced by the splendors of his day and court.

In honor of the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to Paris, new coiffures are being designed with the hair massed on top of the head.

Among splendid costumes ordered for wear during the visit of the King and Queen are many in tulle. Lady Mandl has chosen one in pale blue, with embrolded arabesques in gold beads and blue paillettes.

The Marquise of Polignac has ordered a white tulle frock with wide flaring skirt accented by a motif of silver spangles around the hip.

Among prints chosen are many in black and white and in navy and white. The Marquise de Casteja has ordered a frock in black and white print, with a black coat and a white straw sailor.

Hats are fluffed up with ostrich or trimmed with birds, flowers, ribbons. A toque covered with red roses is also trimmed with two standing ostrich plumes in bright blue. Small hats include a number of draped models. One in bright blue silk jersey has two nodding plumes of ostrich in the same shade. Another draped style is entirely in cerise velvet. Gaufre chiffon is draping felts, and veils are everywhere.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"What a superb thing it would be if we were all big enough in mind to see no slights, accept no insults, cherish no jealousies, and admit into our heart no hatred."—Hubbard.

Dear Freinds:

You know, sometimes we take offence when it was never intended. We carry our feelings too near the surface, so that every little thing brushing against them hurts, then off we go to brood on why people do these things to us.

I remember how hurt and angry I used to get at a lady in this town. (She gave me permisison to tell you of it). She seemed very friendly when we met, interested, wanted to call, etc., yet when I met her on the street and bowed, she looked right through me and went on.

So, one day I met her again at a friend's house. She told me how glad she was to meet me again, and I couldn't hold my tongue. I asked why she was trying to fool me, what her idea was, and said how often I had smiled to her, to get only a blank stare in return.

She was flabbergasted, and turning to her friend she said, "now I know I'll have to get glasses. I cannot see anything but a blur, unless a person is right close up to me. No doubt that accounts for the coldness of some of my other friends. I must have done the same thing to them."

Of course this explanation soothed my ruffled feathers, and we were as friendly as before. Now, when I see her I look to see if she is wearing glasses, and if not I sail right by, for I know she doesn't see me.

I used to carry my feelings close to the surface, and how much I suffered from it. And I also used to let every little thing anyone did or didn't do, trouble me, but now I just consider if the one who has hurt me intended it or not.

If they meant it, then I consider if they are important enough in my life to let every little mood of theirs affect me so that I was ill at ease because of it. If they are important, I ask what they meant by it, and have it out with them.

But, if they are not anything but a casual acquaintance I shrug it off, and promptly forget it. Remember, we cannot be all things to all people, and moreover they may have been puzzling some problem out, and so had scant interest in anyone.

Then to, if you are sure this seeming offence is not deserved, why let it bother you? Truly we give ourselves many bad hours by bothering to much about what this one said, or what the other one did, and it is all so silly when you come to think of it. Either have it out, or forget it.

I think men have a better philosophy about slights than women have. If a man doesn't speak, he generally says, "to heck with him," and maybe next day you see them talking together as if nothing had happened. After all, nothing did happen. Maybe the other man did not see him, maybe he was thinking so hard, that his eyes did not register who he was seeing.

The same thing could be possible when someone does not smile to woman, but she seems to take it as personal affront. One day, I w walking with a lady downtown, a she said, "Here comes my husban Watch him walk right by witho recognizing me."

I asked if it did not make h mad, and she said, "oh no. If h does not look at me, then I kno he is not looking at other wome for after all I am just as well wort looking at an any of these oth women on the street.

Rather a good way of figurin don't you think? Try it the nex time someone passes you witho smiling. Bury your feelings too dee to be hurt with every little thin

Wood Outlines Safety Rules On the Water

CHICAGO, July 21.—In anticipation of the needs of thousands of boating enthusiasts this summer, Gar Wood, the celebrated speed king of the water, has compiled "Ten Commandments for Water Safety." Here they are:

1. Treat your boat and the water as friends and respect them as friends. Don't jump into your boat any more than you would jump on a friend. Step in, hold both sides and sit down. If, because you have taken liberties, you fall in the water, don't get panicky. Your boat was made to float. It will, and it will keep you afloat if you hang on gently.

2. Use the same general care on the water you would use on the street. It isn't any harder to fall out of a boat than it is to fall down the back steps, or any easier.

3. Keep your boat neat and trim. Oil and dirt in the bottom may start a fire.

4. Sail with a sailor. If you have never operated a sailboat, canoe or outboard motorboat, you will profit a lot by a trial cruise with someone who has.

5. Stick with the ship, like a good captain. If the boat overturns far from shore, it is your best means of staying above the surface, unless you try to ride it upside down—then it will act like a bucking broncho. Just cling to it gently.

6. Boats and canoes seldom tip unless you change seats on the water, change boats on the water, overload the boat, sit on the gunwale, stand up in the boat or deliberately rock it. Refrain from these and you can relax in safety.

7. If you are using a small boat, remember the gentle breeze helping you on the way out may become a gale to exhaust you on the way back. Don't go too far from shore. If you are operating an outboard motor, be sure you have enough fuel to return against any wind that may come up.

8. Remain calm at the cry of "Man Overboard." When his head pops up, drag him into the boat over the stern or tow him to shallow water. If you get excited and try to pull him over the side of your craft, you may dump all other occupants into the water.

9. Use your oar or your paddle for the water. If you try to push off with it from a muddy bank it may stick and pull you in.

10. Embark in a boat that doesn't leak. It's easier to do the repairing on shore and a leaky boat is hard to handle and easy to overturn.

"In other words," commented Wood, holder of the world's speed record on water of 126 m.p.h., "use the common sense that you would use on land and everything will remain shipshape."

Honorary Citizen

U.S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt was made an honorary citizen of the city of Reims, France, at the opening of the three-day ceremonies consecrating the famous and anceint Reims cathedral, which was rebuilt by funds donated by philanthropists from half-a-dozen nations. Monsignor Suhard, who supervised the reconstruction work, is shown with Ambassador Bullitt.

Roumanian Ace Ready For Hop Over Atlantic

The $60,000 monoplane of Capt. Alex Papana, ace Roumanian airman, is pictured at Floyd Bennett airport, New York City, after a flight from Detroit, Mich. Papana (RIGHT) expects to fly non-stop from New York to Bucharest, Roumania, in 32 hours. His take-off was delayed following a crack-up at Norwalk, Conn., when he crashed into a stone wall while landing.

The Human Side of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

A lady who was the most talked-about little girl in the world 50 years ago will be 58 this month. She is the constitutional monarch of one of the best-going concerns in the world, the kingdom of the Netherlands. Queen Wilhelmina may well be proud of the stability and prosperity of her kingdom and her empire. She has her troubles with the Communists and over economic questions, but her people are loyal and steadfast and sanse.

Her army is small, as European armies go, and her navy consists mostly of gunboats which patrol and survey the deeps and shallows around Java, Sumatra, Borneo and the Netherland East Indies. We used to say the "Dutch" East Indies, but the people and government of Holland don't like the word "Dutch" and officially banned it. Such Americanisms as "in Dutch" and "Dutch treat" made the expression disagreeable to the ears of a Hollander.

They don't need a huge army over there, or a big navy because, unofficially, and without any sanction of treaty, they are under the protection of Great Britain. If any of the big powers jumped on Holland, the British lion would spring to the rescue very pronto. It's been that was ever since Napoleon's day, although back in the days of the Stuart kings the two nations waged war vigorously against each other and little Holland wasn't always the loser.

Van Tromp, famous Netherland admiral, sailed up the Thames river to London, with a broom insolently displayed at his masthead. He had swept the English fleet from the seas.

No circus wagon ever built compared in its red and gold gorgeousness with the golden state coach of the Netherlands as it rumbles through the cobbled and flag-bedecked streets of The Hague, bearing a plump, blue-eyed still golden-haired and pleasant-looking lady of 58 to the parliament house. And no shrewded ruler reigns than this some comfortably upholstered lady —Wilhelmina, queen of the Netherlands, who tells her states-general that the order of the day must be economy and proection of the Dutch markets.

Communists, with strident voices, tried to shout her down, but never for a moment did her firm, clear voice falter as she delivered an address which was a model for brevity and pertinency. It was an address that touched the lives and fortunes of vast populations and set the pace for a great empire.

The Netherlands—Holland —is such a small corner of Europe that we are apt to overlook the fact that little Holland, like little England, is the mother land of great colonies clear around the curve of the earth. The importance of the Dutch colonial empire — Java, Borneo, Sumatra, Celebes and hundreds of smaller islands in the far eastern seas, and the Dutch West Indies, Surinam, on the north coast of South America, and the rich Island of Curacao—was thoroughly recognized by the Washington conference.

It was Surinam, or Dutch Guiana, by the way, that England traded to Holland in 1667 for the province of New York. One of the few bad real estate deals that John Bull ever made. It is the great colonial domain, mostly in the East Indies, that makes Wilhelmina one of the world's richest women, with an income of six million dollars a year.

She was only a little girl of ten, with molasses-candy hair and china blue eyes—the last of the House of Orange-Nassau—when her father, William the Third, went the way of kings and common men. A remarkably pretty little Dutch doll, amiable and intelligent, the world was flooded with her pictures in those days. And the piquant and attractive little girl queen developed into an able and serious ruler, very much like the late Queen Victoria in many ways.

She knows thoroughly the nature of the problems she must solve daily. She speaks German, French, Italian and English, as well as her native Dutch. She keeps the ablest counsellors at her side; but she never signs a blank cheque. Training her daughter, Juliana, for affairs of state, has been her chief concern. Hre principal concern these days is about Japanese aggression in the eastern seas. Many Hollanders believe they will have it out with Japan some day, and that, if war comes, Great Britain cannot keep out.

Think Sidley Bequests Dutiable In Ontario

TORONTO, July 21 —(CP)—J. Frederick Holiss, Toronto Barrister who drew up Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley's will, was of the opinion today any bequests made by the heiress to the Malted Milk Millions during the past three years of her life would be dutiable in Ontario "provided it can be proved she was domiciled here."

But Mr. Holiss said yesterday after being questioned by provincial succession duties branch inspectors he was doubtful if the Sidley estate, estimated at from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000, could be taxed here. Affairs of Mrs. Sidley, who died here July 6, at present are being investigated by government officials.

ROSENEATH

Mrs. Will. Robins Entertains W.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, uly 21.—Mrs. William Robins was hostess Wednesday afternoon when the regular meeting of the United Church W.A. was held. The president, Mrs. A. Nill presided.

During the business period routine reports were heard from the various standing committees. The executive reported the sale of the chairs in the choir loft, replacing them with new chairs at a cost of $40.50. Mrs. Andrew Brown offered her home for the August meeting. Misses Irene Brown and Mary Braithwaite are a program committee.

Mrs. Leslie Tucker presided over the program when she had her audience doing motion songs. The vote of thanks to the hostess being sung also.

There were readings by Mrs. C. Sandercock, "The Song She Sings" and Miss C. Payne, "Help Yourself". Also a contest and a wedding anniversary prize won by Mrs. Clark Jewell and donated by Mrs. C. Thackeray.

The benediction was pronounced and the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Chester of Toronto served refreshments.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sherwin and family held a reunion picnic at Minnetonka Park, Rice Lake on Saturday. Of a family of 14 children all were present but one son in Vancouver. Five sons, eight daughters, 16 grandchildren, in company with the inlaws made a party of 45 sitting down to supper. Games of ball and swimming were enjoyed during the afternoon.

Mrs. Chester of Toronto is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Robins.

Mrs. Mary Braithwaite, in company with her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graham of Port Hope will motor to Guelph and Alma and visit relatives there this week-end.

Following the announcement from Tokyo, Japan, that the government in the Land of the Rising Sun could lend no financial support to the 1940 Olympic games, Count Henri de Baillet Latour of Belgium, ABOVE, president of the International Olympic committee, confirmed the belief that Helsingfors, capital of Finland, would have first call as the alternative site of the games.

Appoint Directors For Fair Entries

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 21. — Directors for the various classes of entries at the Campbellford Fall Fair were appointed at a special meeting of the executive held on Monday evening at which President E. A. McCook was appointed to represent the Seymour Agricultural Society at a meeting which will be called in the near future to consider the problems and other matters of interest to the fairs of this district.

Secretary of the Seymour Agricultural Society, G. G. Stephens, was appointed to accompany the judge in the oats field crop competition, who will begin his survey this week. Among other matters of business discussed were the field day held n June 1 and the dances being con on June 1 and the dances being con the Agricultural Building on the Fair Grounds. Members were advised that the dances were forming a lucrative source of revenue and that the field day had been highly successful. It was decided that the lady directors should select their own judges for their particular classes, and it was also agreed that the board of directors should accept the recommendations of the ladies for any revisions they should make to the prize list.

The following directors were appointed to head the various committees:

Heavy horses, V. Irwin; Light horses, E. Irwin; Beef cattle and swine, Marcus Curle; Holstein cattle, John Kelly; Jersey and Ayrshire cattle, M. Wight; Sheep, John Locke; Poultry, W. S. Milne; Grain, seeds, vegetables, orchard and garden, Robert McCulloch and J. A. Murray; Domestic science, home baking, fruits, jellies, etc., Mrs. Robert McCulloch and Mrs. Ernest McCook; Needlecraft, Mrs. John Locks and Mrs. S. L. O'Hara.

Called By Leopold

MONTREAL, July 21.—(CP). — Captain J. J. Goulet, director of music of Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal here, will sail Monday for Belgium at the invitation of King Leopold III to conduct the Belgian symphony orchestra at the unveiling of a monument in memory of the late King Albert.

A native of Liege and a resident of Canada for the past 35 years, Capt. Goulet is the composer of a lyric poem in honor of Belgium's wartime ruler which has been selected by Belgian government to be played at the unveiling.

Building Permits Up For 58 Cities

OTTAWA, July 21. — (CP). — Building permits issued in 58 cities in Canada during June totalled $6,560,419, an increase of $554,461 or 9.2 per cent over the June, 1937, figures of $6,005,958, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported to-day. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia all showed increases, while the other three provinces recorded reductions.

Permits taken out in June in Ontario with figures for June, 1937, in brackets were $2,644,980 ($2,783,576).

THE GUMPS

URGES AMBITION

BRIGHTON, Eng.—(CP).—Post office workers who refuse promotion because they do not want to "get the better of their fellow-workers" were sternly reproved by Sir George Lee at the Post Office Engineering Union Conference.

SALMON RUN LIGHT

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—(CP).—The run of Saint John's famed delicacy, harbor salmon, has been so light this year that shipments have amounted only to about 25 per cent. of the quantity sent out in the lowest previous year.

1,000 Tired Men Battle On To Save Hamlet

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C., July 20 (C.P.). — Renewed hope the little sport fishing resort of Forbes Landing might be saved from destruction by a raging timber fire was expressed to-day as 1,000 weary, smoke-blackened men fought doggedly against the flames.

The village—consisting of a hotel and several auto camps—was encircled by a 30,000-acres fire, that late last night was blazing "all around the buildings," forestry officials said.

"But the men are keeping the hotel and outbuildings wet," said one official. "Things look better than they did last night. It looks now as though we might be able to save the rest of the settlement."

One small garage went up in flames yesterday afternoon, and the other buildings had been evacuated at the height of roaring flames in what was described as "one of the biggest—if not the biggest—forest fire ever recorded on Vancouver Island."

A band of 25 men were still in the village, fighting against the ever-menacing flames, while remainder of the vast fighting force worked to check blazes in other directions. The men in the village were cut off from outside help, with exit via watercraft their last remaining source of safety should the village be destroyed.

New Loyalist Lines Slow Up Rebels

HENDAYE, France, July 21—(AP)—The government's U-shaped line of hasty defences across the Teruel-Valencia highway slowed the first wave of the Spanish insurgents' six-day offensive today.

Dispatches from General Franco's headquarters admitted government resistance suddenly had stiffened as the militiamen's retreat brought them to the new defence line.

Insurgents were forced hastily to reorganize their lines. Orders were given for an extraordinary effort on the part of the two flanks, on either side of the highway, to catch up with the centre.

The new government line to defend Valencia against the insurgent drive runs south from Pina, curving slowly across the highway to the crest of Ragudo Hill, then turns northwest through El Toro Mountains.

Insurgents reported they held the village of Ragudo itself, nestling at the foot of the hill five miles from Viver, the first of three cities Franco must take before he reaches Valencia 34 miles away. The other major objectives are Segorbe and Sagunto, protected by defences similar to those centering about Ragudo.

A Beauty Spot

St. John's Anglican Church, nestling among its frame of cool green trees and set against an azure blue July sky, never fails to draw exclamations of joy from tourists. One visitor was reported to have exclaimed he'd seen nothing to touch it this side of Timbuctoo.

Rumanian Flier Wrecks Atlantic Plane

NORWALK, Conn., July 21 (AP).—A smashed plane, forcing at least a month's delay of his prosposed transatlantic flight testified today to the hard luck trail followed by Captain Alex Papana, the "Lindbergh of Rumania."

The diminutive daredevil, one of the world's leading aerobatic performers, cracked up his specially built transport plane yesterday while landing during a storm.

It was the second setback to befall the Rumanian air force officer in his quest to become the first man to fly the 4,712 miles from New York to Bucharest non-stop.

The plane he purchased originally for the flight failed to satisfy him. Demands for the return of the money—contributed by the Rumanian public and friends—resulted in long drawn litigation.

He raised new funds on a barnstorming stunting tour and purchased a Barkley-Grow transport in Detroit, fitting it out with extra gas tanks.

Unable yesterday because of heavy rain to complete a flight from New York to Hartford, where the plane's motors were to have had a final check for the projected solo ocean hop Friday, Papana attempted to land here. He hit a stone wall dividing two landing fields.

The flier stepped out of the wreckage unhurt.

"I hardly felt the shock at all," he said.

Receives Subpeona

W. Perkins Bull, named as a beneficiary in the will of the late Mrs. Mabel Sidley, American heiress, who died in Bull's Toronto home, is shown here as he visited the Ontario parliament buildings after receiving a subpoena to attend an examination to be held by the government's succession duties branch investigators, in which he will be questioned on various matters pertaining to the Sidley will.

U.S. On Way To Lead World Corn Trade

CHICAGO, July 21—(AP).—The United States' farm belt's flourishing business with the rest of the world in corn approached all-time record proportions to-day as the new 1938 crop, with an estimated market value of almost $1,500,000,000, neared tassel stage under generally favorable growing conditions.

Board of Trade experts, measuring the steady flow of corn from lake front elevators to seaboard ports for export overseas, said the United States probably would dominate the world market until next spring and may take international trade away from Argentina, its major comp etitor, for months to come.

Since last October more than 105,000,000 bushels of United States' wheat have been exported, grain experts said, adding that exports probably would total 140,000,000 to 150,000,000 bushels for the crop year which has three months to go. The record export for a crop year was 166,000,000 bushels in 1932.

Chicago and other water shipping points in the corn belt have been loading a heavy volume of corn. More than 42,000,000 bushels have cleared Chicago, most of it for export.

The shipping season opened April 10 and has more than four months to go. The record lake shipments since 1900 is 78,560,000 bushels, moved in 1921.

Groundhog Likes Milk Gyps Farmer By Keeping Cow Dry

Brockville, Ont., July 21.

A MAYNARD, Brockville district farmer has been puzzled for some time over the apparent "dryness" of one of his dairy cows. Going out to pasture last night to bring the cows in to milk, he discovered why the cow was not yielding as she should. She was lying on the ground and a groundhog was enjoying an evening meal of fresh milk.

21,000 Extra Harvest Hands Needed On Prairies But No Excursions Loom

Survey Shows Enough Jobless Listed In Three Provinces To Handle Job Minus Outside Aid

WINNIPEG, July 22 (CP).—At least 21,000 men will be needed to harvest the prairie grain crop, on the basis of present prospects, according to a survey by The Canadian Press. But the West will be able to supply the labor and there will be no influx of harvesters from the East.

Division of workers for the coming harvest, likely to be in full swing around August 25, is placed at 6,500 in Alberta, 10,000 in Saskatchewan and 4,500 in Manitoba.

Harvester excursions, which in the peak year of 1923 brought in 50,000 men, are believed now to be a thing of the past, largely as a result of improvement in farm machinery.

Fares on these excursions were $10 from either Toronto or Montreal to Winnipeg, and $15 for the return trip. For the remainder of their journey to Western grain fields the rate was one cent a mile.

Officials of agricultural departments of the Prairie Provinces have expressed the opinion plenty of workers are available in the West this year and no outside help is likely to be needed.

Last Excursion In 1928.

"I doubt the possibility of a harvest excursion from Eastern Canasaid H. R. Richardson, Manitoba supervisor of employment. "Not since the British miners came west in 1928 have we had one; and despite optimistic reports from the West I think there will be enough men in our own province to carry out the work. There are a lot of floaters in this province too."

Winnipeg offices of machinery companies report decided improvement in sales over last year in Manitoba and Alberta and are considering plans to aid farmers in Saskatchewan where purchasing power will be virtually dormant until the new crop is harvested.

Butter and Cheese Grade Is Renamed

OTTAWA, July 22 (CP).—The butter and cheese grading term "No grade" has been replaced by "below third grade" by order-in-council on recommendation of the dairy products marketing division, agriculture department, it was announced today.

The reason for the change, the department said, was a misunderstanding on the part of some purchasers of buter as to what was meant by 'no grade." Consumers were being led to believe that "no grade" meant that the butter represented by this term had not been graded, when actually it was intended to convey the information that the quality was so poor that a grade was not placed upon it.

The grade mark must be placed on the main panel of the wrapper and also on the carton (when such is used) and is a guide to purchasers of butter, informing them of the quality of the product contained in the package. Every province in Canada with the exception of Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, has made it compulsory by law to brand each print or block of creamery butter with one of the grade marks as described when offered for sale or sold to consumers.

Gauntlet Of War Flung To Japs By Moscow

MOSCOW, July 22 (AP).—Soviet Russia in plain words made clear today she will move troops as she sees fit along her far eastern frontier, but that if there is to be war over the matter Japan will have to start it. This, to foreign circles here, appeared unlikely.

The Russian governments sharp rejection of Japanese demands for withdrawal of troops in territory claimed by both nations left the next move squarely up to Japan.

The Russian stand was set forth last night in a communique detailing foreign minister Maxim Litvinoff's reply to representations of the Japanese ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu.

The disputed territory is near the junction of Siberia, Manchoukuo and Japanese Korea, and of troop movements there the communique said:

"Soviet detachments in this region have no other purpose than defence of the status quo on our frontier. Unlike other countries, the Soviet Union maintains armies not for invasion, but exclusively for the defence of its own borders."

The Japanese demand for withdrawal of the troops was rejected as "unjustified and unacceptable," since Russia regards the territory involved as Russian.

Despite the rough language used by both sides during the present dispute, one of many over the past five years, foreign observers here were disinclined to predict war.

Corrigan No Lover He Informs Girls

DUBLIN, July 22.—(AP).—Douglas G. Corrigan served notice on girl admirers to-day that he is a flier, not a lover.

"I can't get over the number of girls who seem to think because I flew the Atlantic I would make a perfect husband," said the California mechanic whose compass played tricks on him.

"I am not having any feminine entanglements yet in my young life," he added ,as his fan mail grew into a huge stack. He is 31.

Corrigan went calling to-day on more Eire officials. His first engagement was with Eire's police chief but, still conscious of his lack of papers when he landed his $900 nine-year-old "crate" here Monday, he explained quickly: "He only wants to hear about my flight."

He also is going to see the Fire Army Chief, General Michael Brennan.

As Rowe Resigns

The race for the leadership of the Ontario Conservative party was thrown wide open by the resignation of Hon. Earl Rowe from the leadership at the Ontario Conservative Association's meeting in Toronto, July 21. Delegates from all parts of the province listened in silence as Mr. Rowe, visibly moved, announced his resignation. In his farewell address, Mr. Rowe charged that "there has been subtle influences at work which threatened the very survival of the Conservative party itself." The retiring leader is shown, RIGHT, with Mrs. Rowe, as they arrived at the meeting. Col. George Drew, LEFT, is shown talking to Leopold Macaulay, House leader, as they pause in the midst of meeting delegates. Both Col. Drew and Macaulay are expected to be candidates for the leadership of the party.

Manion Assured Of United Tory Support

TORONTO, July 22 (CP).—Conservative leader R. J. Manion returned to Ottawa today with an assurance of the united support of Ontario followers in his coming campaign to restore the fortunes of the party in the federal political sphere.

The annual banquet of the Ontario Conservative Association last night turned into a demonstration of solidarity behind Dr. Manion as his rivals for the leadership, ranking leaders of the present day and veterans of former campaigns pledged their loyalty.

The meeting was Dr. Manion's first public appearance since the national convention at Ottawa selected him as Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett's successor from a field of five. The convention was only two weeks ago and the new leader assured the crowd a national full-time party organizer would be appointed within 10 days to reorganize "from the ground up."

Police Held Ready For Textile Trouble

QUEBEC, July 22—(CP).—Leave of all Provincial Police officers in Quebec district has been cancelled as a precaution against possible developments from the arrest of three employees of Dominion Textile Company plant at St. Gregoire on charges of assaulting General Manager Blair Gordon and a plant superintendent.

Orders for cancellation of leaves were issued last night, a few hours after arrest of Arthur Pare, Joseph Bouchard and Edmond Desgagne at their homes, not far from the big mill, six miles east of Quebec. They will be given preliminary hearing July 27.

Arrest of the trio was the aftermath of a raid on the company offices last week shortly after negotiations had broken down between company officials and representatives of 100 night workers, staging an "outlaw" strike. A crowd rushed into the office, smashing furniture and hurling missles at Gordon, who was struck by an inkwell, and Harold Fisher, assistant plant superintendent, who is still in hospital.

The plant was closed until yesterday when more than 1,000 day workers returned quietly to work as police patrolled plant property.

Broke, Bab's Cousin Lacks $50, Faces Jail

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP).—Mrs. Julia Donohue Higgins, 5-and-10-cent store heiress and cousin of Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz Reventlow, said today she was "really and truly" broke and could not pay a $50 fine for speeding. Her plea failed to move Judge Richard C. Cotter, who issued a warrent for her arrest.

Mrs. Higgins was ticketed several weeks ago for speeding near Huntington, Long Island.

Judge Cotter agreed to postpone sentence after she had pleaded guilty, but he warned her to come back into court with at least $50.

Today Judge Cotter had a letter from Mrs. Higgins "absolutely guaranteeing" him that she would pay her fine by Aug. 1.

"There is no earthly way I can pay it before then," her letter said, "and I hope you will save me the embarrassment of going to jail. I do hope you will find this satisfactory."

Wild Tory Rally Chooses Frost As President

Plan Session Before Oct. 15 To Pick Chief Membership Splitting Stirs Storm

TORONTO, July 22 (CP).—Ontario Conservatives, the tumult of their annual meeting over, looked forward today to a party convention next autumn at which a leader will be chosen to succeed Hon. W. Earl Rowe. Three aspirants for the position already are in the field.

Delegates to the 15th annual meeting of the National Conservative Association of Ontario yesterday heard Mr. Rowe, member of the House of Commons for Dufferin-Simcoe, announce his withdrawal from the Provincial field and decided to hold a convention to name his successor before October 15. They elected Cecil G. Frost, Lindsay barrister, association president.

Hardly had the party leader announced his resignation when the names of possible successors were mentioned. It was understood Leopold Macaulay, party leader in the Legislature, and Col. George A. Drew, prominent Toronto barrister, were certain candidates. A. H. (Holly) Acres, M.L.A. for Carleton, said he was "pretty sure" he would be in the running.

The meeting was one of the most uproarious in years. Amid scenes of confusion, delegates decided to limit voting power at meetings to "delegate members" and had time to approve only part of the draft of a new constitution. The next annual meeting will deal with the clauses which were not passed upon yesterday.

Frost New President.

Mr. Frost succeeded W. H. Ireland, Trenton, as president. He was elected late in the day over two other candidates, Joseph Sedgwick of Toronto and Lynn B. Spencer, Welland barrister. Unofficial returns gave Mr. Frost 666 votes on the first ballot, compared to Mr. Sedgwick's reported 192 and Mr. Spencer's 229.

Formerly first vice-president of the association and party organizer in the 1937 general election campaign, Mr. Frost was Mayor of Lindsay in 1936. Born in Orillia, Ont., in 1897, he served in France during the Great War with the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Machine Gun Corps. He was wounded in 1918. He has practised law in Lindsay since called to the bar in 1921.

A storm of argument arose in the afternoon when it was proposed to divide memberships into "active" and "delegate," the "delegate members" only having voting power at meetings. Proponents of the proposal argued it would prevent Toronto dominating meetings with its superior numbers.

Debate Rages 2 Hours.

Heated argument continued for more than two hours. At one time one vigorous objector jumped to the platform to proclaim his protests through the microphone despite efforts of Chairman Ireland and a photographer on the scene was threatened by another objector with having his camera smashed if more pictures were taken.

Bull Threatened, Asks Inquiry

TORONTO, July 22—(CP)—Some of the many letters received by W. Perkins Bull in the last few days since start of investigation of the death of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley have been "extremely threatening," the noted lawyer and historian had told police.

Bull, central figure in the case, said yesterday he had asked police to investigate and attempt to trace the senders. He said some of the letters had asked for money, and one sender "even threatened to kidnap me to get in on the swag." Others, however, contained offers to go into the movies or into vaudeville.

Bull, who will celebrate his 68th birthday next Monday, said he had not paid much attention to the letters. He said he is engaged at present in writing a book started 20 years ago, dealing with the life of the famed Indian Chief, Sittin Bull. He hopes to have it finished "within the next three months."

W. B. Common of the Ontario Attorney-General's Department, said inquest into Mrs. Sidley's death might be adjourned July 26 until Aug. 2. He said the week's adjournment would be to give authorities more time to prepare evidence.

Takes 3 To Land Turtle

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y., July 22.—(AP)— When three fishermen trolling in Lake George got this strike—they really had something. The combined efforts of the three, Samuel Schwartz, Dave Danzig and Lloyd Hilton, were needed to pull their prize into the boat. It was a 50-pound turtle.

B.C. Firefighting Gang Fired After Hose Cut

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C., July 22—(CP)— British Columbia Forest Officials today reorganized their fire line forces on one front in this northeast coastal district of Vancouver Island after charges of Sabotage to which they attributed the loss of a 30-year-old scenic Summer resort.

Thirty loggers arrived from Comox, 32 miles south of here, last night to take the place of 30 men who had been on a fire line at Elk Falls.

C. J. Haddon, Forestry official in active charge of the battle against the fire which has swept over 75 square miles of logging land, ordered the 30 relieved after reports of a cut hose line, a Sabotaged pump at Forbes Landing and a personal inspection in which he said he found men "malingering."

Majority of the men paid off were from Vancouver, Haddon said, but added that several "local men" had also been dismissed for malingering.

Pump Quits, Hotel Burns

To the Sabotaged pump was laid the loss of Forbes Landing Hotel and six outbuildings.

Late that night the flames crept up to the wooden structure, destroying it and the adjoining building while a half dozen men stood on the float in the river below the hotel, helpless because their pump gave out.

Subsequent investigation revealed sugar in the gasoline.

Destruction of the resort climaxed a battle which started a week ago when fire from the Bloedel Logging Company operations of the north swept down to the landing.

The blaze was controlled and subsequent flareups held in check until Wednesday. The hotel and buildings represented some $20,000 investment.

COURTENAY, B.C., July 22—(CP)—Twenty-five families fled early today from a roaring forest fire which had already covered 60,000 acres, destroyed the sport fishing resort of Forbes Landing and threatened the logging town of Headquarters between here and Campbell River, 30 miles north.

Seventy-five other family groups around headquarters and Black Creek district prepared to evacuate at a moment's notice if the biggest fire in Vancouver Island's history speeded its descent along the east coast toward this seaboard town.

A spokesman for Comox Logging Company, whose operations were falling prey today to the wind-driven flames, said the situation had "eased somewhat" during the night as yesterday's stiff breeze dropped.

But, they said, the relentless blaze that has laughed for a week at desperate efforts of more than 1,000 men to stop its destructive course, moved onward half a mile or more overnight.

Yellowknife Boasts Most Northerly Paper

EDMONTON, July 22.—(CP).—Canada's most northerly newspaper, the "Yellowknife Prospector," is scheduled to put out its fourth edition this Saturday.

Printed with a mimeograph machine, the paper is edited, made up, published and distributed by two formen Edmontonians, Charles Perkins, a lawyer, and Larry Alexander, a former Edmonton newspaperman. Both are graduates of the University of Alberta.

The publication's maiden edition was published Wednesday, July 13. Two editions a week are being published.

Britain And France Linked By Unbreakable Tie King Informs The World

Unveils Shaft To Australian War Dead As Final Act In 4-Day Visit; Paris, London Chiefs Map Defences

VILLERS-BRETONNEAUX, France, July 22 (CP).—King George again informed the world today that Great Britain and France are bound by unbreakable ties, just prior to sailing from Calais for England aboard the royal yacht Enchantress at 5.30 p.m. (12.30 p.m., E.D.T.), terminating the first foreign State visit of their reign.

The King and Queen boarded the Enchantress a few minutes after arriving in this historic port from Villers-Bretonneaux, where the British monarch unveiled an imposing memorial to Australia's war dead.

Thousands cheered the royal couple as the slim Enchantress moved gracefully out, bound for Dover, escorted by French warships.

Bonds Stand Forever.

In a speech dedicating a memorial to Australia's Great War dead, the concluding event of his four-day visit of State to France, the King said:

"The events we recall today have bound us with ties that the passing years can never weaken."

This assurance was given in addition to his statement in his speech the first night of his Paris stay:

"It would now be impossible to recall a period in which our relations were more intimate."

Before the King spoke, Leslie Hore-Belisha, British War Minister, conferred on co-ordination in Anglo-French military plans with General Marie Gustave Gamelin, chief of France's general staff of national defence.

King George's speech was loudly applauded by his hearers, who interpreted it as a clarifying note in the present perturbed atmosphere of Europe.

Linked Democracies

It came after Sir Earl Page, deputy for the prime minister of Australia declared in introductory remarks that Great Britain and France "will stand shoulder to shoulder for maintenance of the ideals for which so many of our people laid down their lives."

From the same platform President Albert Lebrun of France said the ceremony emphasized "the close entente of ou rtwo great democracies."

The King's speech was devoted mostly to Australia's great war sacrifices. Referring to the memorial he said:

"It's very surroundings are emblematic of that comradeship which is the watchword of our British Empire; for it looks down on a hallowed field beneath whose soil, consecrated to God and the glorious memory, lie the men who came from every corner of the earth to fight for ideals common to that whole empire."

An airplane from London brought Mr. Hore-Belisha, Viscount Gort, chief of Britain's army general staff, and their aides to Amiens shortly before noon.

Defences Mapped Out.

Over luncheon the British military leaders conferred with General Gamelin on the common defence plans of the two great democracies. Then the party motored to Villers-Bretonneux.

The royal train arrived at 1.37 p.m., and King George and Queen Elizabeth went by automobiles with

Britain Extends Olive Branch To Germany

LONDON, July 22 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain was reliably reported today to have given Chancellor Hitler's ambassador a personal message for the German Fuehrer in response to the latter's recent assurances of peaceful aims in Europe.

Mr. Chamberlain had a long conference at 10 Downing street with Dr. Herbert Von Dirksen, the German ambassador, who is leaving for Berlin tomorrow on vacation. The message was understood to have been given then.

The ambassador's visit indicated that the Prime Minister planned quick action to follow up Chancellor Hitler's peace gesture in sending Captain Fritz Wiedemann, his confidential envoy, here with a message delivered to Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary.

As in the semi-secret conference between Weidemann and Lord Halifax at the latter's home Monday night, the troubled question of Czechslovakias Germanic minority was believed to have figured largely in the Chamberlain-Von Dirksen discussion.

The Wiedemann Trip.

While the Downing street conference was in progress Lieut.-Commander R. T. H. Fletcher, Labor member of Parliament, served notice he would ask the Prime Minister in the House of Commons Monday "If he will make a statement as to the reply he is making to the message brought to him by Herr Wiedemann from the head of the German government."

Mr. Chamberlain told the House yesterday that Wiedemann brought new assurance that Germany wants "peaceful settlement of outstanding questions" but that the German envoy was unprepared to discuss any particular aspect of political affairs. This was in response to an earlier question by Fletcher.

Circles close to the government, however, reported that Wiedemann suggested the time was opportune for consideration of various points at issue between the two countries.

Wiedemann talked to Lord Halifax just before the latter went to Paris with King George, and what the German envoy told him was understood to have figured largely in the Paris conversations between Lord Halifax and Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Bonnet of France.

In Paris the authoritative view was expressed that the King's visit of state and attendant circumstances had brightened the prospects of friendship between Great Britain and France and Germany.

Plot Kidnap Lord Nuffield Costs Thornton 7 Years

BIRMINGHAM, England, July 22 (A.P.). — John Bruce Thornton was sentenced to-day to seven years of penal servitude for a fantastic plot to kidnap Viscount Nuffield, British industrialist, and hold him at sea for ransom of $500,000.

The grey-haired Thornton was found guilty on all four counts of the indictment. The jury deliberated two hours.

Thornton denied any intention to kidnap the millionaire automobile manufacturer, and his counsel charged the main prosecution witness, Major Arthur Geoffrey Ramsden was a "lying, cunning traitor."

One of the counts accused Thornton of inciting Ramsden to conspire with him to kidnap Lord Nuffield.

Pistols Worst Offence.

The seven-year term was given on the charge of possessing two automatic pistols with intent to endanger life. Thornton also was sentenced to two years' imprisonment on each of the three other counts, but those terms were to run concurrently with the first.

The Judge, Sir Frederic John Wrottesley, told the jury:

"We are not, in this case, trying to decide whether the scheme of which Major Ramsden has spoken is one which would have succeeded in this country. I think it is, perhaps, true to say such a scheme has not succeeded in this country yet."

The scheme of 50-year-old Thornton, Ramsden had testified, was to hold Lord Nuffield aboard the yacht Pierrette, make "a display of surgical tools" and thus badger the manufacturer into arranging a letter of credit for £100,000 (about $500,000).

Thornton was described in the trial as the former husband of the niece of a British peer and as once having had an income of "many thousand pounds." He was said lately, however, to have been reduced to comparative poverty.

Loyalist Women Give Blood To Save Their Defenders

(Written for The Canadian Press By Allen R. May.)

(Editors Note.—May, who served for 18 months with the Canadian blood-transfusion unit organized in Madrid by Dr. Norman Bethune, Montreal, gave his blood on five occasoins to save the life of wounded Spanish soldiers.)

LONDON, July 20. — (CP-By Trans-Atlantic Plane)— While the world watches the stubborn efforts of the Spanis hgovernment's armies to hold back insurgent forces under Franco, driving toward Valencia, a smaller army, chiefly composed of women and young girls, plays its equally heroic part in the defence of Republican Spain.

It is the army of bolod donors, volunteer recruits to the service of blood transfusion, established and maintained in Spain by the Canadian committee to aid Spanish democracy.

Credit for inagurating this great humanitarian service, first in the hostory of the world's wars, goes to a Canadian surgeon from Montreal, Dr. Norman Bethune.

The centres where blood is extracted and stored now exist in Madrid, Valencia and Jaen in the centre region. Barcelona, with a unit started independently by a Catalan doctor, where a different method of preservation is used, supplies the eastern front.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 22—(AP)—J. O. Ferguson, Republican nominee for governor filed his report of campaign expenditures — three cents—under protest. He protested because the expense was not incurred until after the primary election. The three cents was for a stamp to mail his affidavit of expenditures.

Hangman Ellis Executioner Of 500 Dies

MONTREAL, July 22. — (CP) — Death, of which he seemed almost a counterpart during the quarter-century he earned a small fortune for executing an unestimated number of murderers, has come to Arthur Bartholomew Alexander English.

The withered, little old man, "Hangman Ellis," as he was called and known as Canada's unofficial executioner, died in hospital last night from an internal illness — ascribed tentatively to "cancer or tumor." Definite cause of death will not be established until completion of an autopsy, permission for which is being sought by hospital authorities. He was 73.

It was only two days ago word leaked out that Ellis had been found near death in the little room he occupied in an Ontario street boarding house. He was taken to hospital where his wife, from whom he had separated six years ago, learned of his plight. A coma overcame him a few hours later and he never regained consciousness.

Victims Run 200-600.

How many persons dropped through gallow trapdoors released by the diminutive figure in tall hat, frock coat with it's white carnation, probably never has been compiled. Rough estimates by newspapermen placed the executions at "about 200." But Ellis himself often spoke of 500 and once he wrote on the flyleaf of a book on capital punishment "600 executions in my 27 years as an executioner."

It was not that he hesitated to reveal his past. In fact, he took pride in his mastery of a gruesome trade. He blamed the state for taking the lives of the condemned, and considered himself only a servant carrying out the law. If the law was at fault, the executioner could not be made to answer, he argued.

And that was his philosophy throughout the years he worked within constant shadows of the gallows since coming from England after serving with the British forces in India.

Manion Is Honored At Toronto Luncheon

TORONTO, July 22 (C.P.). — Hon. R. J. Manion, Leader of the Conservative Party, was honored with a civic luncheon yesterday on the occasion of his first visit to Toronto since his election at the National Conservative Convention in Ottawa early this month.

Mayor Ralph Day described the affair as a "small token of respect for our friend, the Leader of the Conservative Party."

In thanking the Mayor, Dr. Manion said he hoped to return to Toronto shortly as Prime Minister and receive another civic reception.

City officials, members of the Board of Control and Toronto members of Parliament and the Legislature, both Liberal and Conservative, attended the luncheon. Two of Dr. Manion's opponents for the Leadership were there, Joseph Harris and Denton Massey. Two former Premiers of Ontario, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and George S. Henry, attended, as well as Hon. Earl Rowe, who today announced his resignation as Ontario Conservative Leader.

Shanghai Chinese Official Murdered

SHANGHAI, July 22 — (AP). — Wan Shi-Sen, Chinese member of the Japanese-dominated local government of the Shanghai district, was shot and killed by two gunmen in his home in the International Settlement to-day.

One assassin escaped, but the other was caught by a watchman. Settlement police questioned him, and a series of widespread raids with numerous arrests followed.

There have been more than a dozen political assassinations in Shanghai since the Japanese army occupied the district. Most of the victims have been Chinese who had taken office in the Japanese-dominated regime. Wan was chief of the judicial department of that regime.

President Of France Accepts King's Invitation To Britain

Paris, July 22.

PRESIDENT ALBERT Lebrun has accepted an invitation from King George to visit Great Britain, it was officially announced tonight.

An official communique said the trip would be made during the first three months of next year.

The French President's visit will be in return for the current sojourn here of King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Mr. Lebrun's trip to London is expected to cement even more firmly Anglo-French friendship.

England Out At Low Score In 4th Match

LEEDS, England, July 22 (CP Cable).—Bowlers held the upper hand in the fourth England-Australia cricket test match started here today. After dismissing England for 223 runs, the invaders, in 45 minutes' batting, made 32 runs for the loss of W. A. Brown's wicket.

Browns' dismissal was a hard blow for the antipodeans. In the second test the veteran Queenslander made 206 not out. J. H. Fingleton was partnered with Ben Barnett, Aussie wicketkeeper, at the close. The former had scored nine, and Barnett one.

LEEDS, England, July 22—(CP Cable).—Subdued by Australia's bowlers, England was dismissed for 223 runs today in the fourth cricket test match. It was the lowest score recorded by the Englishmen in the 1938 series.

Thirty thousand spectators, including the Princess Royal, saw the opening day's play on Yorkshire County's ground at Headingley. First two matches of the give-game series were drawn, and the third abandoned without a ball being bowled on account of rain.

Winning the toss—third time in as many games—Walter Hammond sent the home players to the wickets. The English Captain alone made a stand against the deadliest attack yet shown by the invaders. While his colleagues defended doggedly Hammond batted aggressively for 76 runs. He was at the wickets two hours, 20 minutes, hitting one six and 10 fours.

C. J. Barnett, his Gloucestershire clubmate survived to score 30 after being twice missed early in the game. A pttient innings netted 28 for Edward Paynter, Lancashire star.

W. J. O'Reilly, lanky New South Wales schoolmaster, was chiefly responsible for England's poor showing. He sent down 34 overs, 17 of them maidens, to take five wickets for 66 runs. L. Fleetwood-Smith made short work of some of the tailenders and finished with an analysis of three for 73.

Three players appeared in England's team for the first time in the current international series while Australia made one change, substituting M. G. Waite, young South Australian all-rounder for the veteran A. G. Chipperfield.

William Bowes, Yorkshire fast bowler, faced the antipodeans for the first time since 1934 and Joseph Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire batsman and a seasoned test player, was also included. Taking the place of the injured Peter Gibb, Cambridge University star, William Price, popular Middlesex player, will keep wicket for England. Waite and Price are playing in their first test match.

The teams:

England—W. R. Hammond and Barnett, Gloucestershire; Edrich, Compton and Price, Middlesex; Verity and Bowes, Yorkshire, K. Farnes, Essex; Paynter, Lancashire; Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire; Wright, Kent.

Australia—D. G. Bradman, S. J. McCabe, W. A. Brown, C. L. Badcock, J. H. Fingleton, B. Barnett, A. L. Hassett, M. G. Waite, W. J. O'Reilly, E. J. McCormick, L. Fleetwood-Smith.

FRUIT UNPICKED

IPSWICH, England — (CP). — What promised to be a most successful season for East Suffolk strawberry-growers proved to be disastrous. Much of the fruit rotted in the fields through shortage of pickers.

Loyalists Lose Segorbe Key To Valencia

HENDAYE, France, July 22 — (AP) — Insurgent dispatchers reported today that Government troops had been driven from the Espina Mountains northwest of Segorbe, making it dangerous for the Government General, Jose Miaja, to continue to hold the main trunk highway to Valencia.

Segorbe, a key to Valencia, is 8¼ miles southeast of Viver on the Teruel - Sagunto - Valencia Road, which the Insurgents' heavy artillery blasted, thus preventing the Government from moving up munitions or supplies to the embattled militiamen.

The capture of the village of Higueras in the Espina range linked the armies of Insurgent Generals Garcia Valino and Jose Varelo and gave the Insurgents a continuous front from Viver, 34 miles northwest of Valencia, to the Mediterranean.

The campaign against Valencia, focal point of the general offensive, was resumed on all fronts. Insurgent dispatches from Zaragoza admitted that drives on the central-southern front were designed mainly to prevent General Miaga from drawing off troops to reinforce defences of Valencia.

Italian brigades were said to have broken defence lines northwest of Viver, with Insurgents reaching positions about a mile west of the town.

Cough Yields Tooth Ends 4 Years' Trouble

ANTIGONISH, N.S., July 22 (CP) —William MacDonald of Pictou, manager of Mount Cameron Farm near here, lit his pipe and took several deep, satisfying puffs. He felt a tickle in his throat, coughed, and brought forth a tooth.

The tooth had been in his lung since 1934, when he had had several others removed. After the operation he found he had considerable difficulty in breathing. Then he developed what he thought was asthma, followed by symptoms of tuberculosis, although no germs were found in several examinations. A lung abscess was another affliction blamed on the tooth.

Christ Church S.S. Enjoys Outing

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 22. — Over fifty members of Christ Church Sunday School gathered at Oak Lake for their annual picnic which was held on Wednesday afternoon of this week. The young people travelled to the lake in a number of cars driven by members of the parish and although the schedule of races had to be postponed due to rain, a number of games and other sports were enjoyed. Friends and parents accompanied the children who left for home following supper which was served on the shore of the Lake. The gathering was in charge of Rev. T. H. Floyd and H. Thomas.

Police Nab Three For Bank Holdup

OTTAWA, July 22. (CP)—Police today detained three men and held them for questioning in connection with last Tuesday's hold-up at the branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in nearby Richmond, Ont., when $12,000 was taken at gun-point by three men.

Notified that three men in a new automobile were acting suspiciously in the vicinity of the Union Station here, police immediately picked them up and held them for further investigation. Their names were not divulged.

Inspector George Mackay of the Criminal Investigation branch of the Ontario Provincial Police arrived here today to help in the search in this district where, police believe the men are hiding.

Woman Lost 2 Days Lives Well On Berries

EAST RICHFORD, Vt., July 21.—(AP).—Nature was kind to 76-year-old Mrs. Cort Bell when she went in search of a stray dog and became lost herself upon the slopes of Jay Peak.

"I used a stone for a pillow, the stars for a blanket, and was neither hungry nor thirsty," she related today after being rescued from the mountainside where she spent 50 hours.

One foot—injured in a fall from a 10-foot ledge—was wrapped in a burlap bag but the whiteheaired farmer's wife who lived on wild berries for two days, denied any hardship.

"All I was thinking about was the swell story I could tell my friends," she said.

MASONIC APPOINTMENTS.

At the annual communication of the Grand Lodge in Canada of the Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons held in Toronto this week, A. J. Throop, of Peterborough, was appointed by the Grand Master as Assistant Grand Organist. Among the district Masons appointed as Grand Wardens were Robert J. Buchanan of Havelock and John Miller of Cobourg.

loss of blood or gangrene, is today, as much a matter of routine treatment as an anti-tetanus injection.

More than 3,000 transfusions have been made in the Madrid sector alone.

As about a pint of blood is the amount given by each donor, the number of transfusions made to date represent approximately 750 gallons of the precious fluid which healthy civilians have given for the men wounded while defending them.

There are women in Madrid who, during the last 18 months, have permitted themselves to be bled 12 and 14 times.

The blood can be kept in an ordinary sterile glass bottle in a refrigerator for two weeks and at the end of that time be infused into a patient with a simple glass and metal syringe.

military escort to the Foulloy cemetery, where the memorial stands.

Before his departure from Paris the King sent a message of felicitation to Premier Edouard Daladier for Thursday's review at Versailles in which France paraded her military might to show what she had to contribute to the common Anglo-French cause.

"I was greatly impressed by what I saw," the King's message said.

The war memorial consists of a tower 103 feet high, flanked by walls to form three sides of a courtyard. On these walls are the names of 11,000 Australian soliders who have no known graves. It was designed by Sir Edward Lutyens, British architect.

Within the tower a staircase leads to an outside platform at a level of 64 feet. From this platform stairways wind to the right and left to enter an observation room which occupies the whole upper part of the tower.

View Over Battlefields.

The floor of this room is 75 feet from the ground, and four large windows afford views in all directions of the surrounding country and battlefields.

The surrounding walls are terminated by loggias which give dignity to the central tower and harmonize with the loggias on either side of the entrance to the Villers-Bretonneux Cemetery, which will be the way of access to the Memorial.

At the Memorial dedication King George wore a morning coat. The Queen, in white, carried a single Flanders poppy.

After the 44-minute ceremony the Royal party was escorted back to the station to begin their 115-mile train journey to Calais, there to board the British Admiralty yacht Enchantress. The Enchantress brought them to Boulogne on Tuesday and was to return them to Dover.

The fleet of 26 French warships, which escorted the Sovereigns to France, ranged in the English Channel to conduct them bac kto home shores.

Clyde, Not Doug Is Flier's Name

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—As a matter of fact Douglas Corrigan's name is not Douglas at all.

It is Clyde.

When he was 15 years old the youth who later was to fly from New York to Ireland "by mistake" found the name not to his liking.

So he changed it.

With characteristic independence he announced that in the future he would be known as Douglas.

Among other things he wanted to be like his hero of that day—Douglas Fairbanks.

A Fatal Diet

DENVER, July 22. —(AP)— Gus Economy, deputy coroner, reported today an autopsy disclosed the stomach of a man found dead in a rooming house contained poison, four screws, five nails, three tacks, 12 small pieces of glass and a corner of a razor blade. Economy said the death was suicide.

New Windsor Plant Will Employ 250

WINDSOR, Ont., July 22—(CP).—Canadian Automotive Trim, Ltd., will begin operations here the first part of September in a plant purchased from the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., officials of the new organization announced to-day. The company will employ approximately 250 persons and will supply automobile manufacturing plants with interior trim for passenger cars.

The factory, with a floor space of 65,000 square feet, is being made ready at the present time and when completed will represent an investment of approximately $250,000 according to Secretary J. H. Grut, Detroit. The company was recently incorporated for $500,000 capital.

Grut said local labor would be employed and should business warrant, quarters here would be enlarged. It was also planned to place branches of the plant in other parts of Canada as business increased.

The comapny will specialize in the sewing of cushions and backs for the interior of passenger cars and will also supply sun visors, floor carpeting, roof silencers, floor deadeners and door panels.

Mercury Pilot Sees Pick-a-Back Fleet

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y. July 22—(AP).—The British pick-a-back plane Mercury was groomed today for its return flight to Ireland after opening a new and significant chapter of transatlantic air travel.

Capt. Donald C. T. Bennett brought the Imperial Airways experimental craft down here late yesterday, convinced he had demonstrated the feasibility of launching heavily laden planes in midair.

The Mercury brought a 1,000-pound cargo in addition to its pilot and radio operator Albert Coster to the airways terminal a little more than 25 hours after its takeoff from the back of a mother plane off the coast of Ireland.

"This system of launching," 28-year-old Captain Bennett said, "has great possibilities. I can conceive of a couple of mother ships launching whole fleets of heavily laden bombers in wartime."

The journey, copleted in a flying time of 22 hours, 24 minutes (the plane stopped at Boucherville, Que., Montreal's air terminal, two hours, 40 minutes before coming here) was the first of its kind from such a takeoff.

The Mercury on its return hop-off Monday will be lighter by far than when it left Foynes. Without the mother ship, it will be compelled to take off from the bay in Long Island Sound where the surface tension acts as a drag on the pontoons.

The return flight will be by way of Botwood, Newfoundland, and the Azores, with stops at both points, in another exploratory test of north Atlantic routes.

Col. Webb Says West Thinks Hepburn Crazy

TORONTO, July 22 (CP).—Col. Ralph H. Webb of Winnipeg told the Ontario Conservative Association annual meeting today that Western Canada is wondering what is the matter with Ontario.

"When Ontario can elect a premier such as it has now, don't laugh at Alberta," he said. "For some reason Ontario thinks Aberhart is crazy. In the west we think Hepburn is crazy."

Col. Webb, Conservative organizer in Manitoba, said lack of complete understanding in Canada was partly due to the publicity given the "antis."

"We in the west are as good citizens as any here, as honest and as loyal Britishers," he added. "I wish the newspapers would give more publicity to the right side than the left side."

Fans For The Troops

SHANGHAI, July 22. — (AP)— Fans have become important pieces of equipment for all Japanese troops engaged in the Yangtze River offensive or garrisoned in the Chinese interior, foreign witnesses reported today. The temperature was as high as 110 degrees.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 22 (C.P.). — A last-minute nose dive at Chicago influenced a closing slump by Winnipeg wheat futures prices to-day after gains of as much as two cents had been posted. The close found quotations ¾ to 1⅛ higher, with July at $1.01⅝, October 78⅝ to ⅞c; November 78⅛, and December, 77c.

Export busines swas placed at 200,000 bushels including old crop Red Springs.

An early spurt featured another dull session. Strength at Liverpool and private reports of crop deterioratoin in some Saskatchewan districts were chief factors in the early climb that reached two cents at top levels.

GIRL GUIDES HIGH UP

ADELBODEN (CP)—Girl Guides' delegates from 26 countries meeting in this Swiss mountain resort for their 10th world conference held sessions in a mountain chalet presented to the organization six years ago by Mrs. James Storrow, an American leader.

THE "EYE-WAY" to SUCCESS

Quickest of all your five senses to grasp—to understand—to remember—are your eyes. That is why you "put it in writing" when you want to get an idea across.

And that is why newspaper advertising is the most resultful way to "put across" any saleable product of service successfully. Your ad printed in the newspaper captures the eyes of thousands. Your message "clicks" with the understanding because it is read. Your illustration sells—your package is remembered—because they are seen.

It pays to advertise. And it pays out better when you keep in mind two wise old sayings: "In one ear, out the other"... but, "What you see, you remember".

This advertisement was prepared for the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association by MacLaren Advertising Company Ltd.

HAVELOCK

Institute Hears History Of Belmont

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 22.—The Belmont Branch Women's Institute met yesterday afternoon in the Belmont town hall with Miss Iva Smith, president in the chair. There were twenty-one members and one visitor present. The roll call was exceptionally well responded to, each member naming a farm product and boosting their choice.

The various committees then gave their reports. Proceeds from a dance recently held in the town hall were $15.80. The weeds have been cut around the town hall and the cemetery has been cleand up.

After discussing the matter of a new cement approach to the town hall, the members decided to have this built.

Word was received from both Trent River and Westwood W. I. Branches that they had accepted the invitation of the Belmont group to their regular August meeting.

It was decided to hold the annual children's day celebration on Wednesday, July 27. Convenors appointed to look after the arrangements were: Program convenor, Mrs. A. Cassan; sports, Miss Geraldiene Dafoe; refreshments, Mrs. H. L. Scott.

The travelling apron was again started, this time for the purpose of raising funds to urchase a framed version of "The Lord's Prayer" for the town hall. This apron circulates among the families of the district, each fastening their contribution to the cloth by means of a patch, and at the end of the year the money and apron returns to the institute. Last year a lovely book-case was bought with the proceeds for this novel scheme.

During "memory time", a regular feature of their meetings, a very lovely poem was recited by Mrs. A. Cassan, ntitled "In the Ruth of Life" or "The Answer to The House by the Side of the Road."

Belmont History

On interesting addition to the program was a paper by Mrs. Wm. Harris, entitled "Historical Research of Belmont." She began, "We answered the roll call at a meeting a short time ago with the name of our birth place. A number of us gave Belmont, some said it proudly and others not quit so proudly, as if to say, I have not travelled far from where I was born.

"Nevertheless we live," she said, "in a land that has only been inhabited a little more than 100 years. In fact the township was first surveyed in 1823. It was then a dense forest. Belmont is comprised of 47,800 acres, some fertile farming land, and the northern part mostly rocky hills and swamps.

"The first actual resident we have any account of was Mr. Fiddick, who moved here with his family, but who was so alarmed by the howling of the wolves that he very shortly moved away.

"The first settler to whom a patent of land was issued was a Mr. Robert Stewart.

Belmont made rapid progress. In 1842 the number of householders was 33. In 1852 these had increased to 41 while in 1866 they numbered 185.

Many Fine Schools

There was a striking progress as shown in the rapid increase of school houses mostly of a superior kind. In the minute books of S. S. No. 3 we have the record of the first meeting in 1852, containing the names of men long forgotten.

The first sawmill in Belmont was built by Mr. Jehell Breckenridge, this was burned and Mr. Breckenridge built a sawmill and grist mill combined situated where the river from Round Lake empties into Belmont.

The first post office in Belmont was Havelock with Mr. P. Pearce as postmaster.

The chief wealth of the northern part of Belmont consists of minerals. In the eastern part, iron ore was found in abundance, this was Blairton Mines, on lots 7 and 8 in the first concession. This was first operated by the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Mining and Railway Company. It produced large quantities of ore. The yield at one time being as much as 500 tons a day. There is still a stone powder house there with the date 1862 on it.

Then at Cordova gold has been mined at times since 1899, the company owns a large tract of land, and erected many houses for the workmen, two churches, a school house and general store. They also built a power house at Deer River to produce their own electric power. This was some time before the use of Hydro.

The principle villages were Blairton and Havelock. Blairton had a population of 100 with two stores operated by Thomas Caskey and William Armstrong, a post office kept by J. F. Purdy and two blacksmith shops.

Preneveau had a hotel and store managed by Mrs. Prinevu, and also a blacksmith shop. The stone hall was erected in 1883 at a cost of $4,000.

In the year 1894 John Brown was reeve, William Anderson was clerk and James B. Peoples treasurer, all of whom had their addresses at Blairton."

By peculiar coincidence the visitor present for the regular July meeting, Mrs. Stewart of Montreal (formerly Selma Liscombe) a niece of Mr. Geo. Smith, happened to be the first baby born in the village of Havelock, and descendent of the first Belmont sttler.

Mrs. William Anderson contributed a solo entitled "The Old Rugged Cross" and the meeting concluded with "God Save the King. Refreshments were then served and a social priod enjoyed.

OBITUARY

MRS. EDITH LOUISA MARIA VICKERS

The death of Mrs. Edith Louisa Maria Vickers, widow of William H. Vickers, occurred at her home at 738 George street, on Thursday afternoon after an illness that lasted one and a half years.

She was born in England, daughter of the late Joseph Simo and Maria Haines, and came to Peterborough at the age of 12 years. She was from that time a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

Surviving are two daughters, Florence E. Vickers and Marlie M. Vickers, both of this city; and one son, W. Hedley S. Vickers, of Montreal.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe conducting the services in the absence of Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. JAMES CAMPBELL.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, July 22. — The death occurred suddenly at her home, on the Eighth Concession of the Township of Sidney, of Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, beloved wife of James W. Campbell, after an illness of one week's duration. She was in her 74th year and had resided in the locality for the past seven years, moving to Sidney from the Village of Stirling.

Born in North Hastings County, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Menzie. In religion, she was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

MRS. SIDNEY CLARKE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, July 22. — A former highly respected resident of Marmora passed away in Guelph General Hospital on Monday in the person of Mrs. Sidney J. Clarke. She was ill only a short time.

Her maiden name was Sarah Emmerton and she was born in England seventy-two years ago. About forty-five years ago the late Mrs. Clarke came to Canada with her husband and they took up their residence in Marmora, remainig in the village for about twenty-five years. During the period of their residence here they were held in high esteem and made many warm friends. They were valued members of the Methodist Church)now St. Andrew's United), and Mr. Clarke was choir leader for several years. The Clarkes also took an active interest in Marmora Council No. 279, Canadian Order of Chosen Friends, and held various offices in that connection. Mrs. Clarke was one whose ready sympathy made her a friend to anyone in trouble. For a number of years Mr. and Mrs. Clarke have resided in Guelph, where for most of the time of their residency there Mr. Clarke has been caretaker of the Y.M.C.A., his wife assisting him in his duties. She was a valued member of Norfolk United Church, Guelph, and a member of Guelph Council, C.O.C.F.

Besides her sorrowing husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Alice Ada Goode.

The funeral took place from her late residence, 78 Yorkshire Street, Guelph, on Wednesday afternoon, and interment was made in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Cardinal Serafini Is Dead In Rome

VATICAN CITY, July 22.—Giulio Cardinal Serafini, Prefect of the Congregation of the Council, considered one of the most learned members of the sacred college, died today of uremia after several days' illness. His age was 71.

Cardinal Serafini received the last rites of the church several days ago when his condition became critical. He suffered a severe heart attack July 11.

Born in the little town of Bolsena, Italy, Oct. 18, 1867, the Cardinal studied the classics in Orvieto Seminary and in Rome and was ordained priest in 1890. Practically all his life was occupied with educational affairs, notably with the training of future priests.

He taught theology in Orvieto and when his fame grew was called to Rome to direct the Pio Seminary. As bishop, he was a member of a commission for reorganizing seminaries and later held several important educational and administrative posts.

Cardinal Serafini was named Bishop of Prescia in 1907, and the following year became titular Bishop of Lampsacus and head of the Research Department of the Roman Seminary.

In 1923 he was named secretary of the Sacred Congregation of the Council, a disciplinary body which has jurisdiction of the administrative functions of the church and the observance of fasts and feasts.

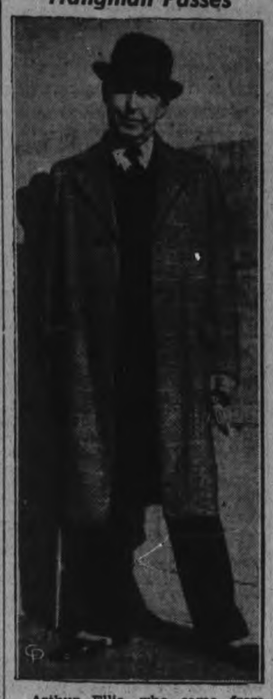
While still secretary of the council he was one of five Cardinals to be named by Pope Pius XI on June 30, 1930. He was appointed a Cardinal-Priest of St. Maria of Minerva and shortly after was made Prefect on the Council.

Handy For a Raid

WINDSOR, Ont., July 22 (C.P.).—Five transients were incautious in their choice of a place for a wine party last night. They held it in City Hall Park—just a few steps from police headquarters. They were arrested on charges of drunkenness, and will appear in Police Court to-day.

The five were: John Clarke 56, William Collins 51, James Martin 52, Alexander Ostler 41, and Joseph Ryan 40. Two empty wine bottles were found at the party site.

Hangman Passes



Arthur Ellis, who came from England 25 years ago to become Canada's leading executioner, is dead, dying from an unknown illness in a Montreal hospital. Ellis hanged more than 200 persons convicted of murder during the last quarter century.

U.S. Tightens Lid On Army Secrets

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP).—United States war department officials disclosed today that the recent arrest of spy ring suspects in New York has been followed by a tightening of the lid on army secrets.

An official circular "safeguarding of military information" to a standing list of nine basic functions of the army's military intelligence division.

The United States navy previously had put into effect extraordinary precautions to prevent leaks. Publication of detailed information on the progress of warships construction was limited early this week.

Navy photographers recently took official pictures of every officer and man at the Newport, R.I. torpedo station. Though officials asserted the procedure was nothing unusual, military circles believed it was without a peacetime precedent in this country.

Looking to the future, well-informed persons said President Roosevelt's recent observation that both the army and navy should have more funds to combat spies may bring about a military intelligence corps to work more closely with the justice department.

Lyons Hints Sudden Australian Election

BRISBANE, Australia, July 22—(CP Cable).—A sudden federal election may come at any time, prime minister Joseph Lyons told a united Australia party rally today.

"If we can, we will stave it off," he said. "For the sake of the defence problem alone it would be a tragedy to have a change of government."

(Last general election was held Oct. 23, 1937. The government, comprising united Australia and county parties, returned 45 members to the House of Representatives, one less than before dissolution. The Labor party opposition returned 29 members to gain one seat.

(In the Senate, where half of the 36 seats were contested, the Labor party returned 16 members and the govenment three. Seventeen seats, which weren't contested, were held by government supporters. There was one vacancy.)

Heart Attack Kills Driver In Smash

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., July 11 (C.P.).—W. G. A. Millar of Pittsburgh, president of the Millar, Jackman Company, toolmakers, was killed and his wife seriously injured when his automobile overturned last night while driving from here to his summer cottage. A third passenger, Ila Oke, a Huntsville girl, suffered a broken leg.

Coroner A. McDonald said to-day there would be no inquest into his death, as apparently Millar suffered a heart attack while driving. He died early to-day in hospital.

Mr. Millar's body will be taken to Pittsburgh for burial. He had been a summer resident of this district for more than 25 years.

Toronto Census Shows City Growth Halted

TORONTO, July 22.—Toronto is no longer increasing in size, and official 1938 figures, on file at the City Hall, prove that the city's population is at present actually standing still.

According to an official census, taken by Assessment Commissioner George Farley's staff, returns from eight of the city's nine wards show that there are now only 35 more persons living in them than were reported last year.

The usual increase is between 3,000 and 6,000 and there are recorded increases of 20,000 in a year, it was stated.

The census of Ward 3 has yet to be completed before the entire Toronto population figures can be accurately compared with those of 1937, but, since this is primarily a business ward, City Hall officials yesterday expressed the belief that the results of this census would show little if any increase.

The city's population survey to date shows, for example, that people are moving away from Wards 2, 4 and 8, which this year have respective population decreases of 638, 1,304 and 715. All other city wards show slight increases, but their combined increase total was sufficient to barley offset the total decreases in the first three wards named.

Not since the days when the depression was at its peak, City Hall officials report, has Toronto's population been at such a standstill. The 1938 increase of thirty-five persons, with only one ward to hear from, compares with the following increases: 2,847 in 1937; 7,191 in 1936; and 8,986 in 1935. Prior to the depression, however, the city was gaining at about the rate of 20,000 annually.

Another thing which is puzzling the Assessment Department census takers is to account for the natural population increase of approximately 3,000 which should have been available for 1938 tabulation since Toronto deaths last year had totalled 7,468, but had been offset by 10,425 births.

Total population for all wards except Ward 3, was placed at 605,245 for 1938, as compared with 605,219 reported last year. This year the following increases are shown: 30 in Ward 1, 1,117 in Ward 5, 499 in Ward 6, 112 in Ward 7, and 934 in Ward 9.

Split up into wards, the 1938 census reveals populations of 73,050 for Ward 1; 60,896, Ward 2; 68,206, Ward 4; 91,310, Ward 5; 114,560, Ward 6; 47,475, Ward 7; 32,318, Ward 8, and 67,437 for Ward 9.

UNUSUAL EVIDENCE

LONDON—(CP).—Description of an accident as reflected in a window was the only evidence at the inquest into death of a cyclist who pedelled into the curb and fell. Verdict was accidental death.

Fought Bartender

FORT ERIE, Ont., July 22 (CP).—Ernest Payne, 43, of Calgary was under arrest here to-day charged with attempted theft and assault. Charges were laid by N. Watson, hotel bartender here, who said Payne attempted to steal money from the beverage room cash register and then when caught fought with Watson.

Mary Rules Out Old Lady Roles

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22—(UP)—Mary Pickford, whose interpretations of children's roles brought her the title "America's Sweetheart," will refuse to play "old lady parts" in the movies, she said today.

"Selznick offered me a part as an old lady," Miss Pickford said in discussing prospects of her re-entering motion picture work. "I don't think the people would like that—I think they would be depressed if I played such a part."

She said, however, that she had also been offered another part—not as an old lady—but "a very important part" in a picture soon to be released. She said "it would not be fair"to reveal the name of the production.

Barbara Planning Private Separation

LONDON, July 22 (A.P.). — Attorneys for Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow were understood today to be planning a private separation under which the Countess, the former Barbara Hutton, would receive custody of their two-year-old son Lance and the Count would have permission to see the boy at intervals.

Two Danish lawyers retained by the Woolworth heiress have arrived to collaborate with her London attorneys.

Both the Count and Countess were understood to be desirous of avoiding further court publicity following the sensational hearing on July 5 in Bow Street Police Court in which the Count was accused of threatening his wife and an unnamed "London society gentleman."

Later this charge was dismissed following an agreement between counsel for both sides.

Under the present plan it is understood that the Count will be allowed to keep in touch with Lance's education—one of the matters known to have caused a rift between the parents.

Mr. Rowe's Wise Move

Hon. W. Earl Rowe gave the Ontario Conservative Association no opportunity to discuss the leadership as far as he was concerned. He handed in his resignation when the gathering was yet a young thing, and there was a commendable amount of strategy and wisdom in making such a move. It saved Mr. Rowe from the embarrassing position of having his leadership questioned and it made its unnecessary for members to broach the subject.

The Conservatives made a mistake in 1936 when he was named as leader, and that mistake was evident during the provincial election. It was also a mistake for Mr. Rowe to have sought to continue the leadership after going back to his seat in the Federal House. He could not possibly attend to business there and be regarded as provincial leader of the Conservatives when both houses were in session. The leader of a party must be in the chamber where his leadership is centred. Any other plan is too much like an army going forth to battle while the commanding officer remains in his own back yard.

Conservatism is not dead in Ontario, but it does need leadership and direction, and it needs an objective. It is not sufficient that it should oppose policies which come from the Liberal camp, and it is generally admitted that was the plan followed in the last provincial election. We hope the committee which draws up the platform does not feel it has to hurry its work to completion. Too often that is done and the result is that generalities predominate. It would be better for the Conservatives to assign their best and most progressive brains to the platform business and allow plenty of time. The next thing is to make certain that the new leader is entirely in accord with the platform adopted.

Do They Mean It?

Turkey was opposed to the Allies in the World War but there is being much written and much spoken about the friendly manner which the Turks now show toward Britain. How deep and how true that feeling is we have no way of knowing. Neither has any other person.

It is a growth and development which appears to have budded and come to full corn in the ear since Britain advanced credits of £16,000,000 to the Turks, showing that most of it was going to be spent in armaments, but attaching no particular strings to the loan.

Some of the leading men in Turkey today are moved to say kind words about Britain for trusting that country, and adding that if there are general hostilities in future there will be no doubt as to where Turkey will stand.

It may be difficult to convince a good many British people of the entire sincerity of all these Turkish utterances. The history of Gladstone's days is not so far removed that they will have forgotten that it was Turkish slaughter in the Balkans that brought him from virtual retirement in his advancing years and caused him re-enter parliament to attend to the Turk.

Not Smart Enough

When a new law comes into effect it is generally found there are those who seek a way to drive through it or around it. On the seventh day of June it became the law in Ontario that the car of a drunken driver was to be impounded for three months, and at the end of that period when application was made for its release the owner of the car would have to pay the storage charges.

A car driver from Kitchener was in court at Stratford on a charge of drunk driving and the evidence was sufficient to satisfy the magistrate who imposed a jail sentence and then ordered the car impounded. It was then that the accused driver informed court that the car could not be impounded. Right after the accident he had sold the car because he felt that was the sure way of keeping out of future trouble.

It didn't work. The Crown Attorney branded the move as nothing but a smart trick; the court ordered the car impounded and also instructed that the costs of storage be made a lien against the car. Court was satisfied that the man who had owned the car and the man to whom he is reported to have sold it could figure out the ownership at the end of three months. Number of smart people in the world, but the trouble is most of them are not smart enough.

In The Same Day's News

Strange people in the world and perhaps it does not do much good to say anything about them. We will take three of them.

1. Name and location unknown at the moment. He found T. B. Hunter lying unconscious on the bank of the river at Calgary. Mr. Hunter is subject to heart attacks and he was unconscious for only a short time. When he was able to move around he found that $7 which he had in his pocket had been stolen; all his pockets had been turned inside out. There was no possibility of the thief being attacked, and as far as he knew Mr. Hunter might have been dead.

2. There was a cattle drover who reported to police that he had been robbed of $550 in the Union Stock Yards at Toronto. He had gone to a bank near the yards and cashed a cheque for a load of cattle and three men closed in on him. That was the first story, and the second edition says the drover now admits that his employer's money was lost in a game of cards.

3. A carrier boy for the Examiner who has a route of papers covering a district part of which runs out along the highway. Means a five-mile trip before he is through. A bicycle is a necessity and the boy bought it and was paying for it out of his own earnings, three payments having been made. The boy's father is out of work and the son is doing what he can to help himself and the family. Some person, at present unknown, took the wheel and the boy is responsible for the rest of the payments, and there is that long trip to be made.

Just three cases that were in the news on the same day, none of them revealing human nature at its best.

One Point Not Mentioned

The Bureau of Statistics has issued a review covering the number of persons in mental institutions in Canada. We have in all 57 such places with a total of 43,080 inmates. The figures given are up to the end of 1936, so the total number of patients would be greater today because the increase is always greater than the rate of discharge.

Ontario has a system by which some of the patients are boarded out and that relieves the congestion and leaves room for those who could not possibly be released from the institutions.

The extent to which overcrowding is in evidence can be gathered from these facts:

For each 100 available beds in Alberta there are 115 patients.

In Manitoba there are 117 patients for each 100 beds.

In Saskatchewan the number for each 100 beds is 120, while in British Columbia there are 133.

The reason is that the number of patients keeps on increasing, and the number of new cases is always greater than the number being discharged. The increase has been going on for years and the number and size of the institutions has not kept up with it.

The Ottawa report does not indicate there has been a sharp increase in the number of cases, indicating a greater tendency toward insanity, but adds that 45 years is the most general age for first admissions to mental institutions.

The one point upon which the statement makes no pronouncement is the causes which make admissions to mental institutions necessary, and the reason for that is plain enough—the people who compiled the reports do not know.

The Result In Brantford

There may be those who see some reason for attaching special significance to the result of the by-election in Brantford. The Liberal candidate won the contest for the seat formerly held by the late Hon. M. M. MacBride, Minister of Labor in the Liberal government. The majority was decreased but that was to be expected. The result leaves the standing in the Legislature: Liberals 65, Conservatives 22, Independent 1, U.F.O. 1, vacant 1—for a total of 90 seats.

Liberals are pleased because they retained the Brantford seat, and probably Conservatives take some satisfaction in knowing the majority was reduced. A Labor-Progressive candidate ran a poor third and a Socialist-Labor man imported from Toronto secured 58 votes, indicating plainly enough that neither he nor his policy was wanted. It was just another election.

Parasite To The Rescue

The army worm has been doing serious enough damage in Western Ontario. The worms breed in the district where they make the attack. There are miles of untouched territory in between the places where the outbreaks are occurring. There are infestations so severe that farmers have been forced to cut their grain green rather than leave it for the worms.

There is one hopeful sign reported, and that is the existence of a parasite which feeds on the army worm. The parasite is said to resemble a "lady bug" of potato patch fame and when the army worm is attacked the end comes suddenly. One district reports that the parasites are numerous and their work is more effective than anything the experts have yet been able to devise.

There is undoubtedly some natural method of controlling pests about which we know very little. We have heard the question asked as to why rabbits do not become more numerous. It appears that they increase until they approach the point where the damage they might do would be enormous, but shortly after their numbers decrease, and the same sort of reasoning has often enough been applied to the number of sparrows. If the parasite to destroy or control the army worm is actually making its appearance now there will be farmers ready to admit it has arrived none too soon. The active season for the army worm should be over in two weeks for it is about time for it to go into the cocoon stage of its cycle of existence. Farms on which it has operated all use the same word in telling of the results—ruinous.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Buildings in Africa are painted bright blue inside to keep the flies out. So a fly that just blew in will get blue out.

New streamlined locomotives in Russia resemble Zeppelins on wheels. At level crossings their work resembles very much that of the old-time engine.

Scotland has somewhat to do with regulating the steps taken by United States, for it exported $110,000,000 worth of whiskey to that land last year.

Twenty bands participated in a musical event at Sarnia. Those participating arrived home safely although admitting they had a pretty good blow out.

The photographers who tried to snap W. Perkins Bull, K.C., at least succeeded in getting some fine views of his straw hat.

Three women have climbed an Alberta peak for the first time. The old theory about the weaker sex is taking a beating these days.

And now it is said Denton Massey lost the leadership of the Conservative party because he won Agnes Macphail's beauty contest.

It does not seem so long ago when we used to get excited when reading of a man who was going to try and fly the ocean.

Kitchener Record complains it is dizzy trying to keep track of grasshoppers and Atlantic hoppers in the same day's paper.

The British Social Credit Party has broken with Major Douglas, the founder of the movement. The Social Crediters seem to have difficulty in getting along, even with each other.

A Canadian has been sent to penitentiary across the border for entering the United States five times illegally. By now it has probably dawned upon him that our cousins do not want him.

Ontario's potato crop will be of superior quality and a statement from the deputy-minister of agriculture gives the credit to the department. That reeks somewhat of propaganda.

Only 1,300 folk will be allowed to shoot at Pelee Island during this year's two-day open season for pheasants. The pheasants will probably agree that the number could have been cut far beyond that figure without making them angry.

Corrigan flew the ocean in a plane, the door of which had to be held shut with a piece of wire. Now there's something for the man to think about who can never hang a fly door right or put up a pantry shelf without having a dangerous tilt to it.

A man in Chicago shot himself but is alive because his heart was not in the right place and the bullet missed it. We have heard of other people whose hearts are said to be not in the right place but what would happen if they shot themselves we do not know.

Banking houses have a system of internal management which is supposed to be proof against staff thefts. But in Paterson, N.J., the police now have on their hands Angelo B. Oliva, 31, described as one of the most trusted tellers of the Second National Bank of Paterson. His salary was $36 per week, but in the last seven years he has stolen $100,000 of the bank's funds. Just what sort of a system they had in that bank we do not know, but evidently Angelo Oliva did.

BETTER WAY

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I don't know where to park my car, confusing all the rulings are, and new ones freshly born; I find out often none too soon, the laws that I obeyed at noon, are changed when comes the morn.

¶ And if I park my car right there, because a space looks nice and bare, I feel relieved and grand; until a copper comes along, and tells in voice unkind and strong, I've blocked a hydrant stand.

¶ I want to go from there to here, and find another spot that's clear, the way looks very plain; once more I hear the traffic man, he tells me I must move my can, I've blocked a private lane.

¶ I stop in front of John Doe's store, I know I deal with him no more, he hollers loud at me; folk can't come in to buy my wares, nor can I sell them socks in pairs, get rid of glue and tea.

¶ I leave the front of John Doe's store, and drive around three blocks or four, a spot here like a bay; perhaps I'll sit and rest my spine, but then it is I read that sign, no parking night or day.

¶ It's like that nearly every spot, where I think I'll turn in and stop, the same in every block; I think I'd have less cause to groan, if I just left my car at home—and started out to walk.

The Boy Fought Grasshoppers

(By B. F. in the Regina Leader-Post)

IT WAS THE MOTHER who told me the story. For years the now 15-year-old boy had yearned to visit Regina fair. For years drouth and dust and failure had just made it impossible to spare the money. Through the past Winter mother and son had spent many an evening talking about ways and means of raising the funds, so that the boyish ambition might be realized.

They lived on a highway that led to a Summer resort, and day by day throughout the Summer tourist cars were seen passing their home. Time and again some had driven in looking for garden stuff, but the continued years of drouth had made revenue from that source nil.

Feeling that rains would come this year, the boy had managed by extra work and economy to buy seed, the father had given him a good piece of ground, and all he could raise and sell was to be his for his Regina fair fund.

And the rains did come, regularly and in abundance. How things did grow! Never was there a better showing of radish, lettuce, carrots, corn, beets, onions and potatoes. How the boy worked, and yet did not neglect either his schooling or home chores. Late in June saw radish and lettuce almost ready and the boy watched eagerly for the coming of the tourist. When school closed more time was given to cultivating and everything was responding splendidly.

Then the hoppers appeared small at first but lively, not in the garden, but on its fringes. With poison bait the boy fought those first onrushes, and held them. Rains helped, cool weather too, and hope continued. Perhaps they had shot their bolt, and as there was lots of grass for them to feed on, the garden might be safe.

Two or three hot days in succession followed and the little pests, now lively and growing fast, invaded the garden. Again the boy fought—Glauber salts, poison bait, coal oil, every known weapon was used but still the pests were not exterminated and serious inroads were made into lettuce and carrots.

Still the boy fought on and hoped that nature would step in and help in the fight either by disease or unfavorable weather. If only he could get 10 days more his harvest would be well on the way to being garnered.

* * *

ALAS, IT WAS NOT to be. There came an extremely hot day, with a slight breeze. The thermometer said 92 in the shade, a real grasshopper day. And how they responded to the heat! In droves, nay hordes, they swarmed into the air, trying out their wings. Here, there and everywhere they flew, settling as they grew tired, only to rise and fly again, as the spirit moved them.

As the day progressed it was seen that millions were coming from other directions. With every weapon available the boy fought, but was hopelessly outnumbered, and that evening millions of insects settled on those luscious vegetable tops.

The following day the lettuce was gone, carrots disappeared as by magic, radish tops were riddled, corn leaves stripped, beets literally annihilated, and only the potatoes withstood the attack, and their tops looked as though they had been shot through and through with buckshot. The garden dream was ended.

"But", continued the mother, "Danny's going anyway. He has a chance of a ride in, and we'll find a little money for him. He's going on 'nickel day', so it won't cost much. We're glad, for he worked hard, and would have succeeded only for those pests— drat them!"

"And your other crops?" I asked. "How are they?"

"Oh", replied the farm mother, "they're gone! too, only fodder left, but somehow or other we didn't worry so much about them. It's so long since we've harvested a crop we don't count on it any more, but the boy—he was so wrapped up in his dream we hated to see him disappointed altogether. So it's all right, he'll get there and—"

Yes, it's all right. Crops may fail, pests may triumph, disappointments continue, but the boy—he'll see the fair—but the mother, the father—and their dreams—can they be realized? Evidently for some, this is not the year.

ALBERTA POLICE.

(Lethbridge Herald)

IT IS BECOMING more and more evident that, if the people of Alberta would stand for it, the Aberhart Government would drop the R. C. M. P. and set up a police force which would be under the thumb of Premier Aberhart is Attorney-General, a police force which, under pain of dismissal, would be forced to do the "dirty work" involved in the various licensing and control acts. It would be the first step towards Fascism in Alberta.

The facts are, however, that the people of Alberta have a great deal more confidence in the fairness and integrity of the Mounted Police than they have in the Alberta Government of today, and Premier Aberhart would do well to leave the force alone. We want no storm troopers and "gestapo" in Alberta spying upon the people.

SADDEST TOKYO MAN.

(Leonard Lyons, in New York Post)

ADMIRAL OKEDA, who was Prime Minister of Japan two years ago is the saddest man in Tokyo today. . . . In 1936 a group of Japanese, intent upon a coup d'etat, entered Okeda's home and murdered the man they found there. Emperor Hirohito thereupon publicly lamented the Admiral's death. The next day the true story was unearthed—the Okeda had escaped assassination and that his brother-in-law was the one slain. Despite his good fortune Admiral Okeda has lost caste with Japan's citizens, who insist that he should have committed hari-kari—because he had disgraced the Emperor. . . . disgraced him in returning to Life, thereby becoming living testimony to the fact that the Emepror had uttered an untruth in lamenting Okeda's death.

SEEMS SO

Yes, sir, we often rescue people in difficulties."

• They Keep Asking For Little Girls

IS THERE ANY truth in the old nursery rhyme that little girls are made of "all that's nice"—while little boys are not so desirable? The director of the Country Homes Department of the Neighborhood Workers Association, Toronto, is beginning to believe there must be, for practically every invitation she receives from a country hostess, inviting a city child to spend two weeks in her home, requests that "a little girl about five years old" be sent out.

Each day the problem becomes more serious, for there are scores of boys on the list of those waiting their chance for a holiday in the country this summer. The director says she is unable to explain the preference for girls. "Boys are really less trouble because they can find so many ways of amusing themselves once they get to the country. Out of the 1,100 children who were sent out last summer, there was only one accident and that not serious."

Included in the long list of applicants on hand at the N. W. A. office are many "special cases". This does not mean that the children require extra special attention. In some cases there is a little brother and sister who should be placed in the same home. In another case there are twin brothers, both eager to be sent to the same farm. In many cases there are children not strong enough to be sent to summer camps because of last year's attack of polio. These youngsters need sunshine, rest and wholesome food to build them up, all of which can only be supplied to them through the generosity of a country hostess.

Every case that is recommended by a district worker to The Country Homes Department has been carefully investigated. The need is urgent. Though some of the children are "run-down"—they are all medically examined before leaving the city and cannot obtain their railway ticket unless the doctor passes them.

The Neighborhood Workers Association of Toronto earnestly solicits the co-operation of country-women in helping to provide holidays for needy city children for a two-week period without remuneration. Letters of invitation should be addressed to The Country Homes Department, N. W. A. 22 Wellesley Street, Toronto, and should be accompanied by a letter from the local minister, or a prominent person of the community.

• People Who Have Long Names

(Manhcester Guardian)

THE DIWAN OF Kichin's claim that he has the longest surname in the world nineteen letters long-depends on the question whether hyphens are admitted or not; if they are, a nineteen-letter surname compares ill with quite a number in our country, let alone Germany.

These hyphenated names originate in different ways. Two ancient families may come together and it may be desired to keep the names of both in existence. Often it has happened that lands have been left on condition that the legatee should add the name or names of the original holder to his own; some times they have been adopted by a cadet branch and have lapsed again for lack of male heirs.

In the records of the dukedom of Ormonde there is one cadet branch which had a name of 34 letters, and there was a Vernon cadet who had 27. But there are plenty of long ones left. There is a baronetcy which supports the burden of Milborne-Swinnerton-Pilkington and another which is Goldsmid-Stern-Salomons.

One of the greatest of our titles, the Ancaster earldom, which was once a dukedom, has for surname Heathcote - Drummond - Willoughby. We have an Admiral Plunkett-Ernle-Erle-Drax. The Earl of Buckinghamshire has the majestic surname of Hobart-Hampden - Mercer-Henderson. Hepburn - Stuart - Forbes - Trefusis is another generous name. There is a Montagu - Stuart-Wortley-Mackenzie in the Red Books. The Duke of Sutherland has Sutherland-Leveson-Gower for a surname, and Twistleton-Wykeham-Fiennes might reasonably be called a tongue-twister.

• Late Labor Minister Wrote This

WHEN ALEX. L. ELLIOTT, M.P.P., was in Toronto recently he obtained a copy of a poem written by the late Hon. Mr. McBride, Minister of Labor, just a short time before his death. He had written a number of poems through the years. The poem "Along the Way" enclosed was read at his funeral.

"ALONG THE WAY"

Our lives must touch with other lives, as each day's race is run,
Leave imprints there, for good or ill, as sets each evening sun.
Shall fair or foul our influence be, on those whose lives we hail?
Shall benefit our impress be, or shall a blight prevail?

From out each point of contact, your life, this life of mine:
What service are we giving to mark the flight of time?
The troubled souls encountered—have they sweetened at our touch?
Or have we sought, in selfishness, for riches overmuch?

Have we helped our fellow mortals with a kindly heart's caress?
Do those whom we have greeter know a new-born hopefulness?
Are tolerance and charity the key-notes of our song,
As we go moving onward, with the eager, anxious throng?

And when, to the last great reckoning, these lives of ours go,
Shall each wee fleeting touch of ours have added joy or woe?
Shall He who looks our records o'er, of name, of time, and place,
Say: "Here a helpful influence came," or "Here is evil's trace"?

Our lives may touch a million lives, in ways we never know:
As day by day we move along the road that all must go.
And so, good friends, may I suggest, one prayer we all should pray,
Is that our lives may help the lives we touch along the way.

FAMILY ALLOWANCES.

(London cor. Ottawa Journal)

IT IS HIGHLY significant that a Conservative ex-Minister like L. S. Amery, M.P., should now be advocating family allowances in this country. The dilemma he presents is that, in the case of six per cent. of unemployment relief applicants, the so-called dole equals or exceeds normal wages.

Mr. Amery's remedy is to institute family allowances, as France and other countries, including some of our own Dominions, have done, and thereby put the employed worker on at least equal terms with the unemployed one with a large family. Mr. Amery would do this, on the same lines as our health insurances, by a joint contribution from worker, employer, and State.

How this solution may be affected by population figures is a bit of a problem. Mr. Amery himself mentions an estimate that our population in the United Kingdom will have shrunk from forty-one to thirty-one millions by 1975 and to eighteen millions within sixty years from now. Can the State bribe people to have enough children to keep the population at a total which will enable the bribe to be paid?

ONE-SIDED CUTTING.

(Edmonton Journal)

EDMONTON Public School Board will have the support of all Edmonton taxpayers in its fight with the Provincial Government over the amount of interest to be paid on each other's bonds.

The government's attitude is hard to defend. It holds Edmonton School Board debentures but refuses to exchange them for Alberta bonds the board holds. It insists on collecting full interest on the Edmonton bonds, but refuses to pay full interest on its bonds, in spite of the fact that sections of the interest-reduction legislation have been declared invalid by the courts.

DANGEROUS BICYCLISTS

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

The gyrations of cyclists form an ever-present uncertainty on urban streets. For their own safety, and for the sake of the drivers' nerves, those who ride bicycles, whether old or young, should attempt to keep them under better control.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

THEN WAS KINDLED the wrath of Elihu the son of Barachel the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram: against Job was his wrath kindled, because he justified himself rather than God. . . .

Wherefore, Job, I pray thee, hear my speeches, and hearken to all my words. . . . Behold, in this thou art not just: I will answer thee, that God is greater than man. . . . For God speaketh once, yea twice, yet man perceiveth it not. . . . If there be a messenger with him an interpreter, one among a thousand, to shew unto man his uprightness: then he is gracious unto him, and saith, Deliver him from going down to the pit: I have found a ransom. . . . He shall pay unto God, and he will be favourable unto him: and he shall see his face with joy: for he will render unto man his righteousness. . . . Lo, all these things worketh God oftentimes with man, to bring back his soul from the pit to be enlightened with the light of the living.—Job xxxii, 2; xxxiii, 1, 12, 14, 23, 24, 26, 29, 30.

MEMBER FOR YUKON.

MRS. BLACK should not be allowed to resign her seat in the Yukon, not even to make way for the new leader. She utters more good common sense than most of the other members of Parliament. We could name a couple of dozen members who could be dropped out without making any difference to Parliament, but Mrs. Black is not one of them.

COFFIN ORDER SURE.

(Ottawa Journal)

Max Schmeling got $160,000 for letting Joe Louis take two minutes to knock him out and fracture two bones in his back. Most men would suffer a knockout and the fracture of even more than two bones for less money. The trouble is that for most of us two minutes in a ring with Joe Louis would mean an order for a coffin.

West Finds Hepburn Friend And Permanent Liberal

EDMONTON, July 22.—(CP). — The Edmonton Journal says to-day:

"Hon Mitchell Hepburn, Premier of Ontario, took a holiday from his holidaying Wednesday night and in the first political comment he has made since starting his air tour of Northwestern Canada, declared himself a permanent Liberal, a monetary reformist and a friend of the western provinces."

The Journal adds:

"He has no intention of leading or aiding any new political party in Canada.

"He is no admirer of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and will not follow his leadership, but he is and will remain a Liberal.

"He still stands for monetary reform as he did when he spoke in 1935 in support of Mr. Mackenzie King.

"He has no fight with Western Canada.

"He has no ambitions whatever for Federal leadership."

"Mr. Duplessis (Premier Duplessis of Quebec) and I are very close friends," Ontario's Premier said when he was questioned about his quick trip to Quebec by air amid an atmosphere of mystery, the story continues.

New Party Rumor Wrong.

"We find it a big help to work together on some matters which we have in common, like uniform regulations on mining and newsprint industries. But this talk of a new party is all wrong."

"Asked about his submission to the Rowell Commission in which he said that the East should not have to support the West and alleged that the West was largely responsible for its own plight, Mr. Hepburn declared that he had made out his case for Ontario as Premier of the Province, to defend the Province against the allegations of the Western Provinces.

"The Western submissions, he emphasized, had been laid before the Commission first and in his brief he was answering charges which had been made against his own province.

"'The people who support me are the rural people, the farmers, who buy in a restricted market and sell in the open market just as you people in the West do,' he said. 'I know that the West is hampered unfairly by tariffs and so are the people in the East. It is not the mass of the people in Ontario that is causing our difficulties at all. Personally, I am a low tariff man and I'm against present tariff conditions.'

"Action of the Dominion Government at the recent parliamentary session in taking over complete ownership of the Bank of Canada was 'just an empty gesture', which still leaves control of currency and credit in private hands, the Ontario Premier declared."

Wins By-election

H. Louis Hagey, 31-year-old lawyer, retained the Brantford Ont., riding for the Liberal party by defeating his Conservative opponent, Reginald Welsh, by a majority of 1,146 votes in a provincial by-election necessitated by the death of Labor Minister M. M. MacBride.

Yukon Wilds Next In Hepburn Trip

EDMONTON, July 22 — (CP). — Cheered by news of the Liberal victory of H. Louis Hagey in the Brantford Provincial by-election, Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario prepared to-day to start the northern part of his 8,000-mile holiday plane trip through Northern and Western Canada.

Premier Hepburn and his companions, J. P. Bickell, Toronto; Bernard Smith, New York, and Pilot Jimmy Towne, arrived here yesterday after a 200-mile flight from Calgary, accomplished in one hour and 20 minutes.

He broke his vow to avoid any discussion of politics on the trip when he heard the result of the Brantford election, terming the victory a "great triumph for the government in an industrial centre."

200 Try To Suicide Each Week In England

LONDON, July 22—(CP). — Two hundred persons attempt suicide every week in England and Wales but only about half succeed.

Analyzing suicides in the "practitioner," Prof. Sidney Smith, internationally - known medico-legal expert, urges a committee be established by a medical organization to investigate factors leading to self-destruction.

Dr. Smith believes danger signals are impatience of discipline, imprudent and irrational behavior, fits of depression, fear of insomnia and inability to concentrate.

He stresses the importance of persons being in harmony with their work and suggests lack of interest is one of the danger signals.

Commonest ages for suicide lie in the 50's. Three times as many men as women take their lives, but of those who attempt suicide twice as many women as men fail.

Private Picking

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 22.—(CP)—Unlike most beauty competitions, the contest to choose a "princess" who will represent St. Thomas at the London Old Boys' reunion next week, will be conducted in private. The idea is "to save the contestants" embarrassment, officials explained. The winner, who will be styled "Princess St. Thomas" will ride in the reunion parade on a float symbolizing her city's importance as a railway centre.

Quebec Textile Mill Reopens, By Day Only

ST. GREGORIE, Que., July 22.—(CP)—Gates of Dominion Textile Company's big mill here were thrown open today and 1,000 employees returned to their machines after a week's idleness as a result of a disturbance during which company manager Blair Gordon and another official were assaulted and injured.

A police cordon was strung around the mill, situated in the shadow of thundering Montmorency Falls, six miles from Quebec City, to assure a peaceful return to work.

Gordon and Harold Fisher, assistant plant superintendents were knocked to the floor of the plant offices last Wednesday by angry workers after negotiations to settle a wage dispute with 100 striking spinners and doffers, employed on the night shift, had failed.

The St. Gregoire mill shut down while company officials conferred at Montreal regarding future operations here on which rested the fate of 2,000 employees, this little town's entire working population.

Last night the textile workers milled through the streets when a notice posted at the mill's main entrance announced operations would be resumed today though there would be no more night work in three departments—"spinning warp, weft and hosiery."

Officials of the National Catholic Textile Union here estimated closure of the departments would mean loss of work for 200 to 600 night shift employees.

Find Canadian Boys Shy Off Chef Classes

TORONTO, July 22.—Why is it that Canadian youths spurn the opportunity to earn good wages as competent chefs?

That is a question teachers at Central Technical School are asking themselves, because so few young men have registered for the special course in cooking that the institution is considering dropping it from the schedule.

There is a constant demand for male chefs from hotels, restaurants, clubs and canning factories, yet 95 per cent of these positions are filled by Europeans.

Why this should be so, not even the chefs themselves can explain.

"There is a great field for Canadian boys as chefs," Albert Vierin, Italian-born Toronto chef, declares. "When a Canadian, who is ambitious and wants to get ahead in the cooking business has been thoroughly trained under modern conditions, he should make an even better chef than one from a foreign country."

The course at Central Technical School has been endorsed by four associations: the Masters Chefs; the International Stewards; the Ontario Hotel, and the Ontario Restaurant Associations, and C. W. Hitchcock, Chairman of a special committee appointed to co-operate with the school, admits that the demand for properly qualified male chefs can't be filled.

So, the situation seems to be, Canadian male chefs wanted — with few takers.

Motherwell To Drop Out Next Fight

MELVILLE, Sask., July 22—(CP). —Hon. Dr. W. R. Motherwell, M.P., former Federal Minister of Agriculture, indicated to the executive of the Federal Liberal Association here yesterday that, owing to advancing years, he "chose not to contest" the Federal constituency of Melville at the next Dominion election.

He said, however, he would continue to press strongly for improved production methods on the prairies and for a reformed and supervised grain trade.

The executive unanimously adopted a resolution which was to be forwarded to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, urging that the initial price for wheat under the Wheat Board be not less than 87½ cents a bushel.

Attendance at motor speedway races in England is one-third greater than last year.

TIGERS' PITCHERS HARD HIT—RUDY YORK GOES TO HOSPITAL

Amateur Shotmakers Of Canada Gather At London Hunt Club

Seven Four-Man Teams Will Open Week's Jamboree

LONDON, Ont., July 22 (CP).—The picturesque course of London's Hunt and Country Club was officially open today to practice-round warmups by competitors in the three-star golfing show that will run all next week.

Scores of amateur shotmakers from all parts of Canada—and a dozen or so from the United States—will invade London over the week-end, lured by the array of titles.

Seven four-man teams will open the week's jamboree Monday in 36 holes of medal play to decide the championship provincial squad in all Canada. Quebec, winner in 1937 at Quebec, will send out a strong combination in defence of its title and the Willingdon Cup.

Over the same distance and at the same time a second Canadian title will be settled. Seven junior champions of their respective provinces will fight it out for the Dominion junior title and the Buckingham Cup. The all-Canada junior competition is an innovation this year by the Royal Canadian Golf Association.

The long struggle that leads to the Canadian amateur championship will begin Tuesday with the first round of 18 holes. The same distance will govern until the semi-finals are reached on Friday, calling for 36 holes, the same as the Saturday finals. The big amateur show is all match play.

Entries at R.C.C.A. headquarters in Toronto last night totalled 114. Post entries and scratches may alter the figure for the big starting field. At Ottawa last year the starting list was just under 100.

The rolling course of the Hunt Club with its share of natural hazards has a par 70 for the 6,493 yards. Each nine is 35. The longest and often the toughest hole is the 550-yard sixth, with a par five.

The Hunt Club is the home course of Ross Somerville, defending his 1937 Canadian championship and seeking his seventh Dominion amateur title.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

The greens at our club were set aside last night for the playoffs for Provincial District No. 14.

Although the entry was not what was expected yet the bowling in all three events was well up to the average. In the rink games Whitby took the lead for seven straight ends and then the Nicholls' combination (father and son) got going and pushed out a 2,3, and then another 2, and then again on the 20th end clapped on a big 5, and that settled the issue.

In the doubles the game was close all the wayand was tied 16 all at the 16th end. Then the Peterborough pair pushed over a single, a pair and a five and from there to the end it was just a procession, 10 points being the margin.

But the best game that was played and the one that attracted the gallery was the singles between Rev. W. C. Blake of Bowmanville and Jimmy Bryce. This was a real pippin. They played 31 ends, took over two and one-half hours, tied nine times and the winner was declared only after the umpire, R. Hendry, measured in the winning shot. The last end was like this: Bryce led off and was within 2 feet of the kitty. The Rev. gentleman played and then Bryce ,with Jimmy counting two and game providing Rev. Blake should miss with his last bowl. But the minister, cool and collected, walked down the green, picked up his bowl and with true aim let go, threw his bowl, weighing 3½ pounds, exactly 116 feet, clipping Jimmy's No. 1 shot on the inside, just enough to slip over and knock out Jimmy's second shot and on that outstanding shot the game was won and lost. It was a tough one for Jimmy to loose and a great win for Rev. Blake.

The winners:

	Whitby
Bowmanville
A. Moore	H. Pringle
A. Freeman	J. Sleightholme
D. Nicholls	A. Edwards
L. Nicholls.....24	M. Hicks 14
Doubles
Peterborough	Bowmanville
E. Sackville	F. Williams
G. Gimblett.....27	J. Cruthers .17
Singles
Bowmanville	Oshawa
Rev. W. G. Blake 21	J. Bryce 19

The entry list for the coronation tournament is beginning to shape up. Thursday, Rev. C. J. Johnston, Hortfon, Conn., sent his in and one night behind his came one from H. Walkey, Hamilton, two froms Paris by phone late last night and T. Green and W. Demy from Kingston. We expect to give more information by the first of the week.

Our men's tournament for tonight commences at 7.30 p.m. and once again we ask a few of the boys who make it a habit of coming late, please be on time.

Couch's Homer Settles Issue

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 22. — DeCarrol's Electrics nosed out Norwood by a score of 10 to 9 in an exhibition game of softball played on Thursday evening. It was a close game, and their victory from Norwood a week ago was probably responsible for the large number of supporters who were there with cheers for the locals. There was plenty of excitement and interest was keen all the way through the game in which the Electrics tried out three pitchers.

J. Kempt pitched for Norwood, and after he warmed up put enough zip on the ball to make the locals sit up and take notice. He fanned McComb and Holmes in the third and gave H. Benett the only hit of the inning, which went high and was caught out in left field to retire the side with the score remaining at 9-7.

Don Couch won the game for the Electrics in the fifth when he got the only home run of the game with two men out and on one on the bases. It was a perfect hit and the ball was sent far into centre field. Jack Phillips was the next batter and he struck out and the game was called owing to darkness.

Score by innings:

Campbellford	540 10x—10
Norwood	610 02x— 9

The lineups:

Norwood — R. McMaster, ss; W. Rogers, c; C. Puffer, rf; G. Puffer, cf; W. Murphy, lf; R. Richardson, 3b; G. Innes, 2b; L. Fleming, 1b; J. Kempt, p.

Campbellford — D. Holmes, 3b; C. Bennett, lf; D. Montgomery, rf; B. Reddick, ss; D. Couch, c; J. Phillips, 2b; H. Campney, 1b; pitchers, W. Yade, W. McComb, and B. Crosson.

Threshing Wheat

ESSEX, Ont., July 22 (C.P.). — Threshing of fall wheat began in Essex County this week, with farmers reporting yields of from 16 to 54 bushels an acre. Prices, varying slightly, appear to be generally about 60 cents a bushel, about half that paid for opening wheat in 1937.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

IF YOU WANT to see action as is action, drop down to the lacrosse arena opposite Loch Little tonight at nine bells and witness the Petes butter Mount Hamilton—or anyway play them. It is an O. L. A. senior "B" scrap, preceded at 8.15 by a midget fracas, and the locals feel cocky. They figure they can return to their winning ways and knock off the Ambitious City boys. At anyrate, it'll be a lively lacrosse tilt, as most of the games have been in this group where mileage takes more out of you than the games! It's a huge interlocking grouping with a dozen teams mixed up, and at least half of 'em are downright good squads. This Hamilton crew is rated a tough team and fans can decide for themselves when they meet up with another good crew, the Petes, this evening.

* * * * * * *

BUFFALO SEMI-PROS are here tomorrow aft for a ball game with the Petes at three in Riverside. With five good professionals—at least, their past records are good—performing for the visitors, and some smart amateur balisters, we figure the Petes will have to hustle to take this team. It will be worth seeing as the semi-pros have piled up a neat road record of wins and losses this semester. Lefty McNally is likely to see action for the Petes in this tilt, he and Kitchen being in line for the chore. Buffalo will probably pitch their former Bisons' hurler, a speedballer. It ought to pack in the fans. After next week's two night games with the House of David team, the Petes go into their four-in-seven loop playoff serial with Oshawa.

* * * * * * *

As Hot As Iced Tea

OUR PALS THE PETES didn't look so hot last eve as Oshawa GM-men, minus Doc Rowden, plastered a 5-1 licking on 'em. A good twilight crowd skimped their suppers to see the transferred fixture, and they must have wished they had spent more time on the raspberry pie. It was a lousy game to watch, draggy as a church sermon on a hot day. None of the players had enough pep to do a Big Apple—in fact even a crabapple! They walked on and off the field like pall-bearers and showed about as much fight as a rabbit on a hunt. Also the visitors, who were the home squad, took an early lead and held it easily—so that didn't help any to stifle the yawn of fandom.

* * * * * * *

JAKE BIDDLE PITCHED four-hit ball but didn't look any too brilliant. He has hurled lots better. Jake was brought back from vacation for this one, as Turner is in the States and couldn't be located. Biddle had a long motor trip yesterday but he still won his game with ease, though walking three and only fanning three. Jakafby for the Petes had a wild streak on and gave way to Whitehill, the Gunner going better with only one earned run off him—though he walked four. Our errors didn't figure in the runs, but offensively we looked bad. On hitting and in crossed signals on base running. Liveliest looking lad out there of the 18 players, and also the two umps, was Tommy Foley. He played a dandy game defensively and had a couple of nice bingles.

Clockmen Are Run Down

OMEMEE MEN SOFTBALLERS rose up in wrath at the Bowl last gloamin' and slapped over the chesty Westclox gang by an 12-8 count. Which yanks the Armour Hill squad back into a tie with Motorists and improved the O's chances considerably. The Villagers were battling al lthe way to win this one. We don't mean to say exactly that they had chips on their shoulders, but anyway they wound up with their chips in the bank—where it really counts. They up and told Westclox where to get off, feeling they had ridden past their station, as Bugs Baer would put it. An open fray with lots of hits and errors, and pitching that was merely pitching and nothing more. Same teams are slated to tangle again here tomorrow night.

DANFORTH ACES AND KEENE collide in an exhibition girls' softball struggle tomorrow (Saturday) eve at 6.30 in Riverside Park, admish being one dime. 'Tis a return tilt, Keene lasses having motored with many a warble to Toronto a week or more ago to cop a 3-1 classic from the Aces. With a bit of a rally in the ninth to bust a deadlock, Bea McDowell and Marilyn McCarthy will take turns on the Keenesters' slab, we're told, and the Aces will be at full strength. They are said to be good and local fans should be interested in such a setto. Manager Ivan Fletcher points out that the reason the game is being run off in a closed park is to raise enough shekels to meet the guarantee for the Toronto maidens. He hopes for a big crowd.

Sheep To The Slaughter

PLANS ARE AFOOT in Kingston to send a big delegation to Toronto tomorrow for the O. S. A. meeting when the matter of suspended baseballers will be discussed where it affects softball. Sportsmen in the Limestone City point out, and reasonably, that the players who had the Ponies suspended by the O. B. A. have left the city and the others remaining are being kept out of baseball and softball both, innocent victims of someone's mistake. An effort is also being made to line up an eligible ball team to play the House of David bunch this Monday, but we dunno how it will pan out. Seems to us that the Ponies as a club and as individuals were punished plenty by the O. B. A. already without that body insisting on keeping them tied up tightly in a non-sports straitjacket.

BAZ O'MEARA IN THE Montreal Star, speaking of the C. N. R. club which will be grouped with Peterborough, Toronto and Sarnia in senior O. R. F. U. this fall, says: "Dunc Smith was telling us about the new National team which will operate in the O. R. F. U. Husky Dunc is going to turn out himself. He typifies the fine spirit of the C. N. R. teams which were never beaten till the last minute. 'I think we will have a fine spirit and everybody is going to be treated alike. This is a come-one-come-all club and the best men will get the positions, and previous reputations will not count so much,' said Dunc. You just have to get around among these C. N. R. enthusiasts and get the idea that they will be behind their team. They have a powerful recreation club and a spirit of camaraderie that is like a tonic. So Nationals have a nucleus of support that is going to be very helpful to them."

PICKING 'EM OFF THE GRAPEVINE: Got a card today from Pick Hines, Petes' puck coach last winter, who is now holidaying in Bermuda. . . . Petes are in Oshawa on Aug. 6th for the first of their C. O. B. L. playoffs; next one being here Aug. 13th. . . . An eight-bout boxing card is slated for Lakefield tonight at eight, standard time, in the rink. . . . Joe Taman and Bill Horrocks meet in one of the bouts. . . . The Wright-Bowler grudge serial will not be run on the Lindsay mitt card next Tuesday; when both boys are in top shape they'll meet here again. . . . The N'Yawk chapter of the Baseball Writers Assoc. of America alone has close to 100 members. . . . Brinton soccer players will leave the Empress Hotel tomorrow aft at three for the game in Deloro. . . . Don't forget the first game of the girls' sectional playoffs tonight at the Bowl Betwixt Keene and Westclox. . . . Most of the GM-men are vacationing these weeks, things being quite slow in the Motor City now. . . . When are the men's softball playoffs here? . . . McGarry sprained his back pulling away from a fast inside pitch of Whitehill's in Riverside last eve. . . . We chuckled once when Whatley whirled and roared: "Good Gosh, that was right over!" when Reg. Fair called a bad one, the umps wasn't expecting this outburst in his ear and he jumped six inches and then shook like a cup full of dice!

Tourists Lose Hastings Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 22.— More than 400 spectators witnessed a softball game here last night. It was the annual international game between a group of Rittman, Ohio, tourists, and a picked team from the local loop. Hastings took the game by a 17 to 8 decision.

Kelley Bell, Rittman hurler, allowed twenty hits. Blackbourne on the mound for the locals, held the visitors to twelve hits. Heller led the Rittmanites at bat with four hits in six times up and Joe Jones' homer featured the locals at bat. The game was called in the eighth frame due to darkness.

Hastings	032 113 34—17 20 9

Play Here Saturday

TOM KENNY

Who will be catching for the Buffalo semi-pros here tomorrow when they play the Petes an exhibition game. He was with Buffalo Bisons for three years.

Ernie Lombardi Has Free Hand

CINCINNATI, July 22.—Just a point that we may have overlooked in our quest for the bigger, finer things of life is that for every no-hit pitcher there is a no-hit catcher. The man who seems to have earned that honor this year is Ernesto Natali Lombardi, vulgarly known as "Snizz."

From one so named you might expect something on the order of "Cavalleria Rusticana," but what you get is an arpeggio of curves and a cadanza of fast balls. Snozz is a conductor with bat instead of baton, and he is the lad who stood behind the plate and directed Johnny Vander Meer in his two straight no-hit, no-run performances this year.

Correcting an Impression

For years, or until the arrival of Bill McKechnie in Cincinnati this semester to manage the Reds, Lombardi labored under the burden of a popular public delusion to the effect that a buy who can hit that ball like the big Oakland Italian, surely hasn't time left to think. Ever since Snozz started delaying deliveries of groceries from his father's store by sneaking away for an inning or two on the lots, the amiable giant could knock the stuffing out of baseballs.

When Snozz broke into the Coast league, ten years ago, he was discovered by Brooklyn scouts who labeled him "big dumb brute who can hit." Finally the Dodgers paid $50,000 for him in 1930, needing base hits more than brain power. But when his batting average for 1931 was figured out and discovered to be a mere .297 Snozz was packed up and consigned to Cincinnati in a deal.

Sweet Revenge

It was a dandy deal—for Cincinnati. The 200-pound six-footer with the huge hands became the particular scourge of Brooklyn pitchers, and broke up as many ball games in behalf of the Reds as Toscanini has conducted symphonies. In only one year since moving to Ohio has the big fellow fallen below .300 in hitting, and his lifetime major league average is .315. He has driven in a pile of runs for a catcher, hits a flock of homers every year and it seems to me he even stole a base last summer.

McKechnie was the man who discovered that Snozz could think. Other Cincinnati master minds had been somewhat minute in their instructions to the giant catcher, leaving not much to his imagination. But Bill happens to be one of the school of managers who let the young men go out there and play some baseball for themselves. A player has to prove himself numb above the shoulders before Bill will step in with intellectual advice.

On His Own

McKechnie told Lombardi he was his own catcher, and would call his own signals. The result has been somewhat astounding. The big Italian has proved to be a fine handler of pitchers with wide knowledge of the weakness of National league batters. His triumphs of the catching art have been recorded especially with Vander Meer, a young man who used to be so wild in the Piedmont league that the catchers were allowed to wear roller skates.

Ernie's age is in the records as 30, but his teammates say he is much older than that, pointing out that it must hav taken longer than that for that nose of his to reach its magnificent size. Ernie's beak is an inch longer than Jimmy Durante's by actual measurement. Snozz says he gets a lot of fresh air that way.

Rough-House Rudy Is Injured, Hit On Head By Pitched Ball

Down River Sales Prove No Help To Ailing Staff

NEW YORK, July 22.—(CP). — A Washington baseball writer, taking relief from the heat outside, ran into Mickey Cochrane browsing around among the mummies in a capitol museum a couple of mornings ago.

"What," asked the astonished scribe, "are you doing here, Mickey?"

The Detroit Tigers manager glanced cautiously over each shoulder, sh-h-h-ed the scibe with finger to lips, leaned over and whispered, "I'm looking for a couple of pitchers."

And there you have the newest and deepest of the blues — the Cochrane chant, the moan that has dropped the Tigers from fourth to sixth place in two weeks, with the end not yet in sight .

It was a tough break that Mickey lost a lot of his power when Roundhouse Rudy York was sent to a hospital yesterday, hit on the head by one of Monte Weaver's pitches while the Senators were twisting the Tigers' trail 4-3.

Staff Hard Hit.

But a tougher dose to take is that the pitching, the pride of the American League only a couple of years ago, is a "cousin to the rest of the loop right now. Schoolboy Rowe is gone—back to the minors. Tommy Bridges hasn't started a game since June 26. Roxie Lawson's luck has run out. And Vernon Kennedy, who looked like the extra dividend on that White Sox deal, has lost three in a row—hasn't won, in fact, since June 22.

On top of that, Mickey, who thought he was weeding out the whackiness by trading Gerry Walker to Chicago, who thought he had a lot of pitcher in Poof Poffenberger, is having a rude awakening on both counts. For Poof still has something to learn about the pitching business, but has graduated with honors and a master's degree from the daffy school.

He disappears for days at a time, his training ritual just isn't, and he forgets to cover first when the other fielders are busy. Quite a lad is Poof. It got so bad yesterday Mickey had to send him home—but before they could get around to giving him his ticket, Poof had disappeared.

Fail To Pick Up Game.

The Tigers' tossing troubles make it virtually certain that Cochrane's crew won't be in the pennant fight down the stretch. They had a chance to pick up a game yesterday ,but the pitching collapsed, kicked away a three-run lead, and the Nats won out in the ninth. For the second straight day, that was the only tilt on the American League card, old man weather washing out everything else, including the crucial Yanks-Indians double-header.

Over in the National League Pittsburgh Piratets mainained their game-and-a-half lead by nipping the Phillies 5-4 on Lee Handley's triple with the bases loaded in the ninth. The Giants also stayed in the thick of things by trouncing the Cardinals 5-2 on Carl Hubbell's five-hit pitching.

Chicago Cubs, celebrating Gabby Hartnett's debut as manager, split a twin bill with Brooklyn Dodgers. Clay Bryant tossed a four-hitter and the Cubs took the opener 5-2. In the nightcap, Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin got hot, set the Cubs down with two hits and the Dodgers won 1-0 on Dolph Camilli's homer. The Reds and Bees weren't scheduled.

OSHAWA GM-MEN END LOOP SCHEDULE WITH WIN OVER PETES

Take 5-1 Win From Locals In Draggy Tilt

Oshawa GM-men wound up their C.O.B.L. schedule here last night with a 5-1 victory over the Petes. It was a transferred game from the Motor City and drew a good twilight crowd to Riverside Park. The game was a draggy affair throughout, with the GM-men getting an early lead and holding the locals helpless the rest of the route.

Two twirlers saw duty for the losers, while Jake Biddle pitched four-hit ball and was never in trouble after the first frame. He fanned three and walked three, but had good support, and the Petes weren't hitting up to form at all. Joe Jakafby started on the mound for the locals but was wild and walked four and had two wild pitches in his short sojourn. He left in the fourth with a total of four earned runs and five hits against him, as he struck out three. Gunner Whitehill finished in fair style allowing but three hits and one earned run but walking four

Fair Fielding

Both teams turned in some neat fielding in spots especially the winners. Foley shone with several running catches in centre for the winners and each side pulled off an infield double play. The Petes' pilot on sceond had three errors but none figured in the scoring. Foley led the hitters with a triple and single in three times and Biddle had two for four. Wallace clouted a double. None of the Petes got more than one hit.

Kearns scored for the Petes in the first, singling to centre, moving up on Clark's sacrifice and racing home on Murphy's single to right. The latter took second on the throw, stole third but was out later at the plate trying to steal home. Oshawa got two in their half. Foley singled and Dalton drew a walk. Both advanced on a wild pitch and both scored on a single by Jubenville. Neither side threatened in the second. Clark's hit was wasted in the third and Oshawa had the bases full on walks but could not counter. Only three locals faced Biddle in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings.

Get Two More

Oshawa got two runs in the fourth. Bennett singled and was sacrificed along. He took third on Biddle's single and the latter stole. Both scored on Foley's triple to centre, the latter being out later at the plate, Clark to Whatley. A double-play finished them in the fifth and a walk and Biddle's hit did no damage in the sixth. They got another run in the seventh when Wallace doubled, took third on an out and home on Normoyle's single. A walk and Cadd's single did no good for the Petes in the eighth canto, neat fielding by the GM-men stopping a threatening rally cold. Foley reached first on a miscue in the eighth for Oshawa and got to second on another error after nearly being trapped off first. He expired there when Dalton flied to third and Whitehill fanned Hurst and Wallace. In the Petes' ninth, Murphy flied to centre, Calladine popped to second and Starr grounded to short to wind it up.

Regina Lad 18 Heads Youth Movement

SASKATOON, July 22—(CP).—Eighteen-year-old Claude Ellis, of Regina, was elected President of the Saskatchewan branch of the Canadian Commonwealth Youth Movement at the provincial convention here yesterday. Nelson Clarke of Saskatoon was chosen vice-president.

At the one-day convention, which will be followed to-day by the Provincial convention of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, addresses were made by G. H. Williams, M.L.A., leader of the Saskatchewan C.C.F., and A. M. Nicholson, provincial organizer.

Queer Horse Is Seabiscuit

CHICAGO, July 22.— Reason why Charles S. Howard, owner of Seabiscuit, did not answer telegrams from Arlington Park, which resulted in the cancellation of the $25,000 Arlington Gold Cup, was discovered on Friday.

It has been learned that Seabiscuit is the world champion long distance "cooler outer." Where it takes ordinary horses such as War Admiral, Stagehand, Menow, and others 40 minutes to cool out after a race, it takes Seabiscuit 48 hours.

Howard, who had not answered the two telegrams sent by Arlington Park officials asking whether he planned to ship Seabiscuit to Arlington for the Gold Cup, replied on Tuesday.

In a telegram to John Hertz, president of the Arlington Park Jockey Club, he said that he did not answer the telegrams because "he was waiting to see how Seabiscuit cooled out from his race in the Hollywood Gold Cup" before making up his mind whether to ship to Chicago for the Gold Cup.

Seabiscuit raced on Saturday afternoon and Howard received the two telegrams the following day. According to his reply to Hertz he still could not determine how Seabiscuit would cool out the day after his race, which is by far the longest time on record for a race horse to cool out.

Omemee Wins Over Westclox

Men's softball standing:

	P.	W.	L.
Motorists	11	6	5
Westclox	11	6	5
Omemee	10	4	6

Omemee beat Westclox 12 to 8, before a big crowd of fans last night in the East City Bowl. It pulled the Clockmen back into a first-place tie with Motorists and shoved Omemee up within shooting distance of the loop leaders. The game was a free-hitting affair with some loose fielding. Parsons and Reeds, opposing moundsmen, were no real mysteries to the batters, and the latter allowed 12 hits and Parsons 14. Reeds faned three and walked three, while Parsons struck out two and issued five free tickets.

Pogue led the winners at bat with a homer, a double and single, while Brockley hit two home runs, J. Williamson a double and single, and F. Parsons two singles. For Westclox, Foster got two doubles and a single, Currie three hits, Ellis a homer and single, and Watson two singles. Fielding features were turned in by J. Williamson, Brockley, O'Leary, and Watson. The teams:

Omemee — Brockley, rf; J. Williamson, cf; Weir, ss; Parsons, 3b; Rehill, 1b; Pogue, lf; Brooks, c; Jones, 2b; Reeds, p.

Westclox — Watson, ss; Currie, lf; O'Leary, cf; Ellis, 1b; Mowry, c; Parsons, p; Foster, rf; Carlson, 2b; Hayden, 3b.

Score by innings:

Omemee ..... 002 500 203—12 14 7
Westclox ..... 212 000 120— 8 12 4

Umpires—Payne and Ranger.

Schmeling Arrives In Fatherland

As one set would put it, "sic transit gloria mundi," and as another would put it, "you're a hero today and a bum tomorrow." Something that's being demonstrated every day in the world of sport. Different from the tumultuous reception he received in 1936 after defeating Joe Louis, was the one Max Schmeling received this year on his return after his unsuccessful bid to regain the world's heavyweight crown. He is seen leaving the station in Berlin with his wife, the European screen star, Anny Ondra.

Hamilton Here For Lacrosse

Mount Hamilton plays the Petes here to-night (Friday) at nine o'clock in the George Street Lacrosse Arena, weather permitting. It is an O.L.A. Senior B fixture, played under the lights in the outdoor arena, and preceded by a midget lacrosse contest. The Hamiltonians have a good club of experienced players from that district, and they gave the locals a hard fight in Hamilton on July 12 before Peterborough pulled out a close decision. They are battling for a playoff berth now and will hustle the homesters here to-night every minute. The Petes have been going good lately, but dropped their last away-from-home contest by a 12-11 score to Owen Sound, and will be fighting to keep on top of their group.

The Petes are in good shape again, following a few minor injuries, and expect to field their strongest squad on Friday night against the Mount Hamilton crew. Another big crowd will likely be on hand for this lacrosse fixture, as the Friday night games here so far this season have practically all been quite exciting and entertainig, with plenty of action dished up. The Midget game at 8.15 is between Lions and the Y's Men's Club, and ought to be a neat tussle, too.

Giants Swamp Buffalo 18-1 Hitting Spree

TORONTO, July 22.—(CP).—If it isn't one of the Jersey teams it's the other in the International League. Jersey Giants and Newark Bears, the one by slightly Brooklynish tendencies and the other by overwhelming power, manage to keep in the headlines day after day.

The Giants supplied the fireworks last night. After winning only one game of their road trip they turned on the astonished Buffalo Bisons and pounded out an 18-1 victory on 23 hits for 35 bases.

This epic feat took some of the glamor from Newark's double triumph over Montreal, 3-1, 8-6, which ended a nine-game unbeaten streak for the Royals. And it overshadowed the fact that Baltimore Orioles broke a nine-game losing streak by beating Toonto Maple Leafs 3-2. Rochester downed Syracuse 4-3 in the other game to tighten its grip on third place.

Newark rolled over the hopeful Royals in character istic fashion. Marius Russo pitched a six hitter in the opener and the artillery bombed in the nightcap to hammer three hurlers for 13 blows including a homer by Jim Gleeson. The Bears made seven runs in the fifth inning, wiped out a 5-1 deficit and won the game.

Young Jim Reninger started the Orioles on their triumph with a one-hitter for eight innings. He wasn't around at the finish for the Leafs rallied and Harry Matuzak was called in as relief.

Rochester used two hurlers, Nubs Kleinke and Ken Raffensberger to subdue the Chiefs. The duo allowed only three hits. Sammy Baugh batted for Kleinke in the seventh and contributed a single to the two-run winning rally.

Pro Ballsters Here Tomorrow

Local ball fans will see a good exhibition game here to-morrow (Saturday) afternon at three o'clock in Riverside Park, when the Fro-Joys of Buffalo tangle with the Petes. The Fro-Joys are a semi-pro outfit with four or five first-rate professional players, a couple with experience in the International League, in the lineup, and several ace amateurs from the American border city. They are touring the mid-west with a jump up into this province for a few games. The Buffalo bunch play good ball, according to press reports, and will show fans some classy inside stuff. But the Petes, with Lefty McNally likely to see mound action, may surprise their visitors by copping the decision. It ought to be a fine exhibition before a big crowd of city and district rooters.

Both Buffalo hurlers have had a lot of pitching in professional company before this season. Rex McDonal was with Terre Haute, Scranton, New Orleans, and last year with Indianapolis in the American Association. Smoky Joe Holtz saw service with the Buffalo Bisons in the International League, and Catcher Tom Kenny was also with the Bisons three years, as well as in the Eastern League. They will bring their regular semi-pro club, and the Petes will be at top strength for this struggle.

3 Burned In Blast

NEW YORK, July 22 (A.P.). — Mackay Radio to-day reported that the S.S. Hampden sent a message to the United States coastguard saying that three men were burned badly in an explosion on Falkner's Island, a few miles off Sachem Head, Conn.

The message asked the coastguard to rush assistance and take the injured men to a hospital in New Haven, Conn.

Details of the explosion were not immediately availabel at coastguard headquarters here.

'Ray' Of Sunshine

Poor old Jimmy Dykes hasn't been having much fun with his Chicago White Sox this year. Pitcher Monte Stratton and Shortstop Luke Appling were laid low before the season started, and then the Bonura-Kuhel trade went sour. But out of the latter has come one gleam. Ray (Rip) Radcliff (above) was shifted from the outfield to first when Kuhel failed to hit, and not only has he been banging the ball around with great gusto, but his fielding has been better than it was in the outfield.

Renewed depreciation of the franc is causing many in France to forego summer tours.

Remember When—

Boston's erratic boxer-sailor, Jack Sharkey, was held to a 15-round draw by Mickey Walker at Brooklyn seven years ago to-night. Former world's heavyweight champion, Sharkey started 3-to-1 favorite, but the "toy bulldog" fought him toe to toe to earn the draw.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Clay Bryant, Cubs, and Luke Hamlin and Dolph Camilli, Dodgers—Bryant's four-hitter beat Dodgers 5-2 in opener; Mamlin pitched two-hitter and Camilli hit homer for 1-0 Brooklyn nightcap win.

Dutch Leonard, Senators — Doubled and scored winning run to top Tigers 4-3 in ninth.

Carl Hubbell, Giants—Whipped Cardnials 5-2 with five hits.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP). — Lou Ambers is a cocky, confident little fellow who honestly believes he's going to spill a lot of dope and lick Henry Armstrong, Aug. 12. . . At his Summit, N.J., training camp today Ambers said: "If I ever bet on fights (which I don't) I sure would grab some of those juicy 3 to 1 odds they are tossing around Broadway....I am going to win this fight. . . I want to lick Armstrong just about as badly as Louis wanted to trim Schmeling....I'll do it, too. . . I may not knock the follow out, but I'll give him a boxing lesson he'll remember for a long time and at the end of 15 rounds, you'll hear the announcer say: 'The winner and still champion, Lou Ambers'."

Another guest at Madame Bey's famous training resort at Summit is Tony Galento, the Newark night stick....He is getting ready for his joust in Philly with John Henry Lewis, the light heavyweight champion on July 26. . . Not many smart fight men believe Tony can lay a hand on John Henry (who is the best boxer in the ring to-day) but all agree that if he does it will be good-night for John...which would mean that Galento would be right up there in the big money class and able to dictate his own terms to Mike Jacobs and everybody else.... Galento can't fight a lick, but he can hit as hard as a mule kicks and once he connects the birds start singing for anybody who may be on the other end of the sock.

Our new skimmer goes right off to Charlie Grimm who wouldn't quit under fire. . . They have been after the guy for years, but he didn't give up until they made him...

The writers out Detroit way are calling for some trades to snap the Tigers out of the doldrums....They should call for some headache powders for Black Mike Cochrane, too ....What with Baron Poffenberger's wild and wooly ways and in-and-out team poor Mike is getting mighty little shuteye these hot nights.

Cattle Ease Off, Calves Firm, Hogs Up On Sales

TORONTO, July 22 — (CP) — A moderate cattle supply met with a poor demand from both home and export buyers on the Toronto Livestock Market this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch report. Overseas shipments accounted for only 260 cattle and there were no United States purchases of any account.

Trade was dull from the opening, with a cattle holdover of 2,200 head on Monday reduced to about 600 head by the end of the week after prices had gone down 25 to 50 cents cwt.

Calves held steady to the closing day when some sold below the week's general level. Hog prices gained 10 to 15 cents cwt. on the light run. Sheep and lamb prices took a sharp drop, lambs opening $1 cwt lower at $10 for good ewes and wethers and closing with last sales at $9. Sheep finished 50 cents or so lower for the week.

Better grades of steers and heifers suffered the least price decline while common butchers and weighty steers, as well as bulls, were off 50 cents in spots. The pick of the weighty steers sold on Monday at $7.25 with a small lot at $7.75. Other steers sold during the week at $5.25 to $7 cwt.

Good butcher steers and heifers brought $6 to $6.25 with a few at $6.50. Common butchers traded from $4.50 to $5.50 with many unsold. Butcher cows closed at $3 to $4 with a few at $4.50. Canners and cutters were lower at $2.25 to $2.75.

Good butcher bulls opened firm at $4.50 to $5, but closed at $4.25 to $4.50, with bolognas at $3.25 to $3.75. Fed calves sold 25 cents or so lower at $6.75 to $8.50, with tops reaching $9.

Westerns Draggy.

The supply included 650 Western stockers. Prices were down on a draggy market at $4.25 to $5 for the majority. A few native feeders were purchased at $5.25 to $5.60 cwt. Good milkers and springers sold at $60 to $65 each, with common varieties as low as $30 each.

The few calves offered Thursday found few buyers, going below the week's general price level. Most sales were at $8 to $8.50 for choice vealers during the week, with common downward to $4.

After opening steady at $12.25 off trucks for bacons, hogs gained to close at $12.35 to $12.40, with some going to out-of-town packers at $12.50. Sows were slow at $7 cwt. for both grades. Light feeders sold at $4 to $6 each.

The decline in sheep and lamb prices saw opening sales $1 cwt lower at $10 for good ewe sand wethers and closing deals at $9. Bucks were weighed out at $1 to $2 cwt. discuont with culls going at $7 to $8 cwt. Sheep closed 50 cents or so lower for the week at $1.50 to $3.50 cwt.

Manion Assured

bound to decay, he said. The Liberal party was not advancing and for that reason was headed for defeat. He asked followers to bear this in mind and to remember that the most dangerous people were those who argued the policies of 50 or 60 years ago were good enough for today.

The great problem in Canada as in other democratic countries was to provide work and wages and decent livings for the people, and find a method of distributing the abundance of goods modern industry could produce.

Sees End of System.

If this problem were not solved the present economic and political system might disappear in 20 years.

Referring to the visit of the King and Queen to France Dr. Manion said this was an indication of how people of different race and in different countries could work together for their mutual benefit. Canadians of English and French racial stocks could surely work together within the framework of their common country.

"Let us accept each other's loyalty as a foregone conclusion," he said.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's view that a party platform was more or les sa chart for the guidance of leaders was substantially correct. The new Conservative platform had been criticized as lacking in definiteness but a platform had to be couched in general terms.

The platform was definite on one thing at least, the railway problem. It was against unification and Dr. Manion repeated his own stand on that question. He believed talks of annual savings of $75,000,000 a year was a joke.

At the most $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 would be saved and that was not enough to justify a railway monopoly. Such a monopoly would bring together in one group 300,000 voters, the railway workers and their adult relations. This group would be able to destroy governments which did not meet its wishes.

With a few more million people in Canada many problems would vanish, including the railway problem. Canada was just starting up the hill of national development and there was room in Canada for 50,000,000 or 75,000,000 people. Under sound and progressive policies and with a wise immigration policy at the proper time there was no limit in sight to Canada's advancement as a nation.

Denies Interview.

Dr. Manion during the course of his address repudiated a purported interview with himself which appeared in Le Journal of Quebec and which was commented upon in Judith Robinson's column in the Toronto Globe and Mail. In the interview he was reported as attributing his election to the support of Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec.

"I never gave such an interview", he said. "I never knew anyone from that paper. I did not even know it existed or where it was published but I have since learned it is a Liberal paper."

Dr. Manion said that if he had been so stupid as to give such an interview and if it had been true no one would have been more displeased than Mr. Duplessis at being drawn into the Conservative party when he carefully avoided having anything to do with the convention.

The party leader said that on investigation he had learned the Quebec paper had not meant to say Maurice Duplessis but Maurice Dupre. Even then the report was false because Maurice Dupre with John R. MacNichol of Toronto was joint chairman of the Ottawa convention and took no part in the selection of the leader.

Welsh Want Tongue On Equal Footing

CARDIFF, Wales, July 21 (CP).—The government, faced already with a demand for appointment of a secretary of state for Wales, may soon have before it a demand from Welsh language societies for equal footing for Welsh and English in courts and in the administrative life of the principality.

The union of Welsh societies has asked numerous other Welsh language bodies to urge a bilingualism similar to that prevailing in Canada. The Welsh nationalist party, a small but vocal minority, has decided to give its support.

However, the Welsh league of youth agreed to cooperate on one condition only, that the campaign for legalized bilingualism be not confined to the union the nationalist party and the league but that invitations for participation be extended to other movements such as the union of Welsh teachers the council of the national Eisteddfod of Wales and all political parties in the principality.

Participants in the project will meet during the national Eisteddfod to arrange for placing the resolution before parliament.

Prime Minister Chamberlain has promised sympathetic consideration of a resolution presented to him by Welsh House of Commons members asking the appointment of a secretary for Wales whose functions would be smillar to those of the secretary for Scotland.

The Welsh maintain that lack of a separate portfolio dealing with their country places them at a disadvantage in London.

Ammunition To Defend 'Good Earth'

It is manpower, not military machines or army mules that keeps China's battalions stubbornly pecking away at the advancing Japanese squadrons, with their immensely superior equipment. This soldier is typical of Chiang Kai Shek's men. With a load of ammunition weighing him down he plods across country. Ready help is available from peasants along the way and in spite of his heavy yoke, this one-man ammunition train can make 30 miles a day.

The Stars Say . . .
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, July 23

The astral influences bearing rule on the affairs of this day may not be read as propitious, as they indicate jealousy, strife, folly and other tokens of inharmony and distress affecting the business and personal lives. The menace is particularly disturbing in private relations, and may be aggravated if not instigated by rash, unkindly and unguarded writings or speech. Be cautious in all that might be considered folly.

Those whose birthday it is may not enjoy a particularly harmonious and profitable year, as there are menaces of unhappiness and friction in social, domestic, affectional and even business associations. Jealousy, enmity, spite and aggravations from unwise speech and extravagance menace.

A child born on this day may be merry and good-natured, taking life not too seriously, but suffering from its pleasure loving and indulgence, as well as from its tendency to carelessness in speech and writings.

Somme Decks Out For King's Visit

AMIENS, France, July 22 (CP-Havas).—A bustle of activity spread through this historic city on the Somme today as final preparations neared completion for tomorrow's unveiling by King George of the monument to Australian war dead at Villers-Bretonneux.

Among the first visitors to reach the city was Sir Earle Page, Australian deputy prime minister and minister of commerce.

Tonight the British Grenadier Guards band is scheduled to give a concert after a parade through streets enlivened by British, French and Australian flags. The Guards also will attend a gala musical show in the Amiens stadium.

Prior to the ceremonies at Villers-Bretonneux, receptions stressing Australian friendship will take place at the famous Amiens Notre Dame cathedral and the city hall.

Tales Of His Wealth Keep Surprising Bull

TORONTO, July 22—(CP). — W. Perkins Bull admitted today it was a "bit of a nuisance" that his bank accounts have been tied up by investigators for the Ontario Government succession duty branch.

But the historian declined to discuss his financial affairs in any detail with reporters. He was asked if it were true the government was checking a report Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley transferred $1,000,000 or more to him in the last year of her life.

He smiled. "Well, I pick up a paper or turn on the radio and hear one time I'm worth $10,000,000, another time $3,000,000 and then another story says I'm penniless," he said. "It is always very surprising for me to learn these things."

Bull said he intended remaining in Toronto until the July 26 inquest into Mrs. Sidley's death, and would be available for further questioning by government officials. He was questioned by J. D. Peck, solicitor to the Ontario treasury, two days ago.

Cattle Thief Slugs Jailer and Escapes

AYLMER, Que., July 21 (CP).—A posse of 20 men under Police Chief Delbert Dumoulin today searched for Rene Longpre, 24, after the prisoner at the jail here slugged his guard over the head with a bottle and escaped.

Chief Dumoulin said his men had been scouring the countryside of this town, 10 miles west of Hull, since the jail-break meanwhile the assaulted guard, Alfred Leon, 35, was being treated at his home for serious scalp wounds.

Leon was knocked unconscious by the blows from a ginger ale bottle which the prisoner asked for in the middle of the night, he told Dumoulin. He suffered deep cuts over the eyes, on the cheek bone and over the lips.

Longpre was serving a term for cattle thefts in the Hull and Gatineau districts in Quebec and at Stittsville and South March, Ont., across the Ottawa river from here.

Famous Press Woman Dies In Denver Home

DENVER, July 22.—(AP).— Mrs. Leonel Campbell O'Bryan, known through a long newspaper career as Polly Pry, died in a Denver hospital to-day. She was 80 years old.

A native of Mississippi, she eloped from a St. Louis school at 15 with George Anthony, whose family built the Mexican Central Railroad. The marriage ended in divorce.

At 20 she started her newspaper career on the New York World, then owned by Colonel John A. Cockerill. When she asked him for a job, he told her to "go home." Instead she hustled out to a tenement fire and wrote a story that established her on The World's staff.

Her fame as Polly Pry was made on The Denver Post, on which she worked for Fred C. Bonfils and Harry Tammen. During a campaign she conducted a quarter century ago against the Western Federation of Miners, a bomb was exploded at the door of her home.

Another of Polly Pry's assignments was Pancho Villa's career in Mexico. During the World War she served with the American Red Cross in the Balkans.

She was married in 1910 to the late Harry J. O'Bryan, an attorney.

Urge Jas. Roosevelt Income Tax Probed

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., July 22 (A.P.). — Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican member of the United States House of Representatives from New York and outspoken New Deal critic, was on record to-day by declaring that the next Congress "should insist" on investigating the income tax and insurance activities of James Roosevelt, son of the President.

Fish made the demand in a speech before the Duchess County Republican County Committee last night, in which he denied published reports contending that he and young Roosevelt sought insurance from a utility company.

Fish, declaring he wanted it "made very clear" that he "never" obtained any business with Roosevelt and "naturally made no political promises," said that he would oppose "every effort to exploit the White House as well as the squandermania and economic fallacies of the New Deal."

Singer "Swings It," Starts Train Off

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Ethel Merman, Broadway torch singer, "swung it on the steps of the Twentieth Century Limited to-day and almost swung the train right out of Grand Central station.

An enterprising photographer handed her a signal lantern as she stepped off the train from Hollywood.

"Swing it," he directed.

Miss Merman did; the lantern.

The engineer on the switching locomotive waiting for the signal to pull the train to the wards, caught the swinging and opened the throttle.

The train started up with a lurch. It was stopped finally by a frantic trainman.

Germany Calls Gold

BERLIN, July 22—(CP-Havas). — Field Marshal Hermann Goering today called in all foreign and domestic gold pieces, even those in numismatic collections, as a prelude to establishment of a uniform coinage for greater Germany, including Austria. The decree, aimed at gold coin hoarders and collectors, ordered the delivery of all coins to the Reichbank before Sept. 1. Violators will be punished.

Hangman Ellis

decapitation of 180-pound Mrs. Tomasina Sarao, hanged with two accomplices for the insurance-murder of her husband, at Bordeaux jail where Ellis a few years before had set his record for "mass" execution by hanging four of the Tony Frank bank-robber gang.

Suit of $50,000 damages was threatened when one newspaper described the decapitation of the Italian woman as a "bungling execution" and suggested she had been dropped on 18 foot of rope instead of the customary six or eight feet.

Ellis accepted the description as a personal affront and took the matter up with his lawyers. But nothing came of it.

For the last few years he had been almost without a call. True, he was in demand occasionally but new executioners were appearing. The story of the decapitation appeared to have ruined hangman Ellis.

His savings apparently had dwindled and he spent his later years in surroundings vastly different from the fashionable district where he lived at the height of his career—when he was earning roughly $200 and all expenses for each execution.

Transient Is Held, "Pulls A Corrigan"

DETROIT, July 22. — Another Irishman, Leroy McCarthy, 28, of St. Thomas, Ont., pulled a "Corrigan" in Federal Court Thursday and won a delay in sentence for illegal entry until Judge Edward J. Moinet can investigate the case.

McCarthy said he boarded an empty freight train in Belleville, Que., thinking it was going to northern Quebec where he planned to get a job.

Explained McCarthy:

"Imagine my surprise when three days later I landed in Port Huron."

PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, CANADA, FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1938

A Convict's Outing

LONDON.—A lone convict staged a chimney sit-down strike for six hours today at bleak Dartmoor Prison, scene of 1932 of England's greatest prison mutiny of modern times. He climbed the boiler house chimney and perched there, sunning himself in defiance of guards. They finally persuaded him to come down after a crowd had gathered outside to watch the spectacle.

New Weed Killer

HARROW.—A new calcium chlorate spray for weed-killing that reduces the fire hazard to a minimum will be announced shortly by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, W. J. Stephens, Ontario chemical engineer, told 1,200 district farmers at yesterday's annual field day of the Dominion Experimental Farm here.

DEPARTMENT VOTES MORE MONEY TO IMPROVE COUNTY ROADS

Improvements Will Commence Immediately On 25-Mile Stretch At Loon Lake

$5,000 To Be Spent On Nepheline Road Near Stoney Lake

The list of mining road projects to be completed under the 1938-39 program of the Provincial and Dominion governments, announced by the Hon. Paul Leduc, Ontario's Minister of Mines, includes two roads in Peterborough county to which reference was made some time ago by A. L. Elliott, M.L.A.

An appropriation of $5,000 has been assigned to constructing and improving the road from the eastern end of Stoney Lake into the property of the Canadian Nepheline Company. James Hawthorne has been placed in charge of this job which is a form of government assistance in transporting nepheline from the company's holdings in the Blue Mountains.

Another mining road will be projected from Oak Lake, north of Havelock, into the property of the Canadian Flint and Spar Company in Methuen township at an expenditure of $10,000. John Woods will be general foreman of this work. Mr. Elliott said today that operations on both roads would be begun within a short time.

Other Road Jobs

Mr. Elliott also informed the Examiner that a special appropriation had recently been made by the Department of Highways for day labor construction on there secondary roads in the county. One of them is the Church line in Galway; another the Catchacoma Road north from Buckhorn; and the third road extends entirely around Loon Lake in Chandos township, a distance of twenty-five miles. It is the intention of the Department, Mr. Elliott added, to proceed with the work planned for these roads as soon as possible.

Wedding Bait

ST. LOUIS, July 22 — (AP) — There's competition brewing for St. Louis county's lucrative "Gretna Green." Free cooking lessons with every wedding were promised today by John Soutiea, justice of the peace, who frankly admitted he was seeking some of the business that keeps self-styled "marryin' justice" George R. Hart busy day and night.

Work Started Excavating Bell Building

Lioni and Company of Toronto began work this afternoon on the excavation of the basement of the new Bell Telephone Company building on Hunter street. They have the sub-contract from Anglin-Norcoss Ontario Limited and will probably complete some time Monday.

The dimensions of the cellar are 72 feet along Hunter street with a depth of 80 feet. The Lioni steam shovel arrived in the city at 1.30 p.m. on a long underslung motor truck, and had steam up ready to go to work. The big shovel was unloaded in about ten minutes and was wheeled into the lot. Residents along that part of Hunter street may expect to hear the shovel rumbling as early as five o'clock in the morning, but it won't last more than two mornings. The Lioni crew gave a brief and interesting demonstration on how to ease the big shovel from its truck to the pavement and along a row of planks to the site of the Bell Company's new office.

LINDSAY

South Ops Farmer Breaks Hip In Fall

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, July 22. — John Deyell of South Ops, father of John Deyell of the Lindsay Warder, was the victim of a serious accident on Tuesday afternoon. While in the act of entering the hay mow on his farm he fell from the ladder to the barn floor, breaking his right hip in the fall. He was taken to the Ross Hospital.

A Toronto man named Reid was arrested on Tuesday evening by Provincial Constable Adair, and will face a charge of being drunk while in charge of a car near Cameron. His trial takes place on Friday. Accused is alleged to have had a partly consumed bottle of liquor when apprehended by the officer.

On Tuesday evening a Lindsay man named Smith was arrested on No. 35 Highway by Constables Adair and Kennedy. It is alleged that he had liquor in his possession illegally. He will come up for trial on the week-end.

A well-known former resident of Millbrook, but who is now living in Toronto, was arrested in that city by the police and brought to Lindsay Wednesday on a charge of false pretences. Following reports of the passing of worthless or forged cheques the police have been on the watch for the accused for some weeks. It is charged that the accused issued these cheques, using his brother's name.

Workman Injured Sawmill Accident

Peterborough's Isolation Hospital stood vacant this week for the first time since last December, and of the common run of infections diseases Miss Zita Kearney, Public Health Nurse, reported only one patient, a whooping cough case.

If those facts suggest that the city's health is almost perfect, however satisfactory it may be, there are other facts of the situation to be considered, one of them the recent visit of the travelling chest clinic of the Ontario Department of Health and its examination of contact and incipient tuberculosis cases.

An epidemic of scarlet fever continuing for months brought the Queen Mary hospital into use again last winter after an extended period while it was almost entirely unoccupied by patients.

OBITUARY

PHILLIP JACKETT.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, July 22. — Word was received on Thursday of the passing of Phillip Jackett, at the home of his brother, John Jackett, north of the village. The late Mr. Jackett was a lifelong resident of this community, living on his farm east of the village until two or three years ago, when he retired and made his home in Lindsay. Recently, owing to continued poor health, Mr. Jackett was brought to his brother's home here, where he passed away.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the Jackett family, who suffered the loss of a son-in-law, the late Ernest Hill, last Friday.

MRS. JOHN DUNLAY.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 22.—The death occurred in Campbellford Thursday morning of Ella Sullivan, following a lengthy illness.

Surviving are her husband, John Dunlay, one daughter, Verna, one sister, Mrs. Patrick Barry, Schenectady, N.Y., one brother, John Sullivan, Hastings.

The funeral will take place Saturday morning from the late residence to St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, Campbellford, at 9 o'clock.

A Sore Blow To China

Gen. Alexander von Falkenhausen, LEFT, German military adviser to the Chinese National Government, is shown bidding good-by to Chinese friends as he prepares to board a train at Wuchang, across the river from Hankow. Von Falkenhausen and the German military mission of 26 experts departed from China after vigorous protests by Japan resulted in their recall by the Nazi Government. To this group of strategists was credited the stymie of the Jap military machine and their influence might have resulted in a Chinese victory.

Information Wanted About McQuaid

Chief Constable Newhall has received a letter from Mrs. Margaret Davis of 333 Disston avenue, St. Petersburg, Florida, seeking his help in trying to locate some of her relatives, should they happen to be still alive.

Mrs. Davis says that her mother, Margaret McQuaid, was born in Peterborough approximately 65 years ago. She married Edward J. Fleming and moved to Toronto where a daughter, Lillian, was born in 1891 and afterward to Buffalo, N.Y.

Mrs. Davis' mother had a sister Jane McQuaid and a brother, James McQuaid; who afterward become district attorney of Buffalo. The three are all dead now and Mrs. Davis is anxious to know whether there are any living relatives on her mother's side.

Any old-timers in Peterborough who may know something about the McQuaid family are asked to communicate with Chief Newhall.

Isolation Hospital Is Unoccupied Again

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, July 22. — Leslie Wright suffered a painful accident on Monday afternoon while engaged in sawing a valuable cut of walnut logs at Burns' sawmill in the village.

Due to some oversight the machinery was not put in its proper place for this particular log and as a result the large rapidly-revolving saw ran against an iron bar which showered the teeth of the saw in every direction.

Mr. Wright, who was in close proximity, was badly cut about the face with the flying missiles, one narrowly averting his eye.

The victim was rushed to the office of Dr. Hamilton at Bethany, by Percy Crawford, the fireman at the mill, where the wounds were carefully treated.

The saw was sent to Toronto for repairs and the job will be held up for a few days.

Mr. Burn, proprietor of the mill, had opened up especially to cut a grove of walnut logs which had been grown on the farm of Lewis McGill and planted by the late Col. Syer over 100 years ago.

The grove had been purchased by Mr. Henry of Lindsay who proposes using this genuine walnut lumber for making furniture.

The annual mission band picnic in connection with the United Church was held at Lake Scugog on Tuesday afternoon with a splendid attendance.

R. J. Brown conveyed part of the happy group to the lake in his truck where several carloads also assembled.

Following an hour of water sports, softball and races were enjoyed on the shore with prizes being awarded the winners.

Mercury Arrives

The English pick-a-back plane Mercury which had been flown aloft atop the mother plane Maia at Foynes, Island, is pictured from the air at Port Washington, L.I., her objective after the transatlantic flight. In the inset are (LEFT) Donald C. T. Bennett, pilot of the Mercury, and Albert J. Coster, radio man. The spectacular flight was made without mishap. Previously the craft had called at Boucherville, Quebec, where part of her cargo of newspapers and pictures was unloaded.

ILLEGAL CONSUMPTION.

Pleading guilty to illegal consumption in Chemong Park, a young man was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Gee in police court to-day. The charge was laid by Constable Harry McLachlan.

A BIG TOMATO.

W. T. Arnott, Otonabee market gardener showed The Examiner to-day an early variety tomato that tipped the scales at close to a pound. It was an unusually large specimen for this date and is a sample of the great growth in garden stuff that is taking place at the present time.

HEARD IN CAMERA.

A charge against a local man of failing to support his children was heard in camera by Magistrate Gee this morning and the case occupied a lot of time, most of it taken up with verbal battles between the opposing counsel, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C. and W. J. Arthur Fair.

MAKING PROGRESS.

Fireman Joe Astles, who was injured Tuesday night when a ladder slipped as he was helping to fight a fire at the Johnston Radio, Tire and Battery Service, is making progress. No bones were broken in the fall, but Astles' back was badly bruised.

TO ADDRESS ROTARY.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., will be the speaker at Monday's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club and will deal with an address recently given by Lord Tweedsmuir to the Canadian Club on the subject, "The Art of Living."

NEW OFFICE AT CAMPBELL'S DAIRY

Another project got underway this week when Charles Huffman started work on a one storey brick office building at Campbell's Dairy on Park street. Plans also call for a change over in the heating system and other minor alterations.

COUNTY IMPROVES ROAD.

The road in front of the Court House has been given a permanent mulch surface by the county roads department under the direction of E. A. Chalmers, engineer. Preliminary grading was done by the city's Board of Works. This is the only road in the city on which the county expends any money, except boundary roads on which the cost of improvements and maintenance is borne jointly.

FREE LESSONS

At least 30 youngsters in the city are now receiving free instruction in swimming at the Y.W.C.A., thanks to the Rotary club, who provided funds for a series of classes by Miss Caroline Littlefield at the association's pool.

RENOVATION STARTS

As first step in the renovation of the Y.W.C.A., for which $46,000 was raised last fall, several rooms in the building are now being redecorated. Plans for the projected remodelling are still being worked upon, but their completion is being looked for from day to day.

PRIZES FOR BIRD HOUSES.

The show committee of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, held a short meeting last night discussing plans for their flower show to be held on August 26. Incidentally they have special prizes for the best bird houses built by boys and entered at the time of the flower show.

POPULAR CAMP

Half a hundred girls are now holidaying at the Y.W.C.A.'s Camp Inglestane on Stoney Lake and of that number more than 20 are from Peterborough. The camp is said to be having one of its best seasons in a number of years. Girls are present from Washington, D.C., Steubenville, Ohio, Niagara Falls, Hamilton, Toronto, Rochester, Brighton, Brantford and Montreal.

WHEAT 77 INCHES TALL.

Tallest wheat on the farm of John Emerson of South Monaghan measured 77 inches when the binder cut through it this week. Sheaves as they rolled out on to the ground were not much more than a foot in some places, and in others they were not much fore than a foot apart. In some spots where the growth was strongest, only the exhaust of the rubber?tired tractor could be seen above the heads of the grain. The binder was also rubber-tired, one of four of the new type sold by Arthur McIntyre this season.

BUILDERS BUSY IN ASHBURNHAM

Continuing the pace in home building which began three years ago, Ashburnham is again leading the way. On Rogers street in one and a half block, five new homes are underway. Max Pomeroy has a cellar out near St. Luke's Church. William Tinker has two underway on the west side of the street, Joe Asta is building between Roger and Hunter and Constable Leo Murphy has a foundation already in on the west side of Roger near Douro street. Building on this street has been so rapid during the past three year sthat scarcely one lot is available at the present time.

TO GET NEW SOUNDINGS.

The chief engineer of the Department of Transport is sending one of his assistants to Peterborough immediately to take new soundings in Chemong Lake in connection with the proposed bridge to Ennismore that is being urged by the township. J. J. Dorris received a letter from J. J. Duffus, M.P., who is in Ottawa this week, conveying the information that data regarding the lake conditions and proposed plan is being prepared in the Department for consideration whenever a decision is made as to whether a new bridge is to be built.

WHERE IS PETERBOROUGH?

A tourist from Ohio does not believe in road signs or else there is not a sufficient number on Highway 28 telling visitors that this is Peterborough. Yesterday while William Austin, local salesman stood at the Capitol theatre, actually in the heart of the city, a tourist asked him where the Toronto highway was. Austin pointed to Charlotte street. "But I just came in that way and there is no sign telling me how to get to Peterborough from here," answered the American. Mr. Austin sidled a little closer to the man to test his breath, then told him he was in the centre of Peterborough, and the American much relieved went his way.

Mutt and Jeff of Gourds In Local Shops Range In Price Spread From 4 to 77 Cts.

Gourds in the greengrocers shop this morning ranged in price from 4 cents to 77 cents, and in size, variety and nomenclature from cucumbers to watermelons. In between the price limits were the muskmelons, including the honeydew, and later in the season the family will be further represented by pumpkins, squash of several species, and some other queer looking products of the ancient family of gourds that are grown locally. At the low figure of four cents the full sized cucumbers are even cheaper than those sold on the producers' market last Saturday.

Both the cucumber and the watermelons are members of the melon family of gourds, not that it makes much difference in the business of retailing them. Common to them all is the fact that they grow on vines, and in some tropical countries there are species of gourds whose main value is for purposes of shade. At any rate the Mutt and Jeff of the gourd family make someties an arresting display in the fruit shop window.

Wine On Reserve Costs $10 Fine

Pleading guilty to an offence under the Indian Act in having wine on the Curve Lake Reserve, Joseph Taylor, of Curve Lake was fined $10 and $4.50 costs by Magistrate Gee today.

The offence took place on March 17 and when Taylor failed to appear when summonsed a warrant was issued for his arrest and he was finally taken into custody by the Mounted Police at the Rama reserve on Wednesday and brought here.

Taylor explained that on the day he was to have appeared here he was guiding a party.

Corporal Jack Woods of the R.C.M.P. said he would be satisfied if Taylor were given the minimum fine for the offence so Magistrate Gee made it $10 or 10 days.

Charge Hotelmen Victims of Rackets

HAMILTON, Ont., July 21.—(CP).—Stating the Hotelmen's Association was the victim of a racket, and assuring the members that E. G. Odette, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board had told him and a delegation of local hotelmen that they should not fear unlawful or political influences, Harold Minden, solicitor, presented a report to the Association to-day in regard to the present situation of the local hotel organization. Following his report and one from the executive secretary, T. A. Sutton, it was moved and seconded that a meeting be called next Thursday for the purpose of discussing re-organization.

Mr. Minden in his report stated in part: "It is known that the hotelmen of the city are now being coerced by a person or persons to do involuntary acts. This is becoming in plain language a racket of which you are the prey.

"In so far as the Liquor Control Board of Toronto is concerned, you have every assurance that the Board is in accord with the Association."

C.C.F. Rally In West

SASKATOON, July 22 — (CP). — With delegates from every provincial riding in attendance and National Leader J. S. Woodsworth and Provincial Chieftain George H. Williams present, the two day provincial convention of the Canadian Commonwealth Federation will get underway here this afternoon.

The two-day session will be climaxed Friday evening by a public meeting when addresses will be heard from Hon. W. S. Woodsworth and others.

Body Is Found Floating Near Smith St. Bridge

The pyjama-clad body of Philip Brown, 50, missing since early on Thursday morning, was found floating on the Otonabee River below the Smith Street Bridge about 3.20 on Thursday afternoon by two unidentified fishermen who hurriedly called firemen to the scene.

Three members of the Peterborough Fire Department had been dragging the river since early morning in search of the body and quickly rowed to the spot several hundred yards away. Chief George Gimblett thought it probable that his men loosened the body and that it had floated downstream with the current.

A crowd of several hundred people gathered about the bridge and waited for the body, covered with a canvas, to be brought ashore. Police attempted to keep back crowds of curious children who had been bathing at Inverlea, but were unsuccessful.

Mr. Brown was a member of the inspection staff of the Canadian General Electric Company for many years.

Mr. Brown was born in Scotland and had lived in Peterborough for the past 18 years. He is survived by one sister, Mary Brown, in Victoria, B.C.

The remains are resting at the Funeral Home of A. Comstock & Sons, 305 Water Street, until 11.00 a.m. on Saturday. The funeral will be held from the Canadian Legion Hall on Saturday at 2 p.m., under direction of the War Veterans of the Canadina General Electric Company, with Adjutant Neil Warrander of the Salvation Army officiating. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

Officials Of T. & N.O. At Hardwicke Rites

The funeral of Charles E. Hardwicke, late assistant superintendent of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, was held from the home of his mother, Mrs. John T. Hardwicke, 489 Cross Street, Thursday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church. The pall bearers were, A. Freeman and A. Casselman of T. and N. O. North Bay, Robert Pilling and D. V. Ketcheson of the C. E. F., and Burwell Moore and Walter Garbutt, other former Peterborough friends.

Mr. Hrdwicke was in his 44th year. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Florence Hardwicke and son Archie, who were visiting relatives in England.

When Mr. Hardwicke died suddenly in Englehart this week; his mother, Mrs. J. T. Hardwicke; four sisters, Mrs. R. J. Lang of Edmonton; Mrs. W. J. Welch, Peterborough; Mrs. W. J. Embury of Dunsford; and Miss Alice Hardwicke of Peterborough; and also by two brothers, Will Hardwicke of Winnipeg.

Beautiful floral displays and the presence of his associates for years in the service of the T. and N. O. railway testified to the esteem in which Mr. Hardwicke was held by friends at North Bay and Englehart.

Prior to the war, Mr. Hardwicke was employed in the Peterborough C. P. R. commercial telegraph office, and at that time he enlisted for military service overseas with the C. E. F. Returning to Canada he joined the staff of the T. and N. O. as telegrapher and despatcher, and latterly was appointed assistant superintendent of the railway. During his work with the railway he was a leader in labor organizations, and was considered throughout the whole country as an outstanding authority on railway labor matters. Until his recent appointment as an official of the T. and N. O., Mr. Hardwicke was chairman of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, and was also general chairman of all the labor organizations connected with the railway.

His promotion to the highly responsible post of assistant superintendent was a recognition of the special abilities which his broad experience had developed. Resigning from his labor associations he carried into his official position the goodwill and loyalty of the entire body of the men with whom he had been associated.

Police Search For Blonde After Bank Visit

As the result of suspicions aroused by the actions of a young woman who entered the Lakefield branch of the Royal Bank Thursday and wanted a large number of one and two dollar bills exchanged for bills of larger denominations, city and provincial police scoured the district for some hours in search of the woman, believing that the money might have been part of the loot stolen from the Richmond branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia recently.

The woman, described as a blonde of around 35 years, heavily rouged and wearing a fawn coat over a black dress, came into the bank alone, her companion, a man, remaining outside in a car.

When she tendered a pile of bills, most of them the large size formerly used, to the teller, W. Davidson, he became suspicious and consulted the accountant and manager and the latter took the money into his office and asked the woman's name, stating the information was necessary because of the age of the bills. The blonde visitor hastily gathered up the bills and left the bank, driving off in short order.

Chief Wallace Hendren was notified and the city and provincial police were told to look out for the would-be money changer, the number of whose car had been obtained. The license markers had shown it to be an Ottawa car and as Richmond, where the robbery was committed, is only 20 miles from Ottawa, the suspicions of the police increased.

Sergent Harry Thompson of the Provincial Police, happened to be in Peterborough, and he took part in the hunt for the woman, but no trace of the car was found anywhere in the district.

CHAPTER 45

BILL WALKED toward Ellen's front porch with profound gravity of manner. His deep concern over the discovery in the store room of an underhanded plot must have shown on his face for a group of 15 or 20 young girls accosted him.

"Stop scowling, Mr. Baron!" one of them commanded, and instantly they were all arcund him. "This is La Fiesta del Sol—see how beautiful is the sunshine? Everybody must smile and be happy!"

They were practicing their preachments, smiling and laughing, all trying to talk to him at once, poking fun at him and teasing him.

"We're doing stunts and you've either got to recite a piece or sing a song," one 17-year-old commanded. A chorus of affirmatives backed her, gushing, giggling.

You can't refuse a thing like that. It is inhospitable to refuse to be a good sport at a party. Nobody had ever accused Bill Baron of not being a good sport. He tried to josh his way out of it, teasing and cutting up with the kids, but it was no go. So he squared off in exaggerated oratorical pose, extended an arm toward the Dale-Durango landscape and boomed out:

"Where the far blue peaks and the valleys wide,
Cleanse the heart of its hasty pride,
And the open sky and boundless space
Carve something great on the poorest face;
Where a man's on honor to be his best—
Away out west."

He finished with a flourish and a dramatic break. He must have been impressive with it, for the girls started in profound admiration, then burst into applause.

"Encore! Encore!" they shrieked. "Didn't know you were a poet!"

He smiled his thanks, saying, "I'm not. That's part of one by Sharlot Hall, Arizona's poet laureate. Thanks, anyhow."

He was edging away, staring out and beyond them. A new concern was written on his countenance; he had suddenly seen the smuggler again, standing down the slope by an automobile—talking to a man he had seen among the smugglers in Mexico.

Bill went on inside Ellen's living room, thinking to go at once to the telephone. He discovered of course that a private conversation would be impossible. Gay and noisy people seemed everywhere. Most of them whom he encountered wanted him to join them.

He got away and entered the hall, hoping he might slip upstairs and get at Ellen's bedroom extension phone if her room was unoccupied. But six girls held it, and he turned back unobserved.

He came through the house, left via the kitchen and came onto Buckshot Brown.

"Har-har, ain't she a cutter, Doc? Dad-damndest biggest fiesta I ever seen! Betcha even old Durango himself didn't have no such doin's as this, eh?"

Buckshot was glowing like a child. He had been bossing four helpers at the barbecue pits, and had just enough grease and soot on him to make him comical. He bore a great tray of cooked meat now, choice, crusted cuts the aroma of which was powerful to a hungry man.

"Glory, Uncle Buckshot, you got what it takes here, all right!" Bill's admiration was sincere. "He:e, gimme a taste." He reached to take a choice sliver.

"Git yore dirty hands off'n that!" the old man commanded, with mock severity. "This here's Miss Ellen's. And all them purty gals' in thar, by dads. You go down to th' pits and eat with the rest of the common herd!"

Bill grinned appreciatively and started on, then turned on his heel to speak again.

"Say, come back out right quick, Buckshot," he commanded. "I got something on my mind." The old man knew by his tone that Bill had ceased joking.

They met presently out rear, and without preliminary Bill told him of the discovery in the store room, of the aliens and cocaine and rifles. The old man was quickly alarmed, and incredulous.

"Oh, yes," Bill explained then, "it's an ideal setup, if you analyze it. Word of this fiesta got all around everywhere. The officers will know that everybody is here, even that some ranchers have come from Mexico as they did back in the old days. They have to wink at such activities as this; I mean, not butt in too much, you see. And the smugglers know that.

"Also, Buckshot, the smugglers know that aliens are often caught on the trail or road a hundred miles or more from the border. Even up beyond Tucson, and around Phoenix. But when the dancing ends tonight, all these people will be heading home. The fiesta will be over. It's then a chance for the aliens to sort of join the home-going crowd, see? Officers can't stop all these people and demand citizenship papers. Aliens could go right on deep into the U.S.A. and never be challenged. It's an ideal setup, I tell you!"

Buckshot Brown spat copiously.

"They come here th' same way?" he queried. "Slipped in here as Ellen's company, you figger?"

"Exactly! The officers also knew people were flocking in here for the DD fiesta; they kind of let matters slide. A two-gallon can of kerosene oil looks like camp equipment, naturally. Who would think the can really held cocaine? Or that the fiesta-bound people, with guitars and such, were really aliens being smuggled in?"

"Be dad - damned!" Buckshot muttered.

"Yep. And they'll get by with it, if we don't do something. The border patrol won't suspect a thing up here."

"Bill, why didn't th' patrol stop these aliens at th' line? Ain't they paid to do that?"

"Sure! But, as I told you, it's not getting across the line into Arizona that's hard. It's getting through the wilderness into a city or town. There are only four or five roads northward. The patrol can guard them fairly easy. They'll have guards out tonight as usual, but the guards won't be suspicious of a fiesta gang. You see this ranch is just a few miles from the line; aliens have been smuggled over for the past week, the smugglers aiming for this fiesta.

"Now look, Buckshot, you keep a close watch, and I'm going into town now and bring out some officers. We can settle this deal, I think, on the quiet, if we spring a surprise. Ellen and her real guests will never know it."

Bill got into his car and drove away. Buckshot Brown permitted himself some choice cussing, and thoughtlessly went into his own cottage and took his favorite rifle down.

He came outside carrying it, and sat on a rock and held it, thinking. Anger had suffused him. He wished he had something at which to shoot. Anyone that tended to mess up Ellen Dale's party, or otherwise disturb the happiness of the girl, would have to answer to him. Come to think of it, he could see a dozen or so people around this ranch fiesta that he "suspicioned" anyway. He'd set here and watch who went into the store room. If one of them got sassy, he might take a crack at him.

Which was, of course, foolish reasoning on the part of a wrought up but loyal old man. Moreover, both his and Bill Baron's actions had been careless, unguarded. Because one smuggler, posted especially as a lookout, had seen Bill and Buckshot in earnest conversation. Then he had seen Bill hasten to his car and ride away toward town. Finally he had seen old Buckshot take out his rifle and sit belligerently on a rock as if he were a sentinel.

It was sufficient to arouse any lookout's suspicions.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young widow with no children. I have a few thousand dollars in the bank and a very good job. There is a man who wants to marry me. He hasn't worked for six years. Hasn't got a penny and is a drunkard. He wants me to buy a farm with my money and to put him on his feet, and I love him so much I think I'll do it. What do you advise? NORTH POLE.

ANSWER:

I would advise you to take out some insurance against being slain by the Fool Killer, for he will certainly get you if you marry this man. You must be so completely besotted with love that you have lost every vestige of common sense even to consider such a thing.

As you are now, you are sitting on top of the world. You are young enough to marry some worth-while man. You have a good job and you have a comfortable little nest egg to give you a sense of security. You haven't a care nor an anxiety in the world, and you are actually thinknig of chucking all of these good things out of the window for the sake of a temporary infatuation for a drunken bum.

What an unequal bargain he proposes to you. You furnish all the money. You undertake to support him. You take the chances on his reforming. You give up your job and go out to do the hard labor of a woman on a farm. And what does he give in return? A few soft words and probably a case of delirium tremens.

If you are silly enough to make a marriage like that, you will certainly get just what you deserve and none of your friends will feel called to shed any tears over you. Of one thing you may be certain, and bear it in mind when you make your decision. It is this: No woman in the world can make a man over by marrying him. Marriage doesn't change her into a magician who can put a spine in a weakling, or who can keep a drunkard from thirsting for liquor, or turn a lazy man into a go-getter, or stop a philanderer from chasing petticoats. What he was before marriage he is going to be after marriage. Long before he was old enough to become a husband his character and disposition were set and no wife can alter them.

If there was any energy or industry in this man, he wouldn't have idled around for six years without finding something to do. If there was any thrift about him, he would have got some sort of a start in the world and wouldn't have to marry to get somebody to support him. And if he was ever going to quit drinking he would have stopped long ago. A man reforms because his self-respect demands it of him, but he doesn't reform because he gets married.

• • • • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—When I was 16 I found I was going to become an unwed mother. I told my mother, but I didn't tell the boy (for he was as young as I) who was the child's father, because at the time I hated him and never wanted to see him again. My mother took me away and the child was born and no one has ever known anything about it, as we boarded the child with a nurse. Now the nurse and her husband wish to adopt my little girl of whom they have grown very fond. I promised my mother that I would never let any one know about the child, as we belong to a fine and strict family who would consider themselves disgraced. Now my mother is dead and my desire for the child is overpowering. I have a good job and feel that I could support her, but another complication has come in. I have met the child's father again and we have fallen in love with each other, but he is very stern. He wants to marry me, but would he forgive me if he knew about the child? Would he believe my story? What would be best for the child? What shall I do? J.

ANSWER:

Tell the young man all about it. If he is suspicious, go with him and check up every step of your way, let him talk to the nurse and prove your story in every way. If he is human, he will want his child and he will want to do everything possible to atone to you for all the heartache he has made you suffer.

Get the nurse to keep the baby a few months longer for you and then you and your husband legally adopt it. You should be able to do all of this without causing any scandal or gossip. It will, of course, be the best thing you can do for the child, because it will give her the name that belongs to her by right and the love and tenderness of her own mother and father.

If the child's father, however, refuses to have anything to do with the child; if he has so little generosity of soul that he is not eager to have his little daughter in his arms, and if he does not thank God that he has the chance to pay in part, at least, for his sin against the innocent little creature that he brought into the world so heavily handicapped, then you will be wise not to marry him at all. He is hard, little, narrow and not worth your spending your love upon him.

As to whether or not you should let the kind people who have taken care of your baby adopt her, that is a question only you can decide. In most cases it is far better for the child to be adopted and take on the name and social position of some respectable family.

Thus it escapes the cruel taunts of children at its illegitimacy and is accepted as a matter of course as Mr. and Mrs. Brown's child. But you seem to be of such exceptional strength of character that you may be able to make a home and a place in the sun for your little girl and be happy together.

• • • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am 24 years old. A man who is of good character and well off wants to marry me, but while I like him fairly well, I am not terribly in love with him. Shall I marry this man or wait until I fall in love? Does a woman learn to care for a man who is good to her? This man knows just how I feel about him, but he says he is sure he can win my love. Is such a marriage likely to turn out well? EDNA.

ANSWER:

Depends on how sentimental the woman is. Lots of women have more head than heart. They are never "terribly" in love, as you express it. They are not emotional and they never feel anything more than a nice, comfortable affection for any man. This type of woman can be happy with any man who is kind to her and a good provider. But if a woman is sentimental and emotional, it is too big a risk to take.

You Can Give Yourself a College Background

No Need to Feel Inferior

Do you feel that life is passing you by because you missed college?

Don't blunder along like poor Charlie. Do what so many of the world's most stimulating and charming people have done — acquire background at home.

Start with a plan. Suppose you've always wanted to know more about psychology, economics, literature. Concentrate on these subjects for the first term of your home college course.

Remember, culture isn't just knowing a lot of facts. To become a truly well-informed, fascinating person, you must cultivate appreciation and understanding.

Find out, for example, what makes Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony" an inspired work. Michelangelo's "Moses" a great statue, Raphael's "Sistine Madonna" a painting of rare beauty.

With our 32-page booklet as guide, discover the cultural use of newspapers, radio, movies, forums. Plan your reading from book lists recommended by the committee on college reading. Talk interestingly on such subjects as philosophy, psychology, science, the fine arts.

JULY 22

On this date (July 22) in 1879 there died at Cleveland, Ohio, one of the most remarkable figures in the "patriot war" of 1837-38, Donald McLeod. The son of a British soldier, he was born at Fort Augustus, Invernesshire, January 1, 1779, and had, therefore, passed his 100th year. He was educated at Aberdeen University for entry into the Church of Scotland, but in 1803 he left college to join the navy. Three years later he was "not getting enough action at sea" and was transferred to the army, in which he fought in the Peninsular War at Corunna, in several engagements in Canada, 1812-14, and then, returnin gto England, went with Wellington to France and Flanders and fought at Waterloo. Retiring from the army on pension in 1816 he came back to Canada and opened a classical school at Prescott, and always a loyal citizen, was a major in the Grenville militia.

When the rebellion broke out in 1837 he "switched his coat," agitated for Mackenzie and became a refugee. Once across the line he developed into one of the leading "generals" of the patriot army, being on Navy Island and in charge of operations against Pelee and Bois Blanc in 1938. After the defeat at Fighting Island he made his way back to Michigan, where he had a narrow escape from arrest for breach of the neutrality laws. Indeed, he was saved only by a woman's trick.

When the American officers were close at his heels he took refuge in a farmhouse, where the wife dressed him in some of her clothes, complete with knitting and needles, and when the searchers got too inquisitive put him into bed with her husband and dared them to "violate the sanctity of a marriage bed."

For some time thereafter he was a member of Bill Johnson's band and shared in the attack on the steamboat Sir Robert Peel, afterwards proceeding to Illinois to recruit an army for the expedition against Windsor in December, 1838. But he did not take part in that.

There followed several years of haphazard life, but at the amnesty in 1842 he returned to Toronto on the invitation of Dr. John Rolph, who procured him a job in the department of agriculture, which he held for many years until forced by old age to retire.

On his retirement he moved to Cleveland, which had been the scene of part of his activities against Canada in 1938. He remained there until his death, living on a pension paid by that "despotic British government" which he had sought to destroy 60 years before.

What a motion picture could be made from the story of his life! fighter at Waterloo, a rebel, refugee, next a Canadian civil servant, and then filling out his century as a British pensioner!

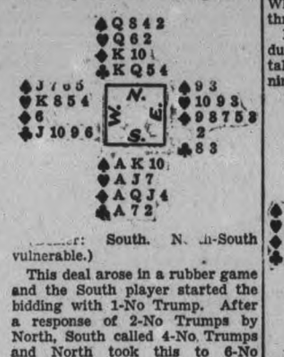
"The Authority on Authorities"

FLARE FOR FANCINESS

It is a mistake to spurn the lowly finesse and strive always to make a fancy end play or squeeze. Sometimes a finesse can be the surest kind of safety play, when taken before other suits have been run and before outstanding thirteeners have been set up. The finest players may strive to avoid unnecessary finesses, but when one is clearly the correct play, they do not let any flare for fanciness keep them from using it.



...r: South. N...th-South vulnerable.)

This deal arose in a rubber game and the South player started the bidding with 1-No Trump. After a response of 2-No Trumps by North, South called 4-No Trumps and North took this to 6-No Trumps.

When the club J was led, declarer counted up his tricks and, noticing that West discarded three hearts, decided that thirteen tricks could be made inclarer won in the South hand with the A. He then ran four diamond stead of the small slam. He next cashed the spades A, K and Q and when the suit failed to break, went after the clubs, cashing the K and Q. He was not disappointed that that suit did not clear, because of the original lead, but read West as holding now one club, one spade and one heart, and being quite sure that West would not have blanked the K, took that finesse. When it failed, West cashed his three tricks.

East's safety play is to enter dummy at the second trick and take the finesse at once, then running his twelve tricks.

How should South play for 4-Hearts after the lead of the spade J?

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

KNARF AND Hanid, the shadow children with the turned-about names, looked at each other and wondered what they could do. They liked their friend the Tin Soldier a great deal. But how were they ever going to be able to help him find a polar bear? And yet he had to find one because Miss China Doll, who was very beautiful, had asked him for a polar bear skin to lay down in front of the fireplace in her private doll house which stood under the window in the playroom.

"I know what to do," Knarf said suddenly. "Let's get an airplane and go to the North Pole. The North Pole is full of polar bears."

Hanid shook her head. "We won't be able to get in an airplane, Knarf."

Knarf sat down on one of the children's wooden blocks on the floor and started to think. Finally he smiled. "I've just thought of something else."

"What?"

"We dont have to go to the North Pole at all for a polar bear. There's one of them at the zoo in the park."

"That's right.'

Brooks was the first witness in

"We'll go to the zoo right away and ask him for his skin."

Hanid laughed. "That's foolish. He won't give you his skin."

"Why not?'

"You'll find out when you ask him."

So Knarf set out for the zoo. Hanid went along with him. Finally they reached the zoo. All the animals were in their cages.

"Pardon me," said Knarf, stopping up to the edge of the pool where the seals were swimming. "Can you tell me where to find the polar bear's cage."

The instant he said polar bear all the seals uttered loud grunts and dived into the water.

"I guess they don't like the polar bear very much," Knarf said.

"The polar bear is the enemy of the seals," Hanid said. "Polar bears eat seals."

"Oh. Well, there's the giraffe. Im going to ask him. He's so tall he can look over the whole zoo. He'll know the cage the polar bears in. Come along quickly, Hanid."

Marett—Mills

MARMORA, July 22 — A quiet wedding of local interest took place at Pilgrim United Church, Main street, Hamilton at 2 p.m. on Saturday when Evelyn Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Mills of Napanee was married to Frank Douglas S. Marett, son of Mrs. F. N. Marett and the late Frank N. Marett of Marmora. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. P. Woodger, B.A. of Cobourg in the presence of the immediate members of the two families and a few friends.

The bride and groom were unattended. The bride was attired in a gown of powder blue sheer with pink corsage, blue hat with pink flowers, pink shoes and gloves and carried a pink bag. The wedding party had dinner at "The Corner House", Main street, Hamilton after which the bride and groom left on a motor trip through New York State. The bride's going away dress was navy sheer with white trimmings, white hat and veil, white accessories and white coat. On their return, they will reside on Connaught avenue, Hamilton.

The staff of Napanee Collegiate Institute of which the bride was a member for a couple of years, presented her with a silver entree dish of Sheffield reproduction. Miss Nookey Daly of Napanee also had a cup and saucer shower for her.

The office staff of the Hoover Company, Hamilton, where the groom is junior engineer, presented him with a handsome marble clock. Eight Queen's graduates with positions in Hamilton held a stag party for him and gave him a wedding gift of a Westinghouse electric toaster. Their Marmora friends extend congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy wedded life.

Webber—Dayman

EAST EMILY, July 22.—A quiet but pretty wedding took place in the Parsonage in Omemee on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock when Miss Dorothy Dayman was united in marriage to Mr. Russel Webber of Fenelon Falls; the Rev. Mr. MacTavish performing the ceremony. The bride looked very lovely dresesd in biege with hat, shoes and accessories of Paris-sand, and wearing a beautiful corsage bonquet.

The young couple left amid showers of confetti for a two weeks' motor trip to Detroit, Niagara Falls and other points.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Webber will reside on the groom's farm near Fenelon Falls.

We Noticed

....In one of the town's smart shops...a trio of romantic organdie evening frocks to dance right into somebody's heart.

✧ ✧ ✧

....One was of pink lace organdy with small corselet of pink grosgrain. The full drifting skirt was trimmed with bands of pink ribbon, and there were adorable deep cuffed gloves to match.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Two was of white organdie, embroidered in navy blue. Frills of narrow blue ribbon bordered the bolero and hemline, and the same ribbon was used for the sash corselet, and tied in a small bow at the front.

✧ ✧ ✧

....And three, a particularly striking dress, was of embroidered black Swiss organdie, made with a bolero, and a sheaf of enormous yellow daisies at the square neckline.

Roberts—Knox Wedding Takes Place at Fenella

The first wedding in the church built by the bride's grandfather, the late Robert Knox, over fifty years ago, took place at Fenella recently when Gertrude Knox became the bride of Burton Roberts of Toronto. The happy couple are shown above following the wedding.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Two things fill the mind with ever increasing admiration and awe, the oftener and the more steadily we reflect on them; the starry heavens above, and the moral law within."—Kant.

Dear Friends:

We speak often of "conscience" but which of us can explain it in any way? Not long ago, I wrote you, taking an apple as an illustration, the skin which is like the part we show to the outer world, the fruit which is our everyday life, and the core, in which the seeds are set.

When we want to disparage someone to the uttermost, we say "they are rotten at the core." A bad thing to say of anyone. And this core must be part of our conscience, the thing many of us will not let down, for, if we do, we are not at peace with ourselves.

Laws do not make people moral, that is quite evident, for if they did, the self-same crimes would not be committed every day. We are not all seeking for the life in the hereafter, nor following God as we should, but this something within our being keeps us honest, and clean, despite all the temptations which beset us.

And, when we do not heed the warning of that "wee, sma' voice within us," we suffer more than we could ever do from anything anyone else could do to us, or against us. Men and women have died because of their conscience, they have stood alone against the world, rather than suffer the tortures of the damned when they do not obey it's commands.

Even in a little child, we see the evidence of it at work, for it is amazing how even a little child knows when it is doing wrong. It's parents may smile indulgently at this little wrong thing, but the child feels ill at ease, irritable and cross, because of the disturbance that is within it.

And, isn't it well for us we have this hidden monitor, this something that keeps us decent, when wrongdoing seems so sweet. This thing that keeps our principle alive and working, without which we would be soft and lax, letting ourselves go with the tide.

Public opinion is like a community conscience, which often keeps people straight in spite of their own weakness, for many's the one who would beat their own conscience into submission or sleep, but they fear public opinion too much to be openly wrong.

The dictionary tells us: "Conscience, one's inmost private thoughts; the moral sense or consciousness within oneself which determines right and wrong; as, thus conscience doth make cowards of us all."

It is like remorse, which gives us great anguish of mind when we feel guilty of some wrongdoing. But, sometimes we suffer remorse only because we have been found out, or because of the consequences. How often do we read of "conscience money" being returned, which none knew of but those who returned it. They did not need anyone else to find them out, they found themselves out by their inward monitor.

And so, in conclusion I give you a bit of Shakespeare in Richard the third. First Murderer: "So when he opens his purse to give us our reward, thy conscience flys out." Second Murderer: "Let it go; there's few or none will entertain it." First: one again: "How if it comes to thee again?" Second one: "I'll not meddle with it. It is a dangerous thing. It makes a man a coward. A man cannot steal but it accuseth him: he cannot swear but it checks him: 'tis a blushing shamefaced spirit that mutinies in a man's bosom; it fills one full of abstacles; it made me once restore a purse of gold that I found; it beggars any man that keeps it; it is turned out of all towns and cities for a dangerous thing."

So, if you want to be at peace with yourself and the world, keep your conscience alive and working.

Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Clothes for Women With Home Career

These days, the woman whose career is her home buys clothes to wear while doing her daily chores as carefully as the business girl choses street dresses for the office. She may pay ever so little for them, but she makes sure that each and every one is really becoming. She would not think of wearing bedroom slippers or badly-worn, broken-down street shoes about the house.

Her everyday shoes probably are flat-heeled and a half-size larger than those for street, but they are in good condition. They give her feet adequate support and they are not ugly.

If her budget is pretty limited, she doesn't wear very sheer, easily damaged stockings about the house, of course. But neither does she go around in old stockings that are full of runs, rips and holes. Instead, she buys service weight silk or lisle hose which wear and wear and wear.

Furthermore, to protect her hair while sweeping or using the vacuum cleaner, she wears a gaily printed headkerchief—not a dust cap!

New coats for autumn and winter have fur sleeves in beaver, skunk, mink, Persian and black fox. Coats with fur sleeves are narrower than last year.

Fifty Girls Enjoy Camp Life At Stoney Lake

More popular than ever this year is the Y.W.C.A. Camp at Stoney Lake. There are more than fifty girls enjoying the sparkling clear waters of this lake, and the happy, social life at camp.

A number of the girls who registered for a week are prolonging their stay for another month, and several others simply refuse to leave until the camp closes in the fall!

A bright and airy letter received from one enthusiastic "Y" girl gives a refreshing account of life at Camp Inglestane, and it is quoted here as follows:

"Here are a few breezy lines to let you know about the happy time we're having here at the "Y" camp. There are fifty of us at present—fifty girls to stroll beneath the shady pines and watch the happy lapping of the water—I only wish you were here to join in with the happy throng!

"We wake in the morning very drowsy, but a refreshing dip into the cool water (if we're ambitious), and the rush to the always welcome breakfast, makes a grand beginning for a grand day.

"I'll never forget the hilarious trip up the lakes for a visit to the Y.M. C.A. camp. We zig-zagged along behind "The Hearse" (our motor-boat) as we made short work of the delicious lunch that Mrs. Peace, our cook, had prepared for us. There was a rousing reception from the boys when we reached our destination—and were the toasted marshmellows good! Our trip home through water bathed in moonlight was something long to be remembered.

"And what fun we had preparing for sunt night. You would have ached with laughter at the latest modes from Paree that were presented—designed by Madame Schiaparelli (so they said). Then, too some of the girls put on charades that were very, very witty. And, as always when the night is coming to a close, we sing-sing the liveliest and loveliest melodies we know. Perhaps the lonely sirts that roam these lakes are happier when they hear so many young, joyous voices litfed in song—who knows.

"Do you enjoy canoeing? The great expectation of all who can paddle and swim is the day-length trip we intend to take soon. These lakes are very beautiful, and plentifully dotted with green isles, so there will be plenty of scenery to see on such a trip.

"Oh, whoopee—there goes the warning bell for dinner. I'm always hungry when meal-time comes, and everything is delicious. Will write again next week and tell you all the news."

Yours in haste,
A CAMPER.

Entertains Friends On 4th Birthday

Donalda Carnochan of Rink Street celebrated her fourth birthday on Wednesday by entertaining a number of her little friends. Her guests included: Mrs. Fred Evans and family, Omemee, Gladys Hazelwood, Hastings, Mary and Don Clark, Lenore Nichols, Kenneth Courneya, Morley Carnochan, Shirley and Ronny Smith, Mickey Connolly, Betty Lou and Kenneth Corbett, Ronny Lloyd, Francis and Marie Fine, Joan Lebarr.

Cocoa Whipped Cream

One cup heavy cream, 3 tablespoons good cocoa, 1-3 cup powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Mix the cocoa and sugar then add ½ cup boiling water and stir, then chill. Add the vanilla and then fold this into the stiffly beaten whipped cream. Put between cool layers of cake and on top and serve immediately.

Drought has caused heavy crop losses in the Dominican Republic this year.

Lt.-Col H. Crerar New Head Military College

OTTAWA, July 22 (CP).—Lt. Col. H. D. G. Crerar, director of military operations and intelligence at National defence headquarters, Ottawa has been appointed commandant of the Royal Military College, Kingston, defence department today announced.

Lt.-Col. Crerar, who is promoted to the rank of Colonel and temporary Brigadier, succeeds Brigadier H. H. Matthews who has been commandant since February, 1935, and who has been appointed adjutant-general on the defence headquarters staff.

Major-General C. F. Constantine, who has been adjutant-general since January 1, 1934, is to be transferred to Kingston to become officer commanding Military District No. 3.

Major General T. V. Anderson, now Quarter-Master-General, is to proceed "on special duty" and will be replaced during his absence by Brigadier H. F. H. Hertzberg, present officer commanding the Kingston military district.

Lt. Col. M. A. Pope, general staff officer at defence headquarters, has been appointed secretary of the joint staff and will perform "other special duties of interdepartmental nature" and will be given the temporary rank of colonel while so employed.

Chamberlain Calls For Empire Unity

LONDON, July 22—(CP-Havas)—An appeal for Empire Unity on Foreign Affairs was voiced by Prime Minister Chamberlain today at the annual meeting here of the Empire Parliamentary Association. Attended by leaders of the opposition parties, the meeting was presided over by Captain Edward Algernon Fitzroy, speaker of the House of Commons.

"In these days, not entirely by our will or consent," Chamberlain said, "Foreign Affairs take up the greatest part of our time and attention.

"Well, whatever may be our views about Foreign Affairs, one thing we shall all agree about, and that is that it is most desirable that the Empire should not fall out about Foreign Affairs.

"As far as possible we should present a United Front to the rest of the world, for in that way we are likely to exercise a far greater influence than if it were thought that there was not harmony among us."

Corrigan Gets His 'Pet' Back

Douglas (non-stop) Corrigan fondly pats one of the cylinder heads of the 175-horsepower motor of his nine-year-old Curtiss-Robin monoplane which took him across the Atlantic from New York to Ireland. This radiophoto was made after the Irish authorities formally returned the plane to his possession after having seized it in a routine procedure because he landed without a passport or landing permit.

Urges Artists Organize

NEW YORK, July 22—(CP). — Rockwell Kent, painter and author and newly elected president of the United American Artists, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization to-day, defended the unionization of artists.

"The cry of individualism has kept artists from organizing," said Kent. "The artist has been the last to recognize the value of the trade union movement.

"They can fight not only for better wages and hours, but can also be a force for bettering conditions for all trade union members."

200 B.C. Jobless Vote "To Sit Tight"

KAMLOOPS, B.C., July 22 (CP)—Almost 200 British Columbia jobless voted to "sit tight" here last night and Mayor C. E. Scanlon telephoned an appeal to Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, for temporary relief for the men.

The jobless meeting at which the vote was taken and the action of the city council followed suggestion from Victoria that the men's relief might be cut off if they continued to travel in large groups.

A spokesman for the unemployed, speaking on the announcement of Hon. George Pearson at Victoria that men travelling in a bunch of 200 do not show they are seeking employment, said:

that the government thought that if that the government though that if they gave us the first $6.40 (emergency relief), we would break up our organization and disperse to highways and byways to starve. Slight analysis proves the non-existence of the thousands of jobs that were said to be waiting.

Queen Visits Paris Hospital

PARIS, July 22—(CP-Havas).—While the King was reviewing French troops at Versailles, Queen Elizabeth today visited the British hospital in the Levallois factory suburb.

Upon her arrival at the hospital, once a villa, where hundreds of Britons have been treated, the Queen was welcomed by Mayor Roquier of Levaillois and members of the hospital staff.

The Queen and her companion, Lady Phipps, wife of the British Ambassador, were then taken inside the hospital, which was garlanded with flags and flowers. The women members of the hospital committee were presented to the Queen.

Subsequently Dr. Charles Flandin, chief physician, led the way through the wards. A number of young nurses, with curtseys, gave her bouquets of orchids, tied with tricolor ribbons.

The Queen moved from bed to bed and, with a warm smile, conversed briefly with each patient.

After the visit ended, the Queen boarded a special train for Versailles.

Use Tobacco Waste Now For Wrappers

NEW YORK, July 22—(AP).—Representatives of cigarette manufacturers were given a "preview" today on cigarettes wrapped with transparent cellulose made of tobacco wastes instead of paper.

The invention was displayed to them by Istvan Tamas, Hungarian author and playwright, who came to the United States Monday from Europe with his lawyer to attempt the sale of American rights. Tamas, who does not smoke, said he invented the wrapping after two years' experimentation.

Tamas asserted Hungarian laboratory tests had shown the wrapping to be 40 per cent. stronger than paper, 26 times as flexible, and with an ash content of 0.4 per cent. as compared to 20 per cent. for paper.

MILLBROOK

Mrs. William Saunders, of Goderich, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. J. McMahon, this week, and has also visited a number of friends in Port Hope during her stay in this part of the province. It is sixteen years since Mrs. McMahon her seen her sister.

The ground for lawn bowling which Mr. T. A. Campbell has put in condition, back of his residence, is now in use for play, and the membership list, numbering forty, fully filled up. The president is Dr. J. W. Wright, and the secretary-treasurer, Mr. H. A. Kerr. It is some years since a lawn bowling club has been organized locally, and much interest and enjoyment is the outcome of Mr. Campbell's initiative in making the present opportunity for play a practical possibility.

Little Miss Anne Rorke, of Detroit, Mich., is visiting Mr. Fred and Miss Lillian Burton. Mrs. Rorke's many friends will be glad to learn that there is much improvement in her health, following treatment at the sanatorium.

Mrs. Thomas Douglas, and her daughter, Hope, have returned home after a two weeks' visit with her brother, Mr. Charles Might, and Mrs. Might, in Detroit, Mich. Mr. Douglas and Marie met Mrs. Douglas and her younger daughter at London, on the way home, a visit to Niagara Falls, Oshawa, and Toronto, being included in the homeward trip by motor.

Mrs. Douglas' sister, Mrs. Hattie Larmer, of Oshawa, accompanied her to Detroit for the first week of the visit.

Messrs. W. Charles Thorndyke, H. A. Kerr, and W. G. Rowland left on Tuesday for Toronto, and on Wednesday and Thursday of this week will attend the session of the Grand Lodge of Masonry for Canada, which is convening in the Queen City.

Mrs. George and Miss Eva Howson, ex-Warden Percy and Mrs. Stinson, Mrs. G. F. Harrington, and Miss M. E. Needham were among those taking in the Warden's excursion to Oswego, N. Y. on Wednesday.

Bees Warm Things Up When Someone Steals Their Honey

Chicago, July 22

A SWARM of bees at the Julius Sacko home went berserk and busied themselves no end at several homes.

First they left their hive when some one stole their honey, buzzed around stinging the Sacko's neighbors, a dozen geese and two policemen who made a bee-line back to the station for butterfly nets.

Then some of the bees entered a crevice between the walls of Sacko's house; others started a new hive on the porch of Mrs. Myrtle Gill.

Even a sugar-filled shoe box couldn't entice the insects from their new hives.

Berlin Wants Peace So Hitler Hints

LONDON, July 22—(AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons to-day that Great Britain has received from Chancellor Hitler's confidential envoy renewed assurances of the German government "of their desire to achieve a peaceful settlement of outstanding questions."

The Prime Minister said these assurances had been given to Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, by Captain Fritz Wiedemann, the German Chancellor's representative.

Mr. Chamberlain gave this reply to a question as to what was discussed in the long talk on Monday night between Lord Halifax and Hitler's envoy:

"In the course of his recent visit to London, Captain Wiedemann had an informal conversation with the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

"Captain Wiedemann did not come prepared to discuss any particular aspect of political affairs, but the conversation enabled him, owing to his contact with authoritative circles in Germany, to renew the assurances already given by the German Government of their desire to achieve a peaceful settlement of outstanding questions."

Down The Chimney

WELLAND, Ont., July 22—(CP).—When Ridgeway Baseball Club of the Niagara District Intermediate League played St. Catharines last night, Gordon Talbot knocked a foul fly in one of his turns at bat. The ball disappeared into the chimney at Talbot's home, adjacent to the ball field. Talbot picked the ball out of the furnace after the game.

Suggests Plan

Senator Reynolds, of North Carolina, en route to Alaska, for a study of the territory's defence, has suggested that England cede a corridor to connect Alaska with the United States as part payment on her war debt. In addition to this proposal Senator Reynolds suggested that England should transfer Newfoundland and Labrador to the U.S., while France should part with the French West Indies and French Guiana.

Air Mission To Begin Work In Three Weeks

NEW YORK, July 22—(CP). — Sir Hardman Lever told The Canadian Press to-day he expected the work of the United Kingdom air mission which will arrange for the manufacture of heavy bombing planes in Canada, would begin in about three weeks.

Sir Hardman, chairman of the mission, arrived in New York aboard the liner Nieuw Amsterdam last night and will go fishing in the Adirondacks until he is joined in Canada by other members of the mission.

He said he expected to begin work in either Montreal or Toronto rather than Ottawa, but declined to discuss details pending his arrival in the Dominion. Sir Hardman was accompanied by Lady Lever, who before her marriage was Miss Edythe Gault of Montreal.

Other members of the mission—Marshal of the Royal Air Force Sir Edward Ellington, F. Handley Page, and A. H. Self—will proceed from London direct to Canada.

Portuguese Recognition

LISBON, Portugal, July 22 (AP)—Portugal today recognized Italian sovereignty over Ethiopia and became the 27th nation to do so.

HAVELOCK

A shower in honor of Mrs. Herman Blom (nee Mary Steenburgh), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Steenburgh, of Belmont, was held at the home of her parents on Monday evening. Over sixty friends and neighbors from the district attended and the newly married couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts. A very enjoyable evening was spent playing games, at the conclusion of which lunch was served. The happy couple left on Tuesday by motor for Lignight, North Dakota. Mr. and Mrs. Blom will reside in White Plains, New York.

Spending a short vacation at Ross Hart's summer resort on the shores of Round Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson of Hamilton, landed three fine muskies in one day's fishing. Mrs. Olson caught the first one weighing 7 pounds in the morning, and her husband got two 10-pounders the same evening.

Railways of Switzerland are carrying more passengers than a year ago.

Bennett Plans Ahead Only To Calgary

OTTAWA, July 22—(CP). — Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett to-day stated he had made no plans further than that he would be in Calgary next week. (A Calgary despatch yesterday said he planned an extended trip to the old country.)

It is understood Mr. Bennett desired to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Vancouver on Aug. 17 but unfortunately this date clashes with the re-union of Dalhousie University graduates in Halifax. As a distinguished graduate and warm friend of that institution he would like to be there also and no doubt the decision as to which function he will attend is giving him some concern.

It is known he has been pressed to participate in several other meeting in various parts of the continent this summer but has had to decline these invitations.

Russians Return Jap Fire As Far East Dispute Simmers Nearer To War

Soviet Troops Kill 2 Manchoukuoans And Seize Machine Gun To Recapture Seized Island

MOSCOW, July 23 (AP).—Reports of a Japanese-Soviet border clash and a Japanese landing on the Soviet island Faingov renewed Far-Eastern tension today as it was subsiding after a Japanese protest that Soviet troops had violated the Manchoukuoan frontier July 11.

Dispatches from Khabarovsk, Siberian city near the Manchoukuoan border, said two Japanese-Manchoukuoan motorboats violated the Soviet frontier near the settlement of Vidnoye on Thursday and landed a military detachment on Faingov.

Soon afterwards, the reports said, a Soviet cutter passing the island was fired upon and a brisk exchange of bullets followed, resulting in the wounding of two Japanese-Manchoukuoan soldiers and the capture of one machine gun, five Japanese rifles and a quantity of ammunition.

The encounter, said Tass (Russian) News Agency, occurred on the Ussuri River, north of the Changkuegg district—near where Siberia, Japanese Jorea and Manchoukuo meet, and where Red soldiers occupied a piece of land July 11 which both Russia and Manchoukuo claim.

(A Tokyo Foreign Office spokesman denied yesterday that Japan threatened to force to eject the soldiers, although Tokyo newspapers quoted a spokesman that Russia's action "must be interpreted as a challenge to Japan.")

'Red' Carpenter Defies Law To Enter Home

QUEBEC, July 23 (C.P.).—Francois Xavier Lessard, 40-year-old Communist carpenter, who hammered and sawed contentedly in his downtown shop on Wednesday while his home was padlocked by police, basked to-day in the self-devised glory of having been the "first to break open a Duplessis padlock for Communists."

He basked in a bare little room at police headquarters where he was hustled off last night after two Provincial constables caught him red-handed in his third-storey padlocked flat which was not to have been re-opened for a year.

The spectacled, stoop-shouldered man broke the "padlocks"—official seals of Quebec Province—pasted up at the entrances of the home he and his wife and two children occupied under lease, while two of his friends had engaged the pair of police guards in conversation and tried to imprison them in their automobile.

Lessard, authorities said, was held on a charge of "breaking a padlock." And the police were on the lookout for the companions who were taking "in a friendly maner" to the guards seated in an automobile outside the Lessard home while at the same time slyly binding the car's door handles with strong wire.

"Those two will be arrested on technical charges," said police. The place was closed under Quebec law of Premier Duplessis, aimed to prevent the spread of Communism by authorizing padlocking of any building used for distribution of Communist literature or for holding Communist meetings.

Find Banned Paper There.

The Lessard home was alleged to have contained a number of copies of the French-language newspaper La Carte, whose headquarters in Montreal were closed last November when Provincial Police made the first raid under the 16-month-old padlock law.

Ten-year-old Gerard Lessard sang "The Young Guard" for the benefit of hundreds of onlookers in the streets as he had followed his mother who sang the "Internationale," and little sister into the streets Wednesday.

Last night his father, when police escorted him from the home cried to hundreds more lining the sidewalks: "Long live liberty. Here is the first living Communist to break open a Duplessis padlock for Communists."

Lessard made no resistance when the police, guns in hand, ran up the three flights of stairs leading to the padlocked flat to find him walking about the kitchen.

Hit By Drew's Car Lad Is Near Death

BARRIE, Ont., July 23—(CP). — Nine-year-old Arthur Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds, Elmvale, was still unconscious in Royal Victoria Hospital, Barrie, today, with his condition reported as unchanged.

The lad suffered a fractured skull and multiple bruises on all parts of the body when struck by an automobile driven by Lieut. Col. George A. Drew, Toronto.

The accident occurred on Kings Highway 27, in the village of Elmvale 16 miles north of Barrie, when the boy ran out fro mthe East Boulevard rolling an automobile tire ahead of him, in front of the northbound car.

No charge was laid in the case.

Kents Will Attend Marie's Funeral

BUCHAREST, July 23 (CP).—The Duke and Duchess of Kent arrived to-day to attend the funeral of dowager Queen Marie of Rumania. They were welcomed by King Carol and other members of the royal family.

A line of mourners continued through Cotroceni Palace for a glimpse at the queen before the burial tomorrow. President Roosevelt sent red roses, which were placed on the catafalque today.

Marie, dowager Queen of Yugoslavia, arrived today. She was weeping and was comforted by Carol.

Plain Oak Coffin For Insull Once Owner Of Billions

LONDON, July 23 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull, who rose from poverty to rule and lose a $4,000,000,000 utility empire, was buried to-day in a simple oak casket in the Putney Vale Cemetery.

The last chapter in the fabulous life story of the magnate who died at the age of 78, of a heart attack in Paris just a week ago, was almost as modest as the first one.

Eighteen persons followed the plain coffin to the grave beneath a hawthorn tree.

The cortege walked past the family plot where are buried the mother and father of Insull who, as a Cockney youth, went to the United States with "tuppence," and climbed financial heights.

The Church of England burial service was read by the Rev. John M. Bird, curate of Saint Mary's Church, Putney.

The most pretentious wreath was from the National Temperance Hospital in London to which Insull had given $100,000 before the crash and in whose cause his parents also had been interested.

Insull's widow, in deep mourning, sobbed audibly at the open grave.

An Egg With 3 Yolks

Gunmen Loot Office, Two Ride Bumper To Cover Car License

Winnipeg, July 23.

FOUR CLEAR-thinking, masked gunmen escaped with $250 after a raid on the offices of the Winnipeg Lumber and Fuel Company today. As a waiting auto pulled away from the curb two of the men were perched on the back bumpers to cover license plates from home-going workmen.

Hepburn Sees Mines At Yellowknife

EDMONTON, July 23 (CP).—The airplane party including Premier Hepburn of Ontario landed at Yellowknife, N.W.T., last night after encountering slight difficulties on their flight from Goldfields, Sask., according to word received here.

Nature of the trouble could not be learned immediately. Their 300-mile flight, made by way of Fort Smith, took two hours and 40 minutes.

Premier Hepburn is travelling with J. P. Bickell, Toronto financier, and Bernard Smith, New York financier. Their plane, owned is Bickell, is piloted by Jimmy Towne.

No Thoroughfare Even a substantial steel fence topped with barbed wire and a notice prohibiting crossing of the London Street Dam, TOP, is not halting Ashburnham residents from using their years-old short cut to downtown Peterborough. Residents of the district are said to be planning to descend on the City Council for some sort of action. The Examiner's camera caught one woman, LOWER RIGHT, as she stepped through the barrier, opened to permit a train, seen in the background, across the dam. At LOWER LEFT are two youngsters who have a contempt for most fences but the barbed wire of this one proved too much for them. (Story on Page Nine.) (Examiner Staff Photos.)

Treasury Heads Talk To Bull For 2 Hours

TORONTO, July 23 (CP).—Treasury department authorities conferred for two hours yesterday with Thomas Henry Bull at Queen's Park as a part of the Ontario government inquiry into the estate of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley who died July 6 at the home here of W. Perkins Bull.

Details of the talk were not disclosed. Thomas Henry Bull left Montreal July 15 for England aboard the liner Duchess of Bedford. When informed by police at Quebec that his father had been summoned to appear at a July 26 inquest here he left the vessel at Father Point, Que., and returned to Toronto.

Thomas Bull is the son of W. Perkins Bull, Toronto lawyer and historian who has bequeathed $250,000 and one third of the residuary estate of $2,300,000 of Mrs. Sidley's will was filed for probate yesterday at Racine, Wis.

18 Japanese Bombers Miss Canton 2 Miles

CANTON, July 23.—(AP)—Eighteen Japanese bombers raided Canton today, damaging a new power station in the Saichuen district, which adjoins the international settlement on Shameen Island.

Although the bombs dropped a good two miles from the settlement, doors and windows were rattle violently by the concussion. The bombs were believed to have been unusually large.

Last Minute News Flashes

LEEDS, England.—Bad light stopped play shortly before the tea interval in the second day of the fourth England-Australia cricket testmatch today with the Antipodeans score at 205 for six wickets. England's first innings was completed yesterday for 223 runs.

HONG KONG.—Authorities received a report from the British freighter Leana today that she had been stopped and searched by a Japanese warship 10 miles off Hong Kong after a warning shot had been fired across her bow.

Golden Dream Of Prairies Dims In Rain Of Hoppers

Ripening Crops Vanish As If By Magic, Insects Clutter City Streets, Gardens

TORONTO, July 23.—But a few weeks ago the promised land where rolling fields of golden wheat were envisioned, Southern Saskatchewan, once the world's granary, this weekend is being converted by swift plague into the desert it has been for the last eight years.

Less than a month ago Regina and Saskatoon automobile dealers were sending increased orders to Oshawa and Windsor factories, anticipating the first good crop in nearly a decade.

Then this week came the hordes of grasshoppers, millions upon millions of them, which descended upon the ripening grain and cleaned out grain fields almost in the twinkling of an eye. These insects ate hundreds of thousands of dollars out of the pockets of the farmers of the hard-pressed West, and the part-time workers of the industrialized East.

Yesterday, in Regina, it literally rained grasshoppers on the streets of Saskatchewan's capital city. Pedestrians scattered from the sidewalks to doorways seeking shelter from the plague. The Canadian Press reports. The day before Saskatoon tottered under the same type of dark deluge. Tomorrow it will be Swift Current, and Moose Jaw, and Estevan, and Shaunavon—all areas which had virtually been counting their chickens — alas, too early.

A month ago, in Regina, the people were rejoicing over the marvellous crop prospects and the defeat of the Aberhart invasion. The sun blazed down upon a land which had had sufficient rain, and the people faced the future with cheerfulness and confidence. Yesterday the sun was blotted out by the locusts, riding between 1,000 and 2,000 feet up, and dropping in their countless thousands upon the gardens and trees of the cities and the wheat fields of the country. They came in from the north-central and northwestern sections of the Province, borne by a drought-laden southwest wind which scattered them in all directions.

Yesterday, on the basis of the last thirty days' observations, the authoritative Winnipeg Free Press crop report estimated the prairie wheat yield at 300,000,000 bushels. A month from now, it is safe to state, this may be reduced by a third. The price of wheat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange may be higher, but thousands of farmers who have faced near-starvation for years will have been wiped out. They will not even have feed for their cattle.

The Canadian Pacific Railway crop report of yesterday says: "Southern Saskatchewan is suffering from drought, grasshoppers and rust, but over the greater part of the province the outlook is bright." That was before the swift and terrible ravage of the locusts was reported from the north to the southern sections.

Arab Town Razed For Shooting Of Soldier

JERUSALEM, July 23 (A.P.). — Arabs in Jerusalem's old city struck to-day in protest against mass arrests of their countrymen in Lower Samaria and the demolition of 43 houses in the Arab village of Baqua Algharibiya, near Nablus.

The demolitions were ordered because of the killing there of a British soldier, on guard with augmented forces which have been patrolling the Holy Land since strife between the Holy Land's Jews and Arabs flared into violence on July 5.

Two busses carrying Arab government workers from Jaffa were fired on in Tel-Aviv, wounding several. The assailants escaped.

A party of 180 tourists was refused police permission to visit Biblical spots in Galilee because of danger growing out of recent clashes between Arabs and Jews.

Pasture in 2 Lands Stirs Bull Dispute

MALONE, N.Y., July 23 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Frederick H. Oryant faced to-day the difficult task of deciding whether or not Anson Stark's bull has a legal right to be in the United States.

After hearing conflicting evidence Judge Bryant reserved decision yesterday in an action brought by the Government to confiscate the bull on the ground it was smuggled across the border from Canada.

Stark, who owns adjoining acreage on both sides of the border, contends the bull is a bona-fide United States "citizen." The Government introduced testimony intended to show he bought the bull in Canada and led it across the border under its own power.

A Morphine Theft

SUDBURY, Ont., July 23 (CP).—A dope addict who entered Dr. K. J. Williams' office last night and stole 60 quartergrain tablets of morphine is being sought today by police. Entrance was made with a pass key and nothing but the drugs was taken.

Fires Double Area In 8 Hours Menace B.C. Villages On Half Dozen Fronts

Switch In Wind Will Doom Two Towns In Heart Of Vancouver Island; Canadian Destroyer Sends 50 Seamen

COURTENAY, B.C., July 22 (CP). — Vancouver Island's tremendous forest fire had doubled its area of devastation within eight hours today and increased its threat to settlements on a half-dozen fronts.

As 200 picked loggers sprayed streams of water over the logging village of Headquarters to hold off a sideshot that was roaring through 40,000,000 feet of bucked timber, the main inferno struck inland during the night, "crowning" through the tree-tops of Constitution Hill towards Forbidden Plateau.

As the flames advanced, they increased the potential threat to the coal-mining towns of Bevin and Cumberland, just south of Courtenay. The three towns, population centres of the central part of the island, would only be threatened, however, by a change in wind direction, forest officials said.

Already the blaze covered an estimated 100,000 acres.

The Canadian destroyer Fraser landed 50 seamen at Comox and despatched them to Bevin as a bucket brigade to protect buildings from flying sparks. Another 50 men stood ready to go ashore and act as fire-fighters wherever they were needed.

Wreckers At Work.

VICTORIA, July 23 (CP).—Premier T. D. Pattullo said in a prepared address last night the British Columbia forest branch had "definitely established" that fire hoses had been cut and pumps "doctored" along fire lines of the 100,000-acre Campbell River timber blaze.

Mr. Pattullo said, in reference to such discoveries:

"Malign influences are at work in our midst, and it behooves all law-abiding people to lend no encouragement to the activities of those who wield such influences."

The Premier did not mention any specific group who might have been responsible nor the "influences."

King's Paris Trip Seen As Aid In Czech Peace

BERLIN, July 23.—(AP)—Hopes of an ultimate understanding between Germany and Great Britain were nursed in official German quarters today as the results of King George's state visit to France this week were studied.

The optimism was based on a realization that both Great Britain and France seemed determined to make clear to the Czechoslovak government that far-reaching concessions to its clamorous, autonomy-seeking minorities were essential.

Some newspapers emphasized this fast as "a surprising action in connection with the Royal visit."

Chancellor Adolf Hitler apparently was willing to leave to the autonomy-seeking, Nazi-supported German Sudetens their fight for such concessions as they can obtain.

That the Sudeten leaders may count on Germany's moral support was self-evident, but Hitler's tactics do not include laying before the British and French just what he demands for the Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia.

Hitler, there is reason to believe, minces no words when it comes to stating what should be Czechoslovakia's future as a member of the European family.

Czechoslovakia, he insists, must sever her alliance with Soviet Russia as he thinks this endangers European peace permanently.

Czechoslovakia, Chancellor Hitler believe, must range herself alongside her powerful German neighbor in a customs union—and she must be neutral in the sense that Switzerland is.

More Assurances

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain was disclosed authoritatively today to have given the German ambassador "certain assurances" of continued British efforts in Praha for solution of the Sudeten German minority dispute in Czechoslovakia.

A semi-official account of yesterday's interview between the premier and ambassador Dr. Herbert Von Kirksen before the latter left for Germany said, however, "no concrete proposals were made on either side nor was any new suggestion under discussion."

It was stated that "in the course of a friendly conversation before going on leave, the German ambassador gave renewed assurance of Germany's peaceful intentions and the desire of his government to seek an amicable and satisfactory solution to the Sudeten Deutsch question."

In return, it was added, "the prime minister on his side gave the German ambassador certain assurances regarding the continued exercise of his majesty's government of their good offices in Praha."

Car Upsets Near Orono Hunt Missing Driver

NEWCASTLE, Ont., July 23 (C.P.)—Thought to have amnesia as a result of an accident when his car upset at Dean's Corners, on the Newcastle-Orono Road, Cecil Barnes of Toronto is being sought by Provincial Police.

Barnes is employed by an auto supply house and was driving a light truck. The accident occurred on Thursday night, and although Barnes seemed unhurt when he was talking to a farmer, he later disappeared and has not turned up since. He is 5 feet 10 inches, 38 years of age, and wore dark clothes and light shirt.

Plays Doctor, Jailed

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 23 (C.P.). — John Dykes, 48, of Toronto, was sentenced to from three to nine months in Ontario Reformatory on a charge of practising the profession of medicine without a licence. Dykes pleaded guilty to the charge, which was laid following investigation of his activities in Wollaston Township, North Hastings.

Gaiety Vanishes In Valencia As City Girds For Siege

(Written for The Canadian Press by Allen R. May.)

VALENCIA.—On quiet nights the big guns around Sagunto can be heard in the streets of Valencia. The wail of air raid sirens and the thunder of bombs falling in the region of the harbor are familiar daily distractions.

That is how close war has come to this city of song and romance on the Mediterranean after two years of struggle between the defenders of Republican Spain and the insurgent forces of General Franco.

Like Paris in the winter of 1914-15 Valencia has lost its gaiety. It is now a city preparing for siege and dreading the inevitable day when warplanes will be sent to break the morale of the people.

In the villages on the road to Valencia, every woman keeps a suitcase packed or bundle ready with the family's most prized belongings, prepared for flight into the interior should the line break.

Valencia has been placed under almost complete military law. Theatres and cinemas close at 9 o'clock at night and street lights are extinguished at 10 o'clock. Anyone moving in the streets after that hour requires a password and armed patrols keep the city under constant surveillance. The hospital closest to the front lines is in Valencia itself.

While there is scarcity of such materials as clothing and shoes, there is abundance of food in Valencia. Fruits, vegetables and fish can be bought in the market places or in the stores, to supplement the rations which are received through municipal distributing centres.

Maid Startles Court With Her Plea Of 'Partly Guilty"

New York, July 23.

"PARTLY GUILTY" was the unusual plea entered today by May Anna Alexander, a negro housemaid accused by her employer of stealing eighty pieces of silverware, linen and some jewelry.

Detectives said they found forty-seven pieces of the stolen silverware and some linen in the maid's home.

"I didn't take the rest," the defendant said, explaining her plea.

Freighter Is Sunk

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—Lloyds underwriters reported to-day the Danish freighter Bodil was bombed by airplanes and sunk off the Spanish coast. The crew was picked up by the British cruiser Shropshire. The Bodil, en route from Danzig to Nice, was 844 tons, and owned by J. Lauritzen of Copenhagen.

BABIES ON PARADE

LONDON—(CP).—A duck and her family of five from St. James' Park recently put Buckingham Palace sentries off their beat and held up traffic. Only four ducklings returned, one being killed in the traffic.

Loyalists Plot To Draw Rebels North

HENDAYE, France, July 23 — (AP) — The Spanish Government launched a vigorous offensive on the Catalonian front today in an effort to reduce the steadily increasing Insurgent pressure on the Valencia defences.

The renewal of fighting near the French frontied spread warfare once again to Egery Mador front in Spain. Insurgent offensives already were under way on the southern and central fronts in addition to the eastern where General Franco's forces are driving on Valencia.

On the long-dormant Catalonian front, Government militiamen directed their attacks against the key towns of Sort and Tremp in the Noguera Pallaresa River Valley, hammering at them unceasingly.

Aim of the attacks, military observers said, was to gain a quick success in the north and force Franco to withdraw troops from the Valencia offensive to reinforce the Catalonian line.

On the Valencia front, however, the Insurgents continued their drive at full force.

A Government communique said, however, that Government forces had taken a stand outside Viver in a determined effort to halt the drive toward the coast.

So furious was the part played by planes and artillery in the drive, Government advices said, that the village of Jerica, southeast of Viver, was destroyed.

GOOD OLD RED HEAD

BRISBANE, Australia — (CP). — Philip Morris' red hair saved him from drowning recently. A rescuer said he spied Morris in rough seas when the sun glinted on his red hair.

Mother Didn't Know

DRESDEN, Ont., July 23 (C.P.). — Little two-year-old Billy Sayers was lost, hunted by an organized search party, and found again before his mother knew he was missing here. The child was being temporarily cared for by a neighbor's daughter when he disappeared. Since that was just across the road from the Sydenham River, an alarm was raised and search organized. The child was found in the opposite direction by a passing resident who recognized him and took him to his home before his mother knew he was missing.

Feder Accepts Jail Terms Drops Appeal

TORONTO, July 23. — Manny Feder has abandoned his appeal from his recent conviction and four months' sentence for gambling house operations, and will go to jail

Now at liberty on $10,000 bail, he is expected to surrender himself to the Sheriff of York County, on Aug. 10, and will be immediately lodged in the Toronto Jail. From here he will be transfered to some institution to be chosen by Provincial Secretary Nixon.

Notice of Feder's change of mind was furnished Attorney-General Conant yesterday, by his counsel, Edward J. Murphy, K. C.

"I had considered filing a cross-appeal, asking to have the sentences in the case of Feder and his associates increased," said Mr. Conant subsequently, "but before the matter had finally been decided, counsel for the convicted advised that if we were content to let the matter stand Feder would withdraw his appeal and serve his sentence."

Lower Pension Age Is Not Sought Here

Reduction of the qualifying age for pensions from 70 to 65 years, a proposal to the government by the council of Kitchener, was turned down by the legal committee of the city council last night, on the ground that it would involve the government in too large an increase of expenditure for this purpose.

A London suggestion, that the cost of training schools for boys be borne by the provincial government, without any charge upon the municipalities that send boys to these places of correction was one idea to receive a Peterborough endorsement.

Claims for damages were discussed but only a bill of $8.50 from Irene Logan for the spoiling of her dress by a fall on the sidewalk last winter was approved. Alleged damages to three cars at the C.N.R. crossing, Water street north, got no more substantial response than a resolution notifying the C.N.R. that a projecting plank in the crossing to Auburn is a menace to the public and should be repaired. The crossings on Park street south and at the corner of Perry and Aylmer streets were also called to the attention of the railway officials.

Remnant rails of the street railway on George street south were complained of by another resident but his grievance was ignored, and the rails will continue to be part of the scenery topped by ridges of ice next winter. Board of Works employees working at a manhole on George street near Townsend street had a pole projecting above the street level with a piece of red cloth attached to it. John Whittington ran into it, and the committee queried "why," in discussing his claim for $9. No contribution was made to Mr. Whittington.

Projection of the pavement on the east side of George street about where the creek flows into the river was blamed for minor injuries to a motorcyclist, who banged against it and was knocked for a row of bruises. "I'll bet he was going some," was the comment of one of the aldermen. No balm for the cyclist's hurts. The committee went through its accumulated correspondence last night at extremely slight expense to ratepayers. Only one claim for damages was granted.

Roosevelt and Bride in Montreal

Arriving in Montreal from Campobello Island, Mrs. Roosevelt, youngest son of President Roosevelt, and his bride, the former Anne Clark, spent a day in the Canadian city awaiting the departure of the S.S. Lady Somers, which will take them on the last lap of their honeymoon, which will be spent in Bermuda. They are pictured here in their hotel suite reading a telegram informing John that he had become an uncle, with the birth of a son to Ethel duPont Roosevelt, wife of his brother, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.

Attack Begins On Kiukiang

SHANGHAI, July 23 (AP).—Japanese naval and land forces began a long-awaited assault today on Kiukiang, key point in the push toward Hankoy.

A Japanese naval communique announced landings were effected at several points on the southern shores of the Yangtse river, putting the invaders within 10 miles of Kiukiang, just 135 miles down the Yangtse from the Chinese provisional capital.

These developments followed by a few minutes the Japanese success in crossing the narrow entrance to Poyang Lake 10 miles east of Kiukiang, after three weeks of terrific bombardments, and thus gaining a favored position for a drive against the big Nanchang airbase.

Chinese troops attacked Japanese garrisons and transports all along the Yellow, aided by heavy rainfalls that mired the invaders' transportation.

Farther north the Chinese also claimed success in impeding and disorganizing Japanese plans.

Guerrillas blew up a steel bridge over the Chang river on the border of Hupeh and Hunan provinces, interrupting traffic of the Peiping-Hankow Railway.

Methodists Hedge On Birth Control

HULL, England, July 23—(CP—By Trans-Atlantic plane) — Birth control, a stumbling block hurdled three years ago by the United Church of Canada, this week returned to committee a Methodist Church conference declaration on "the Christian view of marriage and the family."

The declaration, a 16-page document advocating, among other things, that the state make available to all classes advice on birth control, was turned back after a London conferee denounced birth control as contrary to Divine Law.

The Londoner, Rev. C. Ensor Walters, Declared: "I do not hesitate to say that all birth control is against the law of God. You can talk about Roman Church (which opposes artificial birth control), but it is the one church today that is not decimated by loss of its people."

At the end of Mr. Walters' address the Methodists' Annual Conference decided to return the report to committee for presentation again next year.

The document declared:

"Already research, while eliminating harmful methods, has devised a technique which is bringing parenthood under conscious control. Married people have now for the most part the power to determine how many children they will have and when. Mankind had gained a new master over its destiny and the result may be a far-reaching social revolution the consequences of which no one can foresee."

The Government of Japan will control shipments of zip fasteners to America.

New Customs Law

OTTAWA, July 23—(CP). — Legal maximum of water content of processed skim-milk cheese has been fixed by Order-in-Council at 43 per cent., the Agriculture Department announced to-day.

Skim-milk cheese is a cheese which has been manufactured from milk commonly known as skim-milk, or from milk from which any cream has been removed, or from milk to which skim-milk has been added. Skim-milk cheese is also any cheese which contains less than 43 per cent. of milk fat in the water-free substance.

Claim Divine Cows Rule On Marriage

MONTREAL, July 23 — (CP). — Divine Laws on marriage supersede Civil Laws, and even a divorce granted by Dominion Parliament cannot dissolve a marriage, according to Mr. Justice Alfred Forest of the Quebec Superior Court.

"Before the Divine Law in accordance with our Civil Law a marriage can be broken only by death of one of the parties but never by a divorce even obtained from Parliament." Mr. Justice Forest ruled yesterday in a judgment annulling marriage of Arthur Cholette, a Roman Catholic, to Margaret Yallowley Jones, a protestant.

The woman had been divorced by Parliament at Ottawa shortly before she married Cholette in New York State. Mr. Justice Forest ruled that Ecclesiastical Laws of Quebec prevented Cholette, as a Roman Catholic, from marrying Miss Jones while her first husband still lived.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 23 (C.P.). — A last-minute nose dive at Chicago influenced a closing slump by Winnipeg wheat futures prices yesterday after gains of as much as two cents had been posted. The close found quotations ⅛ to 1⅛ higher, with July at $1.01⅛, October 78⅝ to ¾c; November 78⅛, and December, 77c.

Export business was placed at 200,000 bushels including old crop Red Springs.

An early spurt featured another dull session. Strength at Liverpool and private reports of crop deterioratoin in some Saskatchewan districts were chief factors in the early climb that reached two cents at top levels.

Y Lacrossers Win In Midget Game

Y's Men's Club copped a 4-3 nod over Lions last night in a midget lacrosse game at the George St. arena, played in conjunction with the OL.A. tussle. It was 1-1 in the first with L. Vitarelli and G. Easton tallying the goals. Lions took a 3-2 lead at the end of the second when Easton and Ascott scored for them as Martin notched one for the Y's Men's. The latter team went ahead in the third with G. Easton and B. Dundas geting good goals. There was no count in the fourth. It was a clean, lively tilt. B. Dundas, Willshaw and G. Easton were best for the winners, while L. Vitarelli, Eason and Maloney stood out for the Lions. The teams:

Lions: Goal, Anderson; defence, D. Vitarelli and Kinmond; centre, L. Vitarelli; wings, Maloney and Detlor; rover, Eason; subs, Crowe, Caravaggie, Roberts and Ascott.

Y's Men's: Goal, Willshaw; defence, McMahon and B. Dundas; centre, D. Dundas; wings, Martin and Easton; rover, Land; subs, J. Easton, Dunsford and Joiner.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.)

Duckey Medwick, Cardinals — Hit triple, double, and single and drove in five runs in 12-3 win over Dodgers.

Pinky Higgins, Red Sox — His double and single drove in three runs in 7-4 win over Indians.

Arky Vaughan, Pirates— Drove in two runs with double and single to beat Bees 4-3.

Beau Bell, Browns — Hit two singles, driving in two runs, in 9-7 victory over Senators.

Wally Berger, Reds, and Chuck Klein, Phillies —Berger's homer and single sent two runs across in 5-2 opener win; Klein collected three hits and drove in as many runs in 11-10 nightcap.

French Guns Scare Spanish Planes Back

PERPIGNAN, France, July 23.—(AP)—French anti-aircraft batteries fired yesterday on six airplanes which flew over the French border from Spain at Osseja, near Bourg-Madame, 50 miles west of here.

After three shots had been fired the planes swung about and returned to Spain. Border guards said they believed the planes were insurgent craft which, according to border reports, bombed several towns and villages in Northern Catalonia during the afternoon.

SERVICES IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES TO-MORROW

The Human Side of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

To the moon with America's greatest living inventor, Nikola Tesla! Well, not precisely—though if Father Time were to grant Mr. Tesla another half century or so of life I, for one, wouldn't bet against the moon adventure under his eager auspices. The man has lived long and wrought greatly, and the keenest desire of his life is to live longer and materialize the dreams which haunt his scientific imagination.

He is working now on an energy transmitting device to project electrical waves to Lady Luna, waves of such potency and power that a tract of light as large, perhaps, as the state of Connecticut could be fixed momentarily upon the surface of the moon. If he lives long enough he will do it, and that's a fairly safe prediction, for Dr. Tesla has accomplished many marvels in his 82 years upon this earth.

His birthday fell on July 10, and found him in fair health for one of his years. It was 40 years ago, B. M. (Before Marconi), that Nikola Tesla predicted the coming of radio communication and sent electrical waves racing around the globe from high voltage generators.

Ship-Protecting Ray

Another dream of this truly great scientist is to perfect what we laymen might call a "magic ray" which would protect ships from the mariner's greatest peril, fog, and bring them unfailingly to port. It might indeed—so far does his dream range out over the troubled field of human life—put an end to war. A magic ray so terrible, so powerful that raiding airplanes could not last one second above their designed victim of a city.

Mr. Tesla lives and dreams and works at a New York hotel and there, usually, you may find him upon any proper business—amiable, charmingly conversational, intensely interesting with his glimpses of new marvels and promises of new world. He is the only American inventor with 750 basic patents to his credit—the only inventor who ever lived, so far as this writer knows, who ever explored so many fields with patented results to prove his rovings and wanderings. Half the civilized nations of the world have honored him with orders and medals.

Nikola Tesla is an Austrian. He was only 28 years old when he came from the University of Praha to enter the laboratory of the great Edison. That was the beginning of an amazing career. For more than 50 years he has been a man of mystery. Full-fledged from his amazing brain have come marvel after marvel. He gave us the induction motor which made possible alternating electric current. He gave us innumerable indispensible electrical appliances. His imaginative mentality reaches out into the hereafter itself. He wonders if life cannot be recalled—as to whether a man electrocuted in the death chair could be restored to life by the application of an electrical current. He really thinks it could be done.

Message From Mars

It was 30 years ago, on Pike's Peak, that he is sure he plucked from the air at that 14,000-foot height signals from the planet Mars. Mr. Tesla believes, as the late Prof. Lawrence Lowell believed, that there are living, humanlike creatures on our nearest neighbor in the family of planets, and much more intelligently advanced than we are. He thinks that they have been trying for many centuries to reach our dull intelligences.

Now, at 82, Nikola Tesla is working not only on an apparatus to prove unfailing communication to insure safety of ships, to locate hidden treasure and to determine the earth's physical constants, but also on a means to end war. Mr. Tesla is reaching into the infinite to snatch a bolt of lightening for the salvation of mankind. It is to be the Tesla death beam—literally a lightning bolt. It will have such a terrific energy that a thousand invading airplanes could be sent earthward in flaming fragments within 10 heartbeats—annihilated. Two hundred thousand men, horse, foot and artillery crossing the border at a defending enemy could be dropped dead in their tracks.

Dr. Tesla will tell you—and you believe him—that it will summon a force, a weapon, which will be so irresistible that war will become sheer insanity. Submarine warfare would be made impossible by the Tesla death beam. One human being, sitting in a glass tower, gently pressing a forefinger on an ivory button, could hurl a lightning bolt hundreds of miles out to sea and 200 feet below the surface, to destroy in one blinding flash the lurking submarine.

With Dr. Tesla still dreaming and planning with youthful enthusiasm, there is no such thing as old age. At 82 his imagination reaches out for new worlds to conquer, and visions the day when we can put in a call to Mars and get an answer.

Gideon—Following God's Plan

"BRASS TOCKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 24 is Judges 6:1-8:35, especially 7:4-7, 15-23, the Golden Text being Joshua 1: 9" Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of good courage.")

After God's deliverance of the children of Israel under Deborah and Barak, the land had rest from its enemies for 40 years. But the people again forgot God and went away into the sin of idolatory. And so we read for the fourth time that sickening round of sin, punishment and deliverance of which there are seven cycles in this book of Judges: "The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord: and the Lord delivered them into the hand of Midian seven years."

Gideon's Call

So fierce was the oppression of the Midianites that the Israelites fled to the hills and hid themselves in dens and caves, and even so courageous a spirit as Gideon is found by the angel of the Lord hiding away in an obscure place trying to thresh a bit of grain he has rescued from his country's oppressors as the messenger of God came to commission him to throw off the yoke of oppression saying, "The Lord is with thee, thou mighty man of valor—Go in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites; have not I sent thee?" At first his modest soul demurred, pleading his own unworthiness and the poverty and obscurity of his family. To reassure his own soul, Gideon demanded certain signs of God, and, receiving these tokens of God's presence and power be dedicated himself to the service of God and his country.

Gideon's Consecration

Gideon began his great work by "first sweeping the dirt from his own doorstep." His first act of deliverance was a stroke at the idolatry of his own father's house in demolishing the altar of Baal and cuting down the grove his father had erected as the center of idolatry in his own village. Thus he testified to his conviction that the natoin's ills were fundamentally the result of its own sin and called for regeneration rather than revolution.

Sifting the Forces

Gideon's appeal to the nation's patriotism brought an immediate response of 32,000 men. But the Lord is not so easily impressed with statistics as we are. He saw the indifference of many that made up that host. So an easy way out was shown them and an opportunity offered them to save their lives and their faces and 22,000 of the would-be-patriots "beat it" for home and safety. Nine thousand seven hundred, who were just as cowardly were not so frank and needed the second test to sift them out with the chaff where they belonged. This was done by watching them drink water from a brook. Three hundred of Gideon's men were so keen for the fight for which they enlisted that they would not take time to kneel down to drink at some comfortable spot but dashed the water to their lips by handfuls. These proved themselves worthy of God's trust. The rest were sent home where they preferred to be.

These three hundred, equipped only with trumpets and lamps in empty pitchers, which they broke at Gideon's signal, thus displaying their torches, gave the Midianites the impression of a vastly superior force and threw them into consternation in which they destroyed themselves and gave Gideon a signal victory. It was a victory of faith putting to flight the armies of the aliens. The same faith is still the victory that overcomes the world!

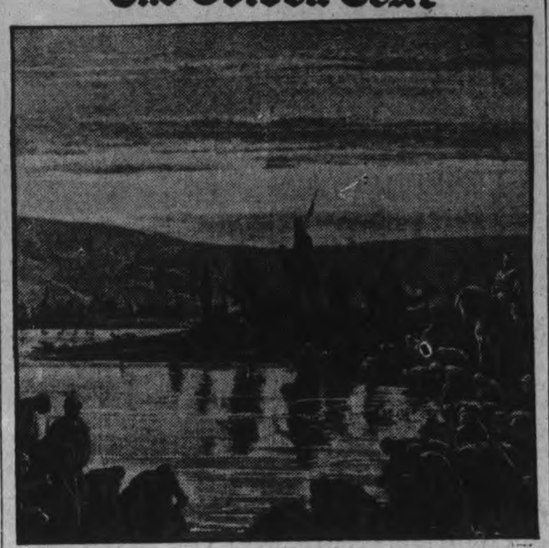
Hold British Migration Necessary

Duke of Devonshire

Viscount Elibank

Declaring that the British people should migrate to sparsely settled parts of the Empire, the Duke of Devonshire told the House of Lords that land-hungry countries regarded the Empire as holding a large area of the earth, "unable or unwilling to occupy it and develop it, but preventing others from settling it." During the debate Viscount Elibank declared, "Canada does not require more immigrants, as she still has unemployment, and political conditions are such, apparently, that she does not require them." Lord Elibank suggested that the best arrangement for the present was for people to migrate from England on what was called a policy of infiltration. Only Australia has subscribed to that policy, he declared.

The Golden Text



Joshua 1:9—"Have not I comman ded thee? Be strong and of good cour age."

Cathedral Musings

It is a paradox that we possess only that which we have renounced; that the victor is in reality the loser, and that the loser, if he but rightly understands, is the victor. Spiritual truth seems to suffer a strange inversion when it is reflected into material aspects. The ancient wisdom bids us to kill out desire, to kill out the love of life. The Master told us that he who loves life shall lose it and that he who layeth down his life shall find it. It all means the same thing, but these are hard sayings, difficult to understand from this lower viewpoint. They can only be grasped when one ceases to think in terms of time and human life and learns to think in terms of the eternity of our immortal selves.

The true values of life are intangible. Love and joy, beauty, life and laughter, the Peace of God, are things that are not bought and sold on the market place, but they are the only things that we can truly make our own. Not even death itself, can take them away from us. Man does not see this, for he feverishly strives to add to his store of "things", but the more he possesses, the less satisfied he is. He finds that possessions, instead of giving him freedom, enslaves him and but adds to his cares. Still, he persists in his illusion. As in a nightmare, he suffers and will not awaken.

Hence, we have the remarkable spectacle of the children of God going as it were, to day-school, refusing to learn their lessons and spending their time in playing games of make-believe with little bits of paper or of metal. And for these bits of paper, rather than lose any of them to another child, they will lie, steal, cheat, murder and even sell themselves. At least, they think they do, but even that is only a part of the illusion. They don't really hurt each other, all they do is to tear and destroy each others' clothing. Then, when the evening shadows fall, the messenger comes and tells them it is time to stop their play and go home. It is a terrible calamity, for they have forgotten all about their home, they don't even know where they live, or the way to take. Worse still, they cannot take their playthings with them, but must leave them behind for other children to have. That indeed, is a calamity.

So the messenger, pretending not to smile, takes them and leads them home very gently and pays no attention whatever to their protests and tears. So they arrive, reluctant as they are, and their Father sighs a little and wishes they would grow up so as to be of some use in His business instead of being hindrances, but He knows they will learn in time, even if only in the hard school of experience, and He is patient. So, as they recount their day, He smiles a little at this, frowns a little at that and hopes that next day they will try to remember whose children they are and pay some attention to their teacher, not cheat in their games, or squabble with their little brothers and sisters. And so to bed, for they must be tired and, anyway, tomorrow is another day.

Palestine Clashes Kill 3 Jews, 8 Arabs

JERUSALEM, July 23—(AP).—Three Jews and eight Arabs were killed and five Jewish workers were wounded during a series of clashes in widely separated districts of Palestine to-day.

A Jew was killed in ambush on the Jerusalem-Jaffa main highway. The eight Arabs were killed by police and troops pursuing a band which attacked a colony near Haifa yesterday.

Two Jewish police were killed and the five workers wounded by an attack from Ambush on a lorry carrying workers near Saba in Sharon.

A National Message

Let us hear the blind testimony of our National Church in our Prayer Book, remembering that we are the only Nation that has such a Prayer Book, remembering that the term "sheep" is nowhere in the Scriptures used except of Israel.

In the liturgy we have "We have erred and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep." In the "venite" we declare we are the Lord's people "the people of His pasture, and the sheep of His hand," and that our fathers grieved Him in the wilderness. In the "Benedictus" we bless Jehovah, the "Lord God of Israel," that "He hath visited and redeemed His people . . that we should be saved from our enemies . . to perform the mercy promised to our forefathers . . to perform the oath which He swore to our forefather Abraham . . ."

In the "Magnificat" we magnify the Lord, who, "remembering His mercy hath holpen His servant Israel as He promised to our forefather Abraham and his seed forever."

In the "Nunc Dimittis," we declare that our eyes have seen His salvation; 'which Thou has prepared before the face of all people; to be a light to lighten the Gentiles; and to be the Glory of Thy people Israel."

In the "Te Deum," "O Lord, save Thy people and bless Thine heritage, govern them and lift them up for ever." Now here in the Prayer Book again and again we find all the Scriptural terms belonging to Israel, and to Israel alone, used by us simply because we and we alone have the right to use them, though we cannot take all these phrases have done so blindly till now. You spiritually, they are intended literally, and the witness though blind of our National Church's Prayer Book is that we are Israel.

It may be asked, how can the converted heathen take these phrases literally? St. Paul teaches that the heathen are adopted, by faith, into the family and household of God, by the Israelitish rite of baptism. And so is fulfilled in our Church and Nation the Scripture, "I will bring the blind by a way that they know not." (Isa. VIII, 16).

"Hear, ye deaf, and look, ye blind, that ye may see. Who is blind, but my servant, or deaf as My messenger that I sent?" (Isa. xlii, 18-19). Let us hope and pray that soon indeed may the order go forth, "Bring forth the blind people."

"Ye are My witnesses, saith the Lord."

Cave-In Traps 5

DUNCAN, Ariz., July 3.—(AP).—Five men were trapped behind a cave-in the Shamrock shaft of the Veta Mines Incorporated, properties near here to-day. All escaped injury and were expected to be freed in a few hours. T. Barten, mine superintendent, said.

Food and water were sent to the men through a pipe. They assured workmen they were unharmed and in good spirits.

For selling dirty eggs, Patrick McManus was arrested and fined in Dowra, Ireland.

Young Man Writes To The Minister

Another life problem will be dealt with at the Union service in Trinity Church next Sunday night. A young Peterborough man writes as follows:

"I have been interested in your sermons on practical problems, and would like to hear you discuss mine. I am a young man with a good education, but at present I have no job. I feel that to be genuinely successful my work must be one that will interest me, one that I can put my heart into. It must be difficult enough to challenge my abilities, without being forever beyond their reach. I wish to feel that I am performing a definite service to the community, and giving those who pay me full value for their money. However as far as I can see the world has no need of my services. I am not allowed even a chance to do worthwhile work.

I wonder if the average business man realizes the implications of the depression. For nine years lives have been wasted and ruined because of the imperfections of our economic organization. Can our elders expect us to worship the fetish of independent capitalism that has denied young men the right to live honestly, and uprightly for nine long years. Some countries, notably Sweden, Denmark, and New Zealand, have applied scientific methods to their business problems, and unemployment is now almost unknown in those lands. These countries have proved that democratic control of private enterprise is both possible and beneficial. Canada has in the meantime been drifting towards the Fascism of Duplessis, the anti-labor policy of Hepburn, and the fruitless experiments of Aberhart.

Our land is economically unhealthy. My problem, and that of thousands of young men of my generation are the danger signals."

This young man's letter opens up several great issues which the Christian church cannot evade. It calls for clear thinking, and prompt action on the part of the authorities in church and state.

Following God's Plan — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Judges 6:1-8:35

God punished Israel's idolatry by bringing upon them seven years of oppression by the Midianites. Then Gideon was called to deliver them and he began by destroying the idols of his own father.

Kideon asked as a sign that God wanted his service, that a fleece be wet with dew and the ground be dry. In the morning Gideon wrung a bowl of water from the fleece upon the dry ground.

Thirty-two thousand men responded to Gideon's call to arms. But they were indifferent and all but 10,000 went home. Watching them drinw at a brook, God selected 300 of these as truly in earnest.

Equipped only with trumpets and pitchers containing lamps, Gideon's men attacked the hosts of Midian, who fled in terror, destroying themselves.

We Hope They Are Right

There will be 21,000 extra harvest hands needed in the Canadian West this year, but that number does not sound impressive when one recalls that in 1923 there were at least 50,000 who went on the harvester excursions. They say machinery is better now and fewer men are needed.

Information is there will be no excursions as there are sufficient men in the West now to handle the crops. Included in the list of those available for harvesting are the men now classed as transients, although some of the Western reports refer to them as floaters.

We hope those who are doing the estimating know enough to get the right answer. If the transients who are roaming in the West are like those we see in this part of the country it can be put down for certain that many of them could not do a day's harvest work in a week. We know nothing of harvesting conditions under the new mechanical age in the West but there were years when a harvest hand engaged by a contract threshing outfit had to be just about 100 per cent. physically fit or he never could stand up under the work and hours. The aim always was "let's get through here and get along to the next farm."

The average transient has not been working, and for the most part he has been losing the desire for hard work. Starting in for harvesting operations is a long way removed from picking up odd jobs. The people in the West probably know their own business but we hope they do not get fooled if they are putting much stress on the idea of getting help from transients to take in and thresh a harvest.

On Building a Warship

Sometimes it is interesting to quote something before indicating who wrote it or said it. This for example:

"There is, it must be admitted, a certain amount of humbug about the verbiage in which we are accustomed to wrap our decisions.

"If either United States or Great Britain wishes to build a warship it begins by setting up a most melancholy howl about the great horrors of war. Then follow fervid protestations about their unquenchable love for peace.

"After this has gone on for some time they vote the money and start driving the rivets."

Perhaps you think it was uttered by some speaker at a convention of the League Against War and Fascism, but that is wrong. Or you may say it was culled from an exchange which reported a speech in Hyde Park at London, but it was not.

The statement came from the pen of Winston Churchill in an article written for Colliers. Has Churchill any reason to know the reality of that about which he writes? First heard of he was correspondent attached to the Spanish army in the Spanish-American war, after which he was on the Indian frontier, then he was taking part in the fall of Khartum, and he was made prisoner during the Boer war. He was undersecretary for Colonies under Campbell-Bannerman, President of the Board of Trade at the time of Asquith, and First Lord of the British Admiralty when the World War broke. Lloyd George made him Minister of Munitions in 1917, and in 1919 he was Secretary of War; Secretary for Colonies in 1921-22, and Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1924.

Admittedly Mr. Churchill has had opportunity to see and know a good deal, and that is what makes his statement about the building of battleships rather interesting.

May Be Two Reasons

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, member for the Melville Riding of the Federal House in Saskatchewan, says he is not going to contest any more elections, and the reason is he feels he is getting too old. He was born in 1860 so there may be some truth in his contention.

He has been farming in the West for years and at the same time drilling in his full share of provincial and federal political seed. He was elected to the first provincial legislature of the new province of Saskatchewan and became Provincial Secretary and Minister of Agriculture. In 1919 he tried for a place in the House of Commons but was so soundly defeated he lost his deposit. He tried another riding in 1921 and was appointed Minister of Agriculture on the formation of the King Government. He was elected in 1926 and both his opponents lost their deposits. He resigned as Minister of Agriculture in 1930 but retained his seat as member for Melville.

Within recent times Mr. Motherwell has been rather out of step with the Liberal party at Ottawa. Almost the last debate in the House in the last session found him openly critical of the method adopted to operate the marketing of wheat in the West and his denunciation of the plans of the King Government was as pointed as anything which could have come from any of the parties sitting in opposition. He is probably correct in stating he is getting too old for politics, but it may also be correct enough to state that Mr. Motherwell is also out of step with the party with which he has so long been identified.

A Voice From The Stubble

One night this week perhaps you heard the first cicada, a brief, tentative, metallic note from the darkness of the garden, as seasonal in July as the song of the first robin or the trill of the earliest frogs in Spring, and the honking of southbound wild fowl in October flight. Soon when August comes, the quiet nights of summer's fullness will seem clamorous when sleep is near, with the sustained sibilance from the stubble or from the potato patch as if a million pixies were rasping lilliputian files on tiny saws.

Last night it was the keynote that caught your ear, but soon the whole company of crickets, katydids and grasshoppers will join the shrill, pulsing symphony which only the September frosts will silence. When you hear this slumber song of summer that seems to rise to a higher pitch as drowsiness grows upon you, perhaps you wonder how the little things of earth in their unison can stir up such a volume of harsh noise. And that first feeble rasping the other night, you know, marks the turning of the year as it passes the meridian.

Wheat is stooked in the fields awaiting the thresher, corn is filling in the cob, and honey is in the comb. The season grows static as its fruits approach maturity, and time seems to halt, but the first cicada dispels illusion. It sounds an uneasy reminder that the year is flowing on beneath the calm surface of July, that wood must be piled for the hearth against the nights when the snow beats at the casement panes, and bins must be filled from summers abundance for the chill days when the kettle sings cheerily and the pot is on the fire with savory suppers.

Lindsay Man President

Cecil Gray Frost of Lindsay is now president of the Ontario Conservative Association, and if the Conservatives make as good a selection in naming a leader they will be doing well enough.

Mr. Frost was mayor of Lindsay a year or so ago, and during his term of office he acted wisely and well. He became known far outside the municipal boundaries of his own town. He made a study of municipal taxation and his conclusions and arguments were based on a good deal of research. Never could he be accused of talking about something on which he had no information.

Just how far the president of the Conservative Association for the province can go in directing the political forces which he represents is something we do not know. It is one thing we suppose to be a president when a large convention is in progress, and it may be quite another position after the convention has dispersed. We believe the Conservatives made a good choice when they selected the ex-Mayor of Lindsay as chief of the provincial association. As a rule he seems to have a pretty well fixed idea of where he is going.

Sentiment Not Sufficient

The city of London owns the London & Port Stanley Electric Railway running from that city to the lakeside resort. A few days ago it is reported two trains faced each other on a single track, and each train was in possession of running rights. Fortunately they were on level track and in daylight so motormen could see something was wrong and come to a stop.

Something was wrong and the charge is that the train despatcher gave the wrong orders. The matter was not reported to the management for some time, and when the report did come it was not by way of information from the train crews.

The despatcher has been suspended and about the same thing has happened the train crews because they failed to report the incident. The reason they did not make their report was because they were trying to shield the despatcher and they did not want to see him get into trouble.

One can appreciate that motive and at the same time know for sure it will not carry much weight in the serious business of despatching trains so they do not meet head-on. The people who are riding on trains have more right to be considered than the train despatcher.

He Defends Inconsistency

Perhaps you believe in consistency, and as a rule most people do. But Henry F. Ashurst, United States Senator from Arizona, has built a career and a reputation on the very opposite—inconsistency.

To begin with he was an uneducated cowboy and he rode on his father's ranch until he was 18 when he got a chance to become turnkey in the county jail and he took it because he believed it would give him a chance to do what he had always wanted to do—read.

There are few speakers the equal of Henry Ashurst in United States. We present here one of his statements made in defence of what he terms his own inconsistency. He had been accused of taking a course which was inconsistent with his former leanings. He said:

"My faults are obvious. There can be no doubt I have my full share. I suffer from cacoethes loquendi, a mania, or itch, for talking; from vanity, morbidity and, as is plain to everyone who knows me from an inborn, inveterate flair for histrionics.

"But there never has been superadded to these vices of mine the withering, embalming vice of consistency. Whoever in the public service is handcuffed and shackled by the vice of consistency will be a man not free to act as various questions come before him from time to time. He will be a statesman locked in a prison house the keys to which are in the keeping of days and events that are dead.

"Never have I let what I said yesterday bind me today. No senator can change his mind quicker than I."

Whether one can tag along and agree with the man or not—and most folk would disagree—it is not possible to ignore the strength and freshness of the logic Ashurst employs in seeking to justify what he openly admits is inconsistency. The manner in which he catalogues his own faults shows he is fully aware of their existence, and there is a contagious vivacity running through the whole structure of his statement that the reader involuntarily feels drawn toward the man even though he is enunciating something in which few people believe.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Galt's mayor is demanding a by-election in South Waterloo. It's been a nice summer so why spoil it now?

There should be a poem written about the chap who feels like going at top speed on a hot day in midsummer.

Ontario Conservatives are to have a new leader this fall. Political parties are like ball clubs—the manager has to take the rap during a losing streak.

The Brantford by-election has returned another Liberal and incidentally another lawyer. There were plenty of both in the Legislature as it was.

Brantford Expositor man admits he is trying to write a popular song about "the daring young man on the flying machine, who flew through the air alone and unseen."

Grasshoppers by the millions have been seen flying over Saskatoon. These aerial transients cause as much trouble as the ones who drop off the freight trains.

Man in Wardsville says he has corn stalks 9 feet 8 inches in height, and when they want a mess of corn for dinner they'll have to put a chair on top of the kitchen table.

Japan sent a request to Moscow demanding the withdrawal of Russian troops from sections of Manchoukou claimed by Japan. The reply from Moscow is a very plain NO. So what?

One old boy who registered for the reunion in London, Ont., is 96 years old and a veteran of the Civil War in U.S. Any others who are thinking of going into the old-time contest had better look up the records of the family tree.

The first 1938 wheat sold in Sarnia was paid for at 61 cents per bushel, and the farmer said his yield was 40 bushels to the acre. That is a nice enough yield, but a cash return of $24.40 per acre is not going to put the farmer on Easy Street.

It pays at times to have a good record. William Henderson, a man of 68 years, was in court at Wingham charged with reckless driving. He had been driving a car for 32 years and never had an accident before, so the magistrate gave him the benefit of the doubt and let him go.

A man in Hamilton called to court on the charge of running a betting house said he could not appear on the date named as it would interfere with his social duties, and on that plea he secured a week's adjournment. The next time you are in trouble try that one on the cadi.

STRANGE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Inventor John worked on for years, until hair thinned above his ears, his shoulders too were bent; but he was always pressed for cash, he had to charge his eggs and hash, nor could he pay the rent.

¶ John had invented many things, some little gadgets filled with springs, quite useful in their way; a little gate that closed up tight, and kept the children safe and right, when they went out to play.

¶ And things for cooking better meals, and locks to stop the man who steals, all clever in their way; and everything that John would do, would cut the working steps to few, but he got little pay.

¶ Twas then that John designed a gun, it was a fearful killing one, he labored through the night; this gun would shoot for miles away, 'twas planned to slaughter and to slay, when men were out of sight.

¶ 'Twas then a fortune came his way, and he had coins to toss away, the world soon got the news; and men from foreign parts would come, and offer such enormous sum, that he could pick and choose.

¶ When John invented useful things, all filled with gadgets and with springs, life was a hard-pressed one; big fortunes came along his way, all dated from the very day—when he produced a gun.

• How Big Should a Farm Horse Be ?

(By Rusticus in Stratford Beacon-Herald)

WE READ WITH some interest of a shipment of horses that left the town of Seaforth a few days ago. These draft horses from the farms of Huron and Perth counties have started on the long trip to Scotland. As most of them are of the Clydesdale breed, they are actually going back to the land from which their ancestors came. For many years our best breeding stock of the Clydesdale breed of horses came from Scotland. Even to-day imported stock seems to be able to take the major prizes at our fairs when shown against Canadian-bred stock. We wonder why? Cannot Canadian farmers breed and develop as good stock as the farmers in the Land of Burns?

A group of Scottish farmers touring Canada a few weeks ago are reported to have said that they "hadn't seen a horse worth looking at." Strange to say, these men have seen some of the finest horses we have in Canada, including those at the O. A. C. and the Central Experimental Farm. After importing good stock for all these years, why can we not breed at least a few Clydesdales that would at least be worth looking at, even by a group of Scottish farmers?

Frankly, we think we do raise quite a number of horses in Canada that are worth looking at; and that even the best of Scottish breeders of Clydes would be proud to own. The fact is, though, that the Scottish breed is losing in favor while the Percheron and Belgian breeds are gaining in popularity. If the stock our Canadian importers are bringing over is a fair example of Scotland's best, then many Canadian farmers could tour Scotland and "not see a horse worth looking at."

✧ ✧ ✧

WE LIKE to feed our hay and oats to something that will respond with revenue, and the Ontario farmer has found that he can do his work with lower-set, shorter horses that are not so hard on the hay mow or the oat bin as those of less depth and length. If we cannot get these horses in the Clydesdale breed we will get them in the Percheron and Belgian breeds. It will not be many years till the Clyde horse will have to take second place to the other breeds if present breeding practices continue.

Now, most of us like the Clydesdale horse. We like his legs and feet. Those clean bones and the fine feather. We like the way he "goes." In too many cases, though, he is a consumer of oats and hay far in excess of the work he does. A few days of hard work usually pull off any "middle" he ever had and then the Clydesdale horse is no longer a beast of beauty.

Clydesdale breeders can stop the decline of their favorite breed by selecting horses of the conformation the farmer desires—low-set, thick, short-backed horses with the clean bone and other qualities so desirable in the breed today.

How big should a farm horse be? Opinions differ, but many farm horses are too small. Possibly an equal number are too big for ordinary farm work. The horse of fourteen or fifteen hunded pounds that can step along at a good gait is more profitable than the big seventeen or eighteen hundred or even a ton horse. Eastern horsemen may cuss the little critters that come from the West. Most of them carry plenty of Percheron or Belgian blood, but those comparatively small Western horses come nearer the ideal of the average farmer than the big, leggy drafters so common in Clydesdale circles today.

There is something we all like about the Scottish horses, and, given the type we desire, we would pick them ahead of any other breed. It is to be hoped that the many breeders and exhibitors of this breed which up to comparatively a few years ago was the undisputed leader in horse flesh in Ontario, may awaken in time to develop strains that will give the Ontario farmer what he wants.

• Thinks Japan Made A Bad Guess

JAPANS SCRAPPING of the 5-5-3 naval treaty with Great Britain and the United States was a colossal strategic blunder, based on the erroneous belief that the English-speaking powers lacked the "manhood and national resolve" to outbuild them, according to Winston Churchhill, former First Lord of the Admiralty and Secretary of State for War.

In an article in Collier's published under the title "Japan Guesses Wrong," Mr. Churchill analyzes the false premises upon which Japan acted and warns her of the dangers involved. Stating that in fact the 5-5-3 ratio was a tremendous advantage to Japan, re writes:

"The reason why the Japanese have abandoned the artificial favor and protection of the Washington Treaty is because they believe that neither the British nor the United States has the manhood and national resolve to make the necessary financial and other sacrifices. They thought, quite sincerely, that neither of the English-speaking states would take the trouble and spend the money necessary to outbuild them.

"They looked upon us as fat, rich, talkative, effete nations, sliding down the slope to Bolshevism and devoid of the moral and mental strength to arm themselves properly. There is, it must be admitted, a certain amount of humbug about the verbiage in which we are accustomed to wrap our decisions. If either the United States or Great Britain wishes to build a warship it begins by setting up a most melancholy howl about the great horrors of war. Then follow fervid protestations about their unquenchable love for peace. After this has gone on for some time they vote the money and start driving the rivets.

Mr. Churchill states that "much nonsense" is talked about a new naval race.

"With whom is the race to be?" he asks. "There is no race between Great Britain and the United States. The two English-speaking peoples are not building against each other but only against 'third-party risks'. There cannot be any possibility of a naval race with Japan."

To prove the latter statement, Mr. Churchill cites figures on the "consuming power of steel" of the three countries—their capacity to convert steel, whether home-produced or imported, into instrumentalities of peace or war. The steel-consuming power of Great Britain he puts at 16 million tons a year; Japan's between 3 and 4 million, and the United States' at 54 million, indicating "how very absurd it is to talk of a naval race between the United States and Japan."

In concluding his article, which analyzes in detail the naval potentialities of the powers, including Italy's submarine fleet, Mr. Churchill states:

"Japan has plunged into a war of almost measureless dimensions, which at any moment may take for her a much graver turn. Her finances are in the gravest disorder. The masses of her people are bowed beneath their burdens. There is rising discontent at home and increasing inability to purchase war materials across the exchange. In these circumstances, it would not be prudent to challenge Britain and the United States in their now buoyant and robust temper to a trial of naval shipbuilding capacity. It would be madness; but sometimes nations are mad. Anyhow, our course is clear."

Not All Farmers Good Managers

(Family Herald)

THE ONTARIO Government has some millions of money in farm mortgages. Other provinces that have issued loans on mortgage security are in the same predicament. For a number of years a very large percentage of these farms did not pay any interest on the mortgages. The situation has improved somewhat but there are still large arrears of interest and still hundreds of farmers who are paying no interest. In many cases these men are thoroughly discouraged and have become little more than squatters.

Just recently a man holding an official position, and for that reason not desirous of being quoted, offered a suggestion that is worth full consideration. After many contracts with these discouraged farmer this man was led to the conclusion that there was lack of management rather than slackness in the work of farm loan boards, under capable direction the debt burdened farmers could make a living and eventually meet interest obligations. In many cases they are attempting to grow crops unsuited to their conditions. Others are carrying beef cattle when they have plenty of help in the family to handle a dairy herd of the same proportion. Why not select a group of these mortgage ridden farmers in on district and put in a good farmer as advisor and director? The continuance of the men on their farms would be conditioned on their willingness to co-operate with this director. With the right men selected as leaders, discouraged farmers would be rehabilitated in spirit as well as financially.

Such a plan as this has already been tried out by insurance companies and land mortgage corporations in the United States. In some cases the farms were rented on shares with a capable director over a group of farms. In other cases the farms were sold conditional on such direction. In still other cases families were hired and placed on farms, they to do the work under a central direction. In a report of a survey by one of the large companies the plan generally was reported as a success. It would not be difficult to experiment with some such plan in just one or two districts in Canada.

In Good Times ...and Bad

there is no decline in the interest every citizen takes in the essential service the daily newspapers perform.

The local daily newspapers are the daily bread in the mental diet of the people.

It is a significant fact that, during the period between 1929 and 1937, the total circulation of the Canadian daily newspapers increased by more than 270,000 copies daily.

This increase in circulation is but one of many reasons why successful companies spend a large portion of their advertising appropriation in the medium that has the greatest number of readers, the greatest sustained interest, and whose services are obviously an essential part in the daily life of every community — the Canadian daily newspapers.

Youth Grabbed As Suspect In Extortion Plot

WINDSOR, Ont., July 23—(CP).—Windsor police last night took John Neda, 17, Windsor, into custody after he was found acting suspiciously near a fake package they had planted at the rear of the home of Peter Basich, Windsor, as instructed in two threatening letters received by him. Neda was booked for investigation.

Basich told police Tuesday he had received two letters, in which his life was threatened unless he paid the sender $2,000. The final letter instructed him to place the money in a box by a garbage can at the rear of the home.

Detective James Hill apprehended Neda as he was about to vault a back fence at the Basich home. He and two other officers had watched the youth crawl down the alley on his hands and knees until he reached the rear of the home, police said. The officers were hidden in a shed near the parcel.

A toy pistol and 14 cartridges were seized from Neda. He denied having written the letters or taking any part in the alleged attempted extortion.

The Letters

The first letter, received by Basich July 14 read:

"Mr. Peter:

"Peter I want you to get $2,000 and poot them in the back yarde by the garbage in a wight envelope. If you don't I will kill you and poot it by Saturday if you don't I will kill you for shur and don't tell the police or any one ells if you do it going to be to bad for you.

"Do what I told you if you want to live get $2,000."

The second letter read:

"Mr. Peter Basich

"I told you to put those money there but you didn't do what I told you. If you waon't put $2,000 the money on Thursday night July 21 in a wight box outside by the garage I won't send you no more nots, but I will kill you and better put the money if you want to live. Don't call police of tell some one of you do tell someone my gang will take care of that. They will kill you or who will be there. Put $2,000 in a wight box in the back by the garage at 9.30 p.m., if you like to live and if you want to die is O.K. with me you will die."

Pitcairn Islanders Victims of Measles

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, July 23 (AP).—The descendants of the mutineers from his majesty's ship Bounty semed to be having some trouble today on Pitcairn, their lonely Paciffe island.

Radio reports received here indicated no distress. But a mild epidemic—believed to be measles—was reported and there was an apparent shortage of medical supplies and gasoline.

Several ships which visited the island within recent weeks, it was said here, found no difficulties. There usually is a ship within radio call of Pitcairn if there is an emergency but none has been summoned.

Senator Suicides

New York State Senator Julius Berg, who shot himself to death in his Broadway law office, turned the spotlight on District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's sweeping rackets investigation, as Berg was subpoenaed by the youthful prosecutor to undergo questioning about the $10,000,000 "taxicab racket". Berg left a note blaming ill health for his act.

German Flying Boat Crosses From Azores

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y., July 23—(AP).—Germany's 19-ton catapult flying boat, Nordmeer(alighted on the water at this airport at 9:42 a.m. to-day after a non-stop flight of 2,397 miles across the Atlantic from the Azores in 17 hours, 42 minutes.

It had been tossed into the air at a speed of about 110 miles an hour at 4 p.m. (E.D.T.) yesterday by its mother ship, the Schwabenland, at Horta, the Azores. The Nordmeer averaged 133 miles per hour on the flight.

Nordmeer's Trans-Atlantic flight began just eight minutes before Great Britain's seaplane Mercury arrived here after another Trans-Atlantic flight.

The huge German plane, powered with four oil-burning Diesel engines, passed over the Mercury as she came in to her landing.

Aboard Nordmeer were Capt. Joachim Von Blakenburg, veteran Trans-Atlantic flier, Co-Pilot Otto Brix, Radioman Wilhelm Kueppers, and Flight Engineer Alfred Eger.

Neighbors Honor Bonarlaw Girl

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, July 23.—On Wednesday evening, a very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. John McKeown when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered to bid adieu to his daughter, Marion who will leave for Saskatchewan on Tuesday to spend the coming year with her aunt, Mrs. McDonald. At 9.30 order was called by Canon Swayne and after a brief speech, a very appropriate address was read by Mrs. Gladys Burkitt and Mrs. Ruth Bateman presented Barion with a beautiful Aeropack. Marion replied in a few words and her father then thanked all present on behalf of Marion for the lovely gift.

All joined in singing "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow". Several duets were played by Mrs. Swayne and Mrs. W. Bateman with piano. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing with music by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wellman of Marmora.

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP).—Police made short work of a sit-down strike of 26 persons, including 12 women, at a Bronx home relief office last night. They turned off the lights, closed the windows and barred the doors to sympathizers bearing food and blankets. The strikers, sweltering in a room without fresh air, light or food, gave up in disgust and left the building.

Biggest Elephant Ever Shot Is Bagged By Montrealer

LONDON, July 23 — (CP). — By Trans-Atlantic plane)—Harry Snyder, Montreal businessman and big game hunter, is returning to Canada next week after shooting a world's record elephant and photographing the first Albino Giraffe ever reported by a white man.

Mr. Snyder was at Eldorado, North West Territories, last Summer when he announced his intention of going to Africa. For years he had hunted and photographed big game west of the Athabasca and Mackenzie Rivers and on the northern slopes of the Rockies.

He arranged for a 60-day Safari out of Nairobi, Kenya, and took along as his partner, Col. A. J. MacNab (U. S. A. retired) who received his early education at Ottawa where his parents lived.

Into the desert in the Masai game reserve their men cut 69 miles of trail over which they could transport equipment and personnel in five trucks and two automobiles and it was at the end of that trail Mr. Snyder killed the biggest elephant on record, 12 feet, 4 inches from heel to shoulder and 11 feet, 2 inches ear span. It topped by two inches the biggest elephant recorded by Rowland Ward of the London Naturalist Firm which studies such things.

One Shot Drops Him

Mr. Snyder said he had to walk around the animal, a tough rogue which had been driven from its herd, until he could sight a spot behind the ear to shoot it. He dropped it with a single shot at 22 paces. Its tusks were 7 feet, 10 inches in length and weighed 105 and 110 pounds.

In the elephant country, near Kranza water hole, a fresh pool and the only one for 35 miles, the party found a small tribe of handsome natives who had never seen a white man, although they said they had heard such people existed.

Natives near their camp told them they had seen a milk white Giraffe. They searched for it three days, then returned to camp to find it about a stone's throw away. They did not fire at it but obtained still and motion pictures of it, including one in which its neck and that of a normal animal formed a cross.

Find Bottle Of Rum In Old Cornerstone

HALIFAX, July 23 — (CP). — It must have been contraband, because it did not bear the government seal, but no seizure was made just the same.

Halifax workmen tearing down the old Black building on Water street, a stone structure built 77 years ago, broke the cornerstone carefully—and their picks uncovered a bottle of rum.

Veterans said it was a custom in the old days to deposit charms in corner stones of buildings. Old gold coins and other charms frequently were found, and workers handled the corner stones carefully when breaking this part of buildings up.

Half the contents of the bottle had evaporated.

A Dental Family

SYLVA, N.C., July 23 (AP).—Dental ills and bills are just a laugh to Miss Noracella McGuire—and her family. Miss McGuire just received her license to practice dentistry. Her father, Dr. Wayne McGuire, is a dentist. Her mother is a dentist. Her sister is studying dentistry in Atlanta, Ga. Her sister's husband is a dental student.

Douglas Renounced By Credit Party.

Major C. H. Douglas

John Hargraves

Major C. H. Douglas, exponent of Social Credit in Great Britain, was renounced by the Social Credit party of Great Britain at a stormy meeting in London, at which blows were struck and police summoned. The meeting was called to welcome home George Powell, Major Douglas' representative in Alberta. The meeting was thrown into an uproar when John Hargraves, National leader, assailed Douglas and declared the Social Credit party renounced Douglas' leadership because "it is no longer possible for us to regard as fit for leadership a man who completely failed to seize the golden opportunity presented by the 1935 electoral victory in Alberta and now seems likely to make confusion worse confounded by childish makeshift political tactics."

Truck Driver Jailed

BARRIE, Ont., July 23 — (CP). — Peter Lahay, 40, of Toronto, a brewery truck driver, was arrested last night on a charge of being drunk while in charge of an automobile. The charge followed an accident in which Walter Conro, 19, was hit by a truck as he sat on his bicycle by the side of a road.

187 Nuns, Girls Escape Ottawa Convent Fire

OTTAWA, July 23—(CP).—While 187 nuns and girls normally resident in the Good Shepherd convent were at their devotions in the adjoining chapel early today fire swept through and totally destroyed the old stone building. There were no injuries and no panic.

Fire broke out about 8 o'clock in one of the dormitories and spread swiftly. Only a few nuns were in the main building, some of them aged and infirm requiring to be assisted to the street. The 127 girls housed in the convent were marched from the adjoining chapel in perfect order and taken to the Mother House nearby.

Located near the Rideau River on St. Andrew street the convent provides a home for girls and operates a large steam laundry. Most of the building's contents were salvaged.

Department stores in Germany have bee nordered not to operate restaurants.

General Fruit Crop Above Average

TORONTO, July 23 — (CP). — The Ontario Government Fruit Branch estimated to-day in its July crop report increased yields of cherries, plums and raspberries for 1938 over the previous year, but predicted a nine-per-cent smaller apple crops.

The cherry crop was estimated at 123,699 bushels compared with 101,900 in 1937, an increased of 18 per cent. The gain in production was attributed almost entirely to an improved yield of 106,900 bushels in Western Ontario, 25 per cent greater than last year.

The Fruit Branch estimated the plum crop at 56,350 bushels compared with 56,000 last year, and the raspberry crop at 4,371,400 quarts against 4,043,200 in 1937. The Eastern raspberry yield was given as 2,772,000 quarts, 10 per cent higher than last year.

Other estimates were: Apples 681,200 bushels, down nine per cent from 1937; peaches 515,200 bushels, down two per cent; pears 180,200 bushels, down three per cent; strawberries 6,401,900 quarts, down seven per cent.

Eastern Apples Good.

Apples are developing satisfactorily in Eastern Ontario though roller leaf injury has been severe in the Newcastle and Bowmanville districts. Prospects for an average crop in McIntosh variety are good and total apple production in Eastern Ontario is estimated at 25 per cent higher than last year.

The situation is reversed in Western Ontario, where practically all varieties except Spys show a decrease in estimated production. Percentage of reduction from last year is given as follows: Early varieties, 20; Wealthy, 20; Baldwin, 25; Greening, 10; Stark, 10; Snow, 5; McIntosh, 10; other varieties, 10; all apples, 25.

Because rooters made too much noise, football playing on Sunday has been banned in Potchefstroom, South Africa.

LACROSSERS DEFEAT HAMILTON 14-0 IN A ONE-SIDED BATTLE

Petes Protest Late Arrival Of Visitors

Six hundred cash customers saw the Petes trounce Mount Hamilton Lacrosse Club 14 to 0 in a scheduled Senior B tilt at the Lacrosse Arena last night, and many fans annoyed at the one sided game, and the fact that the visitors had only eight players left the arena at half time. Three local players were then added to the visiting line-up to bolster the team and make it a game, and the battle continued for the regulation four periods.

The visitors arrived 50 minutes late despite strenuous protests which have been made to the O.L.A. by officials of the local club, which will be made again and assurance obtained that the next scheduled tilt be started on time, sharp at nine o'clock.

Peterborough dominated the play from the start and clicked like a well oiled machine after five minutes of rather mediocre lacrosse, during which time, Harley in the nets for Hamilton gave a sparkling performance. Magee took a pass from Dallin to start the scoring splurge at the six minute mark and before the regulation period time was up, the locals had flipped the ball past Harley, nine times. They added five more in the second without trying very hard, and as the game progressed the leg weary visitors showed little or no team work or punch. Loucks and Shorty Reid played standout lacrosse. The tall lanky defenceman scored twice unassisted on rushes from one end of the box to the other, and Reid scored four goals. Pammett, Bowen, Worthy and Dundas also turned in nice efforts.

At half time when the exodus of fans started and it appeared as though the Hamilton players would be unable to continue the game, three local players, Loucks, Worthy and Sloane were placed on the Hamilton line-up to make it a game and the teams finished with this arrangement.

The teams:

Mount Hamilton—Goal, Harley; defence, Hodson and Brown; centre, Jackson; wings, Dockstader and Jennings; rover, Duckett; alternate, Owen.

Peterborough—Goal, Bob Creighton; defence, Miller and Loucks; centre, Dundas; wings, Whitton and Reed; rover, King; alternates, Sloane, Worthy; Pammett, Bowen, Magee and Dallin.

Referee—Len Smith, Toronto.

Summary:

First Period

Petes—Magee (Dallin) 6.30
Petes—Pammett (Magee) 7.00
Petes—Reed (King) 7.30
Petes—Reed (Loucks) 8.00

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

There will be no bowling on our greens on Friday, July 29 and Saturday, July 30. The greens will be closed to bowlers in order that they may be put in as good condition as possible for the August 1st tournament.

On Monday, July 25 we will hold a local mixed tournament, drawn from the boon, 7.30 p.m. Fee 25c.

The greens will be open on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings for any games the bowlers wish to play, but we would suggest that the boys get busy and play their singles in both the club open and the novice competitions.

On Thursday night our club will be favored with a number of mixed rinks from Port Hope. We expect this will be a bumper night. It is a return visit and it is to be hoped that our members (ladies and gents) turn out in big numbers for this event.

The west green is closed for a few days—the greens committee is working hard with the hope of getting our greens in A-1 shape.

The winning skips in Friday night's tourney were: H. Freeman, G. Sorenson, R. Anderson and H. Northrop.

A rink of local ladies skipped by Mrs. H. Staunton travelled to Fenelon Falls on Friday afternoon and won first prize in the competition. They received end tables. The rink was composed of Mrs. L. Yeates, Mrs. J. Coursey, Mrs. H. Beattie, Mrs. H. Staunton, skip.

Japan's Best Tennis Star

Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 tennis player, puts on a great demonstration of strokes at New York's West Side club, where he and his team-mates on the Japanese Davis Cup team are practising for their matches with the Canadian team at the end of July. Yamagishi, who has held the singles title in his native country for the last three years, is figured to be the biggest stumbling block in Canada's path to international tennis glory.

Keene Lasses Beat Westclox

Keene copped the first of the three-game sectional playoffs in the Girls' Softball League over Westclox last night at the Bowl by a 12-7 score. A big crowd saw the Alarm Lasses lose their first decision of the season with the visitors upsetting the dope in a wide-open tilt. A big early lead made it a cinch for the Keene crew as they tightened up in the pinches to hold Westclox in check the rest of the way.

Bea McDowell twirled the winners to victory. Though nicked for 14 safe blows, she kept them fairly well scattered, aside from the eighth, and fanned eight while issuing but one walk. Barb Blade for Westclox was hit hard at the start and had poor support. She allowed 12 hits and one walk while fanning one in four frames. H. Bradley finished up strong to give only four hits and three walks while striking out one. Both teams had six errors.

G. Nelson for Keene got a double and two singles and H. Nelson had three singles. T. Mills hit a homer and a single, while B. McDowell, M. Miller and D. Cocks got two hits each. For Westclox, M. Ferguson had three singles, as H. Bradley hit a triple and single, A. Sturgeon two singles, D. Merrett a three-bagger and M. Hawthorne a two-base blow. Good fielding was shown by D. Cocks, M. Belle, D. Merrett and M. Hawthorne. The teams:

Keene: H. Nelson, ss; D. Warner, 2b; R. Wood, 3b; T. Mills, rf; G. Nelson, cf; D. Cocks, c; B. McDowell, p; M. Miller, lf; M. Belle, 1b.

Westclox: G. Mortimer, 1b; M. Ferguson, ss; M. Allison, 2b; M. Hawthorne, 3b; J. Corely, rf; A. Sturgeon, cf; D. Merrett, lf; D. Botting, c; B. Blade, p; H. Bradley, p.

Score by innings:	R	H	E

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, the Central Ontario League regular season is over, with the Petes finishing in 2nd place in a 2-team race but as that qualifies them for the playoffs everything is lovely, especially seeing the ban on our Mister Doll has been lifted and he will be able ot carry his bat up there to the plate in future games. And I'm here to tell you that somebody what can sock that old apple consistently is badly needed on this man's ball team.

Not Much Sock

Thursday p.m. our lads tangled here with Oshawa in a twilight affair and all they could collect off of Mister Jack Biddle was 4 skimpy singles, 2 of them bunched with a sacrifice to give us 1 marker for the evening while the G.M. men registered 5 counters. Mister Biddle didn't seem to be putting much pressure on that but at any rate he had enough stuff working to tie the Petes' attack in a knot.

Where Was the Hustle?

It was a draggy affair, that ball game like all other fixtures when the home team aint hitting, and outside of a double play started by Mister Calladine and pivoted with speed and accuracy by Mister Murphy, there wasn't a great deal for the home fans to enthuse over. Mebbe the humidity or something had the lads down but anyway they moved around like as if the old age pensions board is going to be interested in their cases. They aint nothing that make a team look worse of course than to have the whole outfit in a hitting slump but at all events the lads should toss the old hustle into the battle. It looks better to go down fighting.

Still Say the Giants

Some of the customers has been giving me a little ribbing because the Pirates has nosed the Giants out of 1st place in the National loop. I aint backing up none; I'm still saying that when the world's serious is broadcast next fall that if the folks what has been kidding me will listen in then, the team they will hear described as representing the Natoinal League will be none other than Mister Bill Terry's lads. They've bogged down a little right now but it's a long drive to the end of the season and Mister Terry will give them a ride down the stretch that will make the rest of the clubs dizzy. As for the American League, oldtimer, my other selection, the Yanks is out in front and I think they got what it takes to stay there. They still got the Indians and the Red Sox to contend with but the 1st named aint got the oomph and the Bostonians the pitching, especially if Mister Grove is out long; to bring home the well known bacon.

Don't Miss These

Next week the House of David, the gents that laugh at the barbers, will clash with our Petes in 2 floodlight games Thursday and Saturday and both fixtures ought to pack them into the park. Some fans has been saying the Petes won't be able to hit under the flickers but what the heck they aint been hitting in broad daylight either so that don't make much difference. The bewhiskered outfit from Benton Harbor has some colorful ball players and it will be interesting to see how our gang stack up against that kind of competition.

Well that's the lot for the week so take it away, Mac.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

SMART BALLSTERS run the rule makers ragged, and now Cleveland Indians are pulling a stunt that will force a new rule for next year. Trick double plays are pulled by the Indians regularly and other clubs have kicked. Here's the setup: With runners on first and second if thenext batter hits a short fly to the outfield, Solters or Averill dash in and drop the ball from their hands deliberately. Fielder then picks it up fast and throws to second. A double play is made either by tagging the man on second and stepping on the base to force the guy on first or, if the man on second breaks for third, by stepping on second and then running the other gee down. When properly worked there is no defence against the play, the infield fly rule only working when the ball is within range of an infielder. Just smart baseball.

WE LIKE THIS ITEM by Bob Murphy in the Detroit Times: "now that the latest fad is starting out for California and ending up in Ireland, it will be interesting to see what effect it might have on sports. Sports have known many topsy-turvey things, some planned and some unplanned. As I recall there was a gent named Roy Riegels who once started out for a touchdown but ended up in reverse behind the eight-ball. Dartmouth and Princeton were going after each other's throats one brisk Autumn day when suddenly from the stands came the famous 'twelfth man' to take his place in the gridiron brawl. There was a time when it was part of every well-planned wrestling script for the referee to go bersek and kayo both principals. It has happened many times when a basketball player in a close game would toss the winning goal for the rival team. The same with hockey. Especially in sandlot games, catchers have been known to go behind the backstop to catch a foul ball after which the winning run scored from third." And so on, all about guys who did a Corrigan.

Pay Day At The Mines

PREXY MAX SWANSTON of the C. O. B. L., or what's left of it, gave us this loop playoff schedule for publication. Series is four out of seven and doesn't have to be completed till Sept. 10th. Aug. 6—Petes at Oshawa; Aug. 13—Oshawa at Petes; Aug. 20—Petes at Oshawa; Aug. 27—Oshawa at Petes; Sept. 3—Petes at Oshawa; Sept. 5—Oshawa at Petes; seventh not decided upon yet. Umpires will be from Belleville and Napanee. Winning club goes into the O. B. A. semi-finals against the Toronto champion.

NEXT RIVERVIEW A. C. card will be staged in Lindsay Tuesday p.m. at 8.30, standard time. Len Minicola and Nick Orlando meet in the main eeeevent of the eeeeevening, while Dutch McIlmoyle and Jack O'Neill tangle in the five-round semi-final. Harry Low and Joe Hobbins also have a five-rounder. Joe Taman, Bill Joiner, Mal Packenham, Ossie Beaudoin, Bert Prince, Buddy Redmond, Bobby Quirt and maybe Jack Chamberlain will appear in the show, too. Norm Bowler and Wardie Wright won't meet in this card as there is a lot of bitter rivalry there and they will be rematched here ere autumn when both are in the pink of condition. If the local scrappers put on a real lively slugfest and battle for keeps, the Lindsay fans will welcome 'em back for future pug programs.

* * * * * *

And Some Were Good

WE DROVE TO LAKEFIELD last eve to see the mitt show there. It was a fair affair, but not as lively as the local card a week ago. No kayoes or knock-downs. The Orlando-Minicola main bout was interesting and the McIlmoyle-O'Neill semi-final saw some hard wallops tossed. The Hobbins-Low one was a waltz with Low leading it, and the Martwick-Feeley fight was one-sided for the latter. Joiner and Greenely staged the best slugfest of the e'en with no punches pulled at all. A lot of science but no stiff slapping seen in the Logan-Taman litt. Three neat prelims to open the show. Yeah, it was an interesting program for pug fans, a fairish number being on deck.

KEENE GALS SURPRISED Westclox last eve at the Bowl and took the first of the sectional playoffs by a 12-7 score. Lusty hitting early in the fray settled it in favor of Ivan Fletcher's femmes. Ivan, by the way, is a little doubtful if he'll be back next year. Says the other clubs are going somewhat pro by importing players and lining up jobs for 'em—and he can't compete with that. Anyway, his squad looked good last night in an open tussle and they'll be seen again tonight against Danforth Aces in Riverside Park at 6.30 in an exhibition game. Next playoff will be Tuesday at seven in the Bowl. Officials feel the fans aren't kicking in for the collection. A big crowd last night only contributed 10 bucks to see a playoff squabble.

Call The Mortician

SOME 600 PAID TO SEE a lacrosse game here last night and about half of them left in disgust at halftime, Score was 14-0 for the Petes then and Mount Hamilton—which had been nearly an hour late arriving, and had but eight players — conceded the contest at that time and borrowed a couple of local lacrossers to play it off. The scribe left at this point, so we didn't hear the final count. 'Twas a local win, anyway. It is high time the local club raised a furious fuss with the O. L. A. over visiting clubs coming here shorthanded and late. It has happened several times this season and fans aren't going to continue to turn out in goodly numbers with this sort of stuff pulled. A swell way to kill the game right at the peak of its revival in Peterborough. Mount Hamilton has a good team, but only sent half a squad—and why were they so late? Fans have other things they can be doing as well as sitting for an hour waiting for a game to start. Let's have some definite action over this affair at once, you Petes!

* * * * * *

PLANS ARE AFOOT NOW between officers of the O. B. A. and of the E. O. B. A. to stage an all-Ontario senior ball playoff series this year, if possible. The O. B. A. loops include Western Ontario, the Niagara District, Toronto and Central Ontario. While the Eastern Association covers 20 senior clubs in the St. Lawrence District, Upper Ottawa Valley, Ottawa City and the Temiskaming area in Northern Ontario. Pro activities in the east always spoiled chances of such a series before, but that is a minor matter these days. Eventually it is hoped to have a Canadian playoff series. More dope on the present proposal again soon as it may interest the Petes directly. Even the Oshawa scribe seems to think we're a cinch for the C. O. B.L. playoffs as he writes: "Since Oshawa holds first place in the C. O. B. L., the GM-men will have full claim to the seventh game of the series should it go that far—which we doubt."

* * * * * *

GRAB BAG: 'TIS SAID in Belleville that Winkie Wilson, former Napanee player, will join Art Scarlett in Timmins . . . Quinte scribe says it might have been better for everyone if Wilson had not played with the Ponies this year, so far as their present trouble goes. . . . Rumor hath it some big grid names were bandied about in Toronto the other eve at a senior O. R. F. U. meeting. . . . Orv Wainman, who played forward for Millbrook in our Senior City Puck Loop last winter, will be heard on an amateur radio program, with Ken Stoble, Sunday at 11.30 a.m., standard time. . . . Greyhounds took a 10-8 junior ball victory from Tigers at the Ex. last e'en. . . . Cubs and Tigers clash there on Monday, with Pirates playing Greyhounds on Wednesday and P. C. I. meeting Cubs Friday. . . . Y's Men's Club beat Lions midget lacrossers last night, 4-3. . . . Omemee and Westclox men softballers are billed to tangle at the Bowl tonight; haven't got the rest of their schedule yet. . . . Likely a midget lacrosse double-header on Monday—someone tell us, plizz. . . . No delays between bouts in Lakefield's show last night, and no fouls either, by golly! . . . If ya wanna get rain, just get the Petes to play a ball game here—and Jupe Pluvius will do the rest!

Two-ton Tony, Walking Beer Barrel In Hospital Bed With Pneumonia

ORANGE, N.J., July 23.—(AP)—The man variously described as two-ton Tony, the walking beer barrel, Garagantua Galento, etc., today was just plain Anthony Galento, a pneumonia patient at Orange Memorial Hospital, and there was a sudden change in his and his public's diets.

Tony, for the first time in many years, went without his famous beer and cigars. He had instead an oxygen tent and a fluttering squad of nurses and doctors.

"His public," for the first time in many months, went without its Galento caprices, its laughs. It had instead reports that Tony had a fever of 104 and was seriously ill.

Just a few hours before he was taken to the hospital last night Tony announced discovery of a new blood-curdling cry to "scare" John Henry Lewis at their scheduled boxing bout in Phiadelphia next Tuesday.

But there was no "scare" in his voice when he protested being covered with an oxygen tent—"take if off," he urged. "Take it away. I'm not that sick."

The pudgy, colorful heavyweight, recently named number one contender for Champion Joe Louis' crown, didn't know he had pneumonia, his manager, Joe Jacobs said. "He thinks he's just got the grippe."

Promoter Herman Taylor postponed indefinitely the match with Lewis, light heavyweight champ.

One of the greatest catchers in baseball history, Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, for 15 years the spark plug of Chicago Cubs in the National League, was appointed manager of the club in a mid-season change made by Owner Phil Wrigley. Big, buoyant, possessing a deadly throwing arm and a potent batting punch, Gabby, who already holds most of the league catching records, succeeds Charlie Grimm, manager since he replaced Rogers Hornsby in mid-season of 1932.

Greyhounds Take 10-8 Victory

The Greyhounds of the Junior City Baseball League last night grabbed off a 10-8 decision over the Tigers in the Exhibition Grounds. The winners showed top form with 13 safe hits and good fielding, while Tigers could get but five hits and booted a bunch. Smythe was in rare hurling form to fan 13, while Sanderson relieved J. Shea of Tigers in the fourth to finish in fair style. The teams:

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 23 (A.P.). — The bookies are scared to death about those juicy odds of 20 to 1 they gave on the Reds, 6 to 1 on the Pirates, and 10 to 1 on the Red Sox last April——Latest figures has 'em backed down to 5-2, 13-10, and 3-1, respectively——Wonder what connection, if any, you can find between Dizzy Dean's comeback and Cholly Grimm's heav-o....Incidentally, a lot of the boys will be pulling in their ears when Jolly Cholly tells all via the air-waves on Sunday.... 'Tis whispered Rogers Hornsby will be back in Baltimore—as manager—come next season.

Maybe somebody can tell us why Woody English is passing up $1,000 plus an almost sure cut of the World Series pot to stay on his honeymoon instead of joining the Reds....It just doesn't add.... Chuck Klein finally discovered what's behind his battling comeback ...."Seems," says Chuck, "the pitchers are just throwing 'em anywhere I'm swinging."

When they took Tony Galento to the hospital with pneumonia, Dan Parker, the Mirror sports ed., relayed the crack about the guy who suspected it because Tony was hanging around that draught beer all the time. . . Littlest guy in pro football this year will be Reino Nori, the half-back the Chibears picked up from Dekalb College....He grosses 148 pounds soaking wet.

Babe Ruth, Duckey Medwick, and Johnny Mize will put on an apple-knocking slugging contest for $50 prize before to-day's game in St. Louis....Our dough rides on the bam....Our idea of a right guy in the fight business is Lloyd Montgomery, the young Arkansas walloper....Although he got plenty other bids to fight in bigger towns for sweeter sugar, he passed 'em up to give an old pal a break in a show at Rogers, Ark.

If it'll make you heat-sufferere feel any better, the Philly football Eagles start practice on Monday.. ..Conie Mack will broadcast on Edgar Guest's "It Can Be Done" program next month, to tell about the pennant his A's are gonna win in the next two years.

Outlaws Take 21-20 Victory From Tanners

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 23.—The Outlaws defeated the Tanners 21 to 20 in one of the poorest exhibitions in the local league this season. The Tanners piled up a 14 to 0 lead in the first two innings only to kick it away by the fourth innings.

McKee for the Outlaws allowed 15 hits. He had two strikeouts and walked five. The Outlaws collected 20 hits from the combined offerings of Hahn and McCoy. G. Scriver and Hahn of the Tanners and Stickles and McKee for the Outlaws all had homer uns.

Radford, McKee and Tunbridge were the leading clouters for the Outlaws each with four hits while C. Scriver with five led the Tanners.

The teams:

Tanners: C. Scriver, 3b; Thompson, ss; Ibey, c; Hahn, p, lf; G. Scriver, 2b; McCoy, lf, p; Kelley, cf; Sargent, 3b; M. Scriver, 1b.

FAIR FIGHT CARD STAGED BY LOCAL BOXERS IN LAKEFIELD

No Knockouts On Program Of Mitt Show

Under the auspices of the Lakefield branch of the Canadian Legion the Riverview A.C. of this city staged an amateur boxing show in Lakefield last night. It was an interesting card, minus any knockouts, before a fair crowd of fans. Robt. Laughlin was promoter with Ken MacKenzie and Dr. J. C. Smith the judges. Referees were Ward Wright, Tony Minicola and Bill Horrocks. Timer was Bob Archer and announcer Fred Scates.

The best bout on the card was the three-round prelim between two local lightweight, Bill Joiner and Hilt Greenley. They dished up plenty of action in a good slugfest with Joiner winning on points and the crowd applauding as the fighters left the ring. The semi-final and final events produced some hard belting in spots but there were no knock-downs to enliven proceedings.

Frank Vasey and Will Hays, 74-pounders, opened the show with a neat performance for kids. It was a no-decision bout. Another one followed between Buddy Redmond and Ray Smith, 83-pound pugilists, and they mixed it well for three rounds on even terms. Gord Riel, 100, and Dan McGregor, 102, turned it on for a time in each round after a tame first session. The first two heats were even but Riel waded in to register with a two-handed attack upstairs in the third to get the decision handily. But Logan and Joe Taman, featherweights, waltzed through three fast, even rounds with light punching the order and no damage done, but some good boxing seen. It was called a draw.

A Good Scrap

Joiner and Greenley parried lefts cautiously in the first even round with little damage done. They mixed more in the second with several hot flurries. Bill used a nifty left jab with the odd right cross to back up his game opponent, and took the second round. The third was a hard slugging match with Bill landing harder blows but suffering a nose bleed. The fans cheered as they swapped rights and lefts to the head Bill got the decision.

Slim Martwick, 148, found Roy Feeley, 163, too tough a hitter and was forced to cover up and give ground most of the route. Roy took all three rounds with some hard biffs to the pantry and a few to the face, with Slim jabbing lightly with a left. Feeley took it on points. Joe Hobbins, 148, and Harry Low, 147, did little damage to each other but put on a good scrap with Low having an edge on aggressiveness and jabs to the face. He had Joe backing up most of the distance but Hobbins made it a fight the last two rounds. R. Brady drew laughs with some shadow-boxing, finally knocking himself out.

Questionable One

Dutch McIlmoyle, 163, lost a semi-final decision to Jack O'Neill, though it was a questionable decision. O'Neill was game and forced the fight in several rounds, while McIlmoyle hit harder though not so often. He staggered Jack twice in the final round with wicked right smashes to the whiskers. They mixed in hard flurries several times during the bout but also clinched considerably. It looked like a draw but Jack got the nod. The fans liked the decision and cheered O'Neill.

Len Minicola and Nick Orlando, lightweights, put on five fast rounds in the main bout and battled to a draw. They weren't trying for a kayo but hit hard with Nick forcing the issue but find Len a tough proposition. There was some hard slugging in the last two rounds as they opened up with Nick having an edge on boxing and staggering his rival near the ropes before the last bell. It was voted a draw to wind up the show.

Meola Holds Orioles For Leaf Victory

TORAONTO, July 23. (CP).—Cheered by two straight victories over the Bisons in Buffalo, Jersey City Giants are home eager to get at the slipping Syracuse Chiefs. The Giants and Chiefs meet today in the opener of a four-game series that may decide their chances of getting into the International league playoffs.

The records show that the Jerseys have won 30 and lost 16 games at home while losing 35 of 45 games on the road.

Their last trip, which ended with last night's 6-1 victory over the Bisons, almost proved disastrous. They won only five of 20 games.

Syracuse Chiefs have lost seven of their last eight games and are only 6½ games in front of the Giants who are in a virtual deadlock for fifth place with Montreal Royals. The Royals fell astern of the Giants when they were beaten 8-4 by the league-leading Newark Bears. Toronto Maple Leafs moved within a game of Royals by whipping Baltimore 4-2. Rochester and Syracuse were rained out on the loop's other contest.

The Bears clouted a trio of Montreal hurlers for 15 hits in taking their third in a row from the Royals. Mike Chartak filling in for the injured Les Scarsella, set the pace with a homer and triple that drove in three runs.

The Leafs made it three out of four over the Orioles when Mike Meola bested Frank Anderson in a pitching duel. Meola hurled five-hit ball for eight innings and had the game well in hands when the Birds rallied in the ninth for their two runs

Bunched On Turn At Goshen's Historic Track

A fast get-away on the Grand Circuit is this one at Roland Harriman's historic track in Goshen, N.Y. The high steppers are taking a turn in the 3-year-old division of the $4,000 Village Farm Stake, one of the big events of the week's racing at the 100-year-old track. The eventual winner was The Widower, owned by W. F. Hetherington, and driven by Vic Fleming, famous Canadian rein-handler. The Widower is seen, second from the RIGHT, on the rail.

Stagehand-Menow At Arlington

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP).—Two dashing three-year-olds—Stagehand and Menow—and the probable track conditions at post time shared in the speculation today as Arlington Park prepared to handle a crowd of 40,000 for the 10th running of the $30,000 Arlington classic.

Trainer Earl Sande wanted a fast track for Maxwell Howard's Stagehand and his stablemate, the Chief. Hall Price Headley, Kentucky breeder, hoped for a mildly muddy strip, for it was upon this kind of track that his Menow recently defeated War Admiral.

Diz Dean Faces Giants To-day In Mound Test

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP).—A lot of fans who have been trying since last Sunday to figure out what a sore arm means to a pitcher may get the answer today. For Dizzy is due to go again.

The unpredictable Jerome Herman Dean, absent from the baseball wars from early May to Mid July, made an amazing return when he stopped the light-hitting Boston Bees with four hits. Today he has to show whether he can make the comeback stick when he faces the pennant-seeking New York Giants in one game of a double-header, created when the teams were rained out yesterday.

If old Diz can prove he's back to stay, the fans can turn their attention to the possibility of another comeback—that of Black Mike Cochrane—or such current affairs as Pittsburgh's persistent victory streak, the batting of Wally Berger, a big factor in keeping Cincinnati in the National league race—or Cleveland's last-ditch effort to recapture the American league leadership.

Cochrane May Comeback

Cochrane received permission from Walter O. Briggs, owner of Detroit Tigers to seek reinstatement as an active player. But he didn't actually say yesterday that the would try to come back and replace the "beaned" Rudy York and seek to pull the Tigers out of sixth place.

Berger, another "comebacker" since he's back with manager Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati, for whom he did some heavy hitting in Boston a couple of years ago, played an important role in the Reds' even break with the Phillies yesterday. He clouted two homers, one in the opener which Cincinnati won 5-2 and the other in a seven-run rally that prevented a rout as the Phils won the afterpiece 11-10.

The Pirates, leading the Giants by two games, marked up their 20th victory in 25 games since they started the winning streak that carried them to the top when they edged out Boston Bees 4-3. Cy Blanton's pitching and Paul Waner's hitting were so effective that even a ninth-inning homer by Vince Dimaggio with one on base couldn't spoil it.

Indians Drop Back

The Indians, rained out for two days in which they saw three doubleheaders against the league-leading New York Yankees pile up, dropped further back as they took a 7-4 set back against the Red Sox at Boston. The Sox battered Bobby Feller and Johnny Humphries in two decisive innings for a victory that left them only a game and a half behind Cleveland and 2½ back of the Yanks.

St. Louis was featured in both the day's other games as rain halted the White Sox-Yankees and Detroit-Athletics contests. The Browns ended Washington's four-game winning streak by pounding out a 9-7 decision. The Cards battered Brooklyn for six runs in the first and went on to win 12-3 for their biggest scoreing splurge since June 2.

Wreckers Fall To Norwood 6-4

HAVELOCK, July 23—Playing before an enthusiastic crowd of fans at the Norwood ball park last evening, the Norwood squad handed the Havelock "Wreckers" a 6-4 trimming.

Decisions of base umpire Cartwright were questioned by the players in several close plays during the seventh and eighth innings and tempers flared at bit. Spectators crowded onto the diamond and for a time it appeared as though there might be a free-for-all. However only a slight scuffle resulted and after Constable Baker had cleared the playing field, the game continued.

Havelock took the lead in the first stanza with two runs, adding another in the third and their last in the sixth. The Wreckers up to this time held the Norwood boys scoreless. Three runs in the last of the sixth and another in the seventh however tied the score and made another inning of play necessary. Havelock failed to score in their half of the eighth and Norwood pulled out a win with two runs crossing the plate.

Jack Kemp for Norwood and Brunton on the Havelock mound both pitched steady ball. Brunton had 11 strikeouts to his credit and Kemp 6. The former allowed four walks and eight safeties and the latter 1 walk and 13 safeties.

The teams:

Norwood: McMaster, ss; Rogers, cf; C. Puffer, lf; G. Puffer, c; Murphy, 1b; Richardson, 3b; Kemp, p; Bedore, rf; Fleming, 2b.

Havelock McMullen, lf; Ketchen, c; McCutcheon, 2b; B. Puffer, 1b; Peters, 3b; Moore, ss; Bedford, rf; Brunton, p; Kennedy, cf.

Score by innings:

Silent Lightning Of Storm Is Caught By Camera Flash

Travels At Speed Of Million Miles In An Hour's Time

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 23 —Silent lightening, a mysterious electrical effect believed to be the "sky wiring" in thunder storms, recorded itself in a photograph made public today at the University of Virginia.

Only 100 feet from the camera and bright enough to light clouds above the flash made no sound. It traced a sky-writing pattern. The shape was an almost perfect head of a great bird, poised to strike at several contorted snakes of fire in front of its beak.

The Virginia scientists identified it as probably a rare example of the "leader" strokes recently discovered in thunder storms by fast cameras. The leaders precede the lighning flash so quickly that the eye does not distinguish them.

That these leaders might be silent lighning had not been known. Their "wiring" aspect was traced to the fact that the paths they made were used by lightning strokes. They ionized wire-like, twisting paths in the air, over which strokes of lightning immediately afterward flashed. These main strokes traveled both up and down the sky-wiring.

No lightning followed the appearance of the silent "electrical bird" caught in the photograph. This rare event helped to clarify the source and antics of "leader" lightning.

The photograph of the "bird" and other strange strokes was taken by R. E. Holzer and E. J. Workman. Aiding in interpreting the lightning story were L. B. Snoddy and J. W. Beams. Their report was made for the Virgina State Chamber of Commerce at Richmond.

The streaks of fire that made bird and snakes broke out simultaneously in four places. The bird's head was drawn by one flash that doubled back on its trail more than once, and in one gyration drew a circle for the eye. Some of the lines were made by flashes starting at a single point and traveling in opposite directions.

The explanation is of air or clouds filled with pockets of electrical energy. The silent lightning breaks from one of these pockets, driven by the high potential behind it.

How far it goes depends on the size of the electrical reservoir, attractive forces of other charges near by, and resistance of the air.

Some of the leaders stab out several times before reaching another cloud or the ground. Sometimes they die out without being followed by a flash.

"Following the Leader"

The Virginia cameras caught one cloud bottom which sent a leader downward without effect, then a second leader to a near-by cloud. A huge flash leaped up from the earth to this second cloud. It seemed to delay there momentarily and then followed the path already drawn by the leader to reach the cloud which had first started the shooting.

The Virginia lightning experts estimated that over the entire earth there are about 100 lightning flashes every second. This is equivalent to a steady flow of a current of 2,000 amperes between earth and clouds, or from cloud to cloud.

Usually the lightning "leader" strikes downward from a negative cloud to positive earth at a speed of 200,000 to 1,000,000 miles an hour. Then the earth shoots the main stroke upward along the "skywire", at speeds ranging between 50,000,000 and 100,000,000 miles an hour.

Noted Jew Newswriter Is Ordered To Leave Rome

Rome, July 23.

EDWARD David Kleinlerer, for many years the Rome correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, was ordered to-day to leave Italy.

The Ministry of Popular Culture said it would make no statement on the case.

Kleinlerer has been in Italy 15 years and is married to an Italian. Four months ago he was made a Cavaliere of Italy in recognition of his long journalistic service in this country.

Kleinlerer, a Polish citizen, said two police agents informed him he had been ordered expelled, but gave no reason.

Retires

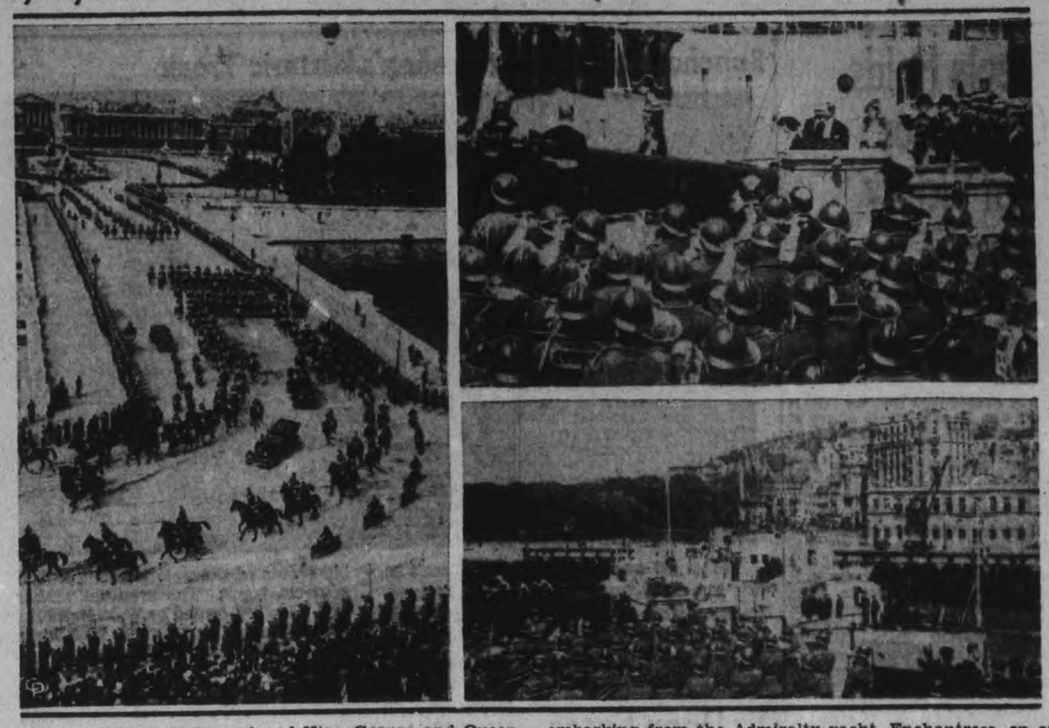
Dr. George Hilton, veterinary director-general, Dominion department of agriculture, has retired from his post after 33 years of distinguished service to Canada. Dr. Hilton has been directly responsible for the splendid healthful condition of Canadian livestock and it is a tribute to him and his predecessors that there has never been an outbreak of the dreaded foot and mouth disease in Canada.

Victim of a Bottle

TORONTO, July 23—(CP). — A wine bottle thrown from a car travelling in the opposite direction went through the windshield of Frank Burns' car last night, but Burns escaped with severe lacerations on his face and splinters of glass in both eyes. Four pieces of glass were taken from one eye and three from the other.

Though streaming blood, Burns was able to drive his car from North Dufferin Street, where the accident happened, to York Township Police Station where he reported the incident.

Royalty Pictures Cross Atlantic On the Mercury



These original photographs of King George and Queen Elizabeth's State visit to France were flown to Canada by the Mayo composite airplane, Mercury, which landed in Montreal. A special airplane picked the photographs up from the Mercury and rushed them to Toronto. King George followed by Queen Mary is shown, TOP RIGHT, disembarking from the Admiralty yacht, Enchantress, on arrival at Boulogne. Surrounded by cavalry and a guard of honor of Spahis. The royal procession is shown, LEFT, crossing the Concord Bridge, en route to the Quai D'Orsay. Another view of the Admiralty yacht is shown, BOTTOM RIGHT, with French troops lining the waterside to greet Their Majesties.

HAVELOCK

Miss Barbara Fennell, nurse-in-training at Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, has returned after three weeks holiday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fennell. The latter, who accompanied her to Toronto over Sunday, called en route on Rev. and Mrs. S. A. Kemp of Oshawa.

Mrs. Jack Buchanan of Toronto, daughter Betty Lou, her sister Mrs. T. Paige, and children, of town, spent the week at Robert McCutcheon's cottage, Belmont Lake.

Sir John Wilson, Bart., president of the Royal Philatelic Society, has been appointed curator of King George's stamp collection.

Sidley Money Spent "On Old Friends"

TORONTO, July 23 — (CP). — W. Perkins Bull, who will celebrate his 68th birthday Monday, said today the money Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley spent in Canada was "on old friends."

"You have said in the press that Mrs. Sidley spent one million or a million and a half in Canada," he told newspapermen.

"Whatever sum it was, it was spent on old friends and in a way she enjoyed and out of which, I imagine, she derived more pleasure than her spirit now is getting from watching the way in which those hands, from which she derived no enjoyment in life and with whom she would not mingle, are seeking to treat her body and her estate in death."

Bull said he had received many threatening letters since it became known he was one of the chief beneficiaries in the estate of Mrs. Sidley, who died at the Bull home here.

Rains Maintaining Cheese Production

Midsummer decline in the volume of milk to the cheese factories of this district is less than usual, W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, told the Examiner to-day. "There has been a slight falling off during July from the peak supply of June, but it has not been as much as in recent years. Rains have been general throughout the district, and have been frequent enough to keep the pastures in good condition."

A dairy farmer near Young's Point received a cheque for $232 for the milk he sent his factory in June, and a neighbor's revenue was only a few dollars less. And these were not the largest returns for the month in this district. A factory in the Campbellford area, with twenty-five patrons, has been making ten cheese a day, representing about 11,000 pounds of milk.

Mr. Moore reports that the quality of cheese in the district is being maintained at high standard, with comparatively few "pick outs" The price is satisfactory, and the industry generally is moving along through the season with prospects that it is going to continue to be as remunerative as for the first period.

Find Wine Changes Rosendahl's Opinion

WASHINGTON, July 23—(AP).—Interior Secretary Ickes said yesterday he believed that Major-General Rosendahl had changed his mind about the military importance of helium after being "wined and dined" in Germany.

Rosendahl, in charge of the United States naval air station at Lakehurst, N.J., said on his return to the United States that helium had no military value. He had been Frederickshafen's guest of honor at the 100th anniversary of the birth of Count Zeppelin, designer of lighter-than-air craft.

In his book, "What About Airships?", Ickes remarked to reporters, Rosendahl recounted the experience of dirigibles in the Great War and added "small wonder then, at the high regard in which helium is held as a valuable military asset."

Ickes, who as secretary of the interior has control over the United States helium supply, has refused consistently to sell the non-inflamable gas abroad until he has what he calls "satisfactory guarantees" that it will not be used for military purposes.

Registration of school children will be inaugurated in Russia when 3,500,000 children return to their books in the fall.

It's a Boy

The famous Roosevelt smile brightened up the vicinity of the Pennsylvania Lying-in hospital when Ethel duPont Roosevelt gave birth to a baby boy. Hubby, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the US., president, iss hown joyously flashing the Roosevelt smile as he greeted reporters and photographers at the hospital entrance. Said he "Both mother and child are doing fell. According to my prejudiced eye it looks like a very beautiful baby. We may name it F. D. 3rd."

Cycle Hurls Rider To Flaming Death

NEW YORK, July 23—(AP).—A careening motorcycle skidded across slippery Grand Central parkway last night in a fatal accident which transformed the rider into a blazing projectile.

Robert Jordon, the cyclist, was catapulted through the air with his clothing, body and hair in flames after his machine crashed into a guard rail and the fuel tank exploded. Jordon was sprayed with burning gasoline and hurled through the air in a flaming arc.

ENJOYABLE MEAL

HALIFAX—(CP). — Halifax city home inmates dined on thick juicy deer steaks, even though the hunting season has been over for months. The luxury was a result of the death of an over-ambition deer that jumped over a wall in the north end of the city and fell 40 feet to the railway tracks below.

Company Closes London St. Dam East City Short Cut And Rouses Ashburnham Ire

Residents of Ashburnham who have been accustomed to using the London Street Dam to reach the city proper, are doomed to meet failure if they petition the city council for action in restoring their short cut, recently closed by the owners, the Quaker Oats company.

Many residents in the northern section of Ashburnham are reported to be annoyed at the erection of a steel gate at the north end of the dam, preventing them from crossing to the downtown area in a way they have done for many years. They are said to be considering formation of a deputation to ask the city council to adopt some plan that would enable them to continue using the dam. The new gate has three strands of barbed wire across its top and is a formidable structure.

The short cut, scene of one drowning some time ago, is generally considered a potential danger spot and construction of a footbridge by the city was considered for a time. Mayor James Hamilton said such a bridge would have to be constructed at the south-west side of the dam, and would have to be fastened to the cement dam Its construction would cost more than $5,000 and it would not be completely satisfactory when finished, he said. The property on which it would rest would not be owned by the city, and its use would be limited to a fairly small number of residents in Ashburnham. Such expense would not be justified, he thought. An appropriation for such a project from this year's funds would not be possible since all expenses are being pared to the limit to help pay the unexpected increases in the cost of relief. The appropriation for Ashburnham Memorial Park, set at $2,500 at the beginning of the year, has scarcely been touched, he pointed out. Only $500 has been spent and the council has hesitated to spend enough more to oil the top of the hill.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

TOMATOES ARRIVING.

Raspberries were 10 cents along the main street this morning, and Ontario tomatoes seemed plentiful at two pounds for 25c.

CHEESE PATRONS MEET.

H. B. Wood of Trent Bridge, gave a report to the Cheese Patrons' Association executive last night of recent dairy conference he attended at Ottawa. George Elliott of Norwood presided.

GRADER IN CREEK

A grader working in the gravel bed of the creek between the C.P.R. and Dalhousie street was a Board of Works precaution today against freshets and damage action and things like that. The men were deepening the water course, shovelling the stones to each side to provide unobstructed flow.

ARE FEDERAL AFFAIRS.

Recommendation to make Victoria and Dominion Days fixed Monday holidays were merely mentioned at the legal committee last night and was passed along to the waste paper basket with Alderman Gordon's comment that national holidays are determined by Dominion statutes, and municipalities have nothing to do with them.

WINDSHIELDS BROKEN.

Several employees of the Canadian General Electric Company who have been parking their automobiles on Albert street while they were at work have had their windshields broken lately; the latest to suffer being Milo Heath. There is some suspicion that someone has been getting in some target practice on the parked cars.

AGAINST LOTTERIES.

A resolution by the council of Sault Ste. Marie approving of public lotteries such as the Irish hospital sweepstakes was rejected by the legal committee of the council last night. Alderman Cotton laughingly said he would vote for the idea, and moved a resolution to that effect which Alderman Bradburn seconded. "Nay, nays" by Alderman Dutton and Stocker greeted the idea which drew only two votes.

REMUNERATION INCREASED.

Remuneration of Judge Smoke as chairman of the Police Commission was increased from $100 to $300 as required by affecting regulations at last nights meeting of the legal committee of the council. The difference of $200 has to come out of the committee's appropriations for this year. An additional $100 was granted to Magistrate Gee of Lindsay to cover his expenses as a member of the Commission, replacing Police Magistrate O. A. Langley.

FOR OATS GUESSERS

Three prizes of "Erban" oats a new variety that sold for $3.50 a bushel at the Quinte Seed Fair in Peterborough will be given by G. A. Brethen for the nearest estimates of the yield of this grain in a nine-acre plot on his farm. The only condition requires that contestants for the prizes must be paid up members of the East Peterborough Agricultural Soceity, the Norwood Fair. The three prizes are five, three and two bushels of Erban. This competition is a personal effort by Mr. Brethren to stimulate interest and membership in the Fair.

BAND CONCERT PROGRAM.

By permission of Lt. Col. J. A. Dewart M.C. and officers, the band of the Prince of Wales Rangers will give the following program in Victoria Park on Sunday evening commencing at 8.30.

Conductor, Lt. W. H. Peryer, director of music.

Concert March, "Natalian", Micallef; Overture from the Revue, "Business As Usual"; Luna Walzer from the opereaat "Frau Luna"; Overture, "In the Land of the Missions", Mustol; Gavotte "Les Cloches De St. Malo", Rimmer; popular number, "Thanks for the Memory", Rainger; Prelude in C sharp Minor, Rachmaninoff; Hymn, "Come Thou Almighty King," Geardini; God Save the King.

MISSION CIRCLE PICNIC.

The annual picnic of the X.L. Mission Circle of St. James' United Church was held on Wednesday, at Municipal Park. A good attendance helped to make it a successful event. The prize-winners of the various sports were: 100 yards dash, Miss Hazel Palmer; potato relay race, Misses Gladys Rutherford, Gladys Langton, Jean Hammond and Mrs. I. Butler; needle and thread race, Misses Marion Wood and Alberta Frost; shoe kicking, Miss Gladys Rutherford; three-legged race, Miss Gladys Langton and Mrs. R. Kitchen; hopping relay, Misses Alberta Frost, Zetta Wood, Marion Wood, and Mrs. R. Kitchen; weavers' relay, Misses Zetta Wood, Marion Wood, Alberta Frost, and Mesdames R. Kitchen, A. Roseborough, and S. Rowe.

HE'S BACK AGAIN.

Young Peterborough got a thrill out of a very old sensation today when an Italian organ grinder, monkey and all, paid the city a visit. His coming was a link with the past, with the old days when several of these wandering musicians used to come to town every year.

CASE ENLARGED.

A former Peterborough man, now living in Toronto, was arraigned before Magistrate Campbell in police court today, charged with being drunk. He was arrested last night by Police Constable Leo Murphy after a disturbance in the Capitol Cafe. Magistrate Campbell remarking that the man did not seem to be sober yet, remanded him until Monday.

Don't Handle Dogs In Hot Weather

Dr. Thos. Johnston, Human Society Inspector, reports that there are still a number of animals not being given sufficient water, food or protection to prevent suffering during the hot weather.

The Society asks the cooperation of dog owners to see that they are not tied too short and that they are given fresh water and given shelter from the sun. Dogs should not be handled during hot weather.

There in an infectious disease among cats which causes terrible sores and the Society would appreciate such cases reported so they can be destroyed and thus prevent further cass developing.

Boys have been warned about using air guns to shoot birds. This practice is forbidden and they will be punished.

An owner that left a calf in car in the boiling hot sun all afternoon was severely reprimanded.

The Ontario S.P.C.A. has received assurance from the deputy minister of Game and Fisheries that the law prohibiting keeping animals at gas stations will soon be in force which will help the local society with this problem.

Peterborough Humane Society report for the month of July: Dogs brought to shelter, 14; dogs destroyed, 14; dogs destroyed for city since May, 86; cats brought to shelter, 11; cats destroyed, 9; cats given out to homes, 2; animals ex. (cattle, sheep, pigs), 75; complaints investigated, 15; warnings issued, 10; emergency calls, 25; stables inspected, 2; telephone calls, 300.

Speaker Tells Of Fishing In Coast Waters

"I think there ought to be a closed season, not only on fish, but on luncheon speakers," declared Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson when he launched on a fishing talk that held lunching Kiwanians at rapt attention. "None of you want to listen to them in hot weather, and none of them want to speak to you."

But if most speakers find difficulty in capturing their audience's attention, Canon Robertson was the exception for he had before him a group of men to whom his subject, salmon fishing on the Atlantic and Pacific coast waters, was an absorbing one. He even found there two members who had fished salmon. When the first settlers came to Eastern Canada from Europe they found a familiar friend in the Atlantic salmon, which was the same fighting fish with the same habits as those of their own land, he said. But those who went to the Pacific found a different fish, still called a salmon, but of widely different habits, growing to huge proportions.

In his native Ireland he knew "scarcely a spot of water where you could drop a salmon fly without paying heavy toll," he said. All fishing for salmon there is done on private preserves, and is a costly sport.

His first experience with salmon fishing came on a trout fishing expedition in the Maritimes many years ago. He told of the fish striking the fly and said, "I went mad from that day forth. If you've caught salmon trout in Nova Scotia or New Brunswick, then any other fish holds very little interest for you."

Salmon fishing in New Brunswick is an expensive game, he told. In some parts of the province the fee as one days fishing is as high as $25, and much of the water is leased by wealthy Americans. After the speaker had concluded his address, Kiwanian W. A. Richardson substantiated that figure when he said the rental a friend paid for a fishing lease in New Brunswick was $2,500 a season.

Just why a salmon trout strikes at a fly, dry or wet, is a mystery, Canon Robertson related. It is not for food because his stomach has contracted when he left the ocean to such an extent he would be unable to swallow. But strike they will, and unlike the muskie, a miss does not mean the fish will not return to the attack, he said.

Greatest thrill of all fishing came in British Columbia, on the Campbell River, on Vancouver Island, when he hooked the most famous breed of all the game salmon trout at a time of year when few were catching fish at all, he said.

Hot Off Fleet St. Presses

From the presses of Fleet St., London, to the streets of Montreal, Canada, sums up the story of this photograph. The London Daily Express, with the ink still literally wet, and but 20 hours old, being read at Boucherville, Que., by S. J. Hungerford, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, and Philip G. Johnson, vice-president, in charge of operations, Trans-Canada Air Lines. These were brought over on the Mercury on its first test flight from the British Isles.

Charges Subversive Elements Organized In Peterborough

In Peterborough there are organized groups who do not believe in freedom of speech, of the press, or of assembly, but owe allegiance to dictatorship, either fascist or communist, charged Gordon Powell, industrial relations officer of the Peterborough Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement, at a campfire meeting at the home of George Royea, Park street south, on Thursday evening.

Powell asked that youth take an interest in the solution of such problems "as a common sense issue, and not wait as some of the youth of Europe, until they would be asked to make a choice which could not be settled by common sense but only by recourse to arms." He thought a little personal sacrifice perhaps a few nights a month, and a little money, and a good deal of study, would surely be a worthwhile investment in democracy.

"Education for youth must be in the gradual assumption of the responsibilities of citizenship and in our society; obeying and ruling must be consciously fused into one," he declared.

Suggesting that now if ever was a time for thinking and education, and especially as applied to the state, he stressed the need for such an organization among the youth of Canada to spread economic education rather than propaganda.

The modern state raises its young only to tell them there is no work when they grow to manhood. "Our politicians speak very much of duties to the state, but say very little of duties of the state," he said. The C.C.Y.M. should attempt to put into practical application the knowledge it has gained and not be content to point to the shortcomings of the present system without moving to rectify them.

11 Farms Visited Crop Competition

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 23. — Eleven farms were visited this week in connection with the oat crop competition which is held annually by the Department of Agriculture. The fields were visited by J. Baker of Hampton, Ontario, in company with secretary of the Seymour Agricultural Society, G. G. Stephens. The crops are judged on a basis of freedom from weeds and other grains, general appearance, purity, development of the head and quality. The first prize is $16.00, and other prizes totaling $75.00 will be given. The farms of this district that were entered in the competition were: Messrs. G. Curle, A. H. McKelvie, Thomas Dunham, Roy Oliver, James Umphries, Clarence Woof, William Ross, Wilfred Todd, Percy Oddie, John Rannie, and Albert Stephens.

Army Worms Infest Norwood Oat Field

Army worms in a small field of oats north of Arthur Brethen's farm at Norwood was examined by Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative on Friday, and instructions given as to how they should be combatted.

"That's the only case I have been called to look at," Mr. Paterson said to-day, "so I feel sure there is nothing serious about the situation. Of course, if there were many fields like the one north of Mr. Brethen's farm, it would be serious. Some of the worms were also seen in one of Mr. Brethen's fields, but they didn't amount to much."

Tough Pedalling

WINNIPEG, July 23.—(CP)—Albert E. Neal of Fort William, Ont., pedalled 400 miles from Fort William to Winnipeg en route to Southwestern Manitoba where he will seek work in Manitoba harvest fields. He reported the Trans-Canada Highway in excellent condition for cars but not so good for cycling.

Reckless Driving Case Heard

A charge of reckless driving against Fergus Condin was the chief item on the docket in Saturday police court this morning before Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell.

The case is the aftermath of a collision on the Lakefield road when cars driven by Condin and James Monaghan crashed into each other near Nassau. Monaghan was tried on a similar charge a few days ago and was convicted and fined $10 by Magistrate E. A. Gee, whereupon W. J. Arthur Fair, who represented Condin, urged that since Magistrate Gee had not reserved judgment on the first case that some other magistrate should hear the charge against Condin.

The evidence heard this morning was much the same as in the other case, except that James Monaghan was called as a witness against Condin.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Driver Gets 7 Days For Drunk Driving

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, July 23. — A resident of Toronto named Reid was given a sentence of seven days, and costs, amount to $22.05, when he appeared before Magistrate Campbell of Port Hope in the local court on Friday. He was charged with being intoxicated while in charge of a car. His licence was also suspended for seven days.

Charges of criminal negligence and drunken driving were preferred against a man named Clark. The accused, who was involved in an accident near the Village of Minden on July 12, in which Mr. and Mrs. S. Howard of Toronto were injured, faced these charges as the result of investigations by Provincial Constable Taylor of Minden. The trial was not completed on Friday because of the enforced absence of Mr. Howard, who is still suffering from serious injuries.

A movement is on foot among local Conservatives to tender a banquet to Cecil Frost, K.C., who has been elected president of the Ontario Conservative Association.

Toronto Drug Store Looted of $200

TORONTO, July 23.—(CP).— At closing time late last night, two gunmen held up Sadlier's drug store in suburban East York and grabbed $200 from the cash register. A clerk, woman and messenger were forced to lie face down on the floor during the robbery.

In their getaway in a stolen car, which they left outside the store with lights out, the pair collided with another car but kept going, abandoning their car a few blocks away. The windshield was broken and blood stained, as though a head had crashed through it, arousing suspicions one of the robbers was injured in the collisio

Police Enquiry Scope Is Curtailed

"This matter has now passed out of the hands of the City Council, and I think it should be left to Mr. Frost to decide whether he thinks these people should be subpoenaed," was the advice of W. F. Huycke, city solicitor, to the Legal Committee of the Council respecting an application by Joseph Wheeler for seven or eight more witnesses to be called for the inquiry into local police matters by Judge Deroche of Belleville next Wednesday.

Mr. Huycke informed the committee that Mr. Wheeler, former police constable, had previously submitted a list of the witnesses he wished to be subpoenaed for the inquiry. That duty was carried out, but recenlty Mr. Wheeler had asked for others to be called, and Mr. Huycke referred the application to the committee for their decision. And the committee accepted Mr. Huycke's suggestion that because C. E. Frost, K.C., of Lindsay had been appointed by the Council to assist in the inquiry, the question of subpoenaing any other persons propsed by Mr. Wheeler be left with Mr. Frost.

Alderman Gordon, chairman of the committee, read a letter from H. L. Garner, managing director of the Peterborough Examiner with respect to the complaint he had made to the Police Commission last January to the effect that Chief Newhall had interfered with Keith Copping in the performance of his reportorial duties. Since the January correspondence Mr. Copping had taken up other work and has been living for some time in Calgary. In his recent letter of July 13 to the City Council, Mr. Garner wrote that he was prepared to give every assistance to Mr. Frost so that he would be in a position to subpoena witnesses he might need to bring out the facts.

"The Examiner should not be asked to assume the role of public prosecutor and bear the expense itself," Mr. Garner contended, calling attention to the lapse of time since January and the fact that Mr. Copping had moved to Calgary. He said he was primarily concerned with the right of an employee of a newspaper to facility in serving the public, and acknowledged that in recent months no complaint could be made in that respect against Chief Newhall and that routine co-peration by the police force was splendid.

Not Withdrawing Charges.

"I am not withdrawing my charges," Mr. Garner concluded, "but inasmuch as the situation complained of has been so markedly improved, I see no need for carrying this matter any further."

Alderman McIntyre asked whether the Council would have decided to go ahead with an inquiry into police administration if that letter had been received earlier in the proceedings.

"Yes," Alderman Gordon replied, "the Wheeler charges alone would have to be investigated for the satisfaction of all concerned. It is up to the Council to decide whether we want Copping to be brought back."

Some time ago the Council had expressed opposition to that course and had limited the expense of the inquiry to $350. Their former attitude was confirmed in a resolution by Alderman Cotton, seconded by Mayor Hamilton, affirming that the Council would take no action to have Mr. Copping come to Peterborugh."

The motion carried, and Alderman Gordon remarked that he was concerned about not spending to much of the people's money.

"As this matter is now out of the Council's hands," Mr. Huycke remarked, "we can simply have Mr. Frost read Mr. Garner's letter and, of course, inform of the action taken by the Council."

Sudden Death Of Toronto Man

Death Friday brought to a tragic end a happy outing for a Toronto family in Anstruther township, ten miles north of Apsley, when George Dane, of 16 Kenneth avenue, Toronto, died suddenly from heart failure.

Mr. Dane had been spending a holiday in a summer cottage not far from Eel's Creek with his wife and five children and was to have returned to the Queen City Monday.

Friday he was engaged with his eldest son in building a roof over a lean-to kitchen when he suddenly remarked he was not feeling very well. He sat down on the platform of a well and then collapsed and died.

Mr. Dane was 51 years of age and was a tool and die maker with the Aluminum Company of Canada.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young was notified and he and Provincial Constable David Silvester investigated the case and decided death was due to natural causes.

Canadian Legion Notes

Reporting the progress of the British Imperial Comrade Association, the newly formed Peterborough branch is doing fairly well. At their last meeting on July 13, which was well attended, a petition to the King that was compiled by one of the members was read and this said petition is to be presented at the coming convention to be held at St. Catharines on August 10, 11 and 12 next.

It is expected that several members will be visiting Toronto at the Corps Re-union to attend the Imperial Veterans' banquet to be held at Exhibition Grounds.

The boys seemed very enthusiastic about the new branch and its future possibilities. Several new members were enrolled, and it is expected that a full membership will be on hand at their next meeting, which will be held in the Legion Hall on July 27, for the complete election of officers.

The entries for the lawns and garden competition are now in and the inspection will take place very shortly, so it behooves all to be ready as no notice will be given of the visit of the judges.

Many requests have come from members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to have another picnic. It is likely that another will be arranged on a more ambitious scale than the last one, (in an enclosed park if possible).

Death has again been busy during the past week and the Legion flag has been at half mast twice, for Comrade C. Hardwicke the first part of the week and at present for Comrade P. Brown. Neither of the deceased were members of the Legion, but it is a rule of the branch that the flag shall fly at half mast on the death of any ex-service man in the district, member or non-member. The funeral of Comrade Brown will be conducted by the ex-service men of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club. There will be a bearer party of three Imperial and three Canadian ex-service men.

Motorists Fined At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 23. — For infractions of the local traffic by-laws six citizens paid fines ranging from $2.00 to $10.00 in Police Court here on Friday afternoon. Defective brakes brought down a fine of $10.00, and costs, on one motorist, while one paid $2.00, and costs, for having defective lights, and four others were levied the same amount for failing to observe the stop streets. Chief Constable George Hardy laid all of the complaints.

Nine of the thirty-four dog owners who received summonses for unlawfully harboring a dog without having procured a licence, appeared before Magistrate Gee, the other twenty-three having either settled or made arrangements to settle out of court. Charles Seaborne, first to appear, told the Magistrate that if he could get work and raise two dollars he would use it to buy food for his family of nine. He asked for a jail sentence, claiming that there were no prospects of work. Asked how he could afford to feed the dog he revealed that he got bones from the butcher shops for nothing. The case was adjourned for two weeks.

Similar charges against Charles McCoy and Joseph Waters were also adjourned when it was found they were not in town. Charles Bailey, next to appear, was said to have a "disappearing dog." "He had one last year when I visited the house," said the assessor, "and when he was assessed for it the animal disappeared when the summons for non-payment reached him. He is making the same claim again this year," put in the assessor, when Bailey told the

Civic Dinner Planned To Hon. P. Dewan

Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Government, will be invited to be the dinner guest of the city on the occasion of his engagement to open the Peterborough Exhibition next month, the legal and reception committee of the council decided last night.

Alderman Gordon, presiding, said that it was customary and fitting to extend a civic welcome to representatives of the government in making official visits of that nature. Arrangements for the dinner were left to Mayor Hamilton and Alderman Cotton.

Treasurer to Convention.

Morley E. Shaver, city treasurer, was authorized to attend a three-day convention of the Municapl Finance Officers' Association in St. Paul, Min., in August. Alderman Gordon said that practical questions relating to city financing, tax collecting and other affairs of interest to Mr. Shaver would be discussed, and the conference should be helpful to him.

A resolution by Alderman Dutton, seconded by Alderman Cotton, proposes additional work for the legal committee in the holding of more frequent meetings for the purpose of consulting with and advising S. A. Couper, tax collector, in regard to the collection of taxes that are in arrears. Mr. Shaver was also mentioned as one of those who would be asked to attend the meetings which, Alderman Gordon said, might be held weekly if necessary. There was no implication of criticism of the present system of tax collection in the committee's action, Alderman Gordon said. "It is simply a matter of trying to assist the tax collector in regard to arrears of taxes. There may be cases of persons living in Toronto or elsewhere who could be sued for arrears. We know they have the money, but they are slow about paying what they owe the city. There are other cases that might be dealt with in a moderate way. Members of the committee will know the circumstances of many of these people, and will be in a position to suggest what action might be taken. We put $17,000 for arrears of taxes in this year's appropriations, and it is up to us to make some special effort to see that overdue taxes are paid. In that way we could be of some help to the tax collector by advising him what steps of that kind might be taken."

It was suggested that lists of ratepayers who are in arrears should be prepared, and the committee hold meetings at which these accounts with the city could be discussed.

American beauty parlor methods may be introduced into the Netherlands.

Magistrate the animal seen by the assessor hadn't belonged to him and had been returned to another party when the summons reached him. The case was adjourned for one week.

CHAPTER 46

ON THIS Saturday afternoon people started eating supper—it was not called dinner—as early as five o'clock; and some, apparently some of the same ones, were eating on up to midnight. But at 6 p.m. practically everybody was sitting cross-legged outside, munching fresh hot barbecue, or fresh and hotter chili con carne and tamales, or any of the dozen or so other dishes that had been prepared.

The air was clean and clear with just enough early evening chill to make small campfires feel pleasant. There is a zest about thus eating outdoors before an open fire that the swankiest restaurants cannot offer.

You can stick your bread on a switch broken from the nearest shrub and toast it as you eat. If your meat gets cold, you can rewarm it between bites. Your tin cup of coffee can be set smack onto a glowing coal while you pause between sips to crack a joke or laugh at one of your friend's or applaud some gay merrymaker's song. You can gaze at the vaulted ceiling of blue and watch the earliest stars come out, and see the highly theatrical effect that your campfire blaze and sparks and illuminated smoke create against the twilight immensity. You can see faces high-lighted with warmth and happiness. New pictures, such as to defy any artist, greet you at every turn. The very trees and mountains seem to be sociable then. It is all something that cannot be duplicated at any price on, say, the roof garden of the best hotel.

In the approximate center of this big open area before Ellen's Casa Hermosa, a dozen Mexican musicians were playing soft supper music. Ellen herself sat with a bunch of Hollywood girls, two Indians, three or four shy ranch women, and Panola Montoya. They had ceased to talk, for the moment. "Ta-tum, ta-tum ta-tum-ta-tum-tum," they hummed it, following the orchestra in "La Paloma".

"I think this is just simply marvelous!" one of the Californians declared, and meant it. "Ellen, I have learned during this fiesta why you built your home away out here."

Ellen smiled her acknowledgment, and said nothing. She felt a spiritual warmth. She knew that soon the final night's dancing and hilarity would begin, but for the moment she was enjoying an infinite peace. Except that she wondered, every few minutes, where Bill was. She wished he would come and sit with her, and tell her guests some of the western yarns he told so well. But then— she couldn't complain, or be selfish; certainly he had taken the burden of the fiesta off her shoulders, had been for her a marvelous host. She left the blanket on which she had been sitting, and walked around a bit looking for Bill.

She needn't have looked. Bill Baron at that moment was nowhere on the DD ranch.

When he had driven away an hour and a half before, he had gone speeding straight to Nogales, trying to think as he rolled along. He went directly to the office of Mr. McIntyre, border patrol chief, and explained exactly what had developed at the DD fiesta.

"Why, this is the most brazen thing they've ever done!" McIntyre exclaimed, when Bill had told him. "It's—it's an affront to the United States, Baron!"

"Sure!" agreed Bill. "But right now I am not worried about Uncle Sam's dignity. I'm concerned with arresting those men and still keeping Ellen's fiesta undisturbed."

"Naturally. But— I hardly need to tell you that smugglers are danerous men."

"I know."

"Have you some plan, Baron? You know the situation there. What do you suggest?"

"Nothing very positive, I'm afraid, sir. But I think we might take a dozen or so armed officers, all drive up to the ranch in a body and take most of the men quickly without any violence. Take advantage of a surprise, early in the evening.

McIntyre gave thought to that for a moment.

"Yes," he said, eventually. "That might do. They will be on the lookout for officers when they start drifting away. If we strike now, we may catch them unprepared. Let's try it. Oh, Blake!"

He called a young officer and issued crisp commands. Ten minutes later Bill and a dozen border patrolmen were speeding back toward the DD rancho. Bill was trying to give every possible detail to the men in his car, including McIntyre, so that all might know exactly what move to make when they arrived.

"There's only one road out of the place," Bill explained. "A car turned sideways near the main gate will block that. If they take to the canyons and hills, they'll have to do it on foot, and we can use our ranch horses to ride them down. What gets me, though, is how to separate the smugglers and aliens from the honest guests."

"I hate to mess up Miss Dale's party," McIntyre admitted. "But we simply may have to raid it, hold every man who can't show he is an American citizen."

"There'll be resistance, sure as fate."

Bill was glum about it. He almost wished he had not reported his discovery, that he had let the smugglers get away without being molested at all. He owed that much to Ellen.

On the other hand—did he? Wouldn't Ellen herself want him to be a good citizen first? Wouldn't she think him remiss, as a man, if he aided smugglers just to keep a fiesta crowd undisturbed?

It never dawned on him that during the past few months he had come to make virtually every decision on a basis of how Ellen Dale would want it done.

* * *

The smuggler lookout who had seen Bill and Buckshot Brown talking, then had seen Bill hasten away in a car and Buckshot get out his long rifle, made a correct four, simply by adding two and two together. That is, he concluded that Bill's suspicions must have been aroused.

And yet, the spy had no proof. And he realized that he and his cohorts had to move cautiously. To jump to a hasty conclusion might spoil their otherwise well executed plans. He had observed Bill and Buckshot from a distance of 50 yards or so, and then had quietly gone to look up his own boss. Hundreds of people were in sight, but none right near them.

"Everything all right?" the smuggler chief asked, in Spanish.

"Maybe so; maybe not," the spy answered, meaningly.

The chief laughed aloud, as if at some joke. Then under his breath he commanded, "Get Marcial. Meet me in 20 minutes, there by that hitching rail. Bring your guitar. We pretend to sing."

They drifted apart, and the chief went smiling into Ellen's house. The spy ambled casually down by the barbecue pits where he had seen Marcial Jalisco, the smuggler's second in command, and finally gave Marcial the high sign.

The two met presently by the hitching rail, and appeared to be no more than two Mexican guests idly discussing fiesta events and singing snatches of song. They waited for their chief, and continued to wait.

"What is the trouble, anyway?" Marcial demanded, finally. "Where has he gone?"

"Where he is I cannot say," the spy answered. "He said to meet him here. We will wait. But there are suspicious movements. That Senor Baron, he has gone away. He talked with the old man, who went and got his rifle."

"Is that all?"

"Isn't it enough? Why would Baron leave the ranch now? He must suspect something!"

"We will wait for the chief."

But the smuggler chief, a striking figure in any crowd, had been surrounded by women and girls, virtually corralled by them. It was almost an hour before he could fill his appointment by the hitching rail.

DOROTHY DIX

Don't Enter a Loveless Marriage! The Time Will Come When You Will Find Your Real Mate, And Then You Will Regret Your First Trip to the Altar

DEAR MISS DIX—A certain young lady has been magnanimous enough to show me that she loves me, and, although I like her tremendously and have a profound respect for her, I do not love her. I have told her this, but she wants to get married anyway. I am not in love with any one else, never have been, and can't think of any one I would rather have for the mother of my children than her. But I am in a quandary. Should I marry this girl because she loves me and wishes to, or would I be doing her an irreparable harm by marrying her without loving her? I am quite convinced that marriage is fundamental and that it affords one a vitally necessary objective as well as a sense of security, but life is such a long time to live with a woman whom you merelylike that I am a bit doubtful and hesitant about trying it. What do you think? FRANK.

ANSWER:

I think that love is the only thing that justifies marriage. the only thing that makes it even tolerable, and that any man or woman who goes into it for any other reason whatsoever except feeling that he or she cannot live without the party of the other part is simply courting disaster.

For marriage requires so many sacrifices. It calls for self-abnegation; it crucifies many tastes; it demands the change of so many habits; it brings two people into such close companionship with each other that it takes the miracle of love to gild it and make it worth-while and to turn all of its drawbacks into pleasures.

A man gives up much when he marries. He gives up his freedom. No longer is he at liberty to roam, to engage in flirtations with pretty girls, to spend evenings with his men cronies. He must punch the home timeclock. He must spend his evenings at his own fireside. This is no hardship to him if he loves his wife. He does not crave the society of other women if he thinks his wife the most beautiful and attractive woman in the world. He is content to go domestic if he finds companionship and entertainment at home.

When a man marries virtually everything he makes goes to the support of his family. He can no longer spend his money on himself and indulge himself in the many luxuries he has enjoyed as a bachelor. Well and good if he loves his wife enough to prefer dolling her up to buying himself new golf clubs, but a hardship that makes him sore if he regards her as merely a parasite and begrudges every nickel he has to spend upon her.

Many men are flattered into marrying women they do not love by the women's devotion to them, but it is always a mistake for both parties. It brings happiness to neither, because the woman who is married to a man whom she knows doesn't love her eats her heart out in bitterness and wears herself out at the impossible task of trying to light a fire without kindling. The woman who has no allure for a man before marriage has even less charm for him after marriage.

Nor is the man happy in a loveless marriage. He is restless and dissatisfied because marriage hasn't brought him what he desired. He compares his wife invidiously with every attractive woman he meets, and possibly without knowing it or intending it he is always seeking his mate. And generally he finds her when it is too late to bring anything but tragedy to him and his wife and the "other woman." In these days when every man is thrown in society and business into close contact with young, clever and pretty girls, he needs the protection of his love for his wife to keep him from temptation, so it is a hazardous thing for any man to marry a woman for whom he has merely a lukewarm liking and respect.

Don't think you are doing any girl a kindness to marry her just because she has set her heart upon you. It is the greatest cruelty you could inflict upon her. Keep away from her and give her a chance to get over her infatuation. She will recover and marry some man who will adore her and cherish her instead of merely enduring her.

* * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am wrestling with the problem of a philandering husband. If I relinquish all my rights as a wife and make a star boarder of him, as you suggested in a recent article, am I not helping him along in his degradation? Am I not a quitter, as he is? Is he entitled to the comforts of a home and an atmosphere of decency for the time which he may choose to spend there if he does nothing but pay for it? How about the influence on the children of a father who does exactly what he pleases? Do these men who take so lightly their family obligations ever come back, having learned their lesson? A READER.

ANSWER:

The problem of the philandering husband is one that no wife can settle without heartbreak, no matter what course she takes. Her choice is the choice between evils, and I think that she makes the better one in a case where there are children when she decides to keep her home together at any cost to herself.

If a husband has broken his marriage vows and been unfaithful to his wife, that's that. She can't undo the wrong that has been done her, but I do not see how she helps him along in his degradation by living under the same roof with him and thereby keeping her home together and putting up a show of family unity to the world.

She keeps her children from having their lives disrupted by being torn between their parents and forced to espouse one side or the other. She keeps their name from being dragged through the scandal of divorce. She gives them a better chance in the world than they would have if their mother and father separated.

I do not think that the woman who does this is a quitter. I think she is a heroic soldier in the battle of life who stands at her post and fights to the death to defend her children and save her home.

And very often she wins out. For in thousands of cases a man's infatuation for some pretty young woman passes and he returns from his wanderings to his wife a chastened and wiser man who is never even tempted to roam again. As long as you have your husband under the same roof with you you have a hold upon him, but if you turn him out of the door you have lost that and you lose him to the "other woman." DOROTHY DIX

Dance Your Way to Social Success

Do the Correct Ballroom Shag

Are you a jitterbug? Have you lost your heart and feet to "swing"?

Even at a formal dance, it's not necessary to wait till everyone's doing the shag. Feel free as a bird to introduce it whenever you like.

But remember, the ballroom shag is a bit different from the kind danced in the Big Apple.

For the sake of lightness, dance high on the balls of the feet. For greater freedom, keep a little distance from your partner. Don't swing feet out and around but try to get as smooth an effect as you can.

Practice the double shag, shown in the diagram: (1) Step on left foot. (2) Hop on left foot, touching right toe back of left foot. (3) Jump lightly to right foot. (4) Hop on right foot, touching left toe back of right foot. (5) Take small light jump to left foot. (6) Small light jump to right foot.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, July 24

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is not an entirely propitious one, as there are disintegrating and disruptive situations to menace some very auspicious and promising conditions. There may be intrigue or treachery, but with caution and the support of very wise friends there may be benefits through writings or speculative enterprises.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year in which there may be much profit through speculation, by means of writings or kindred subjects. But there also are signs of treachery and possibly a bereavement offsetting very favorable auguries.

A child born on this day may be particularly versatile, quick, ambitious and energetic, rising in life through its initiative, energy and the co-operation of solid friends.

For Monday, July 25

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is a rather hazardous one, especially where money is concerned, although matters may move at rather high pressure and with telling initiative. The danger is from bad loans or a tendency to plunge into untried enterprises.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very active and enterprising year, with the energies and faculties under highly-creative urges. Where projects are of sound merit, the support and co-operation of superiors, friends and capital are assured, but be wise in making loans and assuming debts.

A child born on this day may be energetic, talented, enterprising and ambitious, and may succeed in practical and constructive lines. But it may be easy with money and run into debt.

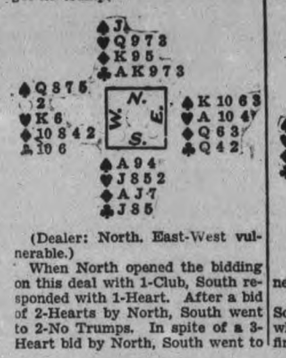
BACK YOUR JUDGMENT

EVEN IF the suit is weak, a major contract with four trumps each in your own hand and dummy usually is preferable to no trump, especially if one of the two holdings is made up of unbalanced distribution containing a singleton. When you have bid a weak four-carder and your partner has supported it a couple of times, you can be doubly sure that he has enough trumps for safety and should forget no trump.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

When North opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Club, South responded with 1-Heart. After a bid of 2-Hearts by North, South went to 2-No Trumps. In spite of a 3-Heart bid by North, South went to 3-No Trumps. His insistence on No Trump was due to the fact that he felt North could not realize how weak the suit really was.

He made a mistake by taking the contract into no trump, for a spade was led and won with East's K. This was followed by the spade 10 and then the 6, which South won with the A. He tried the club finesse and, when that failed, two more spades were lost.

Had South allowed the hand to play in hearts, only three tricks would have been lost.

Goodnight Story

KNARF TOOK Hanid by the hand and hurried with her as quickly as he could down the path in the zoo. The animals were in their cages on both sides of the path. They were looking for the polar bear.

"There's the giraffe over there," Knarf said. "We'll ask him. He's so tall that he can look all over the zoo. He'll know where the polar bear is."

Then they hurried on.

When they reached the giraffe's cage, however, they found that the giraffe had a sore throat. "Where is the polar bear's cage, please?" they asked him.

"It's . . . gr-rumph, gr-rumph, gr-RUMPH—" he coughed.

They couldn't understand him at all. "Thank you, Mr. Giraffe," said Hanid. "I'm sure we'll be able to find him. You ought to gargle with medicine. It must be very uncomfortable to have a sore throat."

"Especially when it's so big," added Knarf.

Finally they decided to go over and talk to the parrot, who was sitting on a high perch in its own cage on the other side of the lawn. Parrot Is Friendly.

"Come in! Come in!" the parrot invited them when Knarf and Hanid came near. "There's lots of room in my cage for both of you."

"We don't care to come into your cage," Knarf said. "We only want to konw where we can find the polar bear."

"What do you want with him?"

"We want him to give us his skin so we can give it to the Tin Soldier who guards the door of the children's playroom. As soon as he gets it he's going to give it to Miss China Doll, whom he likes very much. She wants it to lay down in front of the fireplace in her private doll house."

"H'mm,' said the parrot, cocking its head to one side. "You'll find him just around the corner in a big cage with rocks and a pool in it." And with that it flew up to the top of its cage and turned its back on them. Then they hurried off to the polar bear's cage.

A most enjoyable social evening was spent in connection with Grace Presbyterian church on Wednesday, when the Ladies' Aid Society acted as hostess organization for a gathering in honor of Miss Jean Bothwell, whose marriage to Mr. William Todd, of Frankford, takes place at high noon on Saturday, July 23 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bothwell, of Millbrook.

Mrs. J. R. Thompson, president of the hostess society, took the chair, just prior to the arrival of the guest of honor, and as Miss Bothwell entered the door, escorted by Miss Muriel Ball, the strains of "O Canada", which all had been singing, were changed to those of the Wedding March played by Miss Ruth Thorndyke, who presided at the piano.

A central aisle lined with evergreens had been arranged, leading to the platform, and after the guest of the evening had been conducted along this to the front of the large room, Miss Ball read an appreciative address; the curtains were then drawn by Misses Ethel Belch and Mary Eakins, revealing an arch of evergreens intertwined with red roses and white hydrangeas, centered with a large white wedding bell, under which Miss Jean was seated, and presented with a miscellaneous shower, artistically arranged on tables either side of the arch, each being covered with a dainty lace cloth.

Expressing her thanks in a few well-chosen words, the guest of honor was assisted in opening the many parcels by the two girls who had drawn the curtains apart, fine linen, silver, pyrex articles, and many other things both lovely and useful, being included in the shower.

Following the singing of "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow", homemade candy was served, and a pleasant social hour enjoyed before the guests left for home.

We Noticed

....How charmingly effective were the twin knitted suits worn by two pretty maidens yesterday. One was of lettuce green worn with yellow sandals...the other of yellow, with smart little sandals of green.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Effective, too, was the gay linen dress striped in red, green, black and white which was worn by someone else. A big-brimmed hat of natural straw completed the ensemble.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Noticed in a dress shop was a blue silk linen suit, the color of unwashed denim. It had a self-applique of small flowers outlined in white on the collar, and a jacket lined with a tiny flower print.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Dress corsages and hair ornaments of field daisies, white or pink roses and other common garden varieties...flowers such as you may grow in your own back lot...have the spotlight this season.

Birds Love A Bird Bath

Birds love the bird bath just as boys love the old swimimng hole. They may be coaxed into your garden with water bait. Any dish, about five inches deep will serve as a bird bath. The inexpensive cement ones are artistic with their pedestal and bowl with its graded depths.

Place the birdbath where it may be seen from the window or porch and far enough removed that the birds will not fear to use it. For protection against cats place it in the open or surround it with thorny shrubbery, as barberry bushes. Place a few stones in the bottom of the basin with something projecting out of the water, as in a shallow brook. This makes the birds feel safer and is better for small birds. On hot days you may have to fill the basin more than once. Wash it out occasionally.

Tunic Dress

A tunic dress for dinner dates is very distinctive, especially for dining in those smart outdoor places, under the moon—or electric lights, as happens.

A horizontal patterned lace in scallop effect is one of the popular lace patterns chosen for daytime as well as evening fashions.

This gown, which is an excellent choice for cruise and summer dinner dates, is made in two pieces with the tunic-length jacket top. The pastel color of the lace is set off by the bright contrast of the velvet collars and little cuffs. It was designed by Patricia Perkins of Los Angeles.

Guard Rights Married Folk

BOSTON, July 23 (CP)—Delegates from the Massachusetts Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in session at Swampscott voted unanimously to oppose legislation that would discriminate against the employment of women, married or single, because of their sex.

That there would be such organized opposition from women in business was to be expected. They may naturally take the lead in speaking for their sisters in industry, says The Transcript editorially.

"The question is perhaps of chief interest as it relates to married women. In particular, the attempts to expel them from the public service are many and varied. Their right to a place among the teachers is challenged. Effort to bar them from other positions is on foot. But even the most active of their opponents make a distinction between those who need the work and those whose husbands are supposed to be able to support them.

"Therein lies a difficulty in applying a policy of exclusion. How are the standards of living which shall decide the question to be determined? That is one among many perplexities which present themselves. Is it right, in principle at least, to debar a married woman from teaching school if her sister who is practising law has a prosperous husband? There are male members of the bar and unmarried women lawyers who are patiently waiting for clients.

"This proposal to shut off the earning power of married women, not to mention discrimination against the unmarried, invites discussion. It is not to be settled on the mere assertion that there is a deserving applicant for every vacancy so created. The business and professional women may be expected to present their side of the case in a manner to obtain for it the attention it deserves."

Saucer Hats Are Saucy in Summer

NEW YORK, July 23.—As a successor to the crownless chapeau of last summer smart American and French milliners have introduced miniature hats—variously called "doll" hats, "fun" hats or just "discs". Saucer-sized (literally), these are worn exaggeratedly aslant by women who would like to go bareheaded during the hot months but who know good and well that nobody looks truly chic without a hat.

However, in addition to the comfort of "doll" hats, there's another importaont reason for their popularity. They are flattering to practically everyone.

If you need one more hat to see you through the summer season, consider a little disc in felt or straw trimmed with a plain band or a cluster of flowers, as you prefer. Perch it precariously to the right, to the left or straight across your forehead and place the ribbon backband high or low, depending on your coiffure and the shape of your head. It it improves the shape of your costume or your comfort, you can wear it over a shood of wide mesh or even a handkerchief beandeau.

One of the most attractive "fun" hats, modelled by pretty Joy Hodges comes in rough straw and is finished with a pompom. Another is trimmed with a narrow roll of white pique around the flat crown, and would be nice with sports clothes —even beach wear.

Among the flowered discas is one of rough straw in golden wheat with a cluster of blue forget-me-nots covering the crown. A white straw number, for afternoon and semi-dressy occasions, is entirely covered with blossoms of white narcissus with pale yellow centres. Both of these are expensive.

Slightly higher priced is a miniature bowler of black felt with a veil which floats beshind as you walk. And, at a luncheon recently we saw a wonderful miniature Breton, also a black felt, with an ashes- of-roses bird poised as if for flight right in the centre of the shallow crown. The wearer had it tipped forward at such a sharp angle over her right eye that almost none of her upswept coiffure was concealed.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Man is not the creature of circumstances, circumstances are the creatures of men. We are free agents, and man is more powerful than matter." —Disraeli.

"Circumstances are things "Round About"; we are IN them, not under them." —Landor.

Dear Friends:

This is an article requested by "Bruno". Now, often we make our own circumstances. We think that certain conditions in our lives will go on forever, especially if we are comfortable, then in the course of events when they are changed, we complain about bad circumstances.

Altho' we are in a constant state of change, men hate changes. They crave a little diversion, but we are all inclined to dig a little hollow for ourselves and burrow into it, hoping the changing seasons and times will not find us.

We build homes or rent them, we marry and bring children into the world, we plan and work and pray, and then something at the far end of the world with which we have nothing to do happens, and throws our whole scheme out of control.

When we are fairly comfortable we think this will last, we are never really taught the true value of money as related to our self-respect, as regards our advancement in life, in reference to the humiliations we suffer when we are without it.

Yet, if we are to survive we ought to learn that value early. None of us can afford to be contemptuous of money, yet who ever stops to tell us that. We don't want to make a god of it, but it is a very necessary good. Many times we see that money is the root of all evil, but it really reads "The LOVE of money is the root of all evil."

I know personally, I can do better work, I can help others more, I can be more cheerful, more happy, more everything that is good when I am not worried by the lack of money.

And, God knows there is plenty of it in the world unequally divided maybe, but whose fault is that? In the eleventh century an Emperor in China did what all communists, and fascists, and socialists and all the other ists have been howling for so long.

He took all the wealth of China and divided it equally amongst all the people. What happened? Those who knew the value of money had it all back within ten short years. The others complained of circumstances.

And it is high time we were learned that value. Then we would not complain so much about circumstances, we would know enough to hang on to our share of it for our comfort and pleasure. What to do about it now, is to realize that as our circumstances have changed from good to bad, they can be changed again from bad to good.

We ourselves may need to change, for these things are outside of us, and maybe by our use of the Divine power God gave us, we can change the things that lie outside ourselves.

Be alert, do your best today, then you will be better able to cope with tomorrow. Look for cracks and little holes in circumstance through which you can crawl to better things. Look for stepping places from which you can climb over. You can't lie back and do nothing if you want to live.

But, oh how I hate the horridness of trying to get the best of these things without any seeming result. How I hate to have my hands bleed and my knees skinned trying to force a way through or climb over. We may be more powerful, but circumstances can get us down.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Autumn Outfit

Stripes are decorating the beaches this season. Stripes also will gladden the autumn scene.

For instance, Bette Davis, noted screen star, has chosen an afternoon suit of navy blue, and combined with it a blouse in watermelon red, buttercup yellow, brown and white. The lining of her jacket is also of this bright striped material.

Bette has chosen a tiny pill-box had to wear with this suit. It has a flowing veil and is accented with yellow and white daisies.

Her bag and shoes are of navy calf. The awkward length of the jacket sleeves, which shows several inches of the blouse, is a very new style note.

Beach Clothes Are Colorful

THE SO-CALLED "sport of kings" seems to be occupying the attention of the society columns recently. Racing is always a favorite sport at this time of year.

Nevertheless, swimming and beach lounging are also pretty much in the limelight, and beach and play clothes still cannot be ignored. Shop windows are gay with the cleverest little swim suits and all the necessary paraphernalia that goes down to the sea, lake, river or swimmin' hole.

For gay beach wear what do you think of the silk and lastex one-piece suit shown here? It has a hand-blocked jungle print on a white ground. With it is worn a dramatically hunge crinoline hat with turned back brim on which some bright flowers are appliqued, and a bandana to keep the uplift coiffure tidy.

Also take notice of the attractive shell-shaped beach bag.

Stripes for Play.

Possibly not so eye-compelling, but most delightful, nevertheless, is the striped silk shirting play suit worn by Rosemary Lane in her California flower garden. The shirtwaist idea is carried out in the top of the suit, which has a yoke, turnover collar, short sleeves, and buttons down the front. The shorts are not so short, and they are nicely wide, and there is a matching cape.

Colors that are being worn by well dressed women on the beaches include pink—a great favorite. Medium and light blue and white prints in spun rayon are also frequently chosen, and dark with white is a general theme.

As a general thing, the more color the better, the clothes they are wearing would indicate. Several colors may be combined. At one fashionable resort, however, almost all the younger set wore pink in bathing suits, sweaters, shorts, and even slacks.

MUST PAY FOR FUN

TOTTERIDGE, England — (CP). —Confetti - throwers will cost the groom an extra guinea fee at St. Andrew's Church here, the vicar has announced,

Gladys Ephgrave Is Saturday Bride

Ferns, palms, and quantities of summer flowers decorated the Gospel Hall on McDonnel street for the wedding at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon of Gladys Edith Charlotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ephgrave, Leahy's Lane, who was united in marriage to Thomas Wilbert Leslie, son of Mrs. Brien and the late T. W. Brien, 669 Reid street. The ceremony was performed by Evangelist Wm. Belch of Stirling.

Throughout the marriage service wedding music was supplied by Mrs. Vince Millen, and during the signing of the register Mrs. Jack McConnel sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white satin, fashioned in princess style, with a satin upright collar, and long sleeves pointed at the wrist. Her white net veil, which was appliqued in satin, fell from a headdress of orange blossoms and lily of the valley, and formed a short train. She carried a wedding bouquet of pink bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

Miss Grace Ephgrave attended her sister, wearing a princess style gown of blue organdie over blue satin. She wore white accesories, and carried blue bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

The best man was Cecil Brien, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Charles Norton and Mr. George Meeks.

A reception was held in the basement of the hall following the ceremony, and the bride's mother welcomed the guests in a gown of navy sheer with accessories of white.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Ephgrave left for a motor trip to Muskoka, the bride travelling in a pale blue organdie dress, with white coat, and white accessories. On their return the couple will live at Leahy's Lane.

World Council of Y.W.C.A. Meets in Canada

A most interesting and representative group of women will attend the World's Council meetings of the Y.W.C.A. to be held September 7 to 17 at Elgin House, Muskoka. Miss C. M. Van Asch Van Wijck, world president of the Y.W.C.A., will come from Holland and Miss Ruth Woodsmall, world general secretary, will attend from Geneva.

Among the countries sending delegates are Australia, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Egypt, Estonia, France, Great Britain, Hungary, India, Jamaica, Malaya, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, New Zealand, United States, and Canada.

The American delegates will include Mrs. Austin L. Kimball, president of the U.S.A., Mrs. Frederic M. Paist and Mrs. Harrie Chamberlin, while Canada's three voting delegates will be Miss Greta Finley, Montreal, Mrs. W .H. Lugsdin, Toronto, and Mrs. C. T. McHattie, Vancouver.

Following these world meetings there will be two International conferences, one at Elgin House, September 19 to 22, and one at Spokane, Washington, October 7 to 10. These will be open to a much larger group. Those taking an active part will include Miss Van Asch Van Wijck, Miss Sosa Matthew, India, Miss Julia Matouska of Czechoslovakia, Mrs. C. de J. Luxmoore, of England, Mrs. Jno. French, New York ,and many others.

MARRIED

The marriage of Alice Evelyn Drain, elder daughter of Mrs. Hannah Drain, Simcoe street, to George Robert Douglas Hall, son of Mr. J. W. F. Hall and the late Mrs. Hall of Bennett street, was solemnized on Saturday, July 9, at Jarvis Street Seminary, Rev. T. T. Shields officiating.

IN MEMORIAM

DAVIS. — In loving memory of a dearly beloved Husband and Father, who passed away on July 23, 1937.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you;
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear husband,
That we do not think of you.
To those who have a husband or Father:
Treasure him with care,
You will never know his value
Till you see his vacant chair.

—Sadly missed by Wife and Family, Mrs. Harry F. Davis.

LYNCH.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Pilot Ray J. Lynch, killed in plane crash July 24, 1937.

You will remain as sweet as the red roses in June, dear;
I love you, we need you, we do.
But out of that blue sky—a dark cloud came rolling,
Breaking our hearts in two; so now we are alone.
With fond remembrance of you, Pet.

—Forever missed by your Wife and Sisters.

Elgin Sponsors Successful Church Outing

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 23.—The Elgin school grounds, a few miles from the village of Hastings, presented a gala scene on Wednesday, July 20, it being the occasion of the annual social sponsored by the Elgin Sunday school. The beautiful white clad tables with their dainty edibles were set on the school grounds where a corps of energetic ladies were at work. People came from far and near and the crowd was exceptionally large.

A friendly game of baseball was played between the Clerks of Hastings and Elgin. Although the score of 9-3 was piled up in favor of the Clerks. Both players and spectators enjoyed the game.

During the evening a draw was made to decide who would attend the Toronto Exhibition at the expense of Dr. Andrew McGee, a former resident of Elgin. Harold Stinson and Gerald Metcalfe of Elgin will be the guests of Dr. McGee.

The following program was then enjoyed: Chairman's address by Henry Thistlewaite, superintendent of the Sunday school; welcome address by Robert Stinson; solo, Miriam Newell of Hastings; recitation, Albert Thistlewaite; recitation, Phyllis Ointment; solo, Miss Ruth McCreadie of Campbellford; address, Rev. F. W. Newell of Hastins; solo, Miss Lila Kirk of Norwood; solo, Victor Scriver of Hastings; reading, Miss Olga Metcalfe of Norwood; address by Harry Wildman, superintendent of the Donegal Sunday school; piano solo, Miss Mary Puffer of Hastings; recitation, Miss Kate German of Hastings; duet, Miss Ferne Preston and Mrs. J. R. Scriver of Hastings; male trio, Messrs. Bongard, J. Stewart and Dewart McNealey of Norwood.

28 Spanish Nuns Flee Barcelona

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—Twenty-eight Spanish nuns, indebted largely to British officials and United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy for permission to depart from bomb-harried Barcelona, are expected in London today.

When the Ambassador placed his three daughters in the Sacred Heart Convent at Roehampton last April, the Mother Superior told him of the death in Spain of six members of the Order and besought his assistance for others who wished to leave Barcelona.

Kennedy explained he could do nothing officially but would try as a private citizen. At the British Foreign Office he enlisted the aid of Viscount Halifax, the Foreign Secretary, who approached the Spanish government.

The British Home Office also helped Kennedy and the arrangement was completed on assurances to the Spanish government that the nuns would not return to Spain or help the Spanish insurgents.

A British admiral also helped, sending the destroyer Hero to Barcelona to get the party which was expected to reach Marseille Thursday night.

Strategic Kiukiang Seen Doomed

SHANGHAI, July 23 — (AP). — Foreign military observers predicted to-day the imminent Japanese capture of Kiukiang, whose defences have been battered by three weeks of relentless bombing.

Authoritative information was that Japanese warships were able to approach Kiukiang, strategic city 135 miles down the Yangtse river from Hankow, whenever desired to deliver the final assault with planes and ships.

For the capitulation of Kiukiang, the next phase of the war would extend 30 miles upriver to a boom between Wusueh and Tienkiacheng, almost halfway to Hankow, the provisional capital.

The invaders' planes incessantly raided Chinese positions on both banks of the Yangtse while Japanese troops withstood Chinese counter attacks in villages along the narrow Japanese foothold.

The Shipping Review quoted "authoritative sources" that the Japanese aircraft carrier Notoro, 14,000 tons, was so badly damaged by Chinese shells on July 3 she had to be towed to Japan. She carried 40 planes, the paper said.

France Demonstrates Military Might For King George

Fifty thousand French troops and 300 tanks went through their paces at Versailles, as King George, dressed in the uniform of a field marshal, watched a display of military force calculated to demonstrate the solidarity of France and England in face of Fascist threats. It was the greatest military show staged by France since the hectic days of the Great War.

No Social Credit In Alberta Says Douglas

LONDON, July 23—(CP Cable).—Major C. H. Douglas, founder of the economic system known as Social Credit, to-day described as "a storm in a teacup" Wednesday night's chaotic meeting of London's Social Credit forces at which blows were struck and police were summoned.

At the meeting(John Hargrave, national leader, declared the party renounced the political leadership of Major Douglas "because he failed to seize the golden opportunity presented by the 1935 electoral victory in Alberta" and for other reasons.

Major Douglas to-day said the gathering was a purely private one in which he was in no way connected.

"Although I dropped in at the hall for a few minutes, I wasn't concerned with either side of the dispute."

Major Douglas declared there never has been a Social Credit Government in Alberta. From August, 1935, to March, 1937, there has been "a financial dictatorship working through an increasingly restive Premier."

The Present Regime.

"There is now a Social Democratic administration, with Mr. Aberhart as chief executive, which cannot govern because it is not allowed to govern, and so has set in motion forces which eventually may give it power to govern.

"There is no more chance of obtaining an electoral majority within a reasonable time for the titular Social Credit party in this country than there is for the survival of the well-known celluloid cat in hades. By the time it was elected it would have jettisoned everything that would make it effective. . . .

"I'm willing to credit even congenital party politicians with the best motives, but anyone who supposes this (financial) system can be captured by a frontal attack is either childish, ignorant of its mechanism, or a dangerous megolomanic," declared Major Douglas.

26 Lives Lost As Death's Mishap Toll

Road Crashes Kill 11 Eight Drown; 7 Children In List

TORONTO, July 25.—(CP). — Wreckage of an automobile lay today at the bottom of an isolated Northern Ontario ravine, 30 feet below a dilapidated, wooden bridge through which it crashed and only six feet from the tumbling waters of a deep creek. It carried to death E. A. Shepard, Ontario provincial police constable.

The 31-year-old policeman was one of 26 persons who died in week-end accidents in many parts of Canada. The death toll was the heaviest in one week-end so far this year. Six provinces reported fatal mishaps: Quebec, nine; Ontario, nine; British Columbia, three; Alberta, two; Nova Scotia, two; Manitoba, one.

Eleven persons died Saturday and Sunday of injuries suffered in traffic accidents. Eight others were drowned. Several causes were responsible for the deaths of seven other persons. Among the dead were seven children, one of whom was killed when struck by the idling "prop" of a stationary airplane.

Three women and two men were injured, three seriously when Shepard's car, travelling a little used road between Matheson and Remore, struck a hole in the bridge flooring, lurched to one side and crashed through the frail railing. The structure, 15 feet wide and 250 feet long, was said by residents of the district to be badly in need of repair.

Roof Crushes Victim.

The front of the car was "pulverized and the roof crashed in," Constable Harvey Sorbo of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said after the early-Sunday crash. Only slightly surt, Sorbo had the other injured occupants taken to a nearby farm house for first aid and then remained beside Shepard's body for six hours until an ambulance arrived.

"If the car had landed six feet further we would have all been drowned in the creek," Sorbo said. "I knew Shepard was dead. His neck was twisted and his head

Driver Loses License After Car Kills $500 Riding Horse

London, Ont., July 25.

MORRIS COBEIGH, 17, of Lucan was fined $10 and costs in county police court today on a reckless driving charge, after a truck he was driving struck a valuable horse on the Seventh Concession of London township.

The horse, valued at close to $500, had it back broken. It was owned by Robert Fisher, who was riding it but was not injured.

He had been training the horse as a hunter. Cobeigh's driving license was suspended for two months.

Lightning Kills 14 Cows On Dummer Farm

Fourteen head of cattle were killed by lightning on the farm of Stuart Clysdale in Dummer township, four miles from Warsaw, Saturday afternoon. The cattle had gathered in the shelter of a big tree, it was reported, and a severe flash of lightning striking the tree instantly killed the cattle clustered beneath it.

Hail accompanying lightning and rain increased the damage in Dummer grain fields both to the north and south of Warsaw. It was believed that considerable loss would be caused by shelling of grain beneath the hail attack, and in many places the crop was badly lodged after coming through the season to maturity.

One Colt is Killed

A colt owned by Dennis M. O'Leary at Downeyville was also a victim of Saturday's lightning. Farmers from that district informed the Examiner it was the worst stor mof the season.

Hail to the east ow Downeyville ruined a lot of the crops. Corn was slashed and flattened, and the young buckwheat was sheared off as if a reaper had passed through it. Residents said hail could be picked up in bucketfulls.

Friday night's storm blew a swath of tangled crops across the central part of east Cavan and South Monaghan, on both sides of the road from Millbrook to the Peterborough-Port Hope highway. The Donaldson farm at the junction of the two roads looked batdly tattered Saturday. Lightning rang telephone bells in that section waking many of the residents who had not been aroused by the storm in the middle of the night.

Frank Paterson expressed regret this morning on learning of the loss Stuart Clysdale suffered. "I suppose they were all killed in the same instant," Mr. Paterson, agricultural representative, remarked.

$10 Teaches Britons Flying Art

New Emergency Plan May Give Canada Light Plane Orders

LONDON, July 25—(CP).—Air-minded Britons soon will be able to learn to fly for £2 ($10), or if they are glider enthusiasts, they may receive enough instruction at a cost of £1 to take one of the motorless craft aloft.

The bargain learn-to-fly rates are included in the newly organized civil air guard's scheme to place thousands of trained fliers at the disposal of the Royal Air Force in time of emergency.

The rates will reduce drastically the cost of obtaining an airplane pilot's license from the present scale of £20 to £40.

Government subsidies will enable aviation clubs to give the training at a cost of about two shillings an hour on week days and five shillings an hour on weekends in light machines.

A gliding authority said that flying clubs would be unable to obtain light machines in Britain because of the government's air expansion program.

Orders For Canada.

"This means that they will go to Canada and the United States for light aircraft, creating a possible boom in those countries in this branch of the aviation industry," this source said.

Headed by the Marquess of Londonderry, former air secretary, the new organization will take volunteers, men or women, between the ages of 18 and 50. They will be for an air force of staggering pro-war break out.

The various clubs will receive Air Ministry subsidies to reduce the cost of training and flights, provided the club has a civil air guard section of at least 12 members.

Possibility that Britain is headed for an aiar force of staggering proportions was raised by the aviation correspondent of the Sunday Times (Independent). He wrote that the Air Ministry's production may shortly reach 25,000 planes a year and that in a war the entire active air force could be wiped out every five or six weeks and still be replaced quickly. After an adequate number of planes were built, he added, the tempo of peacetimes construction would be slowed down to around 12,500 planes a year.

Hillbilly O'Daniel Cleans Up Texas

DALLAS, July 25—(AP).—W. Lee O'Daniel, the eight-weeks-old politician who made a shambles of Texas political precedent, to-day assured his public he would be a "regular fellow" as State Governor and scoffed at the possibility of a dictatorship.

Mired indirectly in the O'Daniel landslide were two potent members of the United States Congress, Maury Maverick and Morgan Sanders, who was slated for chairmanship of the powerful House Ways and Means committee.

Fourteen infants already had been named for O'Daniel, a political babe-in-arms.

Latest Texas election bureau returns gave him 403,582 votes, a clear majority of 17,963 over 11 opponents.

Although the voting was to select Democratic candidates in what was technically a primarly election, it actually decided the incumbents for the offices at stake. The Republicans are not active in Texas and no primary was planned to select candidates for that party.

Crushed in the O'Daniel lanslide touched off by liberal old-age pension promises were an attorney general, a railroad commissioner, and a big city mayor.

This wild flour salesman, who mounted a sound truck with a hillbilly band and struck out after "those professional politcians" long after seasoned foes had started stumping the hinterlands, commented:

"The secret of success in business is ability to co-operate. I think the same principles in business can be applied to government. I have no idea of being a dictator. I expect to get along well with the legislature."

Paul J. Kilday, 38-year-old San Antonio attorney backed by Mayor C. K. Quin's political machine, whipped Maverick, New Deal mainstay, by 589 votes. Quickly came reports that Maverick would demand an investigation and recount.

Mercury Starts Her Trip Home

BOUCHERVILLE, Que., July 25—(CP)— The seaplane Mercury, British pick-a-back craft, took off from the St. Lawrence River at 11.50 a.m. E.D.T. today for Botwood, Nfld., on the second leg of her return flight from Port Washington, N.Y., to Ireland.

The Transatlantic plane made a 30-second takeoff from the smooth river 14 miles below Montreal after a stay of just one hour and 34 minutes following her arrival from Port Washington, the Western Terminus of her flight.

Egyptian Princess In Europe

This is the lovely Princess Fawzia, eldest sister of King Farouk of Egypt, whose engagement to Crown Prince Shahpur Mahammed Riza of Iran was recently announced. The princess is 17 and the groom-to-be, 19. It is believed that the wedding will take place some time in 1940. The princess, her two sisters and mother, are at present vacationing in Europe.

Floods Sweep Dozen States Taking Twelve Lives

Rivers Run Wild Along Atlantic Seaboard Crops Are Riddled, Homes Swept Off

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP).—Clearing skies today in many sections gave hope of an early end to ruinous floods and rainstorms which took 12 lives and caused property and crop damage totalling millions of dollars in a dozen states.

New England was hardest hit by week-long downpours which sent rivers out of their banks all along the Atlantic seaboard of the United States. Damage was conservatively put at more than $3,000,000.

The tobacco crop loss in Connecticut was reported as $1,000,000 and similarly heavy tolls were exacted of crops in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Textile mills were shut down in many towns, throwing thousands of persons temporarily out of work. Hundreds of families were homeless in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York.

The storms claimed four lives in New Jersey during the week-end. Three persons were killed by lightning in Ohio.

30 Homes Swept Away

An unidentified hero who swam the raging San Saba River at San Saba, Tex., to secure a wire lifeline saved a score of persons marooned on rooftops. Earlier the river had claimed two victims. Thirty houses were swept away, leaving 300 homeless.

Continued downpours were forecast in North Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and adjacent States, but little immediate danger of widespread floods was seen.

Swollen by a week's rains, the Roanoke River left its banks near Weldon, N.C., but no extensive damage was reported.

New Jersey authorities estimated crop damage in that State at $500,000, and eastern Pennsylvania farmers suffered a $1,000,000 loss. Twelve hundred flood refugees in West Virginia taxed rescue facilities. Crop and property damage was estimated at $200,000.

Lone Gunman Robs Collector Of $600

TORONTO, uly 25.—(CP)—A lone gunman robbed Rex Cadbu, manager of Leader Messenger Service, of $600 at noon today in a downtown lane near Yonge and Dundas streets. The gunman fled in Cadbu's motor car which he abandoned five blocks farther downtown.

"Move over," the gunman told Cadbu, as the manager stopped his car at the rear of a tailor store to make collections. "How about your money," the robber said, still wielding his revolver after he entered the front seat of the car.

"I haven't any money," Cadbu replied.

"Don't try to pull that stuff, I know this is payoff day, drop your money on the floor and get out," the gunman said.

Cadbu dropped his money, got out of the car and ran into the tailor shop when the gunman drove the car away. Cadbu phoned police from the tailor's but a rushed concerted effort by police yielded only the abandoned car. There was no other trace of the robber.

39 Blown To Bits 50 Wounded In Arab Market

HAIFA, Palestine, July 25 (C.P.).—A bomb blasted the crowded Arab market place here to-day for the second time in a month, killing 39 Arabs and founding between 50 and 60.

The incident was the most costly in the turbulent strike between Jews and Arabs which has been sweeping the Holy Land anew since July 5.

It occurred at the same spot where 23 were killed and more than 60 injured on July 6 in an explosion and an ensuing street battle.

New racial clashes followed today's blast, which spread panic among the populace. In swift reprisals and counter-reprisals one Jew was shot to death and another Jew and an Arab were wounded. Curfew was decreed throughout the lower city. Strong patrols of bluejackets, soldiers, and police covered the area.

Over the week-end terrorists made several attacks on taxis and motor buses. One Jew was seriously wounded near Nahariya. On the Nazareth-Tiberias road police found the bullet-pierced bodies of two Arabs. The bodies were marked by pieces of paper inscribed: "This is the fate of spies and traitors."

Wholesale arrests continue to be carried out in Central Palestine villages. Some 1,500 were taken into custody during the last three days. Nine Mukhtars were arrested for sabotage near Nablus.

All traffic in Haifa was suspended to aid ambulances in removing the dead.

Crowd Hurls Stones.

The explosion occurred as Arab men and women were gathering at the Melon market. The air was filled with the cries of the dying and wounded. All those not hurt ran from the market. Many were injured as the crowd started throwing stones.

(In the midst of the outbreak in Haifa, 80 tourists arrived in Jerusalem from Egypt. They had travelled by train from Alexandria where they disembarked from the American export liner Excambion.

(Another party of tourists from America was fired upon yesterday by snipers near Athlit, south of Haifa, but no one was hurt. The tourists were from the liner Roma.)

To-day's disorders brought total deaths since July 5 to 131. More than 300 have been wounded since the current waves of outbreaks started.

Puerto Rican Governor Is Fired On

Police Return Shot Firing On Crowd, Kill 1, Hurt Many

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (by telephone to New York), July 25 (AP).—Major-General Blanton Winship, Governor of Puerto Rico, escaped an assassin's bullet at Ponce today while he was reviewing a pared.

Preliminary telephone reports to the governor's palace here said neither Governor Winship nor any of his party was injured.

Police immediatelv returned fire among a large crowd watching celebrations of the 40th anniversary of the landing of United States troops in the Spanish-American war.

One man was killed by police and a number injured. Advices to the palace soon after the firing had not established the number of casualties.

Palace officials said arrests had been made but they had not yet been informed how many.

They said the first shot was believed to have been fired by a member of the Nationalist party, the group demanding independence for the United States' insular possession.

Governor Stays

General Winship, who retired from the United States army in 1933, has been governor of Puerto Rico since Feb. 5, 1934. He is 58 years old.

Large crowds had been drawn to Ponce for the occasion. The United States navy's plane carrier Enterprise, the destroyer Shaw, army and marine units were taking part in the festivities.

Bull Hints Friends Ransacked Garage

TORONTO, July 25 (CP).—W. Perkins Bull said today he was "not taking any steps" in connection with the ransacking of the two-story garage at his Rosedale home here Saturday night or early Sunday.

"I do not wish to run the danger of getting friends into trouble," he explained.

"This is my 68th birthday and for upwards of 30 years, or just one half my life, Meredith Crescent has been my home," he said, in a statement dictated to his secretary. "This is the first time marauders have cared, or dared, to invade it and, as I do not wish to run the danger of getting friends into trouble, I am not taking any steps in connection with the intrusion.

"The search was so perfectly carried out that I hardly think they missed anything and, therefore, will undoubtedly not be back.

Bull was asked if the reference to "friends" might not be open to misinterpretation. "Why?" was his only reply.

City police said no complaint had been filed by Bull with them concerning the incident but two officers assigned to the Sidley case visited the garage today to investigate.

It was at Bull's home that Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley died three weeks ago, leaving Bull roughly one-third of her estate. An inquest into her death begins tomorrow.

Somerville One Above Par 71

LONDON HUNT AND COUNTRY CLUB, London, Ont., July 25 (AP).—C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London and youthful Ken Black of Vancouver shot one-over-par 71's today over the London Hunt course as seven teams started out for golf's Willingdon Cup, won last year by Quebec.

The four-man teams are to play morning and afternoon rounds of 18 holes, with the team with the lowest aggregate score winning the trophy. Quebec started none too auspiciously in defence of the cup. Gordon Baxter Taylor of Montreal needed a 77, while another Montreal member of the team, Phil Farley, carded a 76.

King Rests Up

LONDON, July 25.—(CP-Havas).—King George and Queen Elizabeth, completely rested after their visit to France last week, returned to the British capital to-day from Sandringham castle where they passed the week-end. King George, it was expected, will confer with high government leaders concerning latest developments in the European situation.

Drugstore Looted of $61

TORONTO, July 25 — (CP) — Two masked gunmen, using the same tactics as in two other drug store hold-ups in the last week,robbed the Eglinton Pharmacy of $61 as it was about to be closed last midnight. Alan Goldie, clerk, was the only person in the store at the time. The gunmen escaped in an automobile.

Car Stalls On Tracks And Train Gives Tourists Real Scare

Brantford, Ont., July 25.

A Party of Detroit tourists got an overdose of suspense and oldtime melodrama early today when their car stalled on a railway track as a Canadian National Railways freight train approached the city from the West.

Part of the group struggled frantically with the car while a watchman and other members of the party ran towards the oncoming train, flagging it. The train was slowed down until the car was driven off the crossing under its own power. The crossing, once known as the toll gate, is being used while the Ava road bridge is under repair. One wheel of the automobile slipped off the plank driveway between the rails, trapping the car.

Fair Play, 8 Hours Ordered For Loan Works

OTTAWA, July 25 (CP).—Fair wages and the eight-hour day will be the rule on all municipal self-federal government loans under the liquidating projects undertaken with Municipal Improvements Assistance Act, passed at the recent session of parliament.

Regulations setting forth conditions under which the act may be applied and loans granted were approved by order-in-council last week and announced in the Canada Gazette last night.

All contracts under which municipalities obtain loans will contain the fair wage and eight-hour day clause inserted in contracts for Dominion public works. The municipalities will also be required to guarantee no person other than a resident of Canada shall be employed on such works and that there shall be no favoritism or discrimination in respect of employment by reason of race-religious views or political affiliations.

The act authorizes the Dominion government to lend up to $30,000,000 to municipalities at two per cent interest to enable them to finance such self-liquidating projects as water works, hydro plants, gas plants and other improvements where the projects are urgently needed and will assist in the relief of unemployment. All loans must be guaranteed as to principal and interest by the province in which the municipality is located.

The regulations set out the form in which applications should be made for loans, the form of the contracts and the debentures the muni-

75 TNT Caps Scare Lakefield

Missing On Streets After Robbery; Lad Loses Fingers

LAKEFIELD, July 25—Faced with the knowledge that more than 75 dynamite caps are missing about the streets of Lakefield, any one of which is potentially capable of killing a grown person should it explode, residents of this town are walking and driving warily today. A search is being made for the missing caps, and children are being carefully watched.

Originally 200 caps were missing from the warehouse of W. W. Leonard, hardware merchant, who found the caps had been stolen from the double-locked building sometime during the weekend. He made the discovery after a 13-year-old child, Russell Eagleson, of Lakefield, had the thumb and four fingers of his right hand blown off at the first joint when a cap of undetermined type exploded.

Find 6 Caps in Road

Six of the caps were found by Mrs. Jack Charlton in the middle of the road in front of her home. More than a hundred others were located when a searched party combed the fields adjoining the warehouse, on the outskirts of the town. Mr. Leonard believed today the others are somewhere in the field, and doubted some caps are on the roadway. The road has been thoroughly searched and no trace of other caps was found, he said. He admitted the possibility other caps may still be on the street, however.

Authorities are worried about the missing caps because any small force is enough to set them off and possibly injured gravely or even kill a person. A person's steel-capped heel, an automobile, a child's soooter, running over one of them might bring death to an innocent victim.

Russell Eagleton was playing with some caps on Saturday evening, in company with his brother Ted, aged 11, when one exploded and blew the fingers from his right hand. He was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in Peterborough by Dr. H. Moore and his conditions was reported today to be good.

Lads Admit Theft

Constable Wallace Hendren of Lakefield said this afternoon that the youngsters, together with another lad, had admitted breaking into the warehouse. The building is owned by the Canada Cement Company and is used by Mr. Leonard as a place to store his explosive. Con-

Manitoba Wants U.S. Cars And At American Prices

OTTAWA, July 25 (CP)—Manitoba wants to buy motor cars, farm implecents and other manufactured articles at prices similar to those enjoyed by United States consumers, and the provincial government is urging the federal administration to lower the tariff barriers.

Premier John Bracken of Manitoba laid before Prime Minister Mackenzie King a brief recommending that the trade negotiations proceeding at Washington offer an opportunity for lowering tariffs and obtaining in return a wider market for Canadian primary products in that country.

Reduction in tariffs would make the implements of production cheaper, lower the cost of production and open the way to wider markets for the goods produced, the brief argued. It's contents were made public today by the Manitoba premier.

In presenting his arguments, Mr. Bracken said he was recommending what he understood from the Liberal leader's pre-election platform to be the policy of the party, and that the Manitoba government had supported the Liberals in 1935 because of that platform.

Cheaper Implements

A further recommendation was that the Canadian government seek cooperation of United States authorities in efforts to solve the problem of high prices charged for farm implements. Monopolistic operations coupled with expensive and inefficient distribution methods were blamed for the farm implement evil.

United States, the brief set forth, could provide, for instance, a cattle market for Manitoba and in return that province would buy largely of manufactured goods from United States if the tariff were lowered.

Thief Fools Owner By Remodelling Brand New Auto

TORONTO, July 25.

A STOLEN car, completely changed in appearance by a paint job, substitution of bumpers, steering wheel and other accessories, was recovered last night by Detectives Joseph Atkinson and Phillips.

Arrested and charged with the theft of the auto was John Swanson, 33, of College Street. He was also booked on a charge of shopbreaking. The brand-new sedan was stolen from George R. McGregor, 157 Grenadier Road.

When found in a garage yesterday the owner failed to recognize it as his. The bumpers had been changed, the original steering wheel, headlights and gear shift lever had been replaced. The rear of the car had also been painted.

Merchants Will Contribute This New Feature!

THE INDIVIDUAL who said there is nothing new under the sun is now and then surprised; perhaps moved to wonder if he is right.

Turn to the Classified Section on Tuesday—each Tuesday—and see if there is nothing new. We will even tell you where to look—under the heading of "ODDS AND ENDS." That is an old saying but it means a great deal.

Merchants have broken lines of goods, some articles which are a bit shopworn, perhaps odd sizes, or goods which have not moved out just as rapidly as had been anticipated.

In "ODDS AND ENDS" these goods are going to be listed, and the reading is going to be interesting. It is going to pay the merchant to clear these lines out and it is going to pay you to know at what price they are going.

Nothing new? Well just look at "ODDS AND ENDS" each Tuesday and see if that old saying is not wrong.

No Princesses Says Rajah Of 3 White Daughters

LONDON, July 25 — (CP) — Sir Charles Brooke, the White Maharajah of Sarawak, wrote a letter to the Press today protesting that his three daughters are not Princesses.

He referred especially to his daughter Baba, who married an English wrestler named Bob Gregory, and who constantly is mentioned in dispatches from New York and California as "Princess Baba."

Another daughter, to the accompaniment of much publicity, was married to Harry Roy, a Jazz orchestra leader, while a third is the Countess of Inchcape.

Sir Charles, the White Maharajah in the world, is ruler of the little British protectorate of Sarawak on the coast of Borneo.

"I may as well mention that it is of constant annoyance to the natives and to myself," the Maharajah wrote, "that my daughters should be referred to as 'princesses.' this title is a pure fabrication of the Press, a slogan which has been used and misused until not only our country (Sarawak) but also every country in the world is heartily sick of the sound of Sarawak.

Denials Been In Vain.

"We have done our best to try to put a stop to statements which have been pouring in from California and New York but we are helpless in the hands of this undignified sensationalism that some people make use of as publicity.

"I would be extremely obliged if the gentlemen of the press would realize once and for all that there are no such people as Princess Gold, Princess Pearl and Princess Baba—but that I have three daughters whose names are the Countess of Inchcape, Mrs. Harry Roy and Mrs. Bob Gregory.

Mrs. Bob Gregory, in Hollywood, Calif., where her wrestler husband is fulfilling engagements, recently announced plans to make herself a princess — or ranee—in her own right. She said she and her husband expected soon to sail for the Dutch East Indies so he could buy an island and be Rajah.

Old Caddy Returns To His Haunts Off B.C. Coast

Victoria, July 25.

RETURN OF Cadborosaurus—British Columbia's storied sea serpent— was reported today by summer residents of Deep Cove, near here.

Charles and Alberta Ward of Sidney, B. C., and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McLean, of Vancouver said they watched a strange sea monster sporting in the water of Deep Cove about 400 yards from shore.

Albert Ward said the creature appeared to be between thirty and forty feet long and resembled a giant eel. He said it flashed through the water and left a silver streak in its wake.

Stunting Warplane Crashes In Colombia Crowd Expect Dead May Total 50

Only 8 Women, 12 Men Are Identified; Craft Scrapes President's Stand As 50,000 Watch Military Review

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 25 (AP).—Doctors today fixed at 50 the probable total of those killed by a stunting military plane which plowed into the centre of a crowd of 50,000 and burned during a military review here Sunday.

Including the pilot, eight women and 13 men were among the identified victims. Identifications were difficult because the bodies were mangled badly. Saddened crowds waited through the night before hospital doors where 150 injured were taken.

The heads of some of the victims were severed by the propellors of the plane, which speeded at 90 feet above the new military field, Campo de Marte, side-slipped suddenly and dropped into the crowd.

The plane tore steps from the reviewing stand occupied by President Alfonso Lopez, President-elect Eduardo Santos, War Minister Pumarejo and other officials. None was injured.

Gas Sprays Victims

A wing tip brushed a stand occupied by the diplomatic corps, and the wife of the Japanese charge d'affaires was slightly hurt.

Many among the unprotected crowd were struck by flying fragments as the plane splashed its way to a halt. A spray of gasoline exploded and burned some, destroying the plane and the body of Pilot Lieut. Abadia.

The dangerous activity by the aviator was noticed by officials a moment before the crash, and president-elect Santos remarked to the war minister that he did not like such stunting over the crowd.

The war minister agreed but added the aviators had promised to avoid dangerous acrobatics, finishing his remarks just as Lieut. Abadia lost control of his ship.

The day had been a festive occasion, the 155th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, who led the battle for South America's liberation from Spain early in the 19th century.

King's Visit Engraven In French Memory

PARIS, July 25 (CP-Havas). — President LeBrun today telegraphed King George and Queen Elizabeth that their recent visit to the people of France would remain "engraved in their memory as the highest and most striking consecration of the ties linking our two countries."

The telegram, sent in reply to a message of gratitude from the British sovereigns, read:

"It is with emotion that I thank your majesty, and her majesty the Queen, for the touching message which you were good enough to address to myself and Madame Lebrun at the moment that you left the soil of France.

"I shall be happy to convey to the government of the republic and the people of France the sentiments which your majesties were good enough to express following the unforgettable days which Paris and all France owed to your august presence.

"The French people received their illustrious hosts with unanimous enthusiasm. The visit will remain engraved in their memory as the highest and most striking consecration of the ties linking our two countries which, after having shared the same trials, pursue their common ideal of political liberty, prosperity and general peace.

"France will remain grateful to your majesty and to her majesty the queen for the profound joy given it to be able to acclaim with the same will and with one heart the sovereigns of a great friendly nation."

Nazis Active In London

LONDON, July 25.—(AP). —Nazi sympathizers in North London defaced three places with Nazi slogans during the week-end.

The words "kill the Jews" were carved in letters three feet high on Bowling Green at Tottenham, while Swastikas were smeared on the main door and red paint and tar daubed over the wall of the synagogue at Finchley.

Swastikas also were painted on the windows of the Labor Party committee rooms in East Willesden.

Bennett, Manion Quit Ottawa On Best Of Terms

OTTAWA, July 25—(CP).—It was "Good-by, R.B.," and "Good luck, Bob," when Conservative Leader Manion and Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett shook hands in the Parliament Buildings, Saturday. Dr. Manion left last night for Fort William and Mr. Bennett will leave early this week for Calgary.

The hearty handshake was taken to indicate the new National leader and the former leader of the Conservatives were firm friends. If there had been any estrangement between them the talk had evidently entirely cleared the situation.

Many reports had been heard around Ottawa that there was friction between the two former colleagues and the grounds given for such reports were that Mr. Bennett had not been at the Conservative convention when Dr. Manion was elected leader and that Mr. Bennett had continued to occupy the Opposition Leader's offices in the Parliament Buildings.

No Cause for Friction.

Friends of both men insisted there was no cause for friction on either count. Mr. Bennett had stayed away from the convention election, they declared, so that he would be absolutely neutral in the selection of his successor. He has retained the offices in the Parliament Buildings because Dr. Manion is not yet a Member of Parliament, it was explained, and while Mr. Bennett had prepared move at any time to such other room as the Sergeant-at-Arms would assign to him as Member of Parliament, he felt he should stay on to oversee the business of the office until such time as Dr. Manion was in a position to take it over.

Mr. Bennett and Dr. Manion spent an hour together Saturday, and the parting indicated if there had been any misunderstandings, they had been wiped out in the discussion they had. It is understood they had been exchanging letters previously covering the change of leadership.

Dr. Manion made it a real day. Saturday afternoon he drove to Kingsmere and visited Premier Mackenzie King at Mr. King's country home. The two leaders spent more than an hour in the beautiful grounds. What they talked about is not known, although they evidently were well content with what each said.

Last Request Ignored

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—(APJ) — Influential in life, Chin Lain, 69-year-old merchant, was unable to persaude friends to heed his dying request. Te asked for a simple funeral so the money saved could be donated to China's war chest. Chinatown gave him a Chinese service with Buddhist mourners, 50 automobiles and one band larger than the funeral procession of his wife three months ago. Hers had been regarded as one of the most lavish in the history of the Chinese colony.

Not Drowned, Jailed

HAMILTON, Ont., uly 25 (CP).—A five-day search for a missing Montreal man feared drowned ended comparatively successfully last night when the man was found safe and sound—serving a 21-day sentence for drunkenness in Hamilton jail. The man had gone for a swim last Sunday, then disappeared leaving his clothes and money at the country place where he was staying. Discovery of his whereabouts was made as an officer recognized the man's name on a police bulletin of missing persons.

Lord Stanhope stated further that his government would be prepared to enter discussions with the U.S. at any time that such discussions are likely to produce results.

St. Elmo's Fire "Paints" Yacht

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 25.—(AP)—St. Elmo's fire, a rarity on Lake Ontario, struck the Rochester-bound yacht Vision some 12 hours out of Toronto, it was reported on the boat's arrival here Saturday.

To the amazement of the crew of five aboard the ship, the bluish flames ran up and down the shrouds, the mast and yard arms. One member of the crew, thinking the ship afire, attempted to extinguish the apparent blaze with a fire extinguisher.

Only the lee side, Skipper Woodbourn said, with without the unusual electrical display named after St. Elmo, patron saint of sailors.

Of a flamelike appearance, St. Elmo's fire or light is seen usually only in stormy weather. More frequent in the tropics, it is of the nature of a brush discharge of electricity, reddish when positive, bluish when negative.

Hamilton Spice Plant Fire Costs $30,000 Loss

Three Firemen Hurt By Falling Glass Before Winning 6-Hour Fight

HAMILTON, Ont., July 25 (CP).—Three firemen suffered minor injuries when struck by falling glass, and damage tentatively estimated at $30,000 was done at the Young Winfield Company's spice factory in an early-morning fire which swept through the south end of the three-storey structure today.

Al Linkert, a baker, discovered the fire when he smelled smoke and sent employees on to the roof of his own premises to investigate. Smoke was filtering through the window chinks of the spice factory but, when firemen smashed the upper windows to play hose lines inside, the flames burst through with fury. Early investigation suggested the fire started on the ground floor and worked up through the vents.

After six hours continuous effort on the part of firemen from all central stations, it was found necessary to leave one company at the scene to prevent a further outbreak. Origin of the fire was not determined immediately.

Full Description of Work

Each application must be accompanied by a description of the project, a statement of the capital cost, evidence to establish its self-liquidating character, statements as to the need and the way in which it will relieve unemployment. The latter will include an outline of the unemployment situation in the municipality.

Each application must be sent in duplicate to the provincial government. If the provincial government approves it will forward one copy to the Department of Finance at Ottawa and the Minister of Finance will notify the municipality and the province whether the loan will be granted.

The municipality will then be asked to enter a contract for the repayment of the loan during the life of the project. Payments will be made on certificates signed by the appropriate municipal officer and approved by a provincial officer. Any time after the signing of the agreement 25 per cent. of the loan may be advanced and the balance will be paid over from time to time on progress certificates.

In the contract the municipality must agree to keep all money advanced on the loan in a separate account and use it only on the project covered in the contract. It must keep proper accounts of the expenditure which will be open to the inspection of the department's representatives.

The municipality also agrees to deposit a debenture aggregating the principal sum and bearing interest at two per cent. In the even of any default on payments under the contract the Minister of Finance may sell the debenture and apply the proceeds to liquidate advances on the loan.

No interest shall accrue on the debenture as long as payments of principal and interest under the contract are kept up.

stable Hendren said he had discovered three more of the missing caps in the vicinity of the quarry this morning but that about seventy were still missing. He said the boys admitted they had taken the caps to their home, outside the village limits, and the older lad, now in the hospital, had kept a handful of them in one pocket. It is these caps that are believed to be missing still.

The caps are in the shape of Cylinders, each about the size of a lead pencil and about one and a half inches long. They are made of aluminum covering. Citizens of Lakefield are being asked to be on the look-out for them and to hand any they find to Constable Hendren.

Grip Of Trusts Must End Gouin States

SOREL Que., July 25.—(CP).—Economic dictatorship must be banished from Quebec and the grip of "the trusts" must be broken, Paul Gouin declared last night before 600 delegates who had just confirmed him as Leader of the Action Liberale Nationale Party.

Unanimously chosen Leader of the party he founded a few years ago, the tall, young Montreal lawyer delivered his acceptance speech from a platform draped in red, white and blue outside the convention hall. He welcomed the A.L.N. numerous small groups of varying political affiliation absorbed by his party in the two-day convention of the unofficial opposition forces in Quebec Provincial politics.

Recalling how he and Maurice Duplessis had combined to break the grip of Quebec's 39-year-old Liberal regime, Gouin recounted how he had broken with Duplessis who later went on to capture the province with his new-formed Union Nationale Party, a mixture of Conservatives and former A.L.N. members.

Scores Duplessis

Unfortunately, the Duplessis regime and that of the Liberals they had worked so hard to destroy were "twin brothers," Mr. Gouin declared. The Duplessis Government was subservient to the "trusts" and fast becoming an inimical to the best intrests of the people at large as the Taschereau machine, he charged.

The A.L.N. program formulated and improved this week-end had more than 100 articles and many of them were aimed at the trusts, said Mr. Gouin. "Throughout the length of our program one will find the mark of an anti-trust policy," he said.

A referendum among the women of Quebec to determine whether the majority wanted the Provincial electoral franchise was advocated by the convention. Quebec women have the franchise in Federal voting, but cannot cast a ballot in Provincial elections. It is the only Province in Canada where women may not vote in Provincial conotests.

Place in Home.

The convention, which opened on Saturday, brought together opposition groups representing most of Quebec's ninety counties. Preponderant among the delegates were the representative of Gouin's Action Liberale Nationale.

On the suffrage question, Gouin said to-day he supported the franchise for women. Several women delegates spoke in favor of votes for their sex, but a determined male minority opposed the inclusion of such a plank in the platform. The male objectors insisted woman's place was in the home, raising children and directing the household, and they had no time to study and understand political issues.

Early to-night the delegates completed a lengthy political platform. Yesterday, they had approved resolutions calling for elimination of "abuses" in Provincial farm credits, increased aid to colonists, more widespread technical education for farmers, Government aid in marketing farm products and State operation of chemical fertilizer plants and drainage systems. Lower tariffs on farm implements were sought also.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 25 — (C.P.). — Cattle movement on the Toronto Livestock Market was slow to-day but buyers were paying 25 cents or more higher prices for good quality steers and heifers. Calves and sheep were steady, while the lamb market was firm. No hog price was set by early afternoon. Cattle holdover from last week was 600 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 3,500; calves, 1,260; hogs, 1,620; sheep and lambs, 940.

Cattle receipts included 1,060 from the West.

A few good butcher steers and heifers sold at $6.50 to $6.75; medium, $6 to $6.25. Weighty steers sold between $6 to $7, and a few choice quality reached $7.60. Butcher cows were slow at from $3 to $4.50 with canners at $2.25 to $2.50.

Bulls were steady at $4.25 to $4.60 for butcher and $3.75 to $4 for bolognas. Fed calves brought from $6 to $9. Western stockers traded from $4 to $5.25, and a few good feeders at $5.50.

Choice veal calves moved from $8 to $8.50, with the bulk of calf sales from $4.50 to $7.

Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $12.35 to $12.40.

Good ewes and wether lambs ranged from $9 to $9.50, with a few as high as $9.75. Other grades were $7 to $9. Sheep sold from $2 to $3.50 cwt.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 25—(CP). — Beneficial showers in Western Canada's wheat belts, together with sharp downturns at Liverpool brought setbacks to Winnipeg prices to-day. At the close quotations were posted 1½ to 1 cent lower with July dipping below the dollar mark for the first time in a week and closing at 99⅞c. October finished at 76¼c, November 76c, and December 75¼c.

Trading was listless and uninteresting most of the way with export business confined to small lot shipments. Traders remained on the sidelines apparently awaiting release of the minimum price announcement from Ottawa.

Weather in Western Canada was generally cool with beneficial showers falling in many areas.

Cash wheat trade and pit trade in coarse grains were listless and showed little price variation throughout.

We Noticed

....A number of smartly unusual costumes during the weekend... which included a spruce-blue hopsacking dress of monotone Paisley print. A cleverly knotted kerchief worn on the head was of the same material.

✧ ✧ ✧

....A stunning dress of larkspur blue, buttoned from top to bottom, and worn with a flannel jacket extra loud with checks.

✧ ✧ ✧

....A cotton blouse flag-striped red, white and blue topped trimly tailored grey slacks. Insurance against cool lake breezes was the matching grey blazer slung over an arm.

✧ ✧ ✧

....And of course many dirndls... particularly lovely was the one in lavender polka-dotted in white, and worn with a sunburned rough straw with streamers flying out in the back.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Very, very effective was an all-white dressmaker bathing suit with wool rope "rigging," which combined for contrast a violet rubber cap and matching beach shoes. The beach robe carried by the young mermaid was gaily splashed in brilliant colors...violet taking the predominating note.

Fashions

Cool sun back bolero jacket that turns a neat trick for spectator wear. You'll find this smart ensemble ideal for town as well as vacation days. It has a brief sleeved bolero jacket that turns a neat trick for spectator wear. It completely disguises the sun-back. You'll have lots of occasions to wear the jacket over other frocks. It gives variety without extra expense. Take off the jacket, when you want "Old Sol" to get on with sun-tanning as efficiently and evenly as possible. It's just the dress for tennis. The flared skirt allows plenty of action. White sharkskin with a matching or a contrasting print jacket is a captivating choice for its development. Linen and washable silks are lovely. One! Two! Three! it's finished with the aid of the diagrammed sewing chart included.

Style No. 3380 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch material for dress; and ¾ yard of 39-inch material for bolero.

Starching Errors Eliminated from Monday Wash

With so many different fabrics in the weekly wash—the problem of starching can be a hit-and-miss system or it can be properly executed, according to directions. Until the introduction of the new Ivory Laundry Starch package, starching instructions have been scarce—in fact almost nil. But now that is all changed—the New Ivory Laundry Starch package contains over 600 words on how and what to starch on wash day. Every package of Ivory Laundry Starch provides you with all the instructions you'll ever need. If your grocer hasn't Ivory Laundry Starch send us his name and address and we will see that you are supplied. St. Lawrence Starch Co. Limited, Port Credit, Ontario.

Peterborough Girl Is Best Friend Of Deanna Durbin

Even though sixteen-year-old Audrey Barry is a semi-invalid with arthritis and has to spend her days in a wheel chair, she is nevertheless a very happy girl, and her days are filled with thrilling experiences which any girl might envy. You see, Audrey is the best friend of Deanna Durbin, the pretty little girl from Winnipeg with the charming personality and beautiful voice which made her one of the screen's most popular stars almost overnight, and Deana, busy though she is, finds time to get over and see Audrey quite often.

Audrey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barry. Her father was a successful architect in Peterborough before taking his daughter to Southgate, a suburb of Los Angeles, for her health. The Barrys had been close neighbors of Mr. and Mrs Fred Read, who lived here until three years ago, and are Deanna's aunt and uncle. Later they all met out on the coast with Deanna's mother, who is Mr. Read's sister.

An aunt of Audrey's Mrs. Walter Greenwood of Toronto, describes her as being "cheerful as a baby and bright as a gold piece. Why she was the life of the household when we were in Los Angeles about three years ago," Mrs. Greenwood told a Toronto Star reporter, "and she has a lovely voice, too."

Mrs. Kellaphene Morrison, who is Deanna Durbin's school teacher, told the interviewer that until a few weeks ago Audrey had never seen one of Deanna's pictures, so Deanna had her brought down to the studio and got them to run off "Mad About Music," so Audrey could see it. "Even though Audrey hasn't seen all her pictures," Mrs. Morrison told the reporter, "Deanna thinks now she'd probably like to see one that she isn't in so she's having her brought down in a few days to see another picture, and as soon as this picture she's doing now —"That Certain Age," they call it—is ready, Deanna will have her brought down again."

When Deanna Durbin did a series of broadcasts, she obtained the autographs of hundreds of big radio stars. Busy people back stage could not understand how Deanna, even busier than they, could find the time for all this. But Deanna knew why. She took the book out to the coast and presented it to her girl friend from Peterborough, Audrey Barry.

Presentation Made Lakefield Couple

LAKEFIELD, July 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Wallace G. Hendren, of Lakefield, whose marriage took place in the Baptist church here recently, were the guests of honor on Tuesday evening, July 19, at a party held by the members of the congregation of Lakefield Baptist church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rosborough in Smith township, where the newlyweds were presented with a handsome walnut-finish mantel clock as a gift from the congregation.

Older People Realize the Futility of Fretting About Imaginary Things and Find a Contentment That Can Be Acquired Only With Age

"LIKE all other women I feared age more than any other calamity that might befall me," said an elderly woman the other day. "I looked forward to my seventies as to being exiled into an arid desert in which there would be no wellspring of pleasure, no prospect to interest me, no green thing to comfort me, and where all I could do would be just to sit and fold my hands and wait for death to end my misery.

"But now that I have reached the age that I dreaded so much I find that all my apprehensions were groundless and that age, instead of being the worst time of life, is almost its best. True, it lacks the glamor and excitement of youth, but it has the peace that passes understanding.

"I used to be one of the anxious women, fretting about many things, beating myself up against the walls of circumstances that I could not break down. Now I have ceased worrying because I have found out that so many things that I once thought important are not important at all.

"I can remember when I ate my heart out with anxiety wondering if I would be popular at a ball; when I agonized over not having a dress as fine as some other girl's; when I felt that the world would stop if I did not get my housecleaning done at the proper time, and that it was a tragedy if a servant blundered in serving a dinner. But I know now that all of these things were of no consequence whatever, and I have passed into the serenity that comes from not caring about little things.

"Then now I am beyond all envy. One of the compensations of age is that it narrows down our desires. We are satisfied with less and less every year. Once I craved power and place and all the things that money buys—fine clothes and houses and furs and jewels.
